Doctors Wage Malpractice War

By ERIC BLOM

Seven of Winchester Hospital's eight orthopedic surgeons, citing high malpractice insurance premiums and restrictive billing laws, say they will not perform surgery unless a patient's life is in jeopardy.

Patients will be stabilized in the emergency room and sent to Boston, according to hospital spokesman John Burgoyne.

Winchester obstetricians are also considering action, but "there has been no formal notification," Burgoyne says.

"I can't afford to do the surgery," says Dr. Barry C. Dorn, an orthopedic surgeon. "I feel that if I pay them $50,000 this year, it will be $75,000 next year and $100,000 the year after that. I've got to take a stand and say your rates are unreasonable."

Dorn's malpractice insurance premium will be $49,000 — about 40 percent of his gross income — if he continues operating this year.

By refusing surgery, his premium drops to $2,900.

"I will give this state six months, and if things don't change, I'm going to leave," Dorn says. "That's a hard decision for a 44-year-old man with a family to make."

Dr. Alan Ertel -- the only hospital orthopedic surgeon not giving up his surgery — now works at a clinic which will pay part of his insurance premium.

Specializing in hand surgery, Ertel has options — such as working for a clinic — doctors in more common specialties do not.

"Their malpractice premiums may be so high they cannot run their office at a profit," he says.

Rising Rates

Doctors throughout the state — particularly in high-risk specialties such as orthopedic surgery and obstetrics — say Massachusetts is an increasingly expensive place to work.

During the last five years, insurance premiums for one obstetrics group increased by more than 330 percent, according to Robert Singer, spokesman for the state Division of Insurance. (Please see chart)

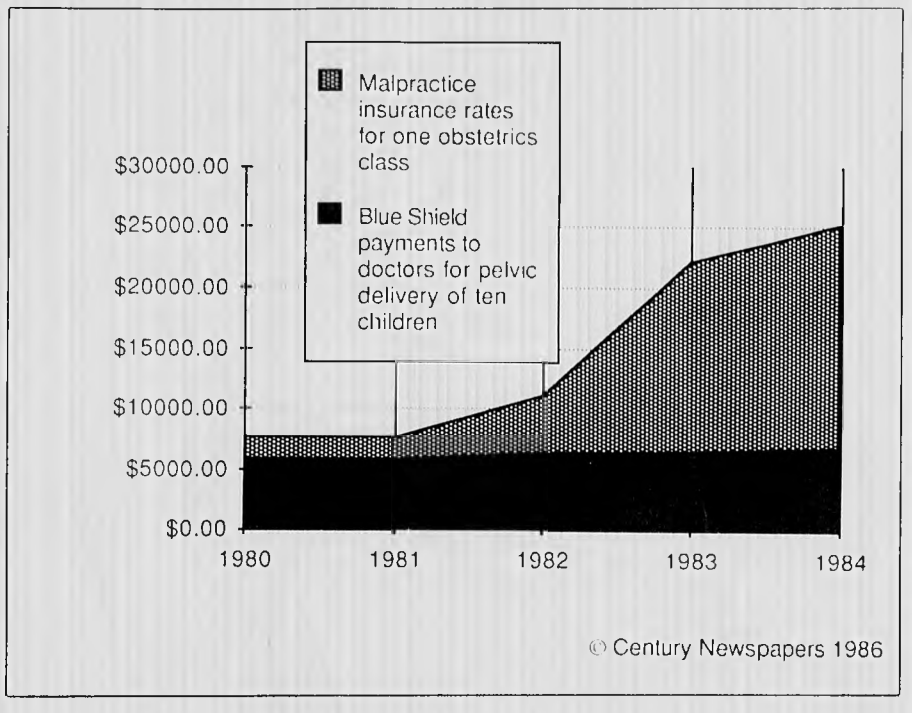

Overall since 1982, state doctors have absorbed 93.9 percent increase in malpractice premiums.

By contrast, Blue Shield payments for delivering a baby — tied to the cost of living — increased by only 32 percent during the same period.

The company has offered to pay state doctors an additional $25 million in 1986 and 1987. With state permission, Blue Shield will also grant $25 million in short-term loans to doctors who are having trouble paying premiums.

Medicaid fees for delivering babies -- including prenatal care and one post-birth visit -- were increased by $249 to $757 late last month, but local doctors say this compensation is not high enough.

The problem is particularly acute this year, they say, because doctors are being asked to pay retroactive premium increases. In 1983, a court ruled state set premiums were too low and had to be increased.

Retroactive payments for 1983 and 1984 will be added to doctors' bills on May 1.

At the same time, state doctors cannot pass increased costs to patients because of a 1984 law outlawing balanced billing.

Balanced billing — present in 49 other states — lets doctors charge a patient for the difference between what Medicare, Medicaid and private insurance companies allow and fees doctors determine.

"The rest of the money is eaten by my office," Dorn says.

The system which fosters malpractice suits must be changed, he says.

"I think the whole thing stinks," Dorn says. "Every time I walk into an operating room, every time I see a patient, I'm putting my personal financial situation on the line, my family on the line. There comes a time when the system doesn't work anymore."

"What we are expected to pay this year was more than I made last year," Ertel says. This year, insurance premiums — including retroactive payments — will take more than half his gross income.

Dorn says the $1 million insurance policy he carries does not protect him from huge damage awards frequently given by juries.

"It comes into your mind every day of your life," he says. "I walk into an emergency room, and I've never seen a patient before. He's combative. I don't want to take care of that patient.

"It doesn't come into my mind so much if a patient has been coming to my office on a regular basis," Dorn says. "That person isn't likely to sue me."

Dorn says doctors do not want to discourage legitimate suits, but they do want to curtail frivolous cases and limit the size of awards.

In 1984, patients filed 964 malpractice suits in Massachusetts courts. Last year, the case load rose to 1,150, according to the Joint Underwriting Association, administrators of the state's malpractice insurance system.

About 10 or 15 percent of plaintiffs were successful in their suits.

Legislation to cut down the number of lawsuits and limit malpractice insurance rates has been filed on Beacon Hill.

One of the most controversial billsis sponsored by Gov. Michael Dukakis. It calls for stronger regulation of doctors to weed out incompe-

Local Candidates Must File By Tomorrow

By JILL M. HIGGINS

It's deadline time.

By tomorrow night at 5, all potential candidates for town election must have filed nomination papers with Town Clerk Carolyn Ward.

So far, several races still have no competition, including the spot for School Committee.

"It's getting late," said Ward earlier this week. "I wish we'd get a few more candidates -- I'd like to see some heated races."

So far, the biggest race appears to be for the two Selectmen's seats. Four candidates are seeking the two spots. Incumbents Alan Macdonald and Michael Saraco announced earlier that they will not seek reelection.

Running for two three-year terms are: Frank Sopper of 10 Canterbury rd.; Robert Deering of 22 Kenwin rd.; Charles Shannon Jr. of 17 Robinson pk and John Hennelly of 42 Hemingway st.

Shannon, husband of former Winchester Housing Director Dorothy Shannon, initially took out papers as a candidate for the Board of Assessors. He withdrew those papers, however, and opted to run for Selectman, according to Ward.

The race for School Committee was wide open until days ago. Two three-year terms are open -- for the terms held by Catherine Alexander and Dr. Michael Ronayne.

Alexander, a veteran on the committee, announced earlier that she would not seek reelection. Ronayne took out nomination papers this past week.

Running for the second three-year term is Mark S. Lombardi, son of Winchester Selectman Mark A. Lombardi.

A third seat, vacated by Catherine Gatto, is being sought by candidates Varda Konstam of 25 Wildwood st. and Donna Brandt-Landry of 16 Chestnut st.

That seat is for a two-year term. Gatto officially resigned from the board about a month ago, after she announced in December that she would move to South Carolina. She will join her husband, Vic Gatto, who is head football coach at Davidson University.

One Assessor's seat is open, for a three-year term vacated by former Assessor George Andersen, who resigned recently. The only candidate for that spot is Joseph Guarnotta of 2 Myopia rd.

Dr. Taylor is seeking another three-year term with that board.

For the Planning Board, Forest st. resident Daniel Chane is running unopposed for the seat now held by Clarence Borggaard.

They are: Anne K. Nivens of 19 Mount Pleasant st., Beverly Hedegor of 5 Florence st., Janet Holborow of 120 Forest st. and Ernest Phillips Jr. of 52 Yale st.

The posts are now held by Austin Broadhurst and Loretta Redding.

Only one candidate had spoken for the one-year term as Library Trustee. Cabot st. resident Ellen Browning is pushing for the seat vacated recently by Betty Haley.

Pilgrim dr. resident John Flatley has taken out nomination papers as a candidate for the one five-year slot open on the Housing Authority.

Longtime Town Moderator John Sullivan has taken out papers for reelection -- he is running unopposed.

Several Town Meeting members seats are also open -- so far precincts one, two, seven and eight are most in

St. Eulalia's Parish Bids Haddad A Fond Farewell

By GEORGE DERRINGER

"Teaching isn't work; it's very joyful," says the Rev. James J. Haddad, until this week the pastor of St. Eulalia Church on the Winchester-Arlington town line.

He will become the full-time director of development for the Archdiocese of Boston.

The congregation of Father Haddad's Roman Catholic parish honored him last weekend for more than nine years of service. Receptions were conducted after Saturday evening and Sunday noon Masses, culminating in the presentation of gifts Sunday.

A portrait was presented to the pastor and the new parish center will be named for him. Children of St. Eulalia Church also presented a gift.

But it was probably the gift from children Haddad will treasure most. Children and Christian education were a major focus of Haddad's tenure.

"My background is as a teacher," Haddad says, "and I think a primary wish of the Lord is to teach. It's not work for me, but a very joyful activity.

Haddad's pastorate at St. Eulalia's has been marked by an emphasis on Christian education. The CCD program has expanded to include a weekly average of 1,500 students under the guidance of 132 teachers.

"One of the responsibilities of the church is to make young people feel welcome. The church must be for them a place of worship and education," Haddad says.

By all accounts, including a special tribute written for a Mass of Thanksgiving upon the completion of Haddad's pastorate, one of the hallmarks of St. Eulalia parish is "to see so many young people in attendance," as Haddad puts it.

The parish's CCD program has been very important to the parish, Haddad says. "It has helped to broaden the sense of community as a church, because we are part of two towns," Haddad says.

The congregation has been very supportive, Haddad says. "The people have been very generous in sharing their gifts of the Spirit in tasks, worship, the social needs of the community and the needs of the world," Haddad says.

In his new role, Haddad will be responsible for all significant fundraising in the archdiocese. But Haddad sees more similarity between that job and his role as pastor than some might think.

"The same kind of ministry underlies both roles," he says. "I will still be charged with responding to the needs of the extended church family in educational, spiritual and social areas."

Haddad outlined some of the new programs for which he will raise funds. "We plan shelters to offer physical and respite care for the handicapped, an expanded hospice program for terminally-ill patients and their families, and new programs for the hungry and homeless," he says.

But Haddad admits he will miss the personal touch. "This parish is a wonderful place and I have loved the great people here," he says. "The thought of leaving was very difficult for me."

Formerly a teacher at St. John's Seminary in Brighton, Haddad has been a leader in the ecumenical discussion among churches of different traditions.

"The Winchester Ecumenical Council has been an active and important part of my life," he says. "Today the ecumenical movement is becoming more serious and deep. We are coming to honest dialogue which acknowledges our differences while recognizing our commonality.

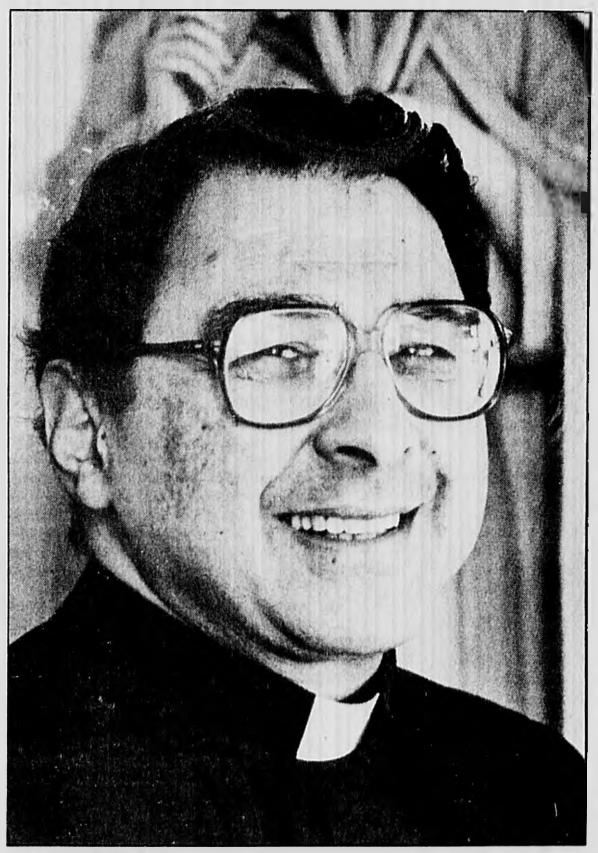

"In the early days, the ecumenical movement was more a process of socialization," Haddad says.

Haddad was ordained a priest by Richard Cardinal Cushing on Feb. 3, 1958. Before coming to St. Eulalia's, he had been a seminary professor and a retreat master, among other duties. He became Parish Priest of St. Eulalia's on Jan. 18, 1977.

In the future, Father Haddad will keep an eye on Arlington and Winchester.

"My fondest hope is that St. Eulalia's will continue to grow as a Christian community. I hope the things that mark it now -- a strong liturgy, a vibrant education program,

Winton Club Show Honors Lady Liberty

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

Sequined costumes and fluorescent feathers took center stage last week, as the Winton Club's 75th cabaret celebrated the 100th anniversary of the Statue Of Liberty.

The curtain raised and the evening opened with a song, "This Is My Country."

Dancers adorned in sparkling, sequined leotards and feathered wings, twirled and twisted around the scaffolding, while Lady Liberty stood holding the torch.

It was showtime — over and over again last week. The local performers gave it their all, night after night, scene after scene.

The "sleeptight pajama spring fashion show" featured women scantily clad in colorful teddies and negligees. Proclaiming their right to prance about as starlets, one peformer announced, "Madonna has been wearing underwear for outerwear, why can't we."

At 100, Hometown Pride Is Her Joy

By JILL M. HIGGINS

When 100-year-old Marjorie Mason was asked to be interviewed for a newspaper story, she politely said no.

Her social calendar was already filled for the next few days, and with several other events to attend, she didn't want to overdo it.

Born the daughter of Frank and Mary Cutting on Jan. 23, 1886, Majorie Cutting Mason is a tried and true Winchesterite.

She grew up in her family's Mount Vernon st. home, attending local schools and making strong ties here.

Now, the schools she attended are long since gone — the old Mystic Grammar School, Wadleigh Junior High School and the old high school off Church st.

But they are indelibly etched in her mind, as she recalls with pleasure the days when Winchester was a town of cobblestone streets and horse-and-buggy.

Kennedy Hearing Is March 19

A probable cause hearing is set for a March 19 court date, according to Winchester Police Sgt. James Pierce.

Kennedy was charged in December in connection with the hit-and-run death of 14-year-old Robert Marshall on Dec. 21.

A drunk driving charge against Kennedy was denied Jan. 14 at Fourth District Court before Clerk Magistrate Arthur Paleologes after it was determined that information on the charge was insufficient.

Kennedy was also charged with driving to endanger and leaving the scene of an accident.

Marshall died the day after the Dec. 21 incident, which occurred at about 9 p.m. on Main st. near Water st.

Kennedy had been released on personal recognizance after his initial arrest at about 10:30 Dec. 21.

Besides the Winchester drug trafficking charges, DeVito was charged in Marlboro with possession and distribution of cocaine, conspiracy to violate narcotics laws and drug trafficking in excess of 200 grams.

Bartlett School Registration Begins

Registrations for Bartlett School, 40 Samoset rd. are being accepted for September classes.

Bartlett School was founded in 1933 by the mother of the present director, Norine T. Casey. Mrs. Casey had been a Boston school teacher and when her husband was hospitalized, she opened a small class in her own home on Bartlett ave. in Arlington. This house was a duplex and, gradually most rooms became classrooms.

After Norine T. Casey received her master's degree in education at Radcliffe, she joined her mother at Bartlett School, teaching first grade and gradually assuming the administrative role.

In 1977 Miss Casey moved Bartlett School to Winchester, first to 83 Church st. and in 1981 to its present location on Samoset rd.

Bartlett School accepts children in kindergarten class (four years of age) sub-primary class (five years of age) and grades one through eight. Classes are kept small to promote personal attention.

YMCA Offers Basketball

In December, the North Suburban YMCA initiated a boy's basketball team. Open to boys ages 12 to 19, the team is divided into two age groups: one for those of high school age and the other for junior high schoolers.

Competing against other YMCAs and Boys' Clubs, the boys will play a 10 to 15 game schedule.

Off to a great start, the N.S. YMCA boys' basketball team has already won a third place trophy in the West Roxbury holiday tournament in which six YMCA teams competed.

Playing Friday nights and Saturdays, the teams are one of the first steps in North Suburban's plans to broaden their selection of teenage programs. Other plans include a ski club and an outdoor adventure program.

Basketball team participation is free to Y members and $15 for non-members.

Brian Hanley Leaves The Y

After five years of service to the North Suburban YMCA, Brian Hanley is retiring from his position as Aquatics Director.

Hanley, who taught swimming to all age groups, hopes to attain a degree in early childhood education from University of Mass., Boston.

In addition to swimming, Hanley taught lifesaving and CPR. As a result, many of his students have summer jobs as lifeguards.

"I think he favors teaching younger kids, that's why he wanted the elementary education certificate," says Donna Cerrato, present Assistant Aquatics Director.

PRIVATE ZONING

Nearly everyone is familiar with zoning laws imposed by the government. Did you know that real estate can also be subject to "private zoning?"

Often real estate developers write a document containing conditions called restrictive convenants. This document is filed with the office where deeds are recorded, and thus becomes a public record. These restrictive covenants impose limitations on the use of all the property within the subdivision or other development.

Common restrictive covenants include a minimum or maximum of square feet in any house built in the subdivision, prohibitions against outbuildings such as storage sheds, a limitation on the number of stories of buildings, and clauses either requiring, regulating, or prohibiting certain types of fences.

Generally, restrictive covenants are designed to benefit property owners. However, there may be a restrictive covenant preventing you from using the property as you would like. Before buying property, consult your Realtor.

Aspiring Actor Plays In TV's 'Spenser'

The Road To Fame — From School Plays To TV

Winchesterite Curt Raffi says "Spenser For Hire" epitomizes Boston — it's real, while Miami Vice uses the intrigue of glamour, glitter and the desired land of fantasy to draw its viewers.

Winchester's Curt Raffi has gone from playing trees and snails in elementary school to landing roles on Boston TV show, "Spenser For Hire."

At the age of 10, when Raffi captured the leading role in "The Invisible Man," he knew acting was what he wanted.

Even then, he says, "I was passionate about what I wanted to do — act."

Raffi's secret to success?

Before any audition for commercials or parts in television shows, Raffi takes time to write a scenario of what he thinks will happen at the audition.

"It's a way to psyche myself up," he says energetically.

This pre-audition preparation has been a ritual for Raffi since he joined The Acting Company in Boston four years ago.

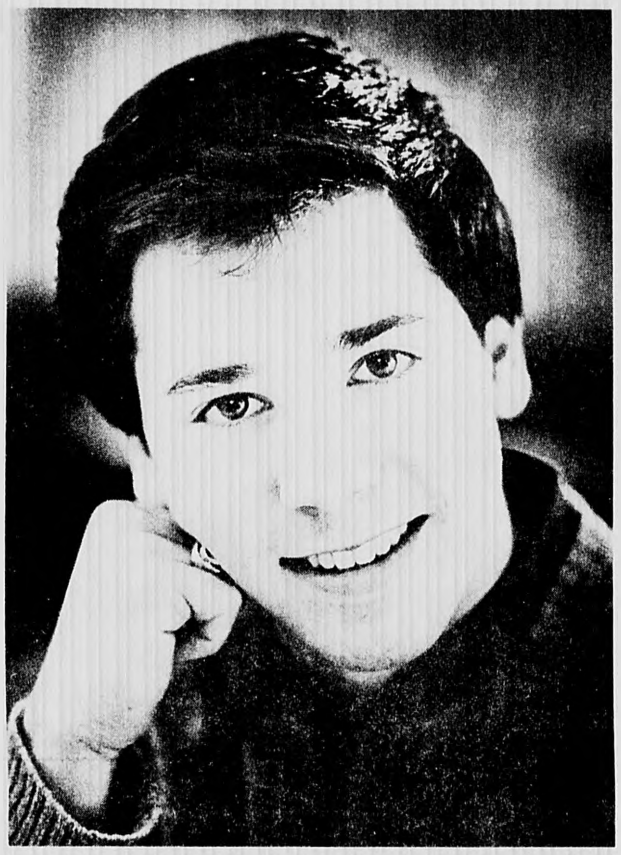

He says by doing this when he goes in for the audition, "I feel I already got the part and I'm not as nervous."

When Raffi dresses before he auditions for Boston's hottest television show, "Spenser For Hire" or Boston-based commercials he thinks "college professor" — preppy is what sells, he says emphatically.

"When you think of Boston you don't think designer suits — something more casual comes to mind," even though admitting that at times he would prefer to wear a Don Johnson pastel linen suit.

Raffi says "Spenser For Hire" epitomizes Boston — it's real, while Miami Vice uses the intrigue of glamour, glitter and the desired land of fantasy to draw its viewers.

Raffi will be appearing in an upcoming episode of Spenser called, "Pale Kings and Princes." He says he won't know how much camera time he'll have until he sees the final product on TV.

His eyes widen, "everyone is in awe of him. But, he's a real regular kind of guy — the director yells at Urich just like he would any other actor," he says matter-of-factly.

A Harvard graduate, Raffi was his own businessman in college. "Miami's Vices," was the name of his operation. "I sold TV's and radios to Harvard students, and made a profit!"

"I like my hobbies to be self-sustaining," says Raffi adding that acting can be lucrative but is not something a person can depend on. "There are always dry periods," he says somewhat regretfully.

Raffi's goal: "I want to see myself used as a regular talent and I want my own business - I like to market products."

Giving 100 percent to both acting and business concerns Raffi, but he's willing to give it a try.

"I don't think I could ever work for someone in business — I gave to have things exact, the way I want them."

"Most interns worked three days a week, I worked five, I couldn't get enough. I had a blast!" he said.

"I think they knew I was working really hard," he recalls, "that's why they let me go on shoots," he smiles proudly.

"I became a part of a staff — they are really a family, these are people that eat, sleep drink and work together — they are constantly around each other."

Raffi plunged into the internship just like anything else he does. By the end of the summer, Raffi approached and convinced one of the producers that his story idea would work.

No sooner did Raffi find himself planning a show — his show.

His idea was to send a crew from the magazine down to Bethel, Conn. where there is a 1950's style drive-in restaurant.

How did Raffi find out about this recreation of the 1950's? "I read about it in a magazine and was interested, I'm a 50's freak."

"Our whole basement is car magazines, I have every Motor trend magazine from 1949 to the present," he says.

Raffi not only has a basement stacked with magazines, he has a garage filled with cars, ranging from the early 1950's to the 1970's.

In his spare time he enjoys tinkering with his cars, taking them apart, trading and selling them. He's been an avid car fan for as long as he can remember.

Raffi, like any young adult has had his share of disappointments. Growing up wasn't easy. His older brother was the jock of his school and Raffi couldn't follow in his footsteps. "I always had to prove myself, especially to my brother."

Raffi says that's why in part he has such a hunger to excel and produce.

As a freshman at a private high school, Raffi says the first year was terrible.

Raffi says it wasn't cool to be different at the age. "Being in plays wasn't macho, the well-educated jock was what you had to be," he says laughing as he recalls how ridiculous it all was.

The road has not been all that smooth for Raffi. During his senior year in high school he got rejected from all the colleges he applied to, "even the safetys," he says incredulously.

"At that point, he said, "No one wanted to know me, I was not a happy person."

But dissappointment and depression did not last long for Raffi. No sooner was he enrolled at Choate, a prep school in Conn.

"While I was there, I threw myself into theater," he recalls.

As Raffi's college career was winding down, his first thought was an extended vacation,

"I'm going to take time off," and no sooner was he stir crazy. Instead, his never-ending drive to accomplish took over, "I went full-force into getting work."

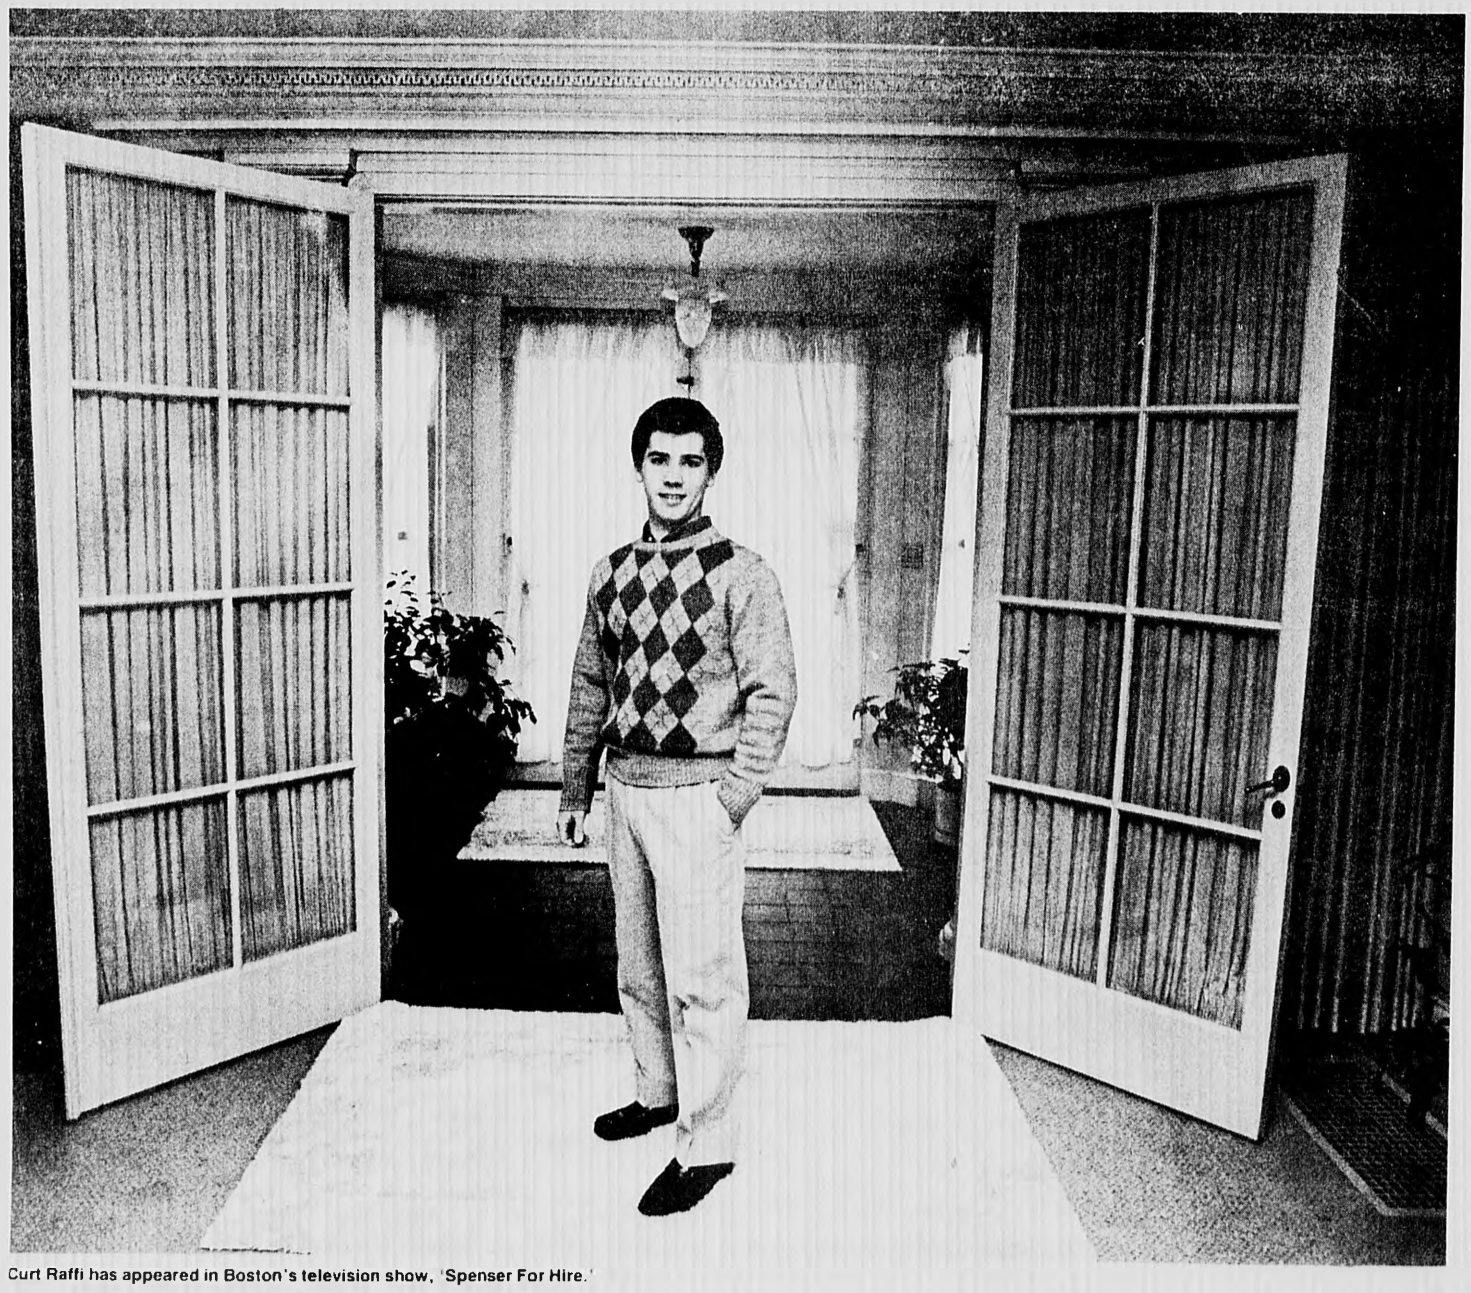

Still, he admits, "Dad has been the voice of reason all along," so when he says, "Hey pal, what are you doing with your life," Raffi listens.

After all who wants to be a starving actor?. . . .

LIBRARY NEWS

Mime, Magic Is In Store

Micheal Zerphy is a pantomime/clown, and Mowgli, the man cub, is a popular Walt Disney cartoon character. What do they have in common? Both will be performing at the Winchester Public Library's Junior Library during the February vacation week.

Children's librarian Heidi Zeibig is planning two special programs to entertain children during their week off from school. Tuesday afternoon's show will feature the clowning, visual stories, juggling and pantomiming of Michael Zerphy.

Zerpy's program consists entirely of original material. He introduces mime and movement as means of communication, and encourages the bit of clown in everyone. Through the use of music, games and participation, the audience discovers the advantages of cooperation over rivalry.

Zerphy will perform from 3:15 to 4p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 18, in the Junior Library.

Wednesday's program will feature two showings of Walt Disney's classic cartoon movie, "The Jungle Book". Based on stories by Rudyard Kipling, the film tells the tale of Mowgli, a man cub raised by wolves in the jungle, and his adventures with the animals, from indolent Baloo, a singing and dancing bear, to a hungry python and the dangerous tiger Shere Kahn.

"The Jungle Book" will be shown at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 19, in the Junior Library. All children in grades Kindergarten through sixth are invited to attend these free performances.

Library Talk Focuses On Butterflies

A slide show on butterflies will be held at the Winchester Library on Thursday, Feb. 13 at 10:30 a.m.

Bonnie Meek will present the slide show and talk on her unusual hobby of raising Monarch butterflies.

An enthusiatc speaker, Meek learned about raising Monarch. butterflies eight years ago from a friend who is a teacher in Connecticut.

She and her assistants supply each third grade classroom with a chrysalis tree. The chrysalis tree consists of a tree branch planted into a coffee can filled with sand. The third graders watch as the caterpillar climbs onto the tree branch and transforms into the chrysalis stage.

Eight to ten days later the metamorphosis is complete when the butterfly emerges. Meek believes the students enhance their skills of observation while waiting and watching for the butterflies to emerge. They also learn respect for nature as they set the butterflies free to the outdoors.

Meek's talk on Feb. 13 will provide helpful hints and a fact sheet to those interested in raising Monarch butterflies. She will also be discussing other butterflies native to the area.

The talk if free to the public and is being sponsored by Winchester Trails, an outdoor educational organization in Winchester. For further information please call Anne Galli.

SENIOR SCENE

Safe Driving Program Held

Chaired by Dr. Robert M. Smith of the Jenks Health Committee, Dr. Smith described his experience at the Kennedy Memorial Hospital for Children where he treats automobile accident patients.

Guest speaker George Norton, safety officer of the Wayland Police Department, presented a film produced by the Florida State Highway Department. The film focused on the potentially hazardous practices of pedestrians failure to stay within crosswalks, obey traffic signals, and exercise care when crossing a street.

Winchester's Chief of Police John P. McHugh cautioned seniors to avoid driving at night and during stormy weather. Drivers under strong medication, or whose driving ability has been diminished by poor health, should recognize the danger they are not only to themselves but to passengers and pedestrians.

Dr. R.M. Smith, Jenks Center Health Committee Chairman, will conduct a discussion on managing chronic pain at the Jenks Center on Wednesday, Feb 19 from 10:30 to noon.

Featured speaker will be Dr Gerald M. Aronoff, Director of the Boston Pain Center at the Spaulding Rehabilitation Hospital and Clinical Assistant Professor at Tufts University School of Medicine.

Senior Fund Drive Hits Half Way

Building Will Expand To Benefit All

Here Are The Contributors So Far—

BY GEORGE DERRINGER

In less than two months, the drive to raise $850,000 for expansion of the Jenks Senior Center in Winchester has reached the halfway point.

According to Dr. Richard Norberg, chairman of the board of trustees of the Winchester Seniors Association Trust, contributions and pledges totaled $425,000 by Monday afternoon.

"A major step, of course, was a generous gift of $250,000 from Mrs. James Jenks," Norberg said. "She and her late husband, who died in 1967, were also major benefactors in the campaign to construct the center in 1978."

Members of the fund-raising committee noted, however, that the additional $175,000 had come from only a small portion of the 2,700 households in Winchester composed of at least one person 60 or older.

Those gifts resulted from a single mailing to senior citizens in late November. Contributions and pledges are still being received, committee members said.

Next on the agenda for campaign workers will be receptions for senior citizens and invited guests at the Jenks Center. The third and fourth phases will include solicitation of businesses and foundations.

Construction of the Jenks Senior Center was financed entirely by private donations and the committee is using the same strategy to provide funds for expansion of the facility on Skillings road. No outside fund-raisers are involved, the commitee said.

"The campaign theme is 'Seniors Helping Seniors' and the contributions from seniors so far demonstrate the importance of the Jenks Center to its primary users," Norberg said.

George Wells, a member of the campaign's publicity committee, observed that seniors themselves raise the operating expenses of the center, getting about half of the annual $40,000 operating budget from an annual appeal and the other half from building rentals.

The town helps by paying the salaries of a full-time administrator and a part-time secretary.

"Expansion of the Jenks Center will mean no additional cost to the town," he said.

Volunteers are a fundamental part of the Jenks Center, which uses no state or local funds for its programs, unlike senior centers in many other towns, Wells added.

The planned expansion will include an additional 11,000 square feet on two levels. The current building, which opened April 2, 1978, has 6,000 square feet.

Health, recreational and educational programs of the Jenks Senior Center are designed to serve the 20 percent of Winchester's population which is 60 or older.

Construction of the addition is scheduled to begin later this year, pending completion of a successful fund-raising drive.

The Fundraising Committee of Winchester's Jenks Senior Center Expansion Program has announced that more than 350 contributions have been received during the first two months of the $850,000 fund drive.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU

By Dick Murphy
The Bixby & Porter Co. Realtors

THE WALK-THROUGH

Before you go to the settlement attorney's office to finalize the purchase of your new home, you may want to arrange a "walk-through." This is your last chance to inspect the property and ensure it's in the same condition it was when you drew up your purchase agreement.

In some agreements, the sellers convey the appliances and major systems "as is," offeirng you no promises that they will be in working order. In other cases, all of the major mechanical systems, such as heating, plumbing and air conditioning, must be operational. It all depends on what terms are negotiated with the sellers.

At the walk-through, you can check the appliances, turning each one on and letting it run its cycle. If the sellers were supposed to make any repairs, this is your chance to be sure they were completed. If something needs fixing, it's much easier to work out before or during the settlement than to do so after you've taken possession of your new home.

At Bixby & Porter Co. Realtors, our professionals are waiting to serve all of your real estate needs. You may stop by our office at 33 Thompson Street or give us a call at 729-7000.

Dr. Francis A. Lombardo and Dr. Peter J. Rotolo
that, as of March 1, 1986, we will be forced to stop taking new maternity patients due to the medical malpractice crisis in Massachusetts.
In 1960, when this practice originated, doctors were paying $200 yearly for insurance. This year we are being threatened with a bill of ninety thousand dollars — with a promise of bigger bills in the future! At the current rates paid by Medicaid and Blue Shield, this means we would have to perform close to two hundred deliveries this year just to pay for insurance coverage. More alarming is the fact that this incredible premium would afford only partial coverage, with no way to protect our families from economic disaster. It just doesn't make sense.
GOVERNOR DUKAKIS AND THE LEGISLATURE HAVE THE POWER TO CORRECT THIS SITUATION which is forcing one doctor after another to quit obstetrics. YOU CAN HELP by calling or writing them to demand reform NOW.
Please call our office for further information, 272-4667.

Tribute To A Centenarian

Marjorie, you have made us proud! At a time when we find so few role models for our children, how fortunate we are to have you, EnKa's Most Valued Volunteer!

On your 100th birthday, we salute you, EnKa's honorary member, who was pledged into the EnKa Sorority of Winchester High School at the age of 17 in 1903.

Marjorie has worn hats of all sizes, shapes and styles. Some were tied under her chin, some pulled down over her ears with pom-poms on the top, others perched on top of her head, with a veil; but each one you would recognize in a minute as belonging to Marjorie for each one had a well deserved feather!

Thinking about life in Winchester 100 years ago, I fell off to dreamland and had a dream. I was playing in Marjorie's attic. We were playing dress-up, trying so hard to button those high heeled shoes with a button hook. Her Mother's shawl with the fringe and the broad brimmed blue hat with the roses sent us off, properly dressed "for tea."

The hat boxes were everywhere, along with the trunks, the dolls, Marjorie's school books and her W.H.S. Dance Programs. Each telling a story of the people and places that have meant so much to this most wonderful gal.

The baby bonnet was worn by Marjorie when she was born in the family homestead on Stevens Street on January 23, 1886, thirty years before the Winchester Hospital was built.

The Cuttings then became neighbors of the Lewis Parkhursts on Oak Knoll where Marjorie and her two sisters and two brothers romped in the Brooks Woods.

After graduating from high school, then located on Church Street, near Dix Street, Marjorie went on to Washington, D.C., to the National Park Seminary.

About this time, I pecked into an intriguing hat box, smaller than all the rest, so different, so chic, so very French. Then I discovered that Marjorie had once been a -- well, let me tell you about it. I seems that the Rev. Metcalf of the Winchester Unitarian Church took a group of young people on a trip to Europe. Marjorie was lucky enough to go and today she still recalls the beauty of the Bay of Naples; but more particularly, a private audience they had with the Pope in Rome. It so happened that the Pope and the Rev. Metcalf were ardent astronomers and had frequently corresponded. Who knows, this mutual interest in the stars might well have sparked the Ecumenical Movement and we can all say it started right here in Winchester. More about the pretty little hat box.

From Italy they traveled to Switzerland, then on to France. They arrived in Paris just in time to learn that World War I had just been declared. All forms of transportation were commandeered by the Military and the Winchester group were stranded there for two months.

It was not long before their money ran out and Marjorie went to work as a Chambermaid (wearing a cute little white lace bonnet found in the very small box) in the Hotel where they were staying. Here, a hospital was set up to care for the wounded soldiers. Eight weeks later, they were fortunate enough to get aboard a boat-train to England and sailed back to New York on a darkened ship, ever so grateful to be safe, back home in Winchester.

A social event of the following season took place at the Unitarian Church when Marjorie Cutting and Clifford Mason, Harvard 1910, were united in marriage. Governor Samuel McCall of Massachusetts, who lived on Myopia Road, was one of the invited guests.

The newly weds set up housekeeping in the "Chambers," the Lewis Road apartments, which were completed in 1914, and joined their young friends the Joseph Butlers and the Worthens.

Son Clifford Jr. was born on Bacon Street and daughter Mary Alice joined the family at their house on Glen Green. Then a happy move to 11 Ridgefield Road off Symmes Corner, where Marjorie and her young family, once again, looked out over her happy-hunting grounds, the Brooks Woods.

All too soon, the "Empty Nest"syndrome moved in and Marjorie found a smaller house on Chesterford Road and in time came full circle back to "The Chambers" on Lewis Road. Five years ago, to make the circle complete, she joined the family at the Mount Vernon House within sight of the little white house where she was born on Stevens Street.

Her son Clifford has said it so beautifully, "Mother has spent a life time giving of herself and in giving has received true happiness." She has been generous with her time, her needles, her talents and best of all, her smiles! She sewed for her church, the "Cottage Hospital" on Washington Street in 1911, and for EnKa; and as a Charter member of the Winton Club, she was one of the founders of the Winton Club Gift Shop in the early 1950s, which has continued to "render welcome and needed service to patients, visitors and staff," at the Winchester Hospital.

Thanks for the memories, Marjorie, yours is a life we shall never stop celebrating.

Something About Uniforms

By TERRY MAROTTA

Eating out last night at a restaurant, I had the opportunity to reflect afresh on what a sense of majesty descends upon a person in uniform.

My waiter looked like a million dollars decked out in his. Every movement he made seemed significant and authoritative on account of it. He intimidated the butter; he held sway over the forks.

Then I saw him later in the evening, once he'd gone off duty and removed the outfit. He wore melting overlong trousers that pooled up around his ankles; a denim jacket stiff with age or neglect; and the sort of goofy two-pocketed shirt that would get a kid sneered at in any schoolyard in America.

You'd never have taken him for the man who so recently dominated the dinners of many. It was the uniform, obviously, that had made all the difference.

My own life, up to this point, has been gloomily bereft of the presence of a uniform, I realize now; it's one of my principal regrets.

When I was little, I attended parochial school for a while, and we did wear uniforms there, but nothing like the kicky ones Catholic school kids wear today.

Ours were dark, heavy, sweat-inducing things of army-issue serge, with flaring skirts, a white collar, and a pair of matching cuffs. These last you could take off whenever you liked, launder, starch, and press 'till they stood out like visiting dignitaries around your skinny neck and arms.

I can still see the whole costume today: its bodice powdered over with chalk dust; teensy dribbles of jam dotting its lap; me staring down at it all trying to remember how to spell Babylon. You couldn't wash these old serge dinosaurs; you had to just keep wearing them, and thus advertise your spills and lapses to the watching world.

Later in life, I went to a high school that became confused, along about 1920, and starting marking time in the wrong direction - living backwards, like Merlin. By the time I got there, it was around 1850.

Instead of playing basketball in gym or learning how to vault a leather horse, the girls twirled Indian clubs and the boys shuffled up and down in formation, mumbling in syncopated grunts.

The leaders of these classes were seniors chosen for their demonstrated ability to either swirl or shuffle. Girl and Boy Officers, they were called. The point is, they got to wear dandy uniforms decked out with enough buttons, braids and epaulets to satisfy fresh generals in any Banana Republic you'd care to name. They even carried swords.

I had tried out for Girl Officers myself, but hadn't made the grade, due in large part, probably, to the fact that I spent most gym periods translating Latin. So I wore to school trite plaid skirts, and loafers that slipped off my heels, and stockings shot through with runs arrested mid-leap by what I took to be crafty invisible blobs of nailpolish.

My sister, who was a Girl Officer, wore to school her uniform - her white gloves and her sword and her wide waist inching belt with the big gold buckle.

I was dizzy with envy.

Twenty years later, when she tried to throw out the whole thing, I protested loudly and ended by taking it in, giving it space in my very own closet.

I put it on from time to time, and shout mumbled syncopations to my children - it's that inspiring. They laugh nervously and edge toward the door.

I'd consider moonlighting in a restaurant if I thought they'd let me wear the kind of uniform I saw on last night's waiter.

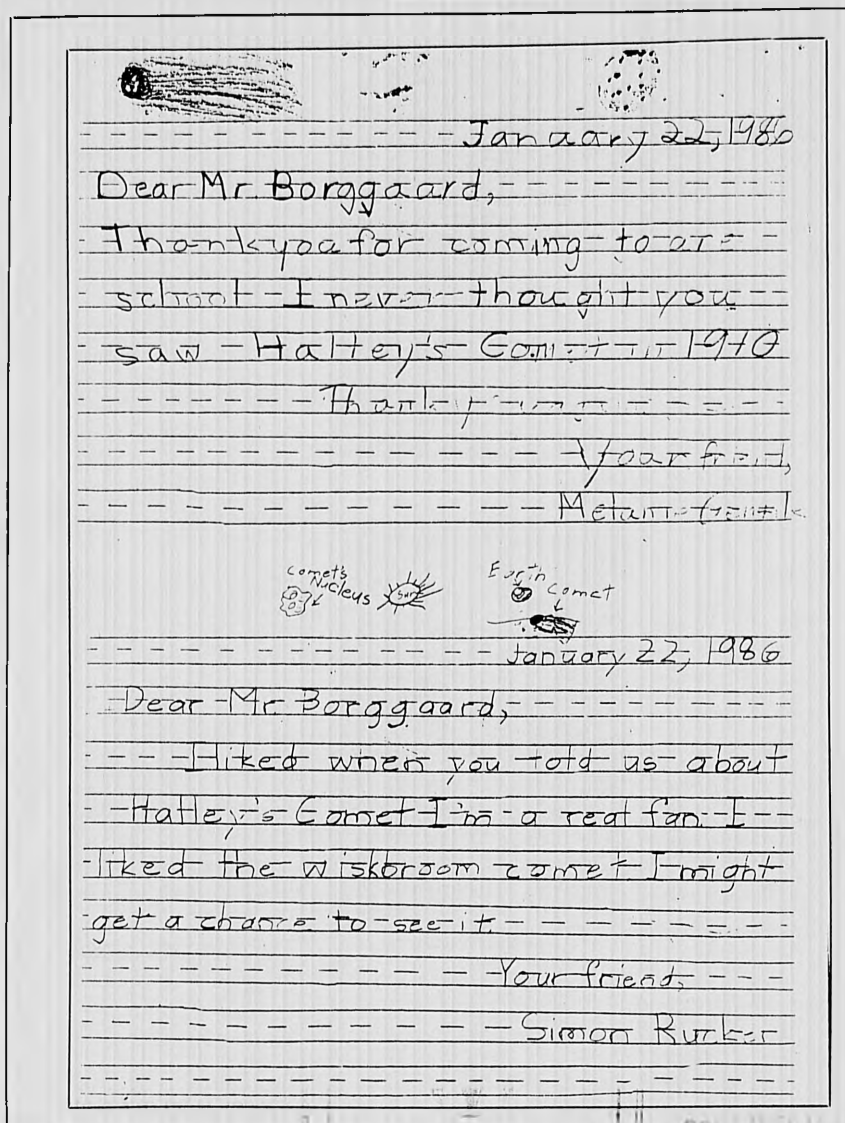

I'd join the Salvation Army in a minute.

I'd even look into signing up for the convent, if I could find one that still went in for the full 20 yards of black crepe.

There's just something so swell about the way a person looks in a uniform. Ask any of us rumpled civilians; we'll all tell you the same.

Shuttle Tragedy Stirred Fear

TO THE EDITOR:

Was it an act of God or an act of man that caused a historical tragedy in space, January 28, 1986?

As I watched the magnificent take off of the Challenger, I flashed back to the 1960s when the first man walked on the moon. Since that incredible space milestone, I haven't been as interested or inspired by the conquests of our space pioneers.

NASA engineers had perfected the launching of a spacecraft. It was no longer a miracle of the past, but an exact science of the present. I thought that all other space endeavors were anticlimactic compared to that astronaut's first step many years ago.

Yet, during the past few weeks, I was becoming very interested in the space program again. I was indeed inspired by the courageous words and actions of the first civilian, first teacher, Christa McAuliffe, who would be traveling into space. She was excited. She wanted the youth, her students, to believe in the space age as a reality for the future.

Students, throughout the United States, were watching this spectacular launch in their classrooms or auditoriums. I recalled sitting at an old wooden elementary desk as a black and white TV was wheeled into our classroom so we could watch the launch of the spacecraft. Another classroom of children would also join us because there weren't enough television sets for each class. These moments were an exciting break from the usual curriculum. I imagined at the moment that the Challenger was being launched similar experiences were occurring in many schools with the inclusion of color TV sets.

I also recalled the anticipation and fear that accompanied the first space flights. People became anxious before a flight. Some stating that it just wasn't right, or possible, to fly to the moon. Others arguing that people didn't think that man could fly, but millions of people fly around the world safely each day.

There was disbelief and hope together, each time a spacecraft was launched. Silent prayers were said by many people for a safe flight. When the spacecraft landed safely, everyone agreed it was a miracle.

Slowly, I began to realize the similarities between the Challenger of the '80s and the Surveyor expeditions in the late 1960s. Both included a first in space history, an emphasis on the youth, a technological advantage over the Soviet Union, and a great deal of media publicity.

However, there was one element missing. The element of fear did not exist in the space age of the '80s. The launch had been perfected.

You heard Christa McAuliffe state that the back-up computers would be able to detect the slightest imperfection. There was no need for alarm or anxiety. But, yes, we all witnessed the horror of that launch. NASA engineers have no comment except that it will take many weeks or months to find the answer to this tragedy.

My flashback stopped at a minute and a half into the Challenger launch. A fateful explosion shocked me back into reality. How could such a tragedy occur when NASA engineers were confident?

Were we over-confident? Do we need to add into our exact science formula the element of chance or fate? A formula which knows no exactness, which has mystified the best of scientists throughout the ages. A mystical force, or a faith in God, which controls so many of our own small, personal achievements, along with the tremendous achievements of the United States space program.

Perhaps, this faith which was exemplary in Christa McAuliffe's attitude towards life, will continue to encourage us to endure, to press on, in this time of deep tragedy. We have been successful in the past. We need to continue to progress with all factors present, scientific and unscientific.

Cabaret Chairman Thanks All

TO THE EDITOR:

On behalf of the Winton Club, as cabaret chairman, I would like to thank all who had a part in the success of "Celebrate".

One of many reasons to celebrate is the community spirit with which this event is received each year. Our enthusiastic cast, appreciative audiences, program advertisers, merchants displaying our posters, patrons and The Winchester Star have all once again helped to create a successful show.

It is with a great deal of pride that I thank the community which made our 65th annual Cabaret truly an event to "Celebrate".

Sincerely,
Maryalyce Norris

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

Beacon Hill Roll Call
Volume 12-Report No. 5
Massachusetts House and Senate
More 1985 bills signed into law
January 31, 1986

The House and Senate. As the House and Senate continue to meet informally, "Beacon Hill Roll Call" updates legislative action on 12 bills which were approved by the House and Senate and signed into law by Governor Dukakis. All these bills came to a roll call vote in the House only and were okayed by the Senate without a roll call.

Supplemental Budget(H 6060)- Approved by House 136-3 and signed into law was an $83 million fiscal 1985 supplemental budget including more than $50 million to pay for collective bargaining agreements with state employees and $6 million for snow and ice removal.

Representative Sherman Saltmarsh voted yes.

Deficiency Budget(H 6511)- Approved by House 117-21 and signed into law was a $211 million fiscal 1985 deficiency budget.

A key point of the debate included charges by opponents that the bill changes a major law by allowing the Secretary of Administration and Finance to raise certain license and other fees with the consent of only one branch instead of the current requirement of both House and Senate consent.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

Lemon Law(H 5919)- Approved by House 96-58 was an amendment to bill making several changes to strengthen the state's automobile "lemon law" including allowing a consumer to demand a refund rather than a replacement vehicle.

The amendment allows the Attorney General to seek an injunction against any manufacturer which sells a lemon and then fails to comply with the new regulations within 60 days. The bill, including the amendment, was later signed by Governor Dukakis.

Saltmarsh did not vote.

Justices(H 6577)- Approved by House 130-24 and signed into law was a bill adding an additional justice in both the Springfield and Worcester juvenile courts.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

Credit Cards(H 6735)- Approved by House 95-51 and signed into law was a bill permanently removing the 18 percent interest ceiling on credit cards.

In 1984, the legislature passed a law removing the 18 percent ceiling until January 1987 and this bill strikes the sunset provision and permanently removes the ceiling.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

Acid Rain(S 1187)- Approved by House 136-0 and signed into law was the bill limiting acid rain and acid rain deposition in the state and setting up a system to implement a limitation on the total statewide actual annual sulfur dioxide emissions.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

Workers' Compensation(H 6850)- Approved by House 142-0 and signed into law was the bill overhauling the state's 75 year old workers' compensation system.

Provisions include increased benefits, cost of living increases, speedier payments and extensive reorganization of the system.

A "Yea" vote is for the bill.

Abortion(S 2489)- Rejected by House 88-60 was an amendment to a bill to compensate victims of violent crimes.

The amendment would strike a section of the bill prohibiting rape victims from receiving funds for abortion or for counseling for abortion. The bill, without the amendment, was later approved and signed by Governor Dukakis.

Racing(H 6818)- Approved by House 134-15 and signed into law was a bill, designed to help the state's horse racing tracks, including key provisions increasing the number of racing dates and offering tax breaks including allowing tracks to retain money to make capital improvements.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

Police Powers(H 2622)- Approved by House 91-48 and signed into law was a bill allowing the Commissioner of Public Safety to grant certain police powers to employees of the Bureau of Special Investigation.

The bill would give them certain police powers to make arrests and serve warrants for criminal offenses resulting from fraudulent claims under public welfare programs as well as for other programs and for persons who do not pay child support.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

Trucks(S 1386)- Approved by House 147-2 and signed into law was the bill extending until 1988 the current exemption some pre-1982 trucks have from federal truck and weight laws.

Saltmarsh voted yes.

Educators: Listen To Students

By JILL M. HIGGINS

Winchester students have been riding an emotional rollercoaster these last few weeks.

They've lost three of their own student population to car accidents. And they've shared in the nation's grief with the space shuttle explosion.

The events, said School Supt. Charles Mitsakos, have resulted in many students seeking the help of school guidance counselors to deal with their feelings.

"Students have been seeking counseling," said Mitsakos this week. He noted that several educational sessions were held last week during national Drug and Alcohol Awareness Week.

"As administrators, we have handled it by giving kids a chance to talk to their counselors as they need to," he said.

Mitsakos said of the drug and alcohol sessions, "It was very apparent that the kids are concerned. They really need to talk about it. From what I hear, the peer-teacher rap sessions went very well. There was a lot of good dialogue there."

He said educators have been keenly aware that students are likely to display signs of anger or depression over the recent events.

"There were assemblies last week," said Mitsakos, "and they seemed to be positive. On the secondary school level, there is a good deal of awareness that students may well need to talk about what's bothering them — even if they aren't sure exactly what is bothering them."

He said that the Monday morning assembly of last week, at the beginning of the awareness week, helped to "set the tone" of the week.

The parents of youths killed in a recent car crash involving alcohol attended the early morning session, as students and school officials talked about the sadness felt by all.

"I think it set a tone," said Mitsakos. "Without getting too preachy, it moved kids to think even more."

He said that the goal of counselors is to listen to students voice their concerns, rather to preach about what's right or wrong.

"It does no good to preach — nobody wants to hear anyone preach, especially kids," said Mitsakos.

"The best thing we can do, as parents and as educators, is to listen to our kids. Let them speak their minds, and allow them to vent out their feelings about what is bothering them," he said.

Drug. Alcohol Week Observed

By GEORGE DERRINGER

Although Winchester High School students heard impressive facts about the abuse of alcohol and other drug last week, most questioned by The Star said they had heard it before.

Students heard various speakers during the week discuss drug abuse and its consequences. Three students questioned Wednesday afternoon said:

—"I've heard it before. I believe it but it's not new."

—"I know it's true but I don't like the stories about decapitated people."

—"We hear this all the time, one way or another."

Students were, however, attentive and polite to Walter Black, director of addiction services for Faulkner Hospital and a recovering alcoholic.

"You're right," Black said. "I'm an alcoholic but I haven't had a drink in 19 years.

Black said a first-class warning sign of alcoholism is loss of memory or temporary "black-outs, when you can't remember who you went home with or what he looked like."

Third place title went to a team from T.C.C. after a close game against Canadian Club. They won the Nesbitt trophy which was personally awarded by Mrs. Nancey Nesbitt, its donor, from Wellesley. The last and final award, the Allen Curling Iron, went to Braeburn, also from Broomstones.

Freshman Runner Shows Courage Of Champions

By STEVE NORTON

With the exception of one, the varsity track mile contest between Winchester and Stoneham High Schools was over — six minutes had passed on the stopwatch with the seconds quickly accumulating to another minute.

With two and one-half laps to go, almost 400 yards, Winchester High School freshman runner Brandon Macneill entered the closing laps in the clutches of inexpressible fatigue and bone-tiring pain.

He was once again engaged in a struggle — a struggle involving a completely exhausted body and a yet an undefeated will. As he circled the track and closed in on the finish line, he pushed himself to the arena of pain and fatigue reserved only for those who are the most courageous, who dare to challenge themselves for the impossible.

Macneill, all of ninety pounds of heart, is one tough gutsy scrapper. He keeps giving his best; on the track, in the classroom and home — sort of Rocky Balboa in Nikes.

For Macneill has found honest courage in his heart, in those crevices where ideals, values and intestinal fortitude exist, combined with the spirit needed to accomplish them.

What this young runner is accomplishing is both simple and complex. Macneill is laying the foundation of a philosophy. A philosophy that encompasses not only athletics but academics, self actualization and personal realization. A philosophy that simply states be "all you can be."

Brendan Macneill

And while this is achievable it comes with a hefty price tag: that being the confidence and the ability in the knowledge that he will ultimately endure and prevail.

This effort paid in pain, sweat and hard work strained to its utmost in track competition, is the sort of thing that makes Macneill not only a "true Sachem" but an inspiration to coaches, teachers and his friends.

Through his actions, as an athlete, scholar, and individual, Macneill teaches us all to live at our maximum, to soar like eagles.

And while only a freshman, Macneill has earned the privilege to stand in the company of other elite scholar/students at Winchester High School: the Glen Dorsam's, the Mike White's and the David Manganaro's.

As Macneill began the eleventh and final lap of the mile, most of the spectators had left the grandstands, while the other competitors were comparing performances. There was also the usual mad rush to the snack bar.

The officials who had so carefully given the faster competitors their times, had abandoned their posts. What's left is one small boy with a commitment to finish. And he will, for he epitomizes words of Teddy Roosevelt:

"The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly, who errs, and comes short again and again, because there is no effort without error and shortcoming; but who does actually strive to do the deed, who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions; who spends himself in a worthy cause;

WHS Hockey Team Loses To Watertown

By DAVID DEMARCO

The Winchester hockey team is now 0-14 and in sole possession of 10th and last place. Last week the Sachems had Watertown on Wednesday and Burlington on Saturday.

Watertown defeated Winchester, 7-5, in a penalty filled game. The Sachems played aggressively keeping the game close for two periods. 25 penalities were called through the entire game.

Sachem players Chris Giso and Bill Terry had good games as each netted a goal and an assist. Rounding out the scoring for the Sachems were Nick Gennaris, Tom Terry, Brian Griffin.

On Saturday things were better for Winchester defensively, as Burlington only scored four goals. The Sachems however, could manage none, as they were shut out 4-0.

The only action all evening was in the third period as Winchester played aggressively knocking people all over the place. The Sachems have had some tough breaks this season.

It seems that when the offense is together the defense breaks down, and when the Sachems defend the crease well they can't generate any action in their opponents' end.

There are only four games left in the season. Winchester was scheduled to face Reading yesterday at Woburn with an 8:30 p.m. face off. The Rockets are in second place with an 11 wins, 3 losses and two ties record. Look for this game to be another 6-1, 5-1 beating.

On Saturday the Sachems have a chance for a victory Winchester will take to the ice against eighth place Stoneham.

The once proud Stoneham Spartans, with only four wins and 11 losses this season, have been struggling this season.

The Sachems will have to play one of their best games Saturday night at Woburn to get that elusive victory. Game time for the Stoneham match is 6 p.m.

Sachem Boys Clinch A Narrow Victory

By DAVID DEMARCO

Last Friday night the Winchester High School Boys Basketball team sent its fans home with a great victory over Burlington 64-61.

Winchester was down early as a scrappy Burlington High team built up an 11 point lead at the end of the first quarter. At the half the Red Devils led by five, 35-30.

The Sachems were down, but it seemed that it would be only a matter of time before Winchester would get cranking and someone would get hot.

Instead of the star being Della Grotte or Hank Lynch it was young Eric Emeneau.

Emeneau had 15 points on the night with a host of rebounds Emeneau's shots hit at just the right time to keep the Sachems in close during the first half. As Burlington tried to come back in the fourth, again Emeneau came on with 7 points in the fourth quarter.

Sachems Chris Verhaegen and Lynch played well contributing 16 points a piece. Lance Worob and Mark Melanson were a two man team Friday as they combined their efforts for 44 of Burlington's 61 points. Each had 22 points respectively.

The game was a squeaker and the Red Devils did not give up, even when they were down by seven with only two minutes left on the clock.

The Devils came to within one point, however they had to foul Grotte to get possession and Della put two free throws away giving the Sachems their 11th victory of the year.

The Sachems were slated to travel to Reading on Tuesday for a 7:45 p.m. game. The game should be quite a battle.

Tomorrow, hapless Stoneham comes to W.H.S. with an 8:15 p.m. tap off. Stoneham gave the Sachems a real battle last time they met on Jan. 7. The Spartans are in 10th place at 1-14.

Girls Team Just Has The Basketball Blues

by DAVID DEMARCO

It was another winless week for Sachemette basketball. Last Tuesday the Winchester varsity girls had Watertown during the afternoon. Winchester was down by eight at the end of the first quarter, and it became Watertown's practice session after that.

The Red Raiderettes were open down low all afternoon.

It seemed that Watertown also had a much more proficient outside shooting team as they were up 24-14 at the half.

The only good point in this game was the Tree Rollins imitation by Maureen Dokas in the third quarter. Dokas' rejection brought a howl from the Winchester bench.

The Sachemettes dropped this one by 23 points, 30-53.

Sandy Missakian led Watertown with 13. For the Sachemettes, Ellen Donahue was tops with 10.

"We didn't have it from the beginning. It just wasn't our night," said Mary Ellen Feeney.

Last Friday the team had quite a surprise. Winchester played Burlington and by all rights, should have been blown out.

The Sachemettes lost by only six points to the first place team, 44-38. It seemed as the Red Devils were looking past Winchester, and didn't feel the game would be a contest.

Burlington was up 24-16 at the half, however a fourth quarter burst by the Sachemettes brought the game within reach. The Guarnotta sisters ruled the court for Winchester as each had nine points.

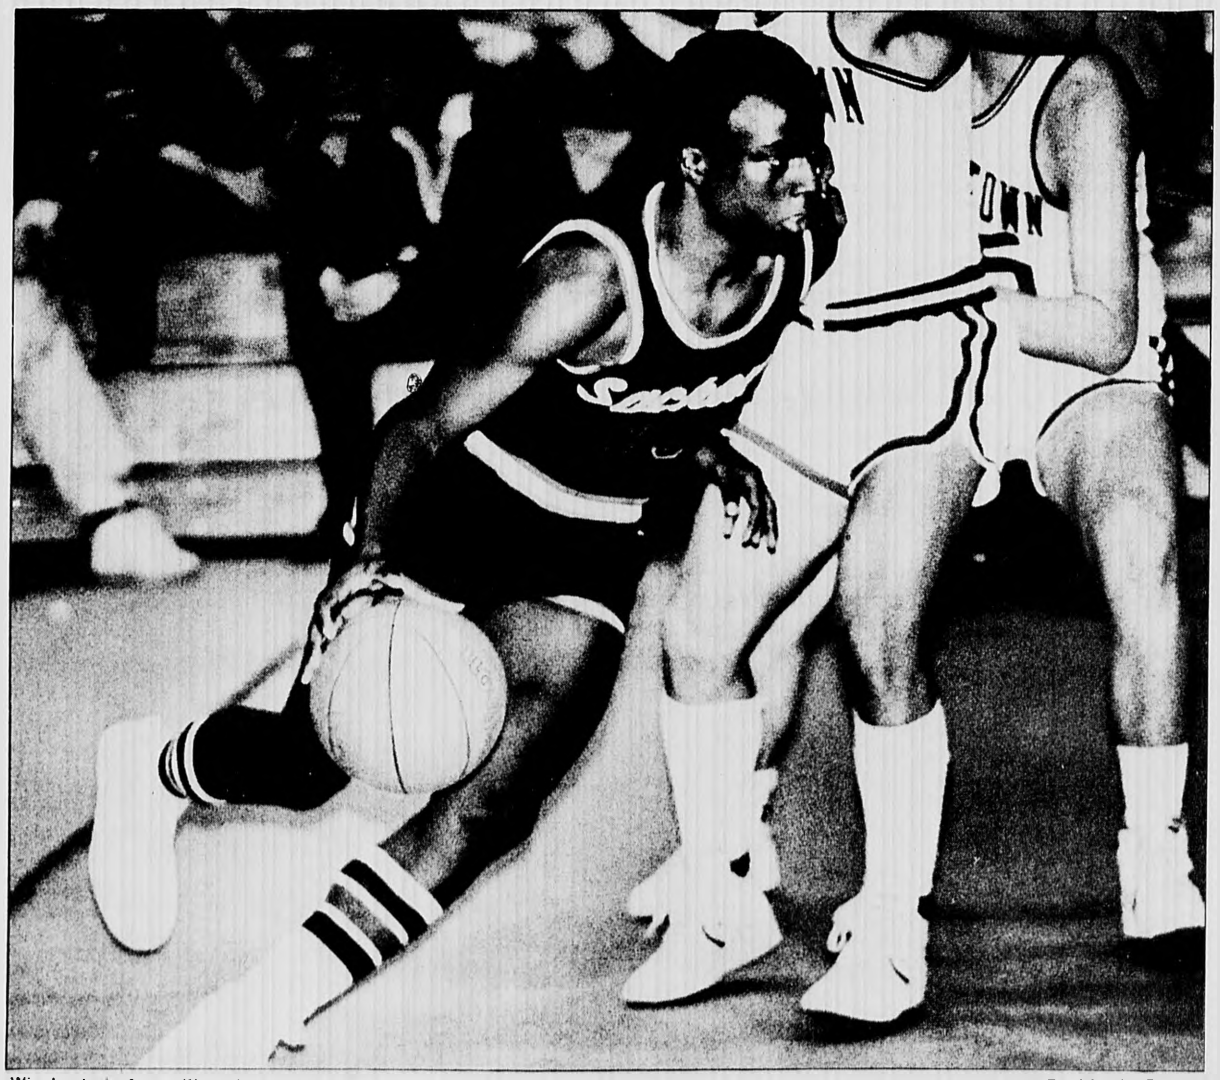

Burlington's Jennifer Cochran was the difference as she came away with 26 points. Cochran controlled the game for B.H.S. and kept the Sachemettes from getting a late second half comeback.

Winchester is in 10th place with one win and 13 losses. The girls were slated to face Reading on Tuesday at home with a 5 p.m. tapoff.

The Rockettes are middle of the road this season. The team is in sixth place with a seven wins, seven losses record.

By WHITNEY GAY

The Winchester Wrestling Sachems rolled into Lexington to meet the tenacious Minutemen in a night match that ended in a 41-18 Winchester victory.

Coach Larry Tremblay filtered some younger wrestlers into the lineup. Opening the match was Keith Jones wrestling a savvy bout against a stronger Lexington man. Jones was able to overcome strength with some skilled wrestling enabling him to pick up Winchester's first three points.

Mark Bortman met a tough Dave Kim of Lexington. The bout remained a close affair but Kim, the best of the Lexington squad, handed Bortman a defeat.

Alex Puchulu came from behind to put more points in the Sachem win column. Paul Murray followed with a solid match ending in a pin for six more victory points.

Ed Pigott gave Winchester fans a thrill with a flashy victory, by fall, over his Minuteman opponent. And Big Dave Carter showed a stronger, yet less experienced John Brzezenski, the lights to cap a 50-13 victory.

On to Winchester two days later for a bout with the upset minded Burlington team. Young Keith Jones opened the night against a bigger, stronger opponent, who muscled his way to a pin and six point lead for Burlington.

In the 107 pound class for Winchester, Albie Cail came onto the mats to wrestle only to find out that Burlington had to forfeit the win to Cail.

At the 114 pound class the experienced Greg Doherty locked up with Rob Castellano in a very close match. With Doherty leading going into the third period, 7-4, Castellano caught the Sachem in a lethal cradle hold nearly pinning him. With only seconds left in what appeared to be a 7-7 tie, Doherty broke the hold, reversed his man and pulled out a victory giving Winchester the lead for the first time in the match.

Paul Murray overcame an early deficit to go on to win 14-4. Co-captain Alex Puchulu gave a showy performance the night came against co-captain Mercado. The Sachem wrestler gave away an early lead and got caught in a lethal cradle. Burlington's Steve Dillingham's pin over Mercado was the last bright spot for the Burlington squad.

Steve Rodriquez gave Gallarino all he could handle. Rodriquez closed out his match with a pin. Scott Racek continued rolling through opponents with at 16-5 win, never quite able to put his man away. And flashy Ed Pigott thrilled the Winchester fan's by executing a stand up combination to nearly pin his man.

Pigott couldn't pin his man who came back to make a tight match. With a stalling point awarded to Burlington late in the match it became a classic tight battle until time ran out giving Ed Pigott a victory 5-3.

The last match of the night was the heavyweight bout. The favored veteran Dave Carter of Winchester, forced an early takedown and the lead. However, Burlington's Nardolny slipped a sloppy pin combination and won a victory by early pin over a surprised Carter.

Winchester routed Burlington, 41-18.

Swimmers In Head To Head Meet

On Jan. 25, at the most exciting meet of the year so far, the North Suburban YMCA Boys Swim Team found itself neck-and-neck with the Haverhill YMCA Boys Team with the final outcome being decided by the last relay for most age groups.

The Class D (9 and 10) Vikings again found themselves on the winning end and were able to maintain their undefeated streak.

The Class E (8 and under) group continued to show great improvement. Chris Sheppard (Winchester) won the 25 Free with a super time of 18.95 and took a second place in the 25 Fly with a 24.54.

Danny Cahill (Stoneham), swimming in his second meet, took a second place in the 50 Back with a 28.30. These two boys are working very hard to win for their age group and to add points to the team, in general.

One of the closest and most exciting competitions of the day came in the Class D (9 and 10) group. It was a see-saw battle back and forth all afternoon. The Vikings started off by coming second in the 200 Medley Relay (Connarton, DeMinico, Luongo and Hall swam back, breast, fly, free, respectively).

Ben Sheppard (Winchester) then grabbed a second place in the 100 individual medley with a 1:20.17. Mark Connarton (Woburn) was third with 1:35.46. Billy Jansen (Wilmington) added needed points by taking a first in the 50 free in 33.82 and Greg Luongo (Wakefield) took a third with a 38.85, a YMCA District qualifying time.

Gaining more points, Ben Sheppard took a first in the 50 Fly with a 36.13. Swimming an exciting 100 Freestyle Ricky DeMinico (Woburn) came in first with a previous time, and Andrew Hall (Winchester) finished third in 1:26.94.

Winning another first place, Jansen swam a 39.58 in the 50 back putting him within one second of a YMCA New England qualifying time. Hall placed second with a 44.85, a personal best and bringing him to within one and a half seconds of a "B" time. Connarton finished third in the 50 Breast with a 48.96 bringing him to within one and a half seconds of a "B" time for that event.

Going into the last event the Vikes were losing by one point. The 200 freestyle relay saw Sheppard, Luongo, Jansen, and DeMinic pull way out in front and take the event in (2:22.66) and also the meet. Still undefeated!

In another very close match the Class C (11 and 12) boys started off by taking a second place in the 100 I.M: swum by Andy Cortese (Burlington) in 3:04.24. Eric (E.J.) Anderson (Woburn) then swam a New England and YMCA qualifying time (28.27) in the 50 Free. Brad Swallom (Reading) placed fourth with a 40.95.

Cortese then swam the 50 Fly in 38.53 to place second. Another second place finish for the C's was in the 100 free with Mike Driscoll (Reading) swimming it in 1:10.32. Swallom did the 50 back in 57.74 to place third and E.J. Anderson pulled out another Y New England qualifying time of 35.96 in the 50 breast.

The 200 free relay team of Anderson, Cortese, Swallom, and Driscoll swam a 2:07.05 to take first place, but this was not quite enough to win the meet and the C's fell 42-32.

Another see-saw battle took place in the Class B (13 and 14) Group with the lead going from North Suburban to Haverhill and back again. The 200 free style started the Vikes off with a 1-2 finish with Kevin Flatley (Reading) taking first in 2:18.23 and Derek Anderson (Woburn) placing second in 2:20.21. Next, Derek Murman (Lexington) swam the 200 I.M. in 2:32.59 to place second. Larry Kress (Lexington) came in first in the 50 free with Y N.E. time of 24.40 and Mark Siezen (Arlington) was second with a 29.49.

In the 100 free, Anderson did a 1:01.87 for a second place and Siezen was third with a 1:06.45 Swimming his second Y N.E. time Kress did the 500 Free in 5:28.54. This event is the longest of the day as it involves swimming twenty (20) lengths of the pool. Finishing up the individual events Murman came in second in the 100 Breast with 1:17.56 and Flatley was third with 1:19.50.

A very exciting 200 free relay race saw Kress, Flately, Murman, and Anderson come in first in 1:47.61, but it was not enough the B's lost a very close race 42-37.

The Senior (15-18) Boys started the day's events off well with a win over Haverhill in the 200 Medley Relay. Greg O'Connor, Matt Berg, Mike Bowers (all of Winchester), and Matt Harvey (Reading) finished in 1:48.08. Peter Anthes (Lexington) then came in second in the 200 Free with a Y N.E. qualifying time of 1:54.99.

The 100 I.M. saw Berg take second in 2:14.78 and Bowers place third in 2:22.66. Another 2-3 finish was O'Connor's 24.45 and Harvey's 24.58 in the 50 Free. Bowers then placed second in the 100 Fly with a 1:03.35.

Just missing a Y N.E. time Harvey came in first in the 100 Free with a super 53.99. Peter Anthes well-surpassed the New England qualifying time in the 500 Free by doing it in 5:13.20 (Qualifying time is 5:19.00) to take a second place in this event. Not having enough swimmers to complete a free relay team the A's were not able to pull ahead of Haverhill and they lost 49-37.

this team, but they must keep the Rockettes off the offense boards.

Tomorrow it will be the Sachemettes last hurrah as they travel to Stoneham for a 8:15 p.m. start.

The Stoneham Spartanettes are the only team Winchester has beaten this year. Stoneham currently owns ninth place, at two wins and 13 losses. If it is ever going to happen, this will be the night.

Look for Winchester to come out strong, looking for that second win and getting out of the cellar.

This is the third of the musical readings that has been supported by funds from the Massachusetts Arts Lottery. The funds are distributed by the Winchester Arts Lottery Council.

Brahms' "Ein Deutsches Requiem" (A German Requiem"), written in 1868, is a choral work based on German texts chosen from the Scriptures. It will be directed by Robert A. White, a long-time resident of Winchester and director of music at the First Congregational Church. White also teaches music at the University of Lowell.

Children explore the world of music through creative movement and active participation. Building on their own experience they develop an understanding of basic musical concepts such as beat, fast/slow, loud/soft, and high/low. Through singing, movement activities and improvisation children learn to express themselves with pleasure and skill.

The class for three-year olds involves parents as active partners, and there are two groups of four-year olds. Classes are held Tuesday afternoons at the Unitarian Church.

For more information, call Nancy Goodwin, 8 Wolcott Terrace.

"This is a good year to run for Town Meeting seat," said Town Clerk

On February 3, Carol Davidson, chairman of the Winchester Arts Lottery Council, presented the Winchester Board of Selectmen with a painting, "Winchester Town Hall in the Spring," by Carol Lee Camelio. This gift to the town was made possible through a grant to Camelio by the Massachusetts Arts Lottery Council as administered by the Winchester Arts Lottery Council. Before the painting is hung in Town Hall, it will be on display, along with another painting by the artist in the Winchester Art Association's Members' show at the Main Street Gallery though February 20. Carol Lee Camelio is a Medford resident and has exhibited widely throughout the state.

The sentiments are clearly mutual. In his written tribute to Father Haddad, Leo J. Fahey wrote, "He remains our friend, secure, we trust, in our prayers. He goes with the fondest blessing of us all."

The Winton Club's annual Cabaret Night drew quite a crowd as Juliet David struts her stuff (Paul Drake Photo)

Meanwhile, Steve Cumings, dressed as a "Rhinestone Cowboy," while a bevy of women surrounded him as he sang.

Softening the tone of the evening, Brenda Flood sang a ballad "Tonight, I Celebrate My Love."

Racing from one end of the floor to the other, the women rode portable sewing carts, a symbol of the earlier club days when members met in sewing circles to provide the hospital with linens.

Lillian and Sam Rhinderman, two agile seniors, danced the jitterbug, gliding, spinning and ad-libbing a few modern techniques.

The finale — entitled "Celebrate America" — filled the stage with patriotic colors. Twenty-four women in colorful leotards and long white striped gloves kicked across the floor.

The evening drew to a close as the stage darkened, illuminating the torch of the Statue of Liberty and the whole cast gathered for the finale.

Season Of Ice

Once again, the season of sleet and ice is upon us. The season when the driver of the family car must be doubly alert. To be blunt, we, as Funeral Directors, do not have to use imagination to visualize the results of careless driving. The grisly tangibles are forced upon us—especially during the Winter months. You owe it to yourself and your family not to let familiarity with the automobile breed contempt for the highway or byway. Your children need you—Protect their future.

What To Visit

The Mrs. Creates A

She was known by society colleagues of her day to be an outrageous, reckless and, sometimes out-of-place personality.

Yet Isabella Stewart Gardner left an impressive and priceless legacy to the city and people of Boston.

"She was an incredible woman and people frequently want to know more about her," says Karen Haas, assistant curator at the Gardner Museum.

After the death of her husband, Mrs. Gardner, then in her 60's, initiated and supervised the construction of a palatial home known at the time as Fenway Court.

From 1899 until 1902, Gardner traveled throughout Europe and collected priceless paintings, architectural elements, columns, staircases, arches, fireplaces and fountains.

She was particularly fond of Venetian art and wanted the interior of her home to resemble that of a Venetian palace.

"Among some of the most exciting early renaissance works she brought to the museum was Raphael's first canvas, 'Count Tommaso Inghirami' and Vermeer's, 'The Concert.'

"The Titian (The Rape of Europa)," says Haas, "is the most important Italian Renaissance painting in the United States, if not in the world. It's here as a permanent part of the Gardner Museum."

Lovely Gardner Legacy

Haas explained that the entire collection is permanent.

When Gardner completed the museum in 1902, she stipulated that each piece, current and future, would forever remain in the museum.

"Isabella Stewart Gardner was so true to this decision," says Haas, "that when the Hon. T. Jefferson Coolidge loaned John Singer Sargent's painting "El Jaleo" to her, she created a unique setting for it in the Spanish Cloister room.

"Upon his return to reclaim the painting he realized that the painting was now a permanent canvas among her collection!"

Probably the most impressive and frequently recalled exhibit is not a painting, but the lavish courtyard which stands in the center of the museum.

The garden, when in full bloom, is a mass of color with trestles of flowering plants flowing from three stories of arched windows.

"It is wonderful to see visitors' faces when they see the garden," says Haas.

"It takes a staff of four full-time gardners to maintain the court," says Haas. "Every three weeks there is a change of flowers.

"At one time the Gardner Museum was the only place on the Fenway and with its prestigious style and magnificent gardens, both inside and out, it made a very impressive site along Olmstead's Emerald Necklace (a series of connecting parks in the Boston area)," says Haas.

Since its opening, music has been an intricate part of the museum/palace.

Concerts are given in the Tapestry Room, home to the museum's two priceless Steinway grand pianos, on Sundays at 3 p.m., Tuesdays at 6 p.m., and Thursdays at 12:15 p.m.

"The music is primarily classical, but may occasionally be of a different type," says Haas.

Depending solely on its own collection, it is the museum's goal to combine various paintings, sculptures and other elements into special exhibits.

The current exhibit, Isabella Stewart Gardner and the Venetian Influence, focuses on the Gardners' love affair with the magical city that called them back year after year.

This exhibit, which runs through March 2, includes rarely seen etchings and watercolors of Venice done by two of her close friends, James McNeill Whistler and John Singer Sargent.

Also represented are other European and American artisits whose paitings of the familar canaletti and extraordinary architecture are scattered throughout the museum.

Drawn from the museum's archives, letters, guestbooks, travel journals and photographs, the exhibit offers a unique account of Gardner's many sojurns in Venice.

To complement the exhibit, lectures examining the art and history of the city, The Venetian Influence, run throughout the year.

"The museum has quite a number of Sargents and Whistlers, both of whom did portraits of Gardner," says Haas.

Works by Dega, Manet, and Matisse are also contained in the collection.

Unlike many museums the Gardner may appear as if it lacks order.

Rather, it was Gardner's intention to arrange her collection in a varied visual and historical manner, thereby creating a very individual trademark.

The museum boasts over 2000 holdings contained in over two dozen galleries, many with names emphasizing Gardner's devotion to the Renaissance period: Early Italian Room, Gothic Room and Titian Room to name a few.

The best rememberance of Isabella Stewart Gardner, however, is not in her portraits, but in the entire museum.

"After being affiliated with the museum for eight years," says Haas, "one gets to feel as if they knew Mrs. Gardner."

Everything Isabella Stewart Gardner admired and treasured is still at 280 The Fenway. Visitors will easily be able to discover not only the arts, but the fascinating woman who founded Boston's only Venetian Palace.

Admission to the museum is $2 and the hours are noon to 9 p.m. on Tuesday and noon to 5 p.m. Wednesday through Sunday.

Information on the museum, concerts and programs may be obtained by calling 566-1401.

What To Eat

Inspirational Desserts: Sweetness And Light Tempt Tasters, Tummies

Story by John Heymann
Drawings by Carl DiRocco

Boston enjoys a rich, ethnic diversity but Bostonians really enjoy a rich, ethnic dessert.

From the Italian restaurants in the North End to Middle Eastern restaurants in Arlington and Newton, restaurant patrons pay little attention to calories when the dessert menu arrives.

At the Caffe Paradiso on Hanover st. in the North End, restaurant manager Oscar DeStefano has not noticed any change in his customers dining habits despite the increased popularity of diets and health food.

"My customers order dessert just as much as they did five years ago," he said.

Customer favorites include chocolate mousse, tarte ala' Paradiso made with espresso coffee and liqueur, and a standard Italian dessert, the canolli, made with the Caffee Paradiso's special ingredients.

"Our secret," says DeStefano.

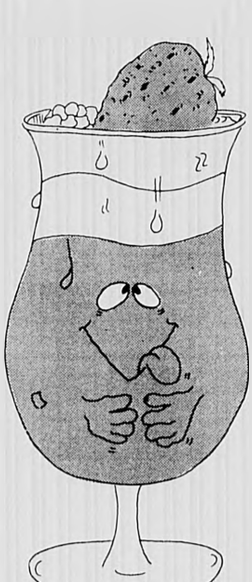

The most expensive dessert costs $2.75 and the menu includes 15 different tarts.

Filippo Frattaroli of Lucia's in Winchester — an offshoot of the famed Lucia Ristorante in the North End — treats his dining audience to tasty traditional Italian desserts as well as innovative after-entree fare.

He is most excited about a new dessert, created about four weeks ago, known as Le Dolce Lucia.

It is a light, sweet taste sensation made of a creamy custard sauce, served on tiny moist cakes and sprinkled with fresh chocolate.

A major magic ingredient to the custard is the fresh cheese, one of three cheeses made daily in Filippo's kitchen in the same manner as the cheese made by his grandfather in Sulmona, Italy.

"Everything we do here is different," says Frattaroli. "I like to experiment and make new dishes."

Evidently the new creations work.

Already the restaurant is dishing up about 100 Le Dolce Lucia desserts on week nights and more than 150 of these treats on week-ends.

Paris 26 is an unlikely name for a restaurant serving Northern Italian cuisine but the Newtonville restaurant began almost two years ago with a menu of inexpensive dishes.

When its customers indicated a preference for larger portions and more expensive items, the restaurant, set in a former church, gradually changed its emphasis, causing chocolate worshipers to rejoice.

Tiramisu, an increasingly popular dessert nationwide, is the most sinful of the after dinner choices.

This dessert, a cream cheese filling topped with chocolate and surrounded by lady fingers soaked in dark rum and espresso coffee, has sugar, caffine and alcohol.

"Part of the fun of going out to dinner," says Tuppen, "is having something decadent, something that you feel you really shouldn't."

Although most customers are "definite chocola-holics," Tuppen says that others are asking for lighter desserts.

For those with strong wills when the dessert cart arrives, Paris 26 offers a variety of fresh fruit with unsweentened whipped cream. All desserts, regardless of their accompanying caloric penance, are $3.00.

The Viennese pastries and cakes at the Black Forest Restaurant in Cambridge have both a rich taste and a rich tradition.

Pastry chef Marge Milazzo describes one of the most popular desserts, the Rigo Jancei, as "an intensely chocolate cake," and says that it was first made in the 18th century to honor a Viennese violinist of the same name.

According to the legend, the women of Vienna created the cake to honor the violinist, whom Milazzo described as a "very romantic character."

When Milazzo helped start the Black Forest eight years ago, she noticed an "over abundance of American style pastries" and believed that the dining public would accept a more sophisticated dessert.

She attributes the change to the "baby boomers who have more sophisticated tastes and a willingness to experiment."

"As their economic status improved," she says, "they started looking for the best value and decided it was worth spending the extra 50 cents or dollar to get a really fine dessert."

Eclairs are a popular item that Milazzo hesitates to promote because, "they're so labor intensive and I'm so particular about them."

Above the downstairs dining room, the Black Forest has a street level cafe where customers can order desserts and coffee at a counter or to take out, paying a dollar or so less than in the restaurant. Top price for any dessert on the dining room menu is $3.50.

Milazzo adds season items to the Black Forest dessert menu, such as fresh pear and apple pies at Thanksgiving, cakes with chocolate or vanilla genoisse in the shape of a yule log at Christmas.

At Maison Robert, a French restaurant in Boston's old city hall, dessert is not an afterthought, says Andree Robert, the owner's daughter.

"It's an entire section of the meal and it must be both pleasing to the eye and exciting to the palate."

Chocolate or lemon mousse and St. Honore, a puffed pastry with an unsaintly combination of caramel and whipped cream.

The Charlotte is another featured treat here.

"A couple of years ago, we saw that if put a lighter dessert on the menu, it was very popular. So, we try to offer one or two on the light side."

On the other hand, Robert says. "Everyone is asking for cheesecake and we will probably add that to the menu as well."

In contrast to other styles of ethnic cooking, Chinese cuisine does not emphasize either a sweet dessert or a variety of choice.

What To Eat

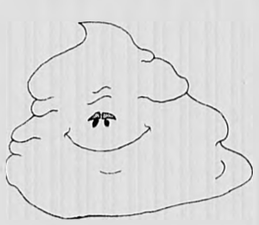

Steven Chen, owner of Joyce Chen restaurant on the Cambridge-Arlington line, says that his restaurant normally offers only two desserts pineapple and lychees nuts, a Chinese fruit.

"Only 25 percent or less ask for dessert," say Chen. "They probably know we don't have a dessert menu."

Chuckling, he says, "Most of our customers go to Steve's for dessert."

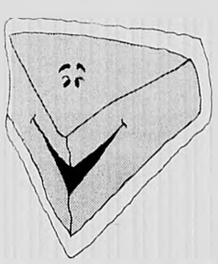

Traditionally, the Chinese end a meal with hot soup, says chen.

Sweet cakes are more popular at lunch than after the evening meal. However, Chen's restaurant occasionally expands its dessert menu to include almond float, an almond-flavored gelatin with mandarin oranges; ginger ice cream, and glazed bananas, cooked in a sugar caramel, and then dipped into cold water at the dinning table.

Baklava a popular middle-eastern dessert, is made with fillo dough, walnuts, sugar, and honey or syrup.

Youssef, owner of Cafe Barada on Massachusetts ave. in Arlington, describes the baklava at his restaurant as, "rich but not fattening.

"We try not to put too much sugar in it."

Youssef says that he eats baklava "two or three times a day without gaining weight." For anyone who has tried baklava, this borders on the miraculous.

"It's loaded," he says, "800 calories and up."

To enjoy desserts, Elie does not use sugar in his coffee and then, "Every once in a while, I treat myself to a rich dessert." He notices that Americans prefer a sweet dessert while Europeans are more likely to order fruit or cheese.

"I'd love to have fresh fruit on the menu but it doesn't sell," he adds.

The Sabra offers some decidedly un-middle eastern desserts such as pecan pie and carrot cake but "80 percent of the people ask for baklava."

With the popularity of ethnic food in Boston, what has happened to traditionally American pies, cakes and ice cream?

Some food critics credit the 1976 bicentennial with sparking a renewed interest in American food.

Two local cafes, Conefections in Lexington, and Rosie's in Cambridge, have combined that interest with another typically American characteristic, entrepreneurship.

Into the void stepped Conefections, offering five different, flavored cones and homemade ice cream.

The flavored cones brown sugar, orange walnut, honey whole wheat, ginger snap, and chocolate - give the cafe both an unusual selling point and a wonderfully distinctive aroma.

Conefections makes its own hot fudge as well as a peanut butter and butterscotch topping with chunks of peanuts mixed in.

The cafe has expanded its menu of brownies, cakes, pies, and cookies to include soup and sandwiches.

Dyer sees no slackening in the popularity of desserts.

"Even when there is snow on the ground, people will always want their sweet desserts."

But like other restaurants, Conefections has added a low calories dessert a fresh, whipped fruit served like soft ice cream but non-dairy.

Putting every available topping on an ice cream sundae at Conefections could run the price up to three or four dollars.

A rich brownie with fudge frosting and topped with walnuts, the chocolate orgasm, winner of numerous Boston magazine awards and included in Paul Luongo's America's Best 100, is excellent.

Judy Rosenberg started Rosie's seven years ago in Inman Square, Cambridge and business was so successful that she opened a branch in Newton at the Chestnut Hill Mall.

Filippo Frataroli prepares Le Dolce Lucia. (Photos by Elizabeth Rigsby)

The latest addition is a pumpkin-pecan cheesecake that is becoming more popular all the time, says Rosie's staff.

The menu includes a number of fruit tartes which vary in flavor with the season. Top price for a dessert is $2.50 and anyone on a diet must check it at the door.

The variety of rich, sweet desserts available in Boston suggests that Bostonians appreciate a sophisticated item, are willing to pay a bit more to enjoy a finely made dessert and give no more than lip service to counting calories.

Winter Stage Is Welcome: Noted Pianists Perform, Chinese Ballet Charms

Noted Ensemble Features Pianist Emanuel Ax

The Brandenburg Ensemble, led by conductor-violinist Alexander Schneider, performs with noted pianist Emanuel Ax as soloist Sunday, February 16 at 3 p.m. in Symphony Hall, under the auspices of the Wang Celebrity Series.

Their annual appearances at Symphony Hall and Avery Fisher Hall in New York, as well as on the college campuses of Princeton, Dartmouth and Connecticut College, have featured such exceptional soloists as pianists Murray Perahia and Peter Serkin and clarinetist Richard Stoltzman.

Alexander Schneider, the Russian-born conductor, violinist, devoted teacher and counselor of young musicians, has had an enormous impact on the field of chamber music since 1983 when he first came to America as a member of the Budapest String Quartet.

He was directly involved with the founding of the Casals Festival and the Israel Festival and for many years was a principal figure at the Marlboro Music Festival.

Schneider was also instrumental in the organization of a number of innovative concert programs in New York: a series of free outdoor concerts in Washington Square and his ever-popular midnight Christmas Eve concert at Carnegie Hall, among others.

His contributions have been formally acknowledged through numerous awards, including Mayor Koch's Award of Honor for Arts and Culture, given in 1979.

Ax, hailed as one of the most remarkable pianists of his generation, catapulted into public view when he won the first Arthur Rubinstein International Piano Competition, held in Tel Aviv.

Polish-born Ax has since performed with virtually every major orchestra in the United States as well as those of Europe, Latin America and the Orient.

Winner of the prestigious Avery Fisher Prize in 1979, Ax has collaborated with cellist Yo-Yo Ma in duo recitals in Avery Fisher Hall, Carnegie Hall, Symphony Hall and at Tanglewood.

Ronnie Continues To Be Hub Hit

Rap Master Ronnie, the ninety-minute laugh riot that opened at the Next Move Theatre in late December, continues to play to standing room audiences only.

The new political musical revue with book and lyrics by Garry Trudeau and music by Elizabeth Swados, is a quick, slick, zingy, hilarious satire, presenting Trudeau and Swados' vision of Ronald Reagan's America, joshing his many lapses of memory and policy.

A Doonesbury Special, an animated film co-directed by Trudeau for NBC, was nominated for an Academy Award and received the Special Jury Prize at Cannes.

Trudeau also wrote the book and lyrics for the musical Doonesbury, for which he was nominated for two Drama Desk Awards.

Elizabeth Swados has written, composed and directed the Obie Award-winning La Mama Trilogy, Nightclub Cantata, Runaways — nominated for five Tony Awards, Dispatches, Alice in Concert, Lullabye and Goodnight, Haggadah and Doonesbury.

Swados has also written a novel, Leah and Lazar, and has scored many television shows and films.

A native of Burgettstown, Pa., Catellino is a graduate of the School for the Arts at Boston University. He also directed the Los Angeles and Chicago companies of Rap Master Ronnie.

He has also composed scores for the Berkshire Theatre Festival's country musical Nightriders, Lincoln Center's Twelfth Night and the PBS-TV movie The Boys of Summer as well as several commercial jingles.

Lewis attended Brandeis University, and his theatrical career began in Boston with The Proposition.

Andre Watts, Noted Pianist, At Symphony Hall

His solo piano recital devoted to works by Franz Liszt is presented under the auspices of the Wang Celebrity Series.

Watts a sensational poet at the piano, burst forth upon the music world in 1963 at the age of sixteen, when Leonard Bernstein asked him to substitute for Glenn Gould and play Liszt's E-Flat Concerto with the New York Philharmonic.

The result: initial groans from the crowds transformed into shouted bravos and a standing ovation from the audience and orchestra.

Extremely popular since his debut, Watts has been invited to play for coronations and inaugurals, for royalty, and for presidents at the White House. One year he gave as many as 150 concerts.

At age twenty-six he was the youngest person ever to receive an honorary doctorate from Yale University.

In 1973, Watts made a triumphant debut in the Soviet Union with the San Francisco Symphony led by Seiji Ozawa on a U.S. State Department-sponsored tour.

Television has had a tremendous effect on Watts' career, as he has been heard and seen by millions of viewers.

He has appeared in three Live From Lincoln Center telecasts since 1976 and, last year, he gave the first full-length prime-time solo piano recital in the history of television.

What Do You Say?

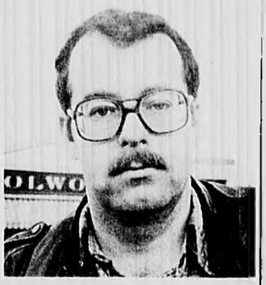

Who Was Your First Valentine?

Adam Leach, 21
Student
Winchester

Honora Cook in kindergarten. She was great. She was short, had curly, dark hair with dark eyes, hair, and skin.

I think I got her a bunch of carnations. She gave me a rock. She hated me.

Gerald Baird, 29
Army
Winchester

My first valentine was Michelle in high school.

I got her candy. She was 5'2" with long, dark hair. I was dating her for awhile.

Noreen Lane, 29
Lab Technician
Arlington

My first one was from Jimmy Doran back in high school.

He looked Irish — brown hair, blue eyes, six foot, 170 pounds.

He bought me a dozen roses chocolates, and took me out to dinner at the York Steak House in Hanover.

I dated him for two years.

Paul Lauritsen, 23
Hotel Worker
Arlington

Someone in kindergarten named Holly Hershey.

I gave her one of those candy necklaces that is strung together with elastic.

She had long, dark, brown hair and big eyes.

She made the first move. She gave me a Christmas ornament made out of toilet paper.

Fung Yee, 24
Supervisor of Filene's
Belmont

I was in sixth grade and his name was Keith MacLean.

He had stuck a Valentine in my mailbox, but didn't sign the card. I knew it was him, though, because I caught him putting the card in my mailbox.

It wasn't anything special because he had done it to two other girls.

Peter Swanson, 45
Engineer
Belmont

It would have been when I was nine years old.

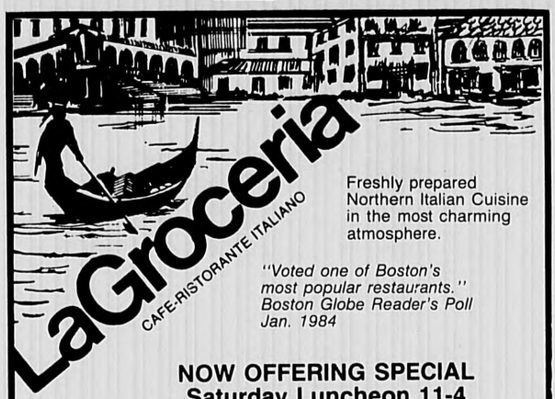

She was my height with darker, blond hair. I thought she was very pretty.

I used to go over her house and draw pictures with her. At that time, I was trying to develop my talents as an artist.

I may have given her a little drawing that I did.

What About Art? By Meredith Fife Day

Take A Look At Cambridge

Finding the CAA (Cambridge Art Association) art gallery, tucked away at 25R Lowell st., is no easy task, but it is worth the effort.

Go to the rear, where the entrance is clearly marked, and the reward is a big light-filled room of works by 34 artists from 19 Massachusetts towns, Vermont and New Hampshire.

The juried show on display is called Figures and Faces: The Human Seen. It was chosen from 305 works submitted by 174 artists.

The two jurors were Bernie Pucker of Pucker Safrai Gallery and David Omar White, cartoonist and professor at the School of the Museum of Fine Arts.

Mounting a show around the theme holds infinite possibilities. But the traditional portrait and somewhat conservative variations dominate the jurors' selection and awards in this exhibit.

Jane Barrow's straightforward, unencumbered self-portrait, the recipient of one award, is painted with clarity and understanding of her medium and subject.

Another award winner is Zhuo-Sho Liang's larger, more romantic seated figure profiled amidst big sweeps of white paint and deep blue flowers.

Most provocative of the winners is a hand colored photograph by Maria Muller of Watertown. A woman standing between two mirrors is seen three times in a setting that is strangely artificial and austere, as if lighted by neon tubes. Yet it becomes almost luxuriant in its multiple reflections.

John O'Shaughnessy's "Self Portrait on Car Hood," painted on the hood of a car, stands in the middle of the gallery. Sober, subtly-rounded and as solemnly expressive as a fayoum portrait, even this oversized head does not assert itself as a radical departure from traditional portraiture.

Much smaller in scale, Bonnie Campbell's oil portrait has no less impact. Its deep, warm color, strength of drawing and simplicity of composition are forceful and intense in both formal and psychological terms.

Two other small paintings holding their own among larger works are John DeVaney's witty "Swimmer," blowing airy bubbles under a transpa.ent pool of blue-green water, and one lovely summer moment under the shade of an outdoor back stairway, "Back Porch" by Carolyn Latanision of Winchester.

Pushing the concept of portrait/figure painting beyond the limits of most other show entries, Elizabeth Bledsoe's "Woman in the World" makes a compelling statement through the expressive force of its sonorous color, dynamic composition and combination of imagery.

There are other show standouts, and the viewer is bound to find a personal favorite in this exhibit on view through Feb. 14. CAA gallery hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. Call 876-0246.

The Gallery at Henri IV is in another little pocket of Cambridge, at 96 Winthrop st. in Harvard Square.

While enabling the viewer to enjoy art works over a leisurely evening break, the gallery's drawback is inadequate lighting, at least during the winter months it is already dark by the 5 p.m. opening.

The show hanging in Henri IV now is such fun, though, and the atmosphere is so pleasant, that temporarily the drawback can be put aside.

"Stepping Out of Line #2" is a show composed of some 35 works by cartoonists, including The Globe's Dorothy Ahle, Paul Szep and Dan Wasserman; The Herald's Leo Abbett, Dan Guidera and Peter Wallace; David Sipress of The Boston Phoenix; Jeff Danzinger of the Christian Science Monitor and The Tab's David Omar White.

White's "Going Off" series is so wild and wacky and wonderful (and they are, incidentally, the only colored pieces in the show), that it is easy to overlook how well put-together they are in their drawing and painting.

Peter Wallace is able to maximize meaning with economy of line, and Dan Guidera incorporates words in his drawings, making even individual letters funny!

Art lovers, political observers, city folks — this show, up through Feb. 28, is a delight for all.

Our Children
Vocational Euphoria

Q. Our 9-year-old son had a bad leg injury recently, requiring orthopedic surgery. One result that evolved was unexpected, so I would really like your opinion.

He had a fine surgeon with whom he established a close relationship. Our boy now frequently states that he wants to be a surgeon like this person. He even specifies orthopedics as his specialty.

That worries me because he is so young and so determined in his career choice. How can I encourage him to keep his options open?

A. You probably won't have to because children who express vocational preferences often change them one or more times until the so-called "final" choice is made. Even after a seemingly firm selection is made an individual may switch many times before or after entering a specific vocation.

In the meantime, why not just ride along on his wave of vocational euphoria? After all, he could have selected something less to your liking such as -- but I'll leave that unfinished. Otherwise, I may have a lot of occupants of whatever vocational example I choose come down hard on me because of what they consider an insult!

Q. We have a 2-year-old, one who is 6 and a teenager, and we keep hearing how difficult children of those ages are to live with. It just doesn't make sense to us because each of them has been a delight since birth.

Tell us honestly, are there really certain ages of childhood that are tougher for parents to live through than others? Maybe it is just that we still have them ahead of us.

A. It all depends on the specific child. Some youngsters are difficult as infants or preschoolers and easy as adolescents. Others don't wear down parents until the teen years, and still others are difficult all the way through -- or never.

You seem to be among the fortunate few, but perhaps it is all in the eye of the beholder. As Rosenthal and Jacobsen wrote in their book, "Pygmalion in the Classroom," we sometimes get what we expect.

The outlook of parents may help determine how children will perform. But there are other influences, of course, like health and additional environmental and genetic factors.

Letters may be sent to Dr. Willard Abraham, Our Children, P.O. Box 572, Scottsdale, AZ 85252.

What's For Seniors

Predictions For '86

By Leonard J. Hansen
Copley News Service

What will the new year bring for mature adults in the United States? I have considered the subject and have researched and asked questions of contacts friendly and unfriendly, of people in high places and people in virtually no place at all.

With all of this background data, we take the daring step of predicting what 1986 will be like for older adults. Join me at the crystal ball.

On Social Security—There will be question and debate in Congress again about the level of Social Security payments, combined with new challenges to the cost-of-living adjustment.

Our prediction? Social Security benefit levels will be untouched and politicians on both sides of the political aisle will vote to continue the COLA based on the low inflation rate.

We foresee a renewed challenge, so that Congress can look fiscally responsible, to Social Security payments going to foreign nationals who have returned to their homelands. There also will be a discovery of disability payments going to prisoners hurt in attempted escapes from incarceration.

On Inflation—1985 will come in at about 4 percent, and the rate will not increase by more than one point in 1986.

Medicare Deductibles—Deductibles for hospital and major medical procedures will not be increased in 1986. They have been increased regularly in the past, but this year's election fever will cause Congress to vote down any attempt to increase the Medicare deductible in 1986.

Mandatory Retirement—A major suit, challenging mandatory retirement at any age, will be filed in federal court, as a "violation of civil rights." The suit will cause some consternation in the unions, with mixed pressures on Congress.

Larger Cars—Two more automobile companies will reverse their trend to downsize cars for the Yuppie market, retargeting the mature adult market with th return—for at least one model for each company—to a larger car. Cadillac already made a downsize reversal on one model in 1985.

Television—Based on the success of "Golden Girls," there will be at least two, and as many as four new regular television network programs featuring mature adults.

The new year will also bring back some very popular stars of TV's earlier days, such as Raymond Burr, James Arness, Milton Berle, Loretta Young and Rober Young.

Supermarkets—At least one major food store chain will target mature adults as shoppers by establishing special senior citizen discounts for morning or midday Monday-through-Thursday shopping. The new program will be established to counter the trend where more and more younger wives and mothers have had to return to the work force.

Soda Pop—At least one major soda pop manufacturer will target mature adults with a brand-new campaign for their product, based on the theme: "Remember the good years—(name of brand) was part of it then, we should be part of your good times now."

World Series—At least one player over 40—an age once considered ancient in professional baseball—will hit a game-winning home run in the World Series in 1986.

Politicians—At least one actor, a senior citizen by age, will announce his candidacy for high elected office—a governorship, the U.S. Senate or even the presidency in 1986—and will be considered seriouslsy as a candidate.

Senior Discounts—There will be a lowering of the "senior citizen" qualification age for discounts in many areas of business in 1986. Originally, most discounts were established for age 65—but anticipate a genral reduction in the age to 55, with banks and other financial institutionslowering their age qulaification from age 65 to 62 to 62 and 60.

The Movies—The motion picture industry will examine the frailty of its movies of violence and sex that have been aimed at the youth through Yuppie market and reconize the success of the $985 hit "Cocoon" and the years-ago "On Golden Pond."

At least six new motion picutes will be announced or produced that will target mature adults on sensible themes, in an effort to bring older adults back to the movie theaters.

As an added prediction, two of the films will fail disastrously because the producers wil misinterpret the high intelligence and experience of the senior citizen consumers.

There you have it—12 fearless predictions, one for each month of the year 1986. Each one shows a gain for mature adults in the United States. Perhaps we should all meet again at this same corner next year to compare the predictions with the actual fact as history eventuates in 1986.

Our prediction for 1986 for you, our reader, is one of great satisfaction, happiness, achievement, success and personal recognition. And you can help make that prediction come true.

If you have a question you'd like answered, please write Mainly for Seniors, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190.

Good Ideas from the Past • by Donald J. Berg

Kitchen Hints

From THE NATIONAL FARMER'S & HOUSEKEEPER'S CYCLOPEDIA, 1888

USE OF LEMON LEAVES — Lemon seeds, if planted and treated as house plants, will make pretty little shrubs. The leaves can then be used for flavoring. Tie a few in a cloth and drop in apple sauce when boiling and nearly done. It is a cheap essence.

• • •

UNPLEASANT ODOR FROM CABBAGE — The reason why cabbage emits such a disagreeable smell when boiling is because the process dissolves the essential oil. The water should be changed when the cabbage is half-boiled, and it will thus acquire a greater sweetness.

• • •

TO BEAT EGGS QUICKLY — To beat the whites of eggs quickly put in a pinch of salt. The cooler the eggs the quicker they will froth. Salt cools and also freshens them.

• • • • •

GRIDDLE CAKES — To prevent them from sticking, rub salt over the griddle with a piece of bread before greasing.

Karamozov Group Is Flying High

The Flying Karamozov Brothers, the comic actors known for juggling ideas as well as bowling pins, present an evening of free-wheeling theatrics at Andover's J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 12.

Recently seen in last November's Macy's Thanksgiving Parade, The FKB also appear in the movie Jewel On The Nile, starring Michael Douglas and Kathleen Turner.

But, by no means is juggling the only thing that occurs on stage. The FKB play a variety of instruments, throw things at each other, tell jokes and make puns.

The FKB invite everyone to offer an object weighing more than one ounce and less than ten pounds.

If he fails, he must pay the penalty—a pie in the face!

The San Francisco Bay Area school friends needed a name for their juggling act at Spokane's EXPO '74 and one 'brother' happened to be reading Dostoyevsky's Brothers Karamozov and liked the connection.

He though it helped define the group as an "over-educated act."

The national touring Brothers refer to their craft as "'The Theatre' built around juggling; juggling comedy as a sport, as a metaphor, as music."

The Brothers are Fydodor (Timothy Furst) "the silent one"; Dmitri (Paul David Magid) "animal to friends"; Alyosha (Randy Nelson), the self-proclaimed "token blond"; and Ivan (Howard Jay Patterson) who considers himself a biologist.

Also part of this frenzied troupe are Wow and Flutter, the company's performing cats.

A hit on Broadway in 1984, these gifted clowns may be described as a mix of the Three Stooges, The Marx Brothers and Monty Python.

The New York Times says simply that The Flying Karamozov Brothers are "an evening of airborne lunacy and unbridled laughter!"

Chinese Ballet Tours America

The Central Ballet of China, direct from Beijing on their first American tour, will give four performances at the Wang Center for the Performing Arts, Feb. 27 through March 2.

Performances are scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 27 through Saturday, March 1 at 8 p.m. each evening, and Sunday, March 2 at 3 p.m.

The Boston debut of the Central Ballet of China is being presented by the Wang Center for the Performing Arts and is co-sponsored by WBZ-TV.

In honor of this historic dance event and other events planned in celebration of the Chinese New Year, Governor Michael Dukakis has proclaimed February to be "Chinese Culture Month" in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Each program includes a mix of traditional Western classics such as Swan Lake and Giselle as well as Chinese ballets reflecting that country's uniquely fascinating heritage and folklore.

Excerpts from The New Year Sacrifice, based on a novel by Zu Xun depicting the tragic lives of Chinese women in the past, and The Maid of the Sea, based on a Chinese folk tale in which love triumphs over evil, will be performed.

Since its inception in 1959, the Central Ballet of China, the national ballet company of the People's Republic of China, has been dedicated to building an extensive classical repertoire and to seeking out talented young dancers.

The company of 72 frequently performs in Beijing and other major cities in China, but rarely tours to other countries.

Mr. Li Chengxiang has served as Artistic Director and one of the Company's choreographers since 1980 when the Central Ballet of China was granted its official title.

Tickets for the Central Ballet of China go on sale on Monday, Feb. 10 at the Wang Center for the Performing Arts box office, 270 Tremont St., Boston, MA 02116; for further information, call 482-9393.

Sweets For The Sweethearts

Why not!

Step aboard a red doubledecker bus, listen to the haunting strains of a violin, and tour the romantic side of Boston.

This Mystery Dessert Tour is a special Valentine's feature dished up by Discovering Boston Walking Tours, a weekly adventure designed and conducted by Will Holton, associate professor of urban sociology at Northeastern University.

"It's my hobby," says Holton of the walking tour business, now in its third season.

The doubledecker bus will roll the streets of Boston, stopping at several hotels to pick up Valentine voyagers.

Tour topics focus on the romantic, and include the Gardner Museum.

"She was very wealthy, smoked cigars when women weren't even smoking cigarettes, and walked panthers while other ladies were walkiing poodles."

Gardner and her husband hosted many fine parties, says Holton, to which young artists and musicians were invited.

The hostess was known to disappear for lengthy intervals — yes, romantic interludes, with selected gentlemen guests.

In addition to the spectaular side of romance, as offered by Gardner, the upcoming Mystery Dessert Tour highlights traditions of courting in early Boston, such as moonlit walks on the Common and strolls through stately Back Bay.

And then there is the mystery dessert.

Holton promises a stop for a "Best in Boston" dessert, but will not reveal which Hub restaurant will host these tasty treats.

The Mystery Dessert Tour is Saturday, Feb. 15 from 8 to 10:30 p.m. The fee is $25 per couple and reservations are required. Call 484-6805.

UPDATING THE MARKET

You may have heard of the nearly unbelievable increase in property values recently. Prices of most homes west of Boston actually increased about 2¢ per MONTH during the last year!

Professional appraisers all agree, however (and Realtors substantiate this) that this record-breaking inflation of house prices has slowed down since the start of this past June.

Presently, property values are staying relatively even. What does this mean to you? If a house like yours sold for $180,000, yours is not likely to sell for more -- at this time.

Keep in mind, however, that real estate trends change rapidly! We make it our business to keep abreast of all changes that affect your property value, from inflation factor to mortgage rate, to the number of homes presently for sale that might compete with yours. Even if you've had a market analysis recently, ask us for an update.

Louise Ruma-Ivers is the immediate past President of the Greater Boston Women's Council of Realtors, and a past Director of the Marketing Institute for the Greater Boston Real Estate Board. She is a member of the Arlington Historic Districts Committee.

Dot Stein is a Vice President of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board and a Director of its Multiple Listing Service. She was a long-time Arlington Town Meeting member, and a member of the Arlington School Committee.

Units take their names in honor of actual Civil War regiments and members shoot original or reproduction weapons of the 1861-65 period. The 10th Battery competes with 58 calrifled muskets, caplock breechloading carbines, and an 1,800 lb. full size 3-inch rifled muzzleloading cannon. Yes, there's some paper punching too for those interested, but the real excitement is in the rapid fire team events where you shoot at flower pots, hanging water-filled coffee cups, ceramic tiles and 32 clay pigeons on a 4x8 cardboard backer at 50 yds. We welcome all shooters regardless of experience. Our team members live all over — from Maine to Rhode Island to New York — but more are from eastern Massachusetts. Audi 5000S Sedan

If you do your own repair work, do the job right with genuine Audi replacement parts. First of all, they fit, so if you take your Audi apart Saturday morning, you know the parts you bought will get you back on the road without another trip. Second, every part has a 6-month/6,000-mile limited warranty. At Audi, we care as much about your car as you do.

Open Space Sought For Recreation Plan

By GEORGE DERRINGER

The Winchester Conservation Commission wants to acquire land all over town.

An updated open space and recreation plan, including a five-year action plan, calls for town acquisition of lots and parcels of land throughout Winchester, said Maggie Howard, chairman of the conservation commission.

Exact locations of the lots and parcels will not be announced until a public hearing scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 25, at the public library.

"If we announced the locations in advance, nobody would come to the hearing," she said. All interested citizens are invited, she said.

Howard said an open space and recreation plan is required by law to make Winchester eligible for state aid "to protect our open space and acquire new land for conservation and recreation."

A special invitation to the Feb. 25 hearing has been sent to all Town Meeting members, selectmen, planning board members and the finance committee.

In an "executive summary" of the plan, the commission says less than 1 percent of Winchester's land area is conservation land.

"This would not be a problem if the privately owned open land was left in its natural state. But several hundred acres have been developed since the last plot of land was set aside for the use of the public," the document says.

The commission also notes that some of the land proposed in 1977 for acquisition has been developed for housing. It cites Sachem Woods and The Village as examples.

Arguing that land purchased by the town is a good investment, the commission says "state grant programs and favorable tax treatment can reduce the cost." The commission says selling long-term bonds will "share a part of the cost with the next generation."

Goals of the plan are to obtain selected lands for open space and recreation, complete the trails along the Aberjona and Horn Pond Brook, improve ponds, brooks and rivers, and improve implementation of the Wetlands Protection Act.

Land Actions Proposed

Five "land actions" are proposed. The first is to acquire privately owned lands "which, if lost, would reduce the environmental quality of the town."

Another land action is to acquire a conservation easement or restriction on private land, "generally to achieve better access to town land or to complete paths along the Aberjona and Horn Pond Brook."

The third land action proposed is to designate town-owned land as "permanently open land." This designation would be applied to town-owned land whose present status might allow it to be sold to developers. Closed schools and their lands are cited as examples.

A fourth action is to improve some town lands to make them either more accessible or to remove an eyesore. "An example of the first would be to provide a footpath along the west bank of the Aberjona River between Wedgemere and Winchester stations. An example of the second would be to clean up the DPW yard as viewed from the Horn Pond Brook bicycle path."

Fifth, "all farm land should be placed in a 'watched category,'" the commission says. As long as such land is farmed, nothing would be done but if farm land is sold, it should be sold to the town, the open space plan says.

Five-Year Plan

As part of the five-year plan, the conservation commission hopes to get the financial support of the town meeting and hire a consultant to provide legal descriptions of the land to be acquired or restricted.

The commission also wants to hire a professional conservation administrator to ensure that the Wetlands Act is fully observed. The administrator would apply for funds to acquire land and take environmental protection measures.

Town-owned lands should be put in a status to guarantee they remain open, and town departments must be encouraged to clean up town-owned land, also as part of the five-year plan, the draft summary says.

Finally, the commission would hire a consultant to develop an improved wetlands map and prepare a town Wetlands By-law to give "stronger and more appropriate protection" than state regulations.

The draft summary of the open space and recreation plan concludes, "Winchester is in danger of killing the goose that laid the golden egg. The success of the town and of its citizens has made it an ever more desirable place to live. This has resulted in a loss of open space, a loss of recreational amenities and environmental degradation.

"The town now must take charge of its remaining natural resources. The cost is small and the benefits are great."

Summaries of the plan will be placed in the library and at the town engineer's office at the town hall, the commission said.

Budget:

Energy Costs Are Biggest Unknown

Energy costs for the new public safety building are the greatest unknown in the fiscal 1987 Winchester budget. Estimates vary widely, Town Manager Chad Maurer told selectmen last week.

"The architect supplied a very high estimate," Maurer said. "For one thing, he assumed that every single electrical appliance in the building would be running 24 hours a day 365 days a year. His estimate was therefore more than all other town buildings combined."

Maurer said energy cost estimates in the 1987 budget for all other buildings reflect average energy use in the past four years. In fact, he said, a surplus could result at the end of the year because fuel oil was estimated at $1 per gallon.

Selectman Mike Saraco was skeptical. "At town meeting, a big argument for the building project was that we'd save money on fuel. How can we budget $20,000 for fuel, compared to $13,000 in 1985?" he said.

Maurer admitted no one could say what energy costs would be in the new building. He said the budget assumes using oil. "If we can use gas all the time, the costs should drop about $2,000, he said."

Both the fire chief and police chief complained, however, that closed fire station doors are several inches away from meeting the ground.

Police Expenses At $1.74 Million

By GEORGE DERRINGER

Winchester selectmen questioned Police Chief Jack McHugh's $1.74 million budget request carefully during a fiscal 1987 budget hearing Wednesday.

Selectman Wade Welch urged the chief to be ready to defend his budget, up 3.5 percent from last year, especially expenses for overtime, sick time and vacation pay.

"I don't want you to be embarrassed when you go down there (to the Finance Committee)," Welch told McHugh.

Welch questioned the overtime budget, and determined that the police department now has a full complement of 43 officers, compared to 39 or 40 for the past two years.

"A couple of years ago, you told us that being dislocated into a trailer and being understaffed were the reasons for the department using so much overtime money," Welch said. He noted a reduction of $10,000 in the overtime budget but asked if a bigger reduction weren't justified.

Town Manager Chad Maurer pointed out that the overtime line-item actually included sick and vacation pay. "We cover 60 percent of lost-time shifts (when an officer is sick or on vacation)," he said.

Maurer said he reduced the overtime budget from that requested by Chief McHugh.

Fire Prevention Officer Sought

By GEORGE DERRINGER

Winchester fire chief Robert McElhinney thinks the town needs a full-time fire prevention officer. But Town Manager Chad Maurer isn't so sure.

"We have a respectful disagreement," Maurer told Selectmen Feb. 5 during a fiscal 1987 budget hearing. The proposed $1.58 million budget is up 1.1 percent from the previous year.

Maurer said he wanted to hold the line in the budget. Hiring a full-time fire prevention officer would require a change in the town's collective bargaining agreement and would require the addition of a new fireman's position in the budget.

"I'd rather bargain first," Maurer said, to allow the officer to work a straight five-day, 40-hour week. Other firemen work a rotating schedule of 10-hour days, 14-hour nights and four consecutive days off.

With the exception of the new position, Maurer recommended the fire department budget exactly as submitted by the fire chief.

Town Ambulance Charges May Go Up

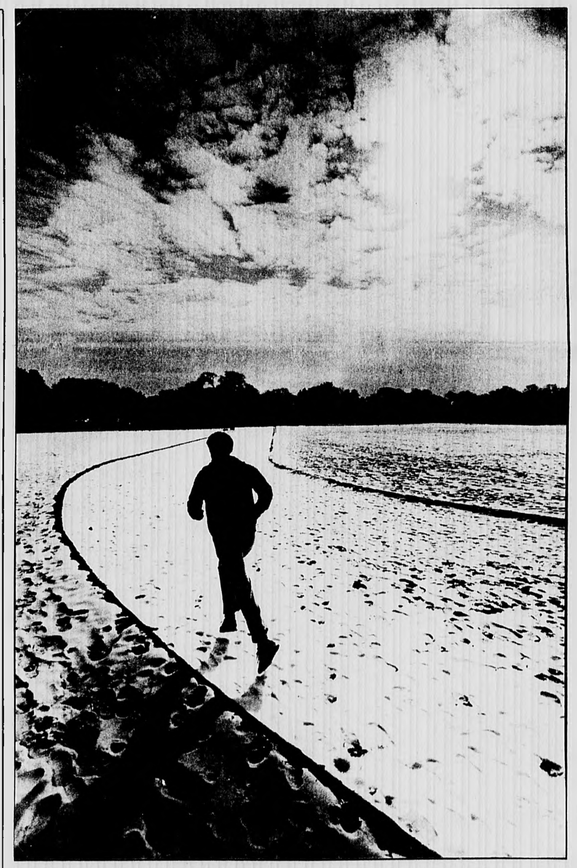

Winchester ambulance charges may go up soon.

During a budget hearing last week, Selectman Wade Welch asked Fire Chief Robert McElhinney if the ambulance charged the maximum rate paid by insurance companies.

"No, and the rates we charge don't reflect our costs," the chief said. Rates are $65 in-town and $80 out-of-town.

"We should bring our charges in line with insurance reimbursement," Welch said. "We can always abate the charges for those who have no insurance."

Selectmen agreed to reconsider the question at an upcoming meeting.

5 'Affordable' Housing Sites Up For Vote

Five town-owned sites in Winchester will be proposed for "affordable housing" units.

The Winchester Housing Authority presented the list to town selectmen Feb. 3 and asked for their support. A single two-family house would be constructed on each site.

— an 11,000-square foot parcel at High and Cambridge streets.

— the corner of Ridge and Lockeland streets, also 11,000 square feet.

— a site on Palmer st., presently owned by the Housing Authority. The lot must be subdivided and rezoned for two-family housing.

— and one of the following three sites, each 11,000 square feet: Woburn Loop in its entirety, a site at Canal and Hemingway streets, or acquisition of 10 Canal st.

Two other properties proposed for housing construction are owned by the Metropolitan District Commission and require legislative action. Housing Authority members said they will pursue such action.

Those sites are the former Girl Scout Camp and a parcel at the intersection of Fenwick road and Bacon st. Each site is 11,000 square feet.

The list will be brought to the spring town meeting for approval. The Housing Authority is required to provide sites for "affordable housing" in Winchester.

Winchester Center Tries For $2.42M For More Beauty

Winchester officials have submitted an application to the state for a $2.42 million grant to make further beautification improvements to Winchester Center.

Installation of brick sidewalks, new street lamps and associated street and curbing projects would total $1,026,000, according to the grant application.

Park improvements on the common, at the Mill Pond and at Elliot Park would cost an estimated $922,000. The projects would install brick sidewalks, new lamps and uniform benches.

A third group of assorted projects, including bridge work and the police box on Main st., would cost $295,000. Miscellaneous costs total $177,000.

"We've sent in the application and if the state funds it all, that's great," said Town Manager Chad Maurer. "If they fund only part of it, then we have decide which portions to do and which not to do."

Maurer said State Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh had been instrumental in approval of the original Center improvements and has supported the new phase.

"Rep. Saltmarsh has made helping his district a priority," Maurer said.

A major portion of the street and sidewalk project would extend the new brick-sidewalk motif to Lake street from its current end at Elmwood. Costs would total $430,000.

Waterfield road improvements would total $245,000

Laraway road improvements would cost $100,000.

Winchester place projects would cost $56,000

Church and Vine st. projects total $105,000.

Shore road improvements would cost $40,000

Park st. improvements between Main and Elmwood would cost $50,000.

Precinct One will elect eight members for one-year terms. Seven incumbents seeking re-election include Robert A. Cammon, George W. Glasheen, Virginia A. Hoefling, Mark A. Lombardi, Douglas A. Marmon, Francine J. McClintock and Mary E. Myette. Incumbent Charyl A. Banks will not seek re-election.

Challengers in the First Precinct for the remaining position are John L. Henriques of 9 Orient st. and Jane M. McCarthy of 26 Lebanon st. Another would-be candidate, Brian W. McCarthy, also took out papers but did not file them with the registrar by Tuesday afternoon, the deadline.

Precinct Two will also choose eight members but all eight incumbents are seeking re-election. One potential challenger, Amy Wanger, took out papers for the race but did not return them to the registrar.

Incumbents in the Second Precinct are Grace H. Ashton, Catherine M. Doherty, Lawrence A. Hutchings, Virginia A. Hutchings, Mary G. Pronski, John F. Rallo, John A. Riccio and Mary E. Walsh.

Precinct Three will elect nine members of town meeting due to the resignation of one member during the year. Only nine candidates will appear on the ballot, however, because another incumbent, Jean A. Williams, did not file for re-election.

Fourth Precinct incumbents are Nancy C. Clarke, Charles W. Craven, John M. Dacey, Doris M. Emmons, Leslie S. French, John F. Looney Jr., Michael R. Ronayne Jr. and Bradley C. Ross.

Precinct Five will have seven incumbents and two challengers seeking eight places in town meeting. Incumbent Joyce Cummings did not file for re-election.

Challengers Mark S. Halperin of 92 Church st. and Bryon B. Pickering of 15 Mayflower rd. will face incumbents Roger A. Bauman, Marion G. Crandall, Lois J. Dallow, William J. Kennedy, Carol F. Mullin, Barbara B. O'Connell and Barbara B. Pacetti in the March 25 election.

Precinct Six will elect nine members due to another vacancy and the ballot will contain nine names.

Precinct Seven will also have an equal number of seats and names on the ballot. Seven incumbents, including Robert R. Bairnsfather, Robert D. Beattie, Vincent T. Berger, Ellen B. Browning, Gordon W. Grant, Ernest A. Phillips Jr. and Gerard J. Polcari, are seeking re-election.

Also seeking to join the town meeting members from the Seventh Precinct is John T. Twomey of 53 Salisbury st.

Precinct Eight has only four candidates seeking nine places. They include incumbents Edward F. Brown of 36 Hemingway st., Harry A. Lindmark III of 227 Court st., and Margaret P. Schleicher of 27 Lochwan st., plus non-incumbent Wayne E. McNeill of 65 Sheridan dr.

Five incumbents did not file for re-election. They include John C. Diffy, Eric E. Ewald, Pauline M. Ferone, John A. Morin and Robert W. Stevenson.

Women Voters Seeking Support Of Community

Winchester will have several races for town office this year and the town's League of Women Voters thinks it may have made at least some contribution to the slate of candidates.

"One of the goals of the League is to promote citizen involvement," said Gail B. O'Reilly. "That's why we showed a program on cable TV six times, explaining the offices, telling people how to take out papers, collect signatures and do all the other things to become involved."

She said League members "think the program helped."

The League and its 130 Winchester members are currently conducting a fund-raising drive that will help support some programs. The majority of funding, however, is raised directly from members.

The next major public program of the League will be a Meet the Candidates gathering at 2 p.m. Sunday, March 16, at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Other recent programs included preparation of a new edition of "Inside Winchester," a town guidebook, studies of the Woburn Loop and the town's aging sewer system, a forum with members of three nearby Leagues to discuss local aid and the effects of Proposition 2½, and twice-annual research of town meeting articles.

Despite its name, the League of Women Voters encourages men to join. Winchester's group has two male members, President O'Reilly said.

Contributions may be sent to the Winchester League of Women Voters, c/o Chadwick Martin Bailey, 186 South st, Boston 02111.

Officials Bide Time On Lawsuit Decision

Winchester officials have not decided whether to seek damages for delays in completion of construction at the Public Safety Building on Mt. Vernon st.

Officials will wait until the building is completed and both the fire and police departments settled in the facility, Town Manager Chad Maurer said last week.

"We'll wait until then before deciding whether to take any action," Maurer said.

Completion of the project was originally scheduled in July but the fire department did not move back to the building until January and the police department headquarters were still at the Lynch School last week.

Share Expertise Among Teachers, Suggests Report

By ERIC BLOM

Winchester teachers should better coordinate their efforts, using each discipline to support the others, says an administrative report released at Tuesday's School Committee meeting.

The report, designed as a response to an evaluation of Winchester's reading program, says better coordination within the reading program itself will fill "gaps" evaluators found in the system.

A key element of the report calls for a move from "a narrowly defined 'reading specialist' role to a more broadly defined concept of 'instructional specialist.' " Instructional specialists will work to improve student skills across subject areas.

Winchester is trying the program on a pilot basis this year with one teacher serving as an instructional specialist at the McCall Junior High School.

Superintendent Charles L. Mitsakos will report his findings about the position this spring.

School Committee Chairman Edwin F. O'Connell, who voted for the test program, says he worries about a full-scale move in the direction of instructional specialists.

"I can't help but feel this is an area of sensitivity," O'Connell says. "We seem to now have two specialists where before we had one."

He asked if anyone was opposed to the proposal which, according to the report, is to be gradually phased into the system.

"I think some reading specialists probably oppose it," Mitsakos says.

"I think they fear it," says Frances M. Russell, director of English and reading for Winchester schools. "I'd like to see reading specialists move from just a remedial role to a developmental one as well."

"The idea that there is someone who can work with parents and students across instructional areas seems to be, at least in the preliminary stages, working well," says Mitsakos of the test program.

"It really doesn't help a kid if he knows what a gerund is, if he can't then write a social studies paper or do some of the other things that also have to be done," says School Committeeman William Jervey.

O'Connell also was concerned about staff input to the report. It was signed by Mitsakos, Russell, Vinson-Owen Principal Suzanne McGee and Assistant Superintendent David B. Ackerman.

"To what extent does this represent consensus" within the schools, O'Connell asks. "I hope we don't get something and like a sponge just accept it."

"There was a give and take" from school staff, says Mitsakos, and those named in the report received and interpreted information from staff.

Several School Committee members also say they are concerned that teacher flexibility and innovation may be lost in a program designed to coordinate the system's reading program.

"Flexibility need not be discouraged, nor would it be," says McGee. "What we'd like to do is take from all of those styles, and I guess the word is organize it on a system-wide basis."

Educators also say they expect the plan to help track individual students' progress more closely and purchase books that will complement each other throughout a students years in Winchester schools.

Budget Request

In other school news, the School Committee formally sent next year's budget proposal to the Town Manager.

It asks for $11,124,655 to operate town schools and another $270,000 for athletics.

A motion to add $20,000 to the unallocated line of the budget was defeated 3-2. School Committee members Michael Ronayne and Stephen Powers spoke in favor of the amendment.

Ambrose Proposal

The Ambrose School Improvement Council received a tepid welcome for a planned consultant series at the school, designed to help meet student emotional needs.

Under the proposal, two Cambridge-based consultants will visit Ambrose to conduct four, six-hour sessions at the school. They are to teach parents, staff and students how to deal with pressure to succeed in a "high achieving school."

"It's teaching students and parents and staff the skills they need to interact with each other," says Susan Lippman, an Ambrose parent.

The council asked the School Committee to approve the project which will use $1,100 of the more than $2,000 given Ambrose under last year's education reform law. Under the statute, School Committees may either veto or pass school improvement councils' proposals, but they may not try to influence improvement councils' decisions.

"George, I've got some difficulty with this proposal," O'Connell told Ambrose Principal George Flynn. "I have read it twice and still didn't understand it. Several times I ran right into a brick wall of jargon. I'm not prepared to sign off on this, this evening."

REAL ESTATE TAX SHELTER

The largest investment most people make in their lives is the purchase of a home. If that home is sold, the profit realized could be the largest return on investment experienced in a lifetime. Even if you or your spouse is not yet 55 years old — when you are eligible for the one-time $125,000 tax exclusion on sale of your residence — you can defer all federal income taxes on the sale of your home.

When your principal residence is sold, tax on any profit you make on that sale can be deferred, i.e. not paid presently, if you invest, within a two year period, at least as much money as you received from the sale of your old home in a new home. This may be done over and over again. There is no one-time use limitation on this tax savings device as there is with the $125,000 exclusion for persons over 55 years old.

Once you or your spouse is 55 years old, and you wish to sell your home, you can still use the $125,000 exclusion, completely avoiding part or all taxes on your previous home investment gains!

Town Rejects Artist: No Wedgemere Mural

A plan to paint a mural on the walls of the Wedgemere train station in Winchester was greeted with extreme skepticism by selectmen Monday night.

Carol Davidson, chairman of the Arts Lottery Council, asked selectmen for permission to allow artist J.C. Lynch to paint a life-size mural of commuters along the stairway and the wall at Wedgemere station.

Lynch offered to do the work "below market rate," said Alan Macdonald, chairman of the selectmen.

"Why Wedgemere and not Winchester station?" Selectman Mike Saraco asked.

"All I can visualize is inviting our local nighttime artists 'improving' on the art once it's there," Saraco said. He said the mural may actually harm Winchester's image with other commuters if they look out the window at Wedgemere and see graffiti.

Selectman Mark A. Lombardi read a portion of Lynch's letter aloud.

"She says she enjoys graffiti and does not oppose people adding to her piece," Lombardi read. "Well, I don't enjoy graffiti."

The artist's letter also said she regards the existing Wedgemere graffiti as "very mild."

"You know why?" Lombardi asked. "Because by the time she gets up Frank Sopper, his son and a town employee have eliminated and cleaned up the graffiti."

Macdonald said the letter referred to an acrylic sealer that would make it easy to remove marking pen graffiti from the mural.

"But it probably doesn't work on oil paint, so that's what the graffiti artists would use," he said.

Kraus Tells Selectmen Local Aid OK

State Sen. Richard Kraus visited Winchester selectmen Monday to tell them their town is not really doing so badly in local aid funds from the Commonwealth.

"Winchester's increase in local aid from the state is 77 percent for fiscal 1987," Kraus said. "The state average is 59 percent."

The senator said many people are currently focusing on "one element of 20" in the local aid funds — the special funds to ease the burden on municipalities caused by the discontinuation of federal revenue sharing. Winchester got about $200,000 in revenue sharing.

In that one area, Kraus admitted, Winchester will get money totaling only 10 percent of lost funds. "But the bottom line is that Winchester will get 77 percent more local aid (from the state)."

Kraus said the legislature's local aid commission had heard from many towns (as opposed to cities) about unfair formulas.

"Even though the legislative leadership is from places like Boston, Lynn, Lawrence and Chelsea, we have gotten good results," Kraus said.

Increases overall this year will average 59 percent statewide but only 53 percent in cities and "right around" 77 percent to towns like Winchester. "That's in the face of a city-oriented administration," Kraus said.

Kraus said the legislature must tackle other problems in the next year.

"The percentage of their income that people must pay to support local government varies widely in the state," Kraus said. "Winchester, Arlington and Belmont are all among the highest."

Questioned further about the low percentage of federal revenue sharing money the state intends to replace for Winchester, Kraus repeated his assertions.

"Nineteen of the 20 considerations in the local aid formula were shaped to substantially increase local aid to towns," he said.

"And that was does in conjunction with the federal revenue sharing portion. If you focus on the bottom line, Winchester gets an above-average increase in local aid," he said.

Arlington's overall increase in local aid was only 44 percent, Kraus said.

"So even though Arlington gets more money, you're narrowing the gap," Selectman Alan Macdonald said.

"Right, and it didn't used to be that way," said the senator, who later said some proposals would have decreased local aid to Winchester.

Town Manager Chad Maurer said the town did not count on any local aid. "The $183,000 we're apparently going to get puts us that further ahead," Maurer said.

Kraus said a community's "reserve taxing capacity" is not considered in the local aid formula. "You may have heard on television that it is, but you were given bad information," Kraus said.

Music, Race Win Approval

Maximilian's Cafe will soon have live music, thanks to Winchester selectmen.

Approval for live music came after a brief meeting Monday night with Lou Manzone, operator of the restaurant.

The restaurant opened in November. Manzone told selectmen he plans to have the market and take-out section open around the end of March.

"We want to have live music, maybe three or four classical musicians, during our brunch from noon to 3 p.m. Sundays," Manzone said. He also said the restaurant might have "easy listening or a three-piece jazz combo" from 9 p.m. to midnight weekends.

Selectmen unanimously granted approval for live music, provided there are no "electrical instruments."

"That's the same restriction we put on Lucia's (Ristorante Lucia)," Selectman Mark Lombardi said.

Selectmen also granted unanimous approval for Maximilian's to both remain open and serve liquor until midnight on weeknights, extending the closing time by one hour. They expressed concern about late take-out hours but Manzone said take-out service would probably not extend past 9 p.m.

Bob Beattie also attended the selectmen's meeting to discuss the work of the town's commission on trust funds.

Beattie explained the investments the three-member commission made during the year. Most investments were in treasury bonds, telephone and utility bonds, Beattie said. "We've bailed out of energy and New York banks entirely," he said.

The trust funds should yield about $105,000 on June 30, selectmen were told. About $73,000 would go to cemeteries ($70,000 of it for permanent care), about $15,000 to the library, another $2,700 to schools and the balance to general funds and the conservation commission.

Beattie said a "somewhat fuzzier" projection for June 30, 1987, would increase the total yield to $118,000 with $81,000 for cemeteries ($78,000 to permanent care), $17,000 for the library and $3,000 for schools

"The new investment policy is designed to stabilize income," Beattie said.

In the recent past, income has fluctuated from $85,000 annually down to nearly $40,000.

Selectmen said they appreciated the report, the first in several years to a meeting of selectmen.

Permission was also granted to Allan Eyden and Ralph Bonnell of Bonnell Motors to conduct the annual road race, scheduled this year for Sunday, April 25. About 500 runners participate.

"It's hard to argue when you get a letter saying that the race will be led by a vehicle donated to the town by Bonnell Motors," Selectman Mark Lombardi said.

Selectmen also voted unanimously to accept the intent to lay out town ways for Red Coach Lane, Surrey road, Wainwright road to the intersection of Red Coach and the Wagon Wheel cul-de-sac.

Finally, selectmen agreed not to meet Monday night, Feb. 17, President's Day.

SELECTMEN'S NOTES

Local Mini-Bus 'Dead As A Dodo'

The bus isn't coming this year.

Two selectmen, Wade Welch and Mark Lombardi, made sure Monday night when recreation director Ken Cereghino approached the board to suggest revival of the bus service.

"I will support no new programs that cost money," Welch declared.

Saying he is not necessarily against all new programs, Lombardi said past experience had proven the mini-bus a "babysitting service" for young people.

Cereghino said the MBTA would provide 65 percent of the net cost of a revived three-vehicle mini-bus system with the town providing about $60,000 per year. Lombardi was skeptical.

"The state isn't going to carry it forever and Winchester killed it last time when the MBTA pulled out," Lombardi said. "Besides, anyone who lives any distance from the center has two or three Mercedes. They'll make it."

"When you get old, you start to get forgotten," he said. "For $60,000, well, there a lot of areas we spend tax money on. We could change some things around."

Saraco said he had suggested making runs to the Burlington Mall when the former bus service existed.

"The Chamber (of Commerce) came out against me. I was going to ruin Winchester," Saraco said.

Asked his opinion, Cereghino said the former service was "positive and well-utilized in comparison to others." However, he said, the MBTA will consider applications by March 1 only if they are accompanied by evidence of strong support from town officials and community members.

"Without strong support, it's not a good idea to pursue it (an application)," the recreation director said.

Saraco promised to "try to get a feel for what the people want" and suggested waiting a year to apply.

Lombardi and Welch renewed their comments. "I'm not against a bus to the malls," Lombardi said. "But I used to monitor the bus and it was mostly young people on the mini-bus. This bus was for young people to come down off the hill, mess around a while, and go home."

Lombardi said nobody ever called him to complain about the lack of bus service. "I'd be willing to subsidize a senior citizen bus but it's ridiculous to haul kids around town."

Welch said he was the first selectman to support the mini-bus in 1979. He cut the ribbon to inaugurate service. "But I came to wisdom late. It turned out to be a program for kids, running them around town.

"The mini-bus is as dead as a dodo bird," Welch said, ending the discussion.

21 Signs To Go Up

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

Twenty-one new signs will be installed around town to make it easier for people to find Winchester Hospital.

The Board of Selectmen recently approved the hospital's request to erect $400 in signs.

Charles Briawa, director of Engineering Services at Winchester Hospital, said in the last couple of years they have planned to improve the signs.

On order are 17 hospital "H" signs, three saying "Winchester Hospital," and one saying "Hospital Ahead," said Briawa.

The "Winchester Hospital" signs will be installed on Medford, Arlington and Woburn town lines.

"The signs in town are very difficult to see," Briawa said.

Signs posted now are white background with blue letters. The new signs will be the standard blue background and white colored "H."

Winchester is "endorsing the federal standard" by changing to the standard color contrasts along with other cities and towns in the Commonwealth, he said.

CLOSING COSTS

When deciding how much money you'll need to buy a new home, you should consider all of the funds you'll need to bring to the settlement table. You've probably already figured out how much of a down payment you'll need, but don't forget about your closing costs.

Closing costs can vary, depending upon the costs of your financing and the time of the month when you settle. Your Realtor or the loan officer handling your mortgage application will be able to give you an estimate. It should include the points on your loan, private mortgage insurance (if your lender requires it), the title search, title insurance, attorneys' fees, and any transfer taxes or recording fees that your local government may charge. You will also have to prepay your first month's mortgage and, in some cases, property taxes,, homeowners' association fees and hazard insurance. As a general rule, the closer to the end of the month you settle, the less cash you will need to bring to the settlement table. Because closing costs can add up to a significant amount of money, it's important to include them in your calculations.

If you have any questions about closing costs or any other aspect of buying or selling property, please call the professionals at Bixby & Porter Co., Realtors. Our number is 729-7000, or you may drop by our office at 33 Thompson St.

Crowd Hears Chad Maurer

By ERIC BLOM

An overflow crowd of more than 70 business leaders listened to Winchester Town Manager W. Chadwick call Winchester the town's biggest business.

When you look at the town of Winchester, it is probably the biggest business in Winchester," Maurer told a kickoff Chamber of Commerce luncheon Feb. 5.

"We are a public service business, and the service we provide is a direct reflection of the needs and desires of the community."

"We are in the job of having to continue to provide public services, and those demands are increasing daily," he said. "We are faced with conflicting desires. We have to weigh those and shuffle those back and forth, and ultimately, present our decision to Town Meeting.

"We are demanded to offer more and more services with less and less money."

Maurer said the downtown revitalization project could not have been accomplished without business and government cooperation.

However, Maurer said 90 percent of town taxes are collected from residences, and local homeowners are the town's first priority.

"The town has to look carefully at businesses when they come to us with a proposal," he said. "We don't want to be faced with problems neighboring communities have of being overbuilt, overdeveloped."

When asked, Maurer said resurfacing of downtown streets — the unfinished component of the revitalization project — will continue in the spring.

One local resident, Clarence Borggaard, said parking in the downtown area is a problem. He suggested converting the Wadleigh Lot across from Town Hall into a parking area.

"I think the parking situation is getting to the gridlock stage in our town," he said.

"This somehow is holy land," he said of the Wadleigh Lot. "For a lousy $40,000-$50,000 we could do a couple of curb cuts, lay down some blacktop and plant some grass around the outside."

"I think probably the biggest problem facing the development of the downtown area is parking," said Maurer. He said the town was not looking at the Wadleigh Lot for parking because Town Meeting designated it conservation land.

On another subject, Maurer said Town Hall architecure — both inside and out — is being studied.

"The interior of the building is being studied so that it will serve us for many years in the future," Maurer said.

Borggaard asked about a minibus which had once served town senior citizens. It was eliminated when Proposition 2½ cutbacks hit Winchester.

Maurer said the bus served a useful purpose, but its reinstatement may not now be practical.

"The concern that I would have is, when you hear about all the federal cutbacks in the budget, will the federal funding continue to be there," Maurer said.

"Representing the senior citizens, we bus the little children who have healthy little legs," Borggaard said. "Why can't we do something for our elderly?

"It's the elderly people who are paying the taxes, not the children, with all due respects to the children," he said. "They [the elderly] built this town, not the children. They can run to school."

After the meeting, Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Kathy Alexander called the event a big success.

"Many people had not even met the Town Manager, and there are many decisions made in Town Hall that affect the business community," she said.

"I think it is an opportunity to establish contacts," Alexander said. "There is a significant amount of information being transfered to further their interest."

The next Chamber of Commerce gathering, sometime in April, will be a Dover Grille breakfast, featuring District Attorney Scott Harshbarger.

McCall Wins Candidacy For Association Approval

McCall Junior High School in Winchester has been accepted as a candidate for accreditation by the Commission on Public Schools of the New England Association of Schools and Colleges.

The school's candidacy indicates it is "progressing steadily and properly toward accreditation," said a spokesman for the New England Association.

McCall Junior High must conduct a three-phase process to become eligible for full accreditation. First is a self-study by staff members and the community of the school's total program.

An inspection by an Association committee will follow to see if the school meets the commission's standards. Finally, the school must devise a plan to carry out the recommendations of the self-study and the visiting committee.

The New England Association is the official body which grants accreditation to public junior and senior high schools in New England.

175 Washington Street, Winchester, MA
It is with sincere regret that after many years of enjoyable practice in this area, I must now stop taking any more new Obstetrical patients. This has become necessary because of the intolerable malpractice atmosphere. I find it economically impossible to continue to pay such exorbitantly high premiums and accept fees that are among the lowest in the nation.
This decision will take effect on March 0th. Any and all patients already registered on or prior to that date will be cared for throughout the remainder of the current pregnancy. Emergencies, of course, will be treated as they occur. My practice in Gynecology will continue unchanged.
This decision will continue in effect until Gov. Dukakis and the Legislature show evidence of good faith in a sincere effort to accomplish tort reform not just for the medical profession but for all the professions, industries, and private citizens who are affected by rapidly escalating premiums and irresponsible suits.

Winchester Hospital:

Eugene Loubier Historically Leads System Changes

Stories by George Derringer

Eugene Loubier, Winchester Hospital's president.

While at Greenfield, Loubier led his hospital to implement the nation's first venture into a new system for delivering health care services.

It's a time of change for hospitals and the entire health care industry. Winchester Hospital President Eugene Loubier is right in the forefront.

"If the medical care system is to maintain both quality and accessibility, it will be through doctors and hospitals getting together," says Loubier, who became Winchester's president last summer after 10 years at Franklin Medical Center in Greenfield.

"Physicians must be part of the hospital's decision-making process. And the hospital needs physician input as well," Loubier says.

"Hospitals have never really understood the doctors' business problems, what motivates and impacts the doctors. And the reverse is also true. So hospitals and doctors need to get together at the business table, as well as the clinical table," he says.

A 52-year-old Maine native, Loubier came to Winchester after 23 years at hospitals in Portland, Waterville and Rumford, Maine, and in Greenfield.

While at Greenfield, Loubier led his hospital to implement the nation's first venture into a new system for delivering health care services. The plan is called MeSH, an acronym for Medical Staff/Hospital.

"The MeSH concept was invented by Dr Paul Ellwood, who also was the architect of HMOs (Health Maintenance Organizations), PPOs (Preferred Provider Organizations) and IPAs (Independent Practice Associations)," Loubier said.

What's new about the MeSH concept? It includes the hospital.

"All the other delivery plans involved doctors but the fact is that doctors and hospitals are the two major providers of health care in America," Loubier said.

"It makes no sense to separate the two — especially in community hospitals."

Greenfield's MeSH system ensures that doctors and hospitals do not directly compete with each other. Should a doctor wish to open a birthing center, for example, he or she would have to offer the MeSH organization the idea first. Likewise, a hospital would have to offer an offsite diagnostic center plan to the MeSH organization first.

Winchester may eventually have another MeSH, although hundreds of others have been started since Greenfield's.

"We're in the second inning now," Loubier says. "Our plans are more than started but hardly completed."

Smaller hospitals are not going to disappear, Loubier says. "Eighty percent of the hospitals in America have fewer than 200 beds. They provide basic medicine and allow you to practice medicine at the appropriate level," Loubier says. Winchester Hospital has 223 beds.

Winchester's chief executive officer worked in the insurance and credit industries before beginning a career in hospital administration. A graduate of Waterville (Maine) High, he earned a degree in business administration at Clark University in Worcester.

He worked in the credit department at Sears for four years, and for two more years he was an insurance underwriter for health and accident insurance at State Mutual Life in Worcester.

"But my wife Phyllis and I wanted to bring up our children in Maine, where we both came from," Loubier says. "And hospitals needed people who understood insurance and credit."

He became office manager at a Waterville hospital in 1961 and was named administrator of Rumford Community Hospital four years later.

In 1970, Loubier went back to school, moving the couple's three children temporarily to Minneapolis while their dad earned a master's degree in hospital administration at the University of Minnesota.

"I went from administrator in Rumford to being a student, with no income. We made a lot of sacrifices," Loubier laughs. "We also had a lot of togetherness with two adults and three children in a two-bedroom apartment."

Having Dad as a student gave the Loubier children an opportunity to get even as well. "You know how children put their report cards on the refrigerator at the end of each quarter? Well, the kids invited me to post my report card too. I did," he says.

The three children are "a source of pride and pleasure" for their parents. Gregg, 29, is a third-year law student at USC-Davis (Calif.); Randy, 25, is a financial analyst with AT&T in California; and Jane, 22, is with the Yale Medical School research department.

One trait especially has impressed him about Winchester: caring.

"The whole community, including the hospital's physicians and employees, have a sense of caring and pride," Loubier says. "That's a non-definable asset. And the groups of volunteers are amazing."

During the hospital's annual meeting Jan. 28 at Jenks Senior Center, Loubier declared, "My hat's off to the six distinctive and invaluable (volunteer) organizations: The Friends of Winchester Hospital, EnKa Society, The Winton Club, and the Junior Volunteer Group."

Six? Loubier also noted the often unnoticed volunteer work done by the medical staff and by the board of directors and hospital corporation members.

Loubier says he is glad to be in the area, where Bruins hockey games are nearby. "I'd rather watch hockey than eat," he says, perhaps partly because son Randy played hockey at Deerfield Academy. He also enjoys gardening and golf.

During his report to the hospital corporation last week, Loubier noted that the health care environment is rapidly changing but declared that Winchester Hospital will "continue to dedicate ourselves to preserving the rare reputation of Winchester."

What Does The Future Hold?

What's ahead for Winchester Hospital in the rapidly changing and increasingly controversial health care environment?

President Eugene Loubier believes the hospital has a bright future.

"The environment doesn't mean we have to merge; we are already a quality resource for the teaching and in-town hospitals," Loubier says.

Winchester Hospital care is also cheaper than at Boston institutions. That fact is becoming more obvious and important to those struggling with health care costs, Loubier believes.

"Hospitalization costs an average of $1,000 a day in Boston," Loubier notes. "We're less than half that at about $450 per day in actual charges for the average in-patient."

Loubier suggests that in-town hospitals might well think about using Winchester and other suburban hospitals to provide quality care to recovering patients still needing hospitalization.

Winchester Hospital is already providing some "tertiary" care of this sort for "two or three" in-town hospitals, Loubier said. "The hospitals are asking themselves how they can help each other. And one of the benefits to in-town hospitals is shortening their waiting lists."

Other patients who require care at a major in-town hospital may well want to be transferred to Winchester and other suburban facilities for recovery, Loubier said.

"It's well-known that many people from Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont are reluctant to drive into the city. Perhaps for those people, it might well make sense to get diagnosis, treatment, perhaps even surgery, here — where family members are more likely to visit."

What would such changes mean for Winchester Hospital? "We'll be part of the health care solution," Loubier says. "It wouldn't mean diminished care, just diminished cost."

And, of course, increased hospital efficiency will "make the patient come out a winner and ensure that the good care already provided in Winchester continues," Loubier says.

Winchester To Get $79,547 For Gloria From Federal Fund

Winchester will receive $79,547 in federal disaster relief funds as a result of Hurricane Gloria.

Ken Horak, an official of the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) office in Boston, said his agency checks disaster relief claims and approval 75 percent of eligible costs for federal reimbursement.

Winchester listed storm costs of $106,062 on its application to FEMA.

After the president declares a "disaster area," local municipalities can be reimbursed from FEMA funds. State governments will provide another 12.5 percent of clean-up costs while local governments provide the remainder.

Hurricane Gloria struck Massachusetts Sept. 27, 1985. President Ronald Reagan made the area eligible for federal relief Oct. 28, when he signed a "Major Disaster declaration."

Police Budget Is Up 3.5 Percent

"Well, it still appears to me that you just took the experience of 1985 and 1986 for overtime hours and plugged in a consistent number," Welch persisted.

Maurer said the same number of dollars actually buys about 10 percent fewer hours now than in fiscal 1984, when the pay scale was about 10 percent less.

McHugh said more than $80,000 is spent just to cover the department's total of 134 vacation weeks.

But when McHugh tried to show the number of sick and injured days down since 1983, Welch pointed out that most of the sick days during 1983 and 1984 were used by "two individuals."

A change in the budget will show the police budget for gasoline rising from $26,000 to $35,000 but Maurer said the department actually spends $35,000.

"The new budget just reflects the actual expenditure," Maurer said. "We took the extra $9,000 from the DPW (Department of Public Works) gasoline account."

"So I presume the DPW gasoline budget was reduced," Welch asked.

"Yes, from $97,550 in 1986 to $89,070," Maurer answered.

Maurer said the public safety building equipment budget had also been cut from $3,600, the police chief's request, to $2,100. McHugh said he wanted to buy eight typewriters but Maurer said five was enough.

The town manager also reduced the chief's requested amount for continuing education.

"The chief budgeted the maximum amount, assuming every officer would take the maximum number of courses. I derived a lower figure by using our actual experience," Maurer explained.

"But last year we had to come back for $15,000 more," the chief said.

Selectman Mike Saraco asked the chief if he were comfortable with cuts made by the town manager.

"Naturally, I don't like any reductions in my requests," McHugh answered. "But I'm a team player and I've lived through tough times before. I have an obligation to provide public safety and I'll do the best I can. I'm hopeful the figures will be adequate."

In total, the police department budget as recommended by the town manager would rise from $1,684,372 to $1,742,916, an increase of 3.5 percent with most of the increase in step pay increases for personnel, estimated energy costs in the new headquarters and full-year budgeting for a full time custodian.

Fire Budget At $1.58 Million

"When I was director of public health, I'd go out as a team with the fire inspector," Saraco said. "And way back then we were talking about having a fire prevention person."

Saraco was not enthusiastic about creating a new position, however. "What would be wrong with allowing the chief to ask the current officer to work one day a week overtime? I understand there's a backlog of inspections to be done," Saraco asked.

"That might be a workable compromise," Selectman Wade Welch agreed.

Maurer said one day a week in overtime would cost the town about $7,000 while creating a new position would cost closer to $30,000, including salary and fringe benefits.

"Right now the fire prevention officer exists in name only," McElhinney said. "He covers his shift." The chief said adding overtime would be a help but would not be enough.

In the town manager's proposed budget, the fire department account would increase from $1,562,159 this year to $1,579,757 in fiscal 1987. The amount is an increase of 1.1 percent.

Town Beautification Could Be Extended

The most costly project in the bridge group is replacement of the Mt. Vernon st. bridge at an estimated cost of $200,000.

Removal of the Woburn Loop bridge is estimated to cost $50,000.

Improvements to the islands, police box and bus shelter would cost $20,000.

Among park projects, the Mill Pond would be most expensive at $531,000 while the Common would cost $252,000 and Elliot Park $139,000.

Miscellaneous fees include an architect's fee of $112,000, engineering costs of $45,000, a consultant's fee of $10,000 for grant preparation and completion, and $10,000 for police details.

School Association Seeking Executive Board Members

The Year My Sister Fell In Love

By TERRY MAROTTA

When I think of Valentine's day, I think of the year my sister Nan fell in love with Brian Mullaney.

Now Brian was a tall boy, blonde, with a chest like an army trunk and a face like an angel.

You'd have felt sure, looking at him, that he played football.

He didn't.

Brian had no truck with anything as frolicsome as schoolboy sports. Instead he leaned his great bulk on cars not his own of an idle afternoon, emanating hormones and the spicy reek of cigarette smoke.

He reached out to cuff lesser males from time to time and smiled a thin smile of danger at the girls who passed before him.

My sister was one of them.

She was tall and blonde too. At that point in her life, she had attained a 35-inch inseam, a high-jump record, and the wiggly badge of honor that announces knee surgery.

Though she hovered on the brink of becoming a real beauty, she didn't know it yet. She propelled her long limbs in a self-effacing sprint through the fearsome corridors of high school.

Soaking wet she weighed about as much as Brian's right thigh. He didn't know she was even alive.

But Valentine's Day approached, and my sister sensed the need to make ironic comment on her evident place in Brian's heart.

So she visited the corner drugstore and bought herself some Ex-Lax. Then she went next door to the candy shop and purchased a small heart-shaped box of chocolates.

She came home then and somewhere in the lull of the February afternoon, when my mother assumed her to be tinkering with Algebra's moving parts, she cooked up her deadly brew: heated some of the real chocolates, poured their satiny melt over the Ex-Lax tablets, and nestled them all in the ruffles of the red plush box.

The next day, Nan arrived early at school. She brought her gift to Brian's homeroom, and placed it in his desk.

Witnesses at the time reported that when he flung open the battered lid of this ancient anchored piece of furniture, he saw the anonymous gift of chocolates, barked once in derisive laughter, and swallowed every last one.

Witnesses later on, glancing out the window during the chalk-dusty yawn that is Study Hall, reported they had seen him running - faster than anyone would have believed Brian could run - straight down the middle of our town's main street.

The Ex-Lax had evidently signalled its presence.

Luckily, someone got him to the hospital, where after a puzzled interval he was given an antidote, though not before having lost a good 10 pounds of his handsome bulk.

Luckily too, Nan was not brought up on charges of attempted murder. A discreet investigation followed, and the damaged chalked up to youth error.

Somehow, Brian found out who did this to him.

Time passed and in the course of its passing brought an unexpected development: Brian began dating me. I had average length legs, hair that could never be construed as blonde, and no track record at all.

He called me Little Nan. And the few times we went out, he treated me with every consideration.

I'm not sure what the moral of this story is. One year rolled into another, anyway. My sister grew more beautiful. Brian grew more dangerous. Rumor had it that he went to the bathroom in public once, on the head of an erring girlfriend.

But Nan he left alone. It may be he understood somewhere deep in the welter of those hormones that it was Nan's bursting huge crush on him that motivated her terrible gift.

Probably he understood the primacy of emotions. Certainly he grasped the satisfaction of the definitive gesture.

She declared her love in an act of hostility. He answered by singling her out in a school of 3000 as the sole recipient of his respect.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Resident Wants Street Protected

TO THE EDITOR:

This is a long delayed comment on the sentiments expressed by a Mrs. Lucille Grassi who described the pleasure she felt when she watched Canadian geese visiting her area of Forest st. I gather she lives near the park adjoining the Aberjona River.

I too, live on Forest St., but nearer to the Stoneham line. When I moved here approximately 20 years ago I was delighted to find in my yard such visitors as rabbits, raccoons with their young, fox-tailed squirrels, strange looking skunks, pheasants with their brood and many other species of wildlife.

There were also innumberable little chipmunks in the area. Every day without fail a few would be mashed to hamburg by the cars and trucks racing on Forest st.

In the intervening years many new homes have been built where once just woods existed. And now, not one of these above mentioned creatures can be seen. They have all disappeared, retreated, been wiped out.

I would like to suggest that Forest st be converted to a non-commercial street.

As a resident I am hard put to understand why a completely residential street has been designated a race track for commercial vehicles.

I also hope that some concern for conservation will be shown for this northeast area of Winchester.

Sincerely,
M. Mangantz

WHS Music Fest Was Successful

TO THE EDITOR:

As a proud parent, I looked forward to seeing coverage in the Winchester Star of the W.H.S. Music Fest which took place recently.

The event was of high standard, very entertaining, and enthusiastically received by the audience.

It is sad therefore that no mention of the occasion was made in our local paper.

I did note however that an inordinate amount of space was given to a rather boring picture of a pigeon in a puddle, while another on page five resembled a flying brick.

May I suggest that when we have some fun, upbeat events in town we give them coverage and leave the pigeons to their crumbs? Hope to see you at the next years' Music Fest to give our students some support & kudos.

Sincerely,
Hilary Murray

TO THE EDITOR

In reference to letter of Dr. John M. Travares, in The Star issue of December 19, 1985...I wish to thank him for his kind remarks and his excellent historical background of the history of Portuguese navigators in the exploration of the Americas.

There is no question that Pedro Alvares Cabral was the discoverer of Brazil and is one of many of his countryment that opened up the unknown world to progress and civilization. What is interesting is that Vespucci was on the same boat with him.

On the question of the stamp, we had room for only four explorers who were associated with basically North America, especially the United States.

However, we are planning a memorial statue and building representing the discoverers and explorers who were factors in the setting of the Europeans in the Americas and those who pushed westward to the Pacific.

The Heritage Memorial to be placed in Washington D.C. is so decided by the committee, will include all those daring and courageous men.

Planning Can Avoid Frozen Locks

Slush, sleet, and freezing rain can cause problems for motorists even before they get behind the wheel, but AAA Massachusetts says those troubles can be avoided by thinking ahead.

"Frozen emergency brakes and doorlocks can be among the most common auto ailments," said Stewart W. Hall, Director of Automotive Services for AAA Massachusetts.

"When you park your car after driving in slush or sleet, don't set the emergency brake unless absolutely necessary — turn the wheels in toward the curb," he suggested.

Should you find your brake has frozen, it sometimes can be freed by driving a few feet in reverse, he said. If this is not possible, the undercar cable must be pulled or the car allowed to thaw.

"To prevent frozen doorlocks, carefully put a strip of adhesive or plastic over the keyhole, treat the locks with antifreeze lock compound, and spray a silicone coating around the doors and glass seals," Hall said.

GUEST COLUMN

County DA Defends Court Role

(This article was originally presented by Middlesex County District Attorney Scott Harshbarger as a speech at the November 1985 Point/Counterpoint Plenary Session, Seventh National Conference on Child Abuse and Neglect in Chicago in response to the position taken by Dr. Eli H. Newberger of Children's Hospital in Boston.)

As the District Attorney of Middlesex County and the chief law enforcement official responsible for meeting the challenge posed by serious and complex child abuse cases, I start with this perspective: Any individual who brutalizes and physically abuses a child or sexually assaults or rapes a child, has committed a serious crime.

"These egregious acts of violence must be considered crimes, regardless of the relationship of the victim to the offender. The perpetrator should be subject to public identification, prosecution and sanctions. There is absolutely no legal or moral justification for ignoring cases where the acts of sexual abuse are committed by a family member, while strangers are treated as criminals for committing similar acts of violence.

"Child sexual abuse cases have produced dramatic caseload increases for prosecutors in this state. They challenge district attorneys and the criminal justice system, perhaps as no other type of case has challenged them before.

"In two years in Middlesex County, under the Massachusetts Child Abuse Reporting Law, nearly five-hundred child sexual abuse cases have been reported to me for investigation and possible prosecution. Ninety-five percent of them involve sexual abuse by male offenders, the majority of whom are family members or in a guardian or custodial status in relation to the victim. More startling, nearly one-third of the victims are under the age of five.

These child sexual abuse cases reflect a massive social problem which all of us face today. We may regret it; we are shocked by it; and we hope that there are other solutions. But, in the interest of the powerless, vulnerable child victim and the public, these cases must be prosecuted as the serious crimes which they are.

Treatment, prevention, education and therapy may be added as parallel measures and are certainly to be encouraged as supplemental dispositional tools, but they have failed to date, standing alone and without the threat of criminal prosecution and sanctions, as effective responses to the problem.

The mose prevalent problem faced by the criminal justice system and our society as a whole is not random violence in the streets, but rather violence in the American family, people who know each other committing acts of violence against each other. The prosecutorial response today is likely to be most effective in dealing with these cases.

"The position taken by Dr. Eli Newberger exemplifies one of the main problems which the social services and criminal justice system face today in dealing with child sexual abuse cases.

"His simplistic attack on the courts, prosecutors and lawyers as the major problem is equivalent to 'shooting the messenger.' And, while I applaud and support the need to address the root causes of family violence by achieving greater social and economic justice, I see no justification for allowing children to be raped and brutalized while we await that millenium.

"Dr. Newberger presents stereotypes, caricatures and mythologies that, if they ever were true, long ago ceased to define the approach of the criminal justice system and process to these cases, and it is particularly unfortunate at a time when the historical mistrust and tension between the law enforcement community and the social services has begun to be alleviated.

"The position taken by Dr. Newberger retards rather than furthers the essential goal of working together in a mutli-disciplinary way on this very serious and complex problem.

"The approach of the prosecutor in these cases must be demythologized. First, prosecutorial review and discretion in these cases does not necessarily mean that the child victim will be forced to testify at a trial or that the offender will go to jail.

"Because of the extremely sensitive and grave nature of child abuse cases, my office has developed its own internal procedures and guidelines to insure a swift response to all such cases and careful evaluation and monitoring of the cases from the moment they are referred to us through their final disposition.

"Second, prosecutors have the discretion to seek a disposition appropriate to each individual case, including the decision not to prosecute. These cases are analyzed for prosecution in the same manner as any serious crime. However, the Child Abuse Reporting Law also adds a special factor to the consideration of whether to prosecute.

"The law mandates that a multidisciplinary service team assigned to the case make a recommendation to me regarding the advisability of prosecution. If in a particular case we determine that the child's safety, the seriousness of the offense, the likelihood of flight by the potential defendant or any other circumstances so requires, we will initiate criminal proceedings immediately.

"Third, these serious and complex cases are reviewed differently when the 'family' is involved. But, the difference lies in the approach and disposition, as it does in other cases of domestic violence, including elderly abuse and battered women, where no one would maintain that we should not prosecute adult children who abuse their parents or husbands who batter their wives.

"Fourth, the investigation of child abuse cases is conducted in an interdisciplinary manner, involving police, social services, medical and legal personnel who understand and are specially trained in this area. Our response is coordinated and swift. As we work together in these cases, the historical mistrust and tension between these groups has begun to be alleviated. This new 'alliance' probably represents the single most productive development which has occurred since I became District Attorney.

"Fifth, once cases are prosecuted and convictions are obtained, criminal sanctions must be viewed presumptively as the appropriate response, and treatment should be utilized only in addition to punishment, and not in lieu of punishment. We recognize that the vast majority of these cases, according to experts in this field, do not even come into the criminal justice system, and I support diversion and other civil alternatives that can and may be appropriate in many of these cases.

"However, when the criminal justice system must begin to operate, I take the view that these are crimes to which punishment is the appropriate response, and that treatment, when and if appropriate, be in addition to punishment. The reality is that for whatever reason, these cases are in the criminal justice system and we must respond.

"Sixth, as District Attorney, I believe I have a responsibility to take the lead in informing, educating and training other professionals who work in the field about the criminal justice process and the nature of these proceedings.

"We must continue to work to eliminate that historic distrust that formerly existed among various professions who work in this field, as well as to change the public perception that the criminal justice system, in dealing with the victims of child abuse in particular, is a monster that effectively re-stigmitizes and re-victimizes any child who participates in that process.

"I believe from our examination and our experience that the system need not necessarily impact the child victim negatively, in fact does not in most cases, and to the contrary, once we can get people to participate in the system we believe we can support the child witness as a victim without significant harm.

"Seventh, a serious and concerted effort is being made to minimize any possible deleterious effects on the child. Support is now provided for the child victim, throughout the process, by Victim/Witness Advocates in the District Attorneys' offices, and Assistant District Attorneys who are specially trained to work in this area.

"Agencies are coordinating their activities. Coordination between criminal and civil proceedings is also being attempted whenever possible, and efforts are being made to avoid multiple interviews, particularly of the child victims.

"Use of the Victim/Witness Advocate as an integral part of the investigation and prosecution of a case helps to minimize for the child the trauma of the legal process, and reduce the anxiety of parents or caretakers.

"Eighth, contrary to Dr. Newberger's position, the fact is that most mental health professionals agree that (a) the leverage of pending court proceedings is crucial to effective treatment of the child abuser or perpetrator, making it absolutely clear to the offender that he has done wrong; (b) prosecution validates the value of the child's very existence making it clear also to the child and to the general public that the abuser's behavior is unacceptable and not to be tolerated; and (c) prosecution helps to remove the stigma, the badge of inferiority which the helpless victims wear for a tragedy which they did not cause and in fact were involved in solely because of their vulnerability.

"The tragedy is not the need to prosecute those who brutalize and victimize children, the tragedy is that:

"(a) Other alternatives have failed as genuine solutions to the problem;

"(b) We have historically shrouded this serious crime in a veil of secrecy in the guise of protecting the 'family' and the child's 'interests;'

"(c) It is graphic evidence of violence in the American family and its devastating impact over time. And it does not end there. I fear that we will soon learn that child abuse pales by comparison to the systematic familial abuse of elderly people as the worm of the generational time-bomb of child abuse turns.

"These cases are serious and complex in nature and prosecution is not a simple solution or magic panacea. But there are realistic, effective and innovative approaches that are being implemented today by district attorneys throughout this country. Prosecution addresses these acts as the crimes they are and forces public and professional awareness, reponse and accountability.

"We as a society simply cannot afford to decriminalize the rapes and the brutalization of children. Nor am I as District Attorney prepared to continue to sacrifice the children, while we await the day when we finally can understand why male family members abuse their children, wives and parents, and we are able to effectively prevent family violence. I do not intend to wait.

"However, I have no illusions that the task can be accomplished by prosecutors and law enforcement alone. We all have a responsibility to work together. Together, I believe we can make a difference and achieve social and economic justice for all citizens.

SENIOR SCENE

Jenks Hosts Team To Answer Seniors

Trained medical personnel to assist seniors will be available at the Jenks Center on Thursday, Feb. 20, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

This program is under the combined sponsorship of the Jenks Center, Winchester Board of Health and the Visiting Nurse and Community Health, Inc.

Blood pressure checks, diet counselling, weight control, and general health advice will be available.

Colon-rectal kits for home use with instructions will be available.

While the physical health needs are being met by medical personnel, the financial aspect of maintaining sound health will also receive attention.

Jenks Center health benefits counselors, William Burns and Mary McLaughlin, will be present to aid seniors in the preparation of insurance forms. Questions on Medicare, Medicaid and HMO's will be answered. Information on the Diagnosis Related Groups will be available.

Telephone the center, 721-7136, for an appointment for any of these services.

The concept of special health clinics for seniors dates back to April 10, 1975 when Hilda Hope, R.N., a member of the Council of Aging, convinced town officials that health education was of paramount importance for seniors.

Services were originally offered in the Board of Health Clinic in the Town Hall and subsequently moved to the Jenks Center.

The proposed Jenks Center expansion will permit a more efficient operation of the clinic. Added space also will lead to added health services to the town's senior population.

Yankee Doodle Film Coming

CLUB NOTES

Club Plans Fashion Show

Several well-received programs have opened the 1986 season for the Winchester Woman's Club Juniors. In January, the membership and guests heard a fascinating presentation by Fred Stern, D. Ac., RPT, Acupuncturist and Physical Therapist from Stoneham.

New members, Angela Catalano and Regina Maurer were officially inducted that evening as well.

Plans are currently being finalized by this energetic group for their Spring fashion show extraordinaire in April. Meanwhile, they are putting the finishing touches on the avidly anticipated raffle quilt.

The Winchester Woman's Club Juniors wishes to inform the community of its participation, as a member of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, in the 1986 Scholarship program. Funding has been set aside for both undergraduate and graduate studies. The 1985-1986 Young People's Art contest for ages 9-14 is announced at this time, as well.

LIBRARY NEWS

'Junior Library' Automation Set

Speical To The Star
By CHRIS RUST

Do you know the "bear necessities" you need to know to use a Minuteman Network Library Card?

Adult users of the Winchester Public have had several months to learn the "bear facts," but with the automation of the Junior Library in March, it is time for children to learn them as well.

The Minuteman Library Network is a resource sharing cooperative comprised of 20 area public and academic libraries sharing books and other materials and a central computer system for the circulation of books.

Similar bar codes in the books identify individual items in each library's collection.

The Winchester Public Library automated circulation of the adult department in October. The children's library is next. Registration cards have been distributed to the children through the elementary schools.

Fortunately, there are several sources of information about Minuteman and the network library cards available.

The reference librarians in both the children's and adult's department of the library are a goldmine of information about the system.

In addition, the library staff has developed and published two different booklets explaining the system.

The newest, "The 'Bear Facts' about Your New Library Card," explains automation to Junior Library patrons using teddy bears to spell out the facts.

As in the past, any child able to print his or her first name is eligible for a library card. Patrons under 18 must also have the signature of a parent or legal guardian.

Application forms are available at the circulation desk of either library. Cards will be distributed to children late in February.

Because every patron has a unique record in the computer, library cards must be presented to check out a book. The library will no longer be able to issue temporary cards or to look up a card number for a patron who has forgotten his/her card.

Date due stickers in the front of each book indicate the due date for the item. Overdue notices are generated automatically by the computer, and for children under 18, are sent to the parents. Fines remain 5 cents a day.

Once the Junior Library is "online," one card will make all the resources of the Winchester Public Library and the other Minuteman Libraries accessible to all patrons.

Children in elementary grades will no longer be restricted to using the Junior Library, and materials may be checked out, returned, or renewed at either circulation desk, making the library more convenient for all users.

Once more we ask Winchester residents to "bear with us" as we make the changes which will make for a better, more efficient library for us all.

Library To Be Closed Monday

The Winchester Public Library will be closed Monday, Feb. 17, in observance of the Washington's Birthday Holiday. The library will reopen at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Feb. 18.

Local Artists To Be Listed

Calling all artists!

The Winchester Public Library is cooperating with the updating of the "Resource List of Individuals in the Arts in Winchester" and the "Directory of Resources for the Arts in Winchester" currently being undertaken by the Winchester Recreation Department.

The "Directory" lists clubs, societies, and programs in art, dance, music, and drama.

Organizations which are already listed but wish to make additions or corrections to their entries, or groups not previously listed but who wish to be included in the next edition of the "Directory" may pick up forms at the Winchester Public Library reference desk.

The "Resource List of Individuals" includes professionals and performing groups in the arts, including art, architecture, crafts, photography, music, literature, drama, film, video, dance, history, or any other artistic or cultural area. Individuals may update a listing or request inclusion by picking up a form at the library.

Make New Friends, But Keep The Old

Vinson-Owen Students Write About Friendship

By Atiyeh LeGault
Grade 4

A friend is a person who listens to you, shares thoughts, plays with you, and makes you feel better if you're sad or blue.

They offer to help you if you need it. A friend will understand the things you do and you say.

A friend cares and makes the best of you and makes you happy.

By Dave Duffy
Grade 5

When you're feeling totally sad,
And someone says, "It's not so bad,"
That's friendship.
Up and down friendship goes,
But stick with it, it will grow
That's friendship.
A friend is one who sticks with you,
When times are good or bad.
That's friendship.

When you're sad
A friend make you glad.
If you're not certain
Open the curtain
To friendship & you won't feel bad.

By Kevin Caruso

Once, when I went to his house, he threw stuffed animals out of his window. I caught them.

He is one of the best friends that I could ever have. We became friends in the middle of first grade.

By Kim Middleton

I would like to thank a boy who has to remain nameless.

When we play something he always lets me be on his team. That shows me that he really is trying to take care of and love me!

I like it and I will try to take care of him, too! I'll try to say "hi" to him every day. He is really special to me!

Friends are friendly

Friends are nice to each other. They play and run together. They share things. They like to have bike races too.

Junior, Senior Musicians Practice, Perform, Travel

By LUCILLE HESSE
Special To The Star

Classical music is alive and well at Winchester High School.

Under the direction of Mark Jacobs, himself a gifted musician and composer, the orchestra has grown both numerically and musically over the past few years.

In concert with the orchestra, one can expect fine renditions of the works of Haydn, Huber, or Wagner along with lighter popular pieces and even an original composition by Director Jacobs.

An indication of the virtuosity of the teen musicians is the ability of the director to highlight a musical presentation with solo performances. Featured most recently in concert was a violin solo by Kim Ryan.

An unusual feature of the orchestra is that its shade-under-50 musicians are a combination of Junior High and Senior High students.

In practice, each group has its separate weekday rehearsals. In order to play together, the groups must add to their busy schedules twice-monthly evening rehearsals.

For the first time, the orchestra is planning a working field trip to Washington, D.C. during the month of May.

The musical group will give a concert at the Old Post Office Building and then will have the opportunity to tour some of the popular sites in the national capital.

In order to realize their trip, the orchestra members are selling raffle tickets for three prizes of money.

They will sell raffle tickets in the coming weeks as they canvas school activities, supermarkets, neighborhoods, and their school friends.

In addition, donations for the trip may be made to the WHS Orchestra Trip Fund, in care of WHS Music Department.

Students To Visit France

Eighteen Winchester High School students and two members of the foreign language department left for Paris on Jan. 31, setting in motion the 1986 W.H.S. French exchange.

The sophomore, junior, and senior French students will spend the first four days touring the province of Normandy.

They will visit the cathedral of Chartres, the abbey of Mont-Saint-Michel, and the World War II landing beaches, among other sites in northern France.

The remaining two and one half weeks of their trip will be spent living with French families and attending the Lycee Claude Debussy in the Paris suburb of Saint-Germain-en-Laye.

While there, they will participate in French and English classes as well as many other school activities. When they return Feb. 22 they will begin preparations for hosting the same French students with whom they stayed. The group from the Lycee Claude Debussy will be in Winchester from March 15 until April 4.

They are accompanied by Mrs. Leslie Hastings and Mrs. Marta Sartori.

The exchange is organized by the School Exchange Service, a part of the National Association of Secondary School Principals. This is the third W.H.S. French exchange.

ASK THE EDUCATORS

What influenced your recent kindergarten vote and why did you vote the way you did?

WILLIAM JERVEY

There is both vocal support for and opposition to all-day kindergarten. However, there is a strong concensus within the school community that the 2½ hour day is insufficient.

Several studies we have seen concur. There is too much pressure on teachers and pupils, and not enough time for individual exploration. These concerns are addressed, at a relatively modest cost ($40,000) by extending the kindergarten day by one hour.

I do not believe we can justify expanding to town-wide all-day kindergarten at this time, although I did vote to continue the model all-day class (at no additional cost) until we have analyzed the effectiveness of the extended day.

MICHAEL RONAYNE

I received more calls on this issue than any other. They ran about 50-50 for and against a full day but the majority wanted one fixed structure.

Reasons given against were: They were not interested in it, they did not think a full day appropriate, and/or it gave an unfair advantage to full-day students.

However, I was influenced in favor of the option because of the large demand for participation in the pilot, the positive evaluation results, and the entry age change and transition class establishment which would address problems and ease qualms.

I was in favor of a per quarter phase-in plan but could not raise enough support.

STEPHEN POWERS

I believe the School Committee made an error in eliminating the full-day kindergarten option. It will be financially costly in the present and future.

Dr. Ronayne and I had the motion to cancel the option tabled until Jan. 14, 1986 in order to hear imput from the community. I was surprised by the lack of support voiced. The C.S.A. did not take a stand and the only P.T.O. to respond was Vinson-Owens.

I based my decision on the recommendations of the Superintendent, Director of Curriculum and the Instructional Specialist, and on the results of the survey given to the parents of children entering kindergarten in September 1985, who favored giving an option by 80 percent.

I suspect that within three years we will have a full-day option across the system and now we will not have a base upon which to build.

EDWARD O'CONNELL

On the final vote, nobody voted against an extended day only. My greatest concern was one of equity.

I did not want a bifurcated kindergarten with children made to feel different form one another because of the luck of the draw. A bad basis for an educational system.

We heard from the most outspoken on both sides and very little from the majority in the middle.

The extended day program we voted, will affect my vote in the future. We will see how all children react to a longer day not just children whose parents opted for the pilot program and were not necessarily the norm.

I am reluctant to force such a large change on the entire system but believe parents will change their attitudes through their own positive experiences.

CATHERINE ALEXANDER

My vote is based on gathering information over several years from various studies; reviewing comparative data and then making a decision which would be educationally sound, equitable to all children and fiscally responsible.

The extended day results in more hours, no loss of time for release days, and children are more alert in the morning. I have tried to get morning kindergarten in all the system for the past seven years.

An all-day progrm in only one school is inequitable. Efforts should be concentrated in revising present curriculum in five schools.

Lastly, all day kindergarten would increase the school budget with too many dollars spent on a small percentage of the school population.

66 Children To Perform In 'Cinderella' Production

Special To The Star

"Bippety Boppety-Boo" are the magical words the Godmother sings to transform a little cinder girl from rags to riches in "Cinderella," the seventh production of the Co-Operative Theatre for Children.

The Lincoln School Auditorium is the new location for Co-Operative Theatre productions, directed by talented and well-known director Catherine Alexander.

Producer Alice Gross has recruited a fine adult staff, who are assisting Alexander and the 66 children in the cast rehearsing and performing the musical adaptation of the classic fairy tale.

Brian Milauskas and Marion Quinn, who were involved with the junior high school production of "Annie," are set designer and choreographer.

Char Peterman, an art teacher in Wakefield and with the Winchester adult education program, is in charge of set decor.

Diana Svahn, assisted by Lorna Tsechares and Jolene Whittemore, is the costume designer for the entire cast.

Assistant to the director is Pam Jervey.

Magical ideas are being transformed into reality of magnificent sets by Bruce Brown and his able crew of volunteers Bob Deering, Ed Esposito and Skip Fuller.

Tickets can be reserved by calling chairman Louise O'Donnell at 729-0071. Performances will be 7:30 p.m. Friday, March 14 and 21; 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday, March 15 and 22; and 2 p.m. Sunday, March 16 and 23.

John Cahill, Jan Dolan, and Helga Stanley will be honored for their 25th year along with Jack Waite and Frank Finigan for their 30th and 35th years respectively.

Literary Luncheon At Vison-Owen

Vinson-Owen fourth graders, participating in the Battle of the Books program met in the library for the second in a series of "Literary Luncheons."

There was a lively discussion of The Phantom Tollbooth, a book about Milo's adventures from Dictionopolis to Digitopolis.

Attending the luncheon were Amy Galatis, Monette Francen, Kristen Johnson, Lauren McKinley, Stephen Tsau, Ben Hsu, Jennifer Shannon, Michael Blanchard, Ruchiku Mandhvan, Lauren Esposito, and Ativeh LeGault.

The next "Literary Luncheon" features Alfred Slote's My Robot Buddy will be discussed.

Adventures And Heroes

Fourth graders have completed their social studies unit on maps and globes and are now starting one entitled "Adventures and Heroes," which emphasizes the 14th and 15th century explorers from Europe, particularly Christopher Columbus, Sir Francis Drake, Ferdinand Magellan and Captain James Cook.

With this unit the learning mode will change from large group lecture style to a more frequent use of the small group form of learning. Each group will be responsible for working together to form a panel presentation on one of the explorers.

David Ackerman, Assistant Superintendent for Curriculum and Instruction, led the students in a lively brainstorming session planned to "kick off" the new study.

Mishap In Shapesville

After completing a month long unit on geometry, Vinson-Owen fifth graders culminated the unit by performing their version of a math play entitled "Mishap in Shapesville."

Two weeks of hard work went into this humorous play which not only entertained the audience but also gave a mini-lesson to both the performers and the fourth and fifth grade crowd about some important geometry concepts.

How To Become A Meteorologist?

How are storms altered — what can you do to protect yourself if a thunderstorm occurs — can you predict long range weather patterns — how do you become a meteorologist?

Vinson-Owen sixth graders addressed these questions, and many more, to WBZ/TV weatherman, Paul Cousins, who visited their classroom.

They learned the function of weather balloons, weather stations, weather radar, satellite photos, and computers in forecasting the weather. The children asked many questions, about weather fronts, turbulence, tornadoes, hurricanes, the difference between hail and sleet, the exhaust of jet planes, lightning, snowstorms, longrange weather forecasting and how to alter the course of storms and hurricanes.

Web Of Life

As preparation for their upcoming spring outdoor education experiences, Leah Siebert's fifth and sixth graders at Muraco School are using an eco-systems kit. Terrarium/aquarium systems are being constructed, in which peas, clover, grass, crickets, fish, snails, and daphnia will live. The children will see an ongoing web of life as the plants and animals interact. Community life in forests, ponds, deserts, and oceans will be studied during this science unit.

Feeding The Groundhog

A unique method of ensuring an early spring is being tested in Sue Bokil's second grade at Muraco.

Groundhog pictures have been hung all around the classroom. The children do home assignments each night and bring them in to "feed the groundhogs." The theory is that if enough homework is fed to the groundhogs, maybe they can be kept awake to usher in an early spring.

Mystery Of The Month

February is mystery month in Leah Siebert's fifth/sixth grade classroom. Each student is reading a myster book by a different mystery author. An auction will be held at the end of the month, during which each student will "auction off" his mystery to his classmates.

Original Poetry

Fourth graders are using the Milliken Word Processor in their study of poetry; their work will be published in the Project 4 March edition.

During the month of February, poet-in-residence Elizabeth McKim will discuss poetry with the class.

A Split Decision For WHS

By DAVE DiMARCO
Special To The Star

The boys' varsity basketball team settled for a split decision this week, losing to Reading on Tuesday 63-47,but rebounding to beat Stoneham on Saturday and qualify for post-season tournament action..

Reading made use of a strong fast-break to dominate Winchester during the first half and establish a 31-23 halftime lead.

Defensively, Reading's zone shut down the Sachem offense. Steve Lane led the Rockets with 16 points and sophomore Jimmy Kavanaugh led Winchester with 11 points.

"Their fast-break killed us," said Mark Shaw. He also pointed to "their offensive rebounding and our lack of it" as explanation for the Sachems defeat.

Prospects brightened for Winchester on Saturday. By beating Stoneham, the Sachems have qualified for the post-season tournament.

In a game where Winchester seemed to do everything correctly, Kavanaugh led all scorers with 18 points.

Today Winchester hosts third-place Woburn. The Sachems are 12-5 and occupy second place in the Middlesex League.

Girls Win 2nd Game Of Year

By DAVE DiMARCO
Special To The Star

In women's varsity basketball action, Winchester clinched its second victory this season, defeating Reading High 44-40 on Tuesday.

Led by Janice Coates with 16 points, Reading cut the lead to one point going into the fourth quarter.

Meghan Gurnotta led Winchester players with 16 points and the Sachemettes owed much to the sharp outside shooting of Jean Cullen.

Satuday was a different story for Winchester.

Leading Stoneham 17-6 after one quarter, Winchester scored just six points in the second period, finishing the first half at 24-24. In the third period, Stoneham's Lisa Powers (22 points) overwhelmed Winchester with strong inside play, giving her team a six point advantage and final victory.

"We were awesome in the first quarter," explained Megham Gurnotta. Regarding the other three-quarters, Stoneham succeeded in "getting the ball to Powers all night," offered Maureen Dohas. "They also pressed us alot in the second half and we couldn't handle it," she explained.

Julie Gurnotta and Maureen Duhas were high scorers for Winchester with 10 points each.

The Sachemettes have three games remaining this season, and are in last place in the Middlesex League.

WHS Skaters Lose By 3-2

Playing their best game of the season, the Winchester Sachems hockey team still lost to Reading High on Wednesday 3-2.

Then Winchester was overpowered 4-1 by Stoneham, as victory continues to elude the Sachems.

Underdogs going into Wednesday's game, the Sachems seemed headed for victory with a goal by John Guilderson at the 6:21 mark and another by Greg Winn at 12:53.

Down 2-0, Reading answered with a power play at 13:37, ending the second period with Winchester clutching a 2-1 lead.

The Rockets came out and tied the game at 7:22 in the third period and, a minute later, scored the game-winning goal to make it 3-2. Playing his best game to date, Winchester's Jim Chute pummeled Reading's goal with 48 shots.

Winn scored for Winchester at 4:52 in the second period, but nagging penalties put the game out of reach for the Sachems.

As Winchester moves into the last week of play for 1986, the Sachems have two more chances for victory.

Yesterday Winchester faced the Minuteman of Lexington (2-6). On Saturday, the Sachems face Woburn (12-2-4), second place in the Middlesex League.

Sachems Tie For The Top With Woburn

By WHITNEY GAY
Special To The Star

It was billed as the match of the year.

Winchester and Woburn, both undefeated and state-ranked, would meet to decide which was the best high school wrestling team in Middlesex County.

On Feb. 5, in a packed Woburn gymnasium, the Tanners snapped a two-year losing streak, beating the Sachems 39-7

Billy Murphy opened the night with a victory over Woburn's Tim Keough. In the 107-pound class, however, Sachem Greg Doherty was upset in a close contest with Mark O'Conner. Then Mike Hall, trailing Woburn's Dan Wackrow in the third period, tried to make-up points with a chance move and was pinned by Wackrow.

Woburn controlled the rest of the match. Winchester's Jim Selvitelli forfeited to Woburn's Foley, and Mark Bortman fell to Woburn's Donavan. Co captain Puchulu earned Winchester's last points of the match by beating Chris West.

In one crucial match, Anthony Mercado faced Woburn's Dan Cacciolulo, who had defeated Mercado earlier in the week. This time Mercado won, earning the Sachems valuable team points. In the 177-pound class, Scott Racek lost to Belmont's rugged Scott Brown, but earned still more needed points for Winchester.

The evening's final match, a classic showdown, pitted Woburn's Martin Popolowski against Winchester's Dave Carter. Popolowski had twice beaten Carter. Down by four points, Winchester needed a superlative effort by Carter. Midway through the final period, with the score tied at 2-2, Popolowski was warned for stalling. A second warning gave Carter a 3-2 edge that he maintained to win the match. With Carter's victory, Winchester still trailed Worburn in total team points.

And then the unpredictable happened.

Popolowski, angered at something, turned to the referee and made some comment that ended in the referee's deducting 1 point from Woburn's team total. The result: Winchester gets a piece of the Middlesex League Team Championship with a tie, 178-178.

Match Of The Year

BY: WHITNEY GAY
Special to the Star

The Winchester varsity wrestling team combined hard work with a bit of luck to tie Woburn High School for first place at the Middlesex League Championship at Lexington High

The dominance of Woburn and Winchester was evident throughout the early elimination rounds. Before the evening's consolation rounds, Winchester held a slight edge in team points (152) over Woburn's 141.5 points.

In the consolations, Woburn took over the lead, gaining 159 points to Winchester's 155.5. Greg Falcione defeated Wakefield's Rob Castellano 16-5. Several Sachemen, wrestling over their weight class, lost in close matches.

The finals were a showcase for the Sachems and Tanners as team points teetered in the Tanners favor. Winchester's Billy Murray defeated Melrose's Kevin Breen and Greg Doherty earned the Sachems more team points defeating Wakefield's Muffleman. Winchester's Jim Selvitelli, facing Woburn's finest wrestler in Mike Foley, lost on a technical decision. Alex Puchulu defeated Lexington's Dave Kim

It Was Big Day For The Swimmers

BY DIANE DeMINICO
Special to the Star

Winchester youngsters shined when the North Suburban YMCA Boys Swim Team travelled to New Hampshire, where Ben Sheppard, Larry Kress and Peter Anthes turned in record New England YMCA performances.

The competition Feb. 2 was keenest in the A and B Classes, where the margin of victory was a mere five points for each Class.

The North Suburban CLass A (15-18) boys, represented by Matt Berg and Jim Blasi of Winchester and Rob Griesmer and Matt Harvey of Reading, finished second in the 200-yard medley relay with a time of 1:52.19.

Then Peter Anthes of Lexington won the 200-yard freestyle in 1:56.83, only .25 seconds shy of New England YMCA qualifying time.

Berg and Griesmer placed second and third in the 200-yard individual medley with respective times of 2:16.76 and 2:23.63.

Harvey's second-place effort of :24.97 in the 50-yard freestyle was one second shy of a New England YMCA record.

Among the first-place finishes for the North Suburban boys were Blasi's 1:02.39 time in the 100-yard butterfly, Griesmer's :54.13 in the 100-yard freestyle, Anthes 5:15.77 in the 500-yard freestyle, and Blasi's 1:08.47 in the 100-yard backstroke.

North Suburban's Class B (13-14) boys, represented by E.J. Anderson and Derek Anderson of Woburn, Mike Driscoll of Reading, and Larry Kress of Lexington, placed second in the 200-yard medley relay in 2:08.76.

Kress, continuing a winning season, won the 100-yard freestyle in :53.99, and the 100-yard backstroke in 1:08.17.

Mark Siezen of Arlington placed second with 2:23.69 in the 200-yard freestyle and Burlington's Andy Cortese finished third with 2:42.75.

Kevin Flatley of Reading placed second with 2:35.18 in the 200-yard individual medley.

In the 50-yard freestyle, Derek Anderson placed third in :27.17, followed by E.J. Anderson at :29.38.

The Class D (9-10) boys suffered their first loss of the season, 22-42.

The 200-yard medlay relay composed of Andrew Hall and Ben Sheppard of Winchester and Mark Connarton and Ricky DeMinico of Woburn, placed second with a time of 2:46.70.

In an exciting 100-yard individual medley, Sheppard swam a New England YMCA record of 1:19.69 to place first, and :35.19 to place second in the 50-yard butterfly.

Meanwhile, DeMinico placed second in the 50-yard freestyle and Billy Jansen finished third.

The closest event for CLass D decided by mere hundreths-of-a second, was the 100-yard freestyle. Shuh placed first with 1:18.53, Nashua placed second, and DeMinico was third. Connarton's :50.57 clinched second place and Greg Luongo's :51.67 took third in the 50-yard breaststroke.

In Class C competition, Brad Swallom of Reading placed second in the 50-yard freestyle in :40.51.

The Vikings hold their last meet of the season when they host a strong Andover team next Saturday at the North Suburban YMCA.

Knause Gets Gym First

Competing with 20 other young gymnasts from across the state, Andy Knause amassed 52.5 points to place first at a recent United States Gymnastics Federation Class III Boys Qualifying meet.

Andy's scores out of a possible 10 were: 8.4 (floor excercise), 9.1 (parallel bars), 9.0 (pommel horse), 8.6 (vault), 8.9 (rings), and 8.5 (high bar).

Andy currently competes for Montvale School of Gymnastics, as a Class III gymnast in the USGF Region 6.

A Losing Cause, But A Good Meet

While the recent North Suburban YMCA Girls Swim Meet with Andover met with defeat, individual swimmers scored best times, and swam close races.

In the late December meet, the Class D (9 and 10) girls raced neck and neck, all the way. In a heart break finish on the last race of the meet, the Vikings came in 2nd place, which put them just two points short of a total Class D victory.

The Class D medley relay team of Flatley, Segota, McDonald, and Griesmer were out ahead all the way, finishing with a great time of 2:38.31. Karen McDonald swam vigorously, taking first places in the 100 yard individual medley and the 100 yard free.

Erin Hembrough achieved a second place finish with a 47.15 in the 50 yard breast and a third place in the 100 yard individual medley. Kate Griesmer fought for a second place in the 50 yard free and came up with a third place in the 100 yard free.

Mary Catherine Segota placed a strong second in the 50 yard butterfly.

The freestyle relay team of Preble, McKay, Hembrough, and Froebel scored a 2:32.30 to take second place.

The Class E (6-8) girls, swimming valiantly in the medley relay, with Krista Gillis closing the gap, missed a first place by just eight seconds. In the individual medley, Gillis brought in a second place. Lisa Luongo finished second in the 25 yard free and also took third in the 50 yard free.

Katie Flatley achieved a second place win in the 25 yard butterfly with 27.38. In the 25 yard back, Christine Griesmer came in a strong third place. Christa Gillis showed strength in the 50 yard breast and took a second place.

The Class C girls (age 11 and 12) swam close races taking two first places. Kara Concannon flew threw the water, ahead all the way to victory and a first place in the 100 yard individual medley with 2:39.9, and a strong first place in the 50 yard butterfly with a 31.25 score.

The medley relay team of Connarton, Coughlin, Concannon, and Holbrook swam hard. Concannon closed the gap, but not enough and their score of 2:21.6 took second place.

Class C girls also captured five 3rd place events. Caryn Conarton in the 200 yard free and the 50 yard free, and Jennifer Jansen in the 100 yard free, Andrea Steininger in the 50 yard back and Courtney Umile in the 50 yard breast.

The Class B girls (13 and 14) swam first place in the 50 yard free and strong second and third place races in all other events. The 50 yard free saw the Class B girls achieve a 1-3 finish with Estridge taking a first in 28.07 and Vitiello taking third with a 29.74.

Inada achieved a second and third place in the 500 yard free and the 200 yard individual medley respectively. The B girls captured a 2-3 finish in both the 100 yard back and the 100 yard breast stroke. Steininger swam 1:27.32 for a second place in the back and Vitiello swam 1:21.9 for a second place in the breast. Flatley and Driscoll placed third in these events, respectively.

Great finishes were achieved by Class A Lisa Tonaszuk, who swam a first place in the 200 yard free, just 2.1 seconds ahead of Andover. She put distance between herself and the rest in the 100 yard free and achieved a first with a 58.30.

The Class A (15-16) Girls Medley Relay team of Reynolds, Holbrook, Jonata, and Tonaszuk came in second place, missing first by seconds. The 50 yard free saw the Class A girls achieve a 1-3 finish with McGuillicudy taking a first with 26.38 and Holbrook a third place with 27.74.

Good swimming achieved second place wins to Mollie Janota in the 200 yard, individual medley, to Kathy McGuillicudy in the 100 yard free, to Heather Holbrook in the 100 yard breast, and to Byron in the 500 yard free.

Holbrook, Janota, and Reynolds captured third place in the 50 yard free, 100 yard fly and 100 yard back, respectively.

A Review Of Swim Season

In the 50 yard back, Ben Sheppard swam his second "B" time of the day to grab first place in 40.69. Andrew Hall took the third spot with a 47.02. Finishing up the individual events for the D boys, Ricky DeMinico won a second place in the 50 yard breast with a time of 50.94 and Greg Luongo (Wakefield) came in second in 52.69. In their last event of the day, the 100 yard free relay team of Hall, Richie Saxe (Burlington), Luongo, and Shuh came in first with a 2:48.23. Class D won decisively with a total of 46 points to Cape Ann's 24.

On January 11, the North Suburban YMCA Boys Swim Team played host to the Cape Ann (Gloucester) Boys Team. Two age groups were victorious.

The Class D group started off the day's events with a clear-cut victory in the 200 yard medley relay. The team of Billy Jansen (Wilmington) swimming backstroke, Ricky DeMinico (Woburn) doing breaststroke, Ben Sheppard (Winchester) in the butterfly, and Mark Connarton (Woburn) ending with the freestyle finished with a 2:39.25 to take first place.

The Class B team of Derek Anderson (Woburn), Derek Murman and Larry Kress (both of Lexington), and David Saxe (Burlington) kept the ball rolling with a winning time of 2:17.11 in the 200 yard medley relay for the 13 and 14 age group.

Despite the fact that Chris Sheppard, 6, of Winchester had to again single-handedly represent the Class E (8 and under) group, he was still able to achieve two second place finishes - or the day - in the 25 yard free and the 25 yard backstroke.

Scoring the second highest total number of points for the day, the Class D boys rolled up point after point starting with the 100 yard individual medley. Billy Jansen came in second with a time of 1:34.37 and Ricky DeMinico came in third with 1:35.14.

Continuing the roll, Billy Shuh and Andrew Hall, both of Winchester, placed second and third, respectively, in the 50 yard free. Also placing second and third in the 50 yard fly were Jansen with a 45.67 and Connarton with a 50.97. In the 100 yard free, Ben Sheppard (Winchester) swam a super 1:12.13 to take first place with Connarton taking second with a 1:21.56.

The Class C (11 and 12 boys did not swim as successfully as in their previous meet, but still managed to place well in many events. In the 50 yard free, David Plansky (Reading) came in third with a 35.44; while Brad Swallom (Reading) placed fourth with 41.29. David Murman (Lexington) swam a 1:16.51 in the 100 yard free to take third in that event.

The 50 yard back saw Plansky take a first place with a 43.34 and Swallom come in third with 52.42. Eric (EJ) Anderson (Woburn) swam a fabulous 36.63 to take first place in the 50 yard breast, with Murman coming in third in 45.07. The 100 yard free relay team of Plansky, Anderson, Murman, and Swallom did grab a first in that event by finishing in 2:23.81. Despite this good showing, the C boys lost 42-26.

Achieving high point total for the day, the Class B boys vindicated their loss to Melrose in the last meet with a 54-18 thrashing of Cape Ann.

After taking first place in the 200 yard medley relay, Larry Kress started off by winning the 200 yard I.M. in 2:22.98. Then, Kevin Flatley (Reading) and Tony Cerrato (Arlington) came in second and third in the 50 yard free with times of 28.13 and 32.21. Derek Murman (Lexington) kept piling up points by winning the 100 yard fly in 1:14.75 with David Saxe (Burlington) placing second in 1:28.45.

Grabbing another first place for the day, Kress swam the 100 yard free in a super 55.35. Derek Anderson (Woburn) came in second with a 1:03.68. Swimming the longest event of the meet, the 500 yard free, Mark Siezen (Arlington) placed second with a 6:49.29 and Tony Cerrato was right behind with a third place done in 6:50.19.

Achieving another 1-2 finish, this time in the 100 yard breast, Murman came in with a 1:19.13 and Flatley was close behind with 1:20.28. A fitting end to a job well done.

The Class A (senior) boys tried valiantly to score points, but, due to a depletion in their numbers, it was an impossible task. Matt Berg (Winchester) did accomplish two first place finishes in the events he swam - a 2:13.06 in the 100 yard I.M. and a 1:06.32 in the 100 breast. Matt Harvey (Reading) came in third in the 50 yard free with a 24.87 and a close second in the 100 free with a 55.75. Needless to say, with only two swimmers competing, the A group was on the losing end of the point totals.

The North Suburban YMCA Vikings Boys hosted the Lowell YMCA Boys Swim Team on Saturday, Jan. 18 and found themselves up against a formidable opponent.

Outnumbered in all classes, except for the D's (9 and 10), the Vikings lost in four out of five age groups.

In the Class E group (8 and under) Chris Sheppard (Winchester) came through with another outstanding performance by winning first place in the 100 yard individual medley with a time of 1:55.8. He took a second place in the 25 yard back with a 25.23. Danny Cahill (Stoneham) took a second place in the 25 free with a time of 29.27. This age group, although yet to win a meet, is continuing to show tremendous progress.

The Class D (9 and 10) boys continued their winning ways by soundly defeating the Lowell D's by 43-25. This was especially rewarding for the Vikes since the Lowell D's were also undefeated up to this point.

The 200 yard medley relay team of Andrew Hall (Winchester) swimming backstroke, Greg Luongo (Wakefield) swimming breast, Billy Shuh (Winchester) swimming fly, and Ricky DeMinico (Woburn) swimming freestyle took a first place with a time of 3:01.66.

In the 100 I.M. Ben Sheppard (Winchester) copped a first place with a 1:17.94, which is a New England YMCA qualifying time. Mark Connarton (Woburn) placed third with a 1:34.58. The 50 free saw the Vikings take a second place with Billy Shuh swimming a "B" time of 35.27 and Greg Luongo taking fourth in 40.81.

With another New England YMCA qualifying time (of 36.57) Sheppard took another first place, this time in the 50 fly. Connarton placed third with a 51.16. In the 100 Free Billy Jansen (Wilmington) came in second (1:18.42) and DeMinico placed third (with a 1:21.23).

Swimming a "B" time of 40.88, Jansen was able to take a first place in the 50 Back and Hall placed third with a 46.67. Finishing up the individual events, DeMinico came in second in the 50 breast with a 49.56 and Shuh was third with a 51.15.

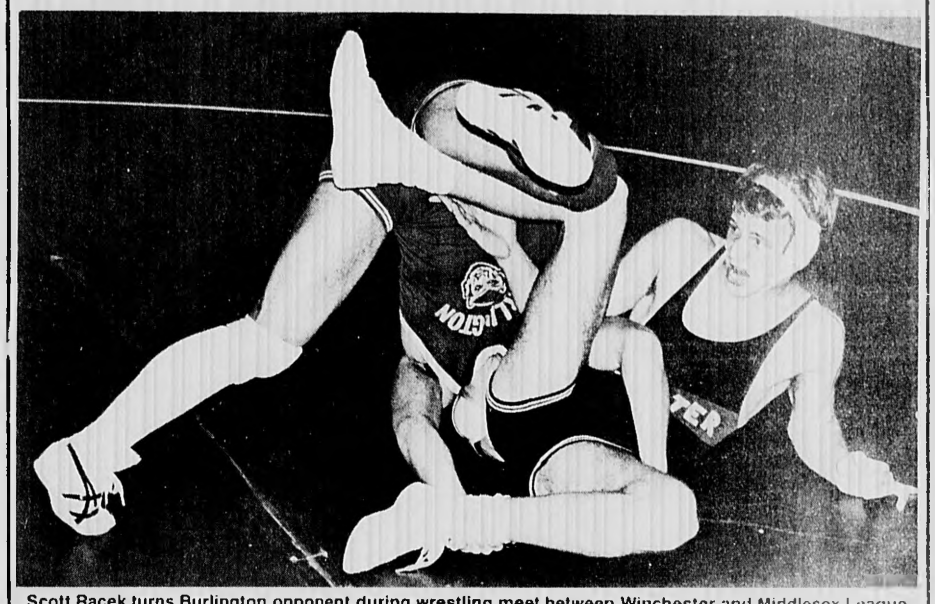

Capping off their victory, the 200 yd. Free Relay in 2:24.60. A sweet victory over a very difficult opponent.

The Class C (11 and 12) boys swam well, but were outnumbered by the Lowell team which took most of the first place positions. Eric (EJ) Anderson (Woburn) did finish first in the 100 yard free with a 1:01.14. Second places went to David Murman (Lexington) in the 200 free (2:38.67); Anderson in the 200 I.M. (2:33.60); Andy Cortese (Burlington) in the 50 free (35.21) and also in the 50 fly (36.64); and Murman in the 50 breast (43.96).

Hospital Gets New CT Scan

The CT 9000, a Computed Tomography (CT) whole body scanner, is smaller and more compact than traditional models for greater-than-ever cost effectiveness.

Like larger versions, it will permit doctors to perform studies of the head and body tissues to make rapid and accurate diagnoses.

"The addition of this new CT Scanner is further evidence of the steady expansion of our high-quality, high technology capabilities at Winchester Hospital," said Eugene Loubier, hospital president, "and can only serve to enhance our reputation for quality, up-to-date patient care."

The Ct 9000 combines an advanced x-ray scanning system with a powerful computer to permit hospital staff physicians to study virtually any portion of the human anatomy.

"This new system is designed to increase our patient care capability while meeting today's concerns to keep patient costs down." said John B. MacDonald, M.D., chairman of the department of Radiology at Winchester Hospital.

Because of CT's ability to depict the location of cancers, degenerative tissue and other internal abnormalities, explorative surgery and painful diagnostic brain and spinal studies can often be avoided.

Located in the Radiology department in the new Hood Wing and adjacent to the Emergency department, the new system will be important in the diagnosis and treatment of emergency patients, as well as in visualizing medical or surgical problems presented by other patients. "It is invaluable to radiologists in the evaluation of neurological disorders, in managing head trauma, and for detecting tumors and cysts within the chest or abdomen too small to be picked up by conventional radiological techniques," MacDonald said. He also said that CT studies of the spine, for example, "more precisely define a patient's need for back surgery and help to improve the diagnosis and treatment for persons with lower back pain caused by herniated or slipped discs. In addition, CT scanning allows the monitoring, without pain, of the response of tumors to chemotherapy or radiation therapy." In a typical scan, the patient is positioned on an examination table and is then moved into a donut-like openng of the scanner.

Concealed within the machine is the x-ray tube which emits x-rays to detectors directly opposite. The tube and detectors rotate simultaneously around the patient who experiences no discomfort.

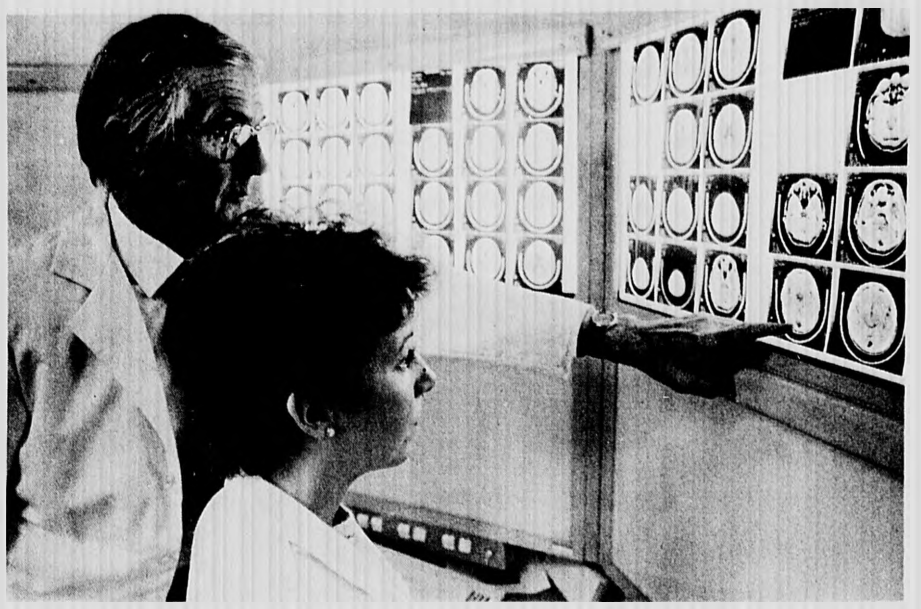

A complete examination might include from 10-20 individual scans with only a few seconds elapsing between studies.

A CT scan literally depicts a wafer-thin (two millimeter) cross-sectional view or slice of the anatomy. As the x-ray tube moves around the patient, it looks at the areas of interest from many different angles.

"When the individual scans are collated by the computer, the computed tomography is able to demonstrate very small variances in tissue density not visible by conventional x-ray imaging techniques," MacDonald said.

Once painful and risky diagnostic studies have now been replaced by simple, fast and easy CT scans. In many cases, patient hospital stays are shortened and costs reduced by its speed and accuracy.

"Most importantly, CT and particularly the model at Winchester makes the procedure as fast and comfortable as possible for the patients," he said.

A new CT 9000 whole body scanner is now in place at Winchester Hospital. Dr. John MacDonald, chairman of the radiology department, views scan results with technician Cheryl Crupi.

WHAT WINCHESTER IS SAYING

"What are your feelings about the seatbelt law?"

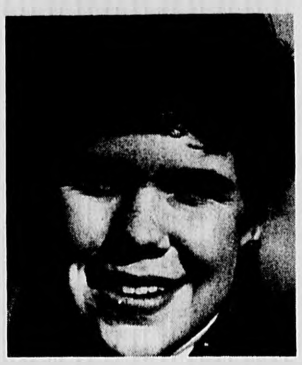

Jan Ellis, 35
Dental hygienist
Somerville

"I wear seatbelts 99 percent of the time. I did even before the law. I think it will save lives. I know people who didn't used to wear seatbelts who do now because of the law."

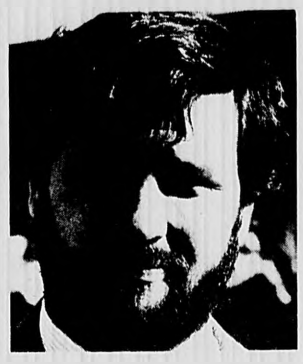

Robbie Cook, 18
High school senior
Winchester

"I've always worn a seatbelt, even before the law. It will help save lives though some people will rebel against it. I don't think it's an infringement on my rights."

Melissa Grigorieff, 17
High school senior
Winchester

"I wear a seatbelt. I think the seatbelt law will save a lot of lives if it's paid attention to. I think it's a good idea and I don't understand people who feel it's an infringement on their rights."

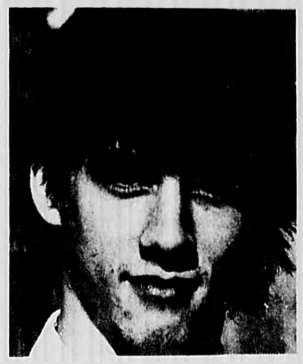

Steve Armstrong, 28
Salesman
Winchester

"I don't wear seatbelts. I don't like the law. If I get into an accident without one on, then that's my fault. But I think that's my responsibility. I don't want someone telling me when to put one on."

Jack Oldham, 38
University administrator
Winchester

"We wore a seatbelt even before the law. I think it's a good idea long overdue. I think it will save a lot of lives.

Donald Hughs, 19
High school senior
Winchester

"I always wear a seatbelt. I think it's a good law, it will save a lot of lives. It's a good idea for people who don't realize how important seatbelts are. I was in two accidents. Seatbelts saved my life both times."

Janis Malone, 39 part time nurse
Reading

"I wear seatbelts all the time. I'm pretty much in favor of the seatbelt law, in the front seat especially. In the back is more difficult, I think the law is very ambiguous about that. But I don't think it will make people who don't wear them wear them."

SCHOOL NEWS

Outdoor Education

"Horizons Experience" will come to Ambrose School Feb. 26. Horizons for Youth is an environmental education program.

The program for fourth, fifth, and sixth graders will integrate regular school curriculum into sensory training experiences to increase awareness and interest in nature.

Above Average Achievement

Impressive gains were made by the Class of 1985 on both the College Board SAT and achievement tests.

In comparing Winchester with other Massachusetts residential suburbs WHS students scored higher on eight tests and were the same or lower on only two tests.

Overall STEP test results in grades 1-8 were the best in the four years they have been used. Copies of the 56-page report that also includes department test reports are available in each school office.

Passage To India

They are studying vocabulary words derived from the Indian langauge, using Indian topics for creative writing, and learning about life and customs through book reports. The children are inventing math word problems using Indian life situations and working with the number zero, an Indian contribution.

Several class members have reported on their visit to the India exhibit at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. This week Indian music will be heard, as the costumed second graders enjoy an Indian feast.

Poetry Month At Lynch

Fourth graders in Lynn Finkbeiner's and Meredith Clark's classes at Lynch recently enjoyed an hour with poet David Capella. They wrote a "group" poem, detailing things they had seen on the way to school that morning.

Capella communicated to the children that thinking about — as well as writing — poetry can be lots of fun.

Just Imagine

Imagine umbrellas, a lawn clipper, shoe trees, and a television as stars in a puppet show! If you can't imagine it, ask any Ambrose student about it after Feb. 12. That Wednesday "Imagination," a new theater production of "Figures of Speech Puppet Theater" will perform a special history of the world told by household objects.

Tales Grow

Halley's Comet has streaked all the way through the Ambrose library, into the main office, and is headed upstairs, leaving in its wake "tales" read by over 300 students.

The brightly colored paper tails taped along the building walls bear the names of the students who are reading to keep the comet's tail moving.

Colonial Cooking

"Stuff not thy mouth so as to puff thy cheeks."

"Eat in silence standing at thy place."

As part of a Colonial Unit, Sally Walters' second graderrs at Lincoln School observed these rules during a meal of cornbread, fresh butter and flumery which they made with the help of parent volunteers.

First Grade Parents

Several first grade parents at Lincoln School spoke to their children's classes about their careers

Elizabeth and James Norris explained their banking jobs.

Earl Powel brough tin spoons of different materials and design to tell about industrial design.

Anthony Sobkowicz demonstrated how chemicals clean up polluted waters.

Adolescent Depression And Suicide

Kay Tiffany and Lorna Phillips recently spoke to all the physical education and home economics teachers at the secondary level on adolescent depression and suicide.

The program will be presented to other departments in the future.

Creative Art At McCall

Philip Baumann, a former student at McCall Junior High School recently presented his current art work to the Creative Art Workshop students at McCall. He talked about his experiences at Brown University and his art background at McCall and Winchester High School.

Ward's Has A Gift For Any Occasion

"A satisifed customer comes back," explains Don Ward, owner and proprietor of Ward's Gift Shop in Medford since just after World War II.

And, for the past 43 years, Wards's reputation for good service, reasonable prices, and standing behind his merchandise has kept them coming back.

Many of Ward's longtime customers have moved away but they still call to have china, crystal, or figurines shipped to as far away as Florida or California. He will ship to any part of the U.S.

Located at 24 High st. in Medford Square, Ward's carries one of the largest selections of Waterford crystal in the Boston area, along with 300 patterns of china including such well known names as Royal Doulton, Minton, Pickard, Wedgewood, and Noritake.

Ward's also features a wide selection of limited edition plates, figurines, and collector's dolls. Among the 15,000-20,000 items in the store is one of the New England area's largest selection of figurines including such names as Lladro, Hummel, Royal Doulton, Anri, Kaiser, Sebastian, Francis Hook, and Precious Moments.

Ward's has an appropriate gift for any occasion and ready to assist customers in finding that "something special" is Dorothy, the shop's manager for the past 27 years.

Dorothy, and all the staff at Ward's strive to maintain "a personal touch atmosphere" which has been one of the trademarks of Ward's since it opened its doors. Dorothy and the crew at Ward's are on a first-name basis with most of their customers.

Although he has seen Medford Square change "like all squares change over the years," Ward and his employees have earned and maintained a reputation for personal service, quality, and low prices. "In fact," says Ward, "Word of mouth is our best selling point."

that, as of March 1, 1986, we will be forced to stop taking new maternity patients due to the medical malpractice crisis in Massachusetts.

In 1960, when this practice originated, doctors were paying $200 yearly for insurance. This year we are being threatened with a bill of ninety thousand dollars — with a promise of bigger bills in the future! At the current rates paid by Medicaid and Blue Shield, this means we would have to perform close to two hundred deliveries this year just to pay for insurance coverage. More alarming is the fact that this incredible premium would afford only partial coverage, with no way to protect our families from economic disaster. It just doesn't make sense.

GOVERNOR DUKAKIS AND THE LEGISLATURE HAVE THE POWER TO CORRECT THIS SITUATION which is forcing one doctor after another to quit obstetrics. YOU CAN HELP by calling or writing them to demand reform NOW.

What To Do

Dancing The A Fantastically

The magic of ballroom dancing, as frothy as champagne bubbles, is back. For many, including ardent fans among the senior set, it never left.

"Use your imagination, ladies!"

"You're wearing lovely, long ruffled skirts! Now, kick that skirt out your way," commanded Don Mason.

He crosses the floor in fluid motion, clapping encouragement, and urging adventure.

"Fellows, you are wearing chaps, boots and spurs. Let me hear those spurs spin as you move!"

More than 30 sets of feet obey, as dancers glide, slide and stamp into another world, another time.

Disco, break-dancing and punk, new wave moves are hully-gullied aside as ballroom fever recharges memories and collects new converts from age eight through 80. . . and then some.

Don Mason, a teacher of ballroom for 35 years, sees growing interest in the big band sound among all age groups.

"The people who grew up in the Rock and Roll era are maturing to a different stage of their social life," he says.

"Dancing on a crowded dance floor without looking at your partner is not as exciting as it was when you were 15- or 18- or 20-years old."

In one way, stylized disco, as presented by John Travolta and other glamourous types, ignited this wave of ballroom fever.

This social or"touch" dancing includes varied beats, ranging from the grande dame of dance — the waltz, to the fox trot, topped off with many lively latin forms, such as the tango, cha-cha and rhumba.

Mason teaches clases for seniors at the Jenks Senior Center in Winchester, general classes for all ages, and specific sessions for elementary school children in suburbs including Wellesley, Weston and Acton.

But why this dance form?

Ask the ballroom crowd. Their ages, professions and backgrounds are as varied as the reasons they give for this sport, this hobby, this addiction.

"It's romantic and makes me feel beautiful," says one bride-to-be.

Buda has been dancing ballroom for 40 years. His own daughter learned at age three. She now teaches an evening course in ballroom dancing at the Cambridge Center of Adult Education.

"I feel like a kid," he says. "It keeps me young and my doctor says its the best exercise I can get. Even when I've danced four or more hours, I feel great!"

Experts agree.

Ballroom dance may appear effortless. It requires, however, precise control and significant strength of the thigh, calf, ankle and foot muscles.

Good dancers who strut through several sets are also using and toning the whole body and gaining an impressive aerobic work-out as well, says Steve White, a ballroom expert for 10 years now.

"I loved it when I was younger,"

What Are The Best

Ballroom dancing — alive and kicking in school cafeterias, parish halls, singles clubs, restored ballrooms and fancy resorts throughout the country.

Fox-trotters, rhumba revelers and tango toddlers can strut their stuff in a variety of sites, but fans of all ages report the best of ballroom can be found at Wonderland Ballroom in Revere and Mosley's in Dedham.

Cindy Matin is the manager of Wonderland.

This edifice, with its dance floor sparkling across almost 10,000 square feet, replaces two earlier turn-of-the century ballrooms which were destroyed by fire 23 years ago.

Martin reports that most of her customers, with an average age of 60, come on a regular basis.

They seem to enjoy the increasing numbers of younger, even college-age dancers who arrive weekly.

Wonderland is open Tuesday, Friday and Saturday evenings and features an eight-piece band.

Call 289-3080 for additional information.

What To Do

Story by Susan Curtis

Clockwise, from top left: Ruth Dube and Bill Forget are noted for their elegant international-style ballroom dance feats; saxophonist Neal Lipson and drummer Tony Bruno inspire dancers of all ages; the mirrored walls at Wonderland create a magical setting; Don Wyman and Karen Sardina met at Wonderland and have a spring wedding planned there; two more fox-trotters strut their stuff; Forget and Dube display the elegance of dance.

Light Fantastic: Good Time

'I dance until it hurts. And then I still feel good,' says Alice Sullivan. 'I loved it when I was younger. I love it more now.'

says Alice Sullivan. "I love it more now.

"In my day, it's all we had for amusement. We went to those dances night after night, if we could get the 25 cents."

Sullivan admits to a cartilege problem in her knee. Although her ballroom sprees don't solve this particular problem, they are therapeutic in another sense.

"I dance until it hurts, she says. "And then I still feel good.

"As a friend of mine said, the only time I can forget my problems is when I'm out there dancing and listening to the music."

"It's relaxing," said one young man from Chelmsford. "For me, it's a kind of stress management."

Carol and Joe Mc Neil are now in their fourth session of a ballroom dance class taught by White at the American Legion Hall in Arlington.

"It's something I always wanted to do," she says. "Now I have the confidence, the time, I'm ready."

"It's our time to go out and live," says Mr. McNeil. "Our kids are grown up and this is something we can do for ourselves as a couple."

Their children, he adds, laughed when they first heard of this new venture but, "they've laughed before," he says.

White sees an increase in the numbers of younger people now taking ballroom lessons, due to interest as well as pending weddings.

More people are now videotaping their weddings. If they're spending $8 to $10,000 on the wedding, says White, they want to look good for the few minutes on tape.

White did not plan to become a dance teacher.

He spent eight years employed in an engineering firm and, at his wife's suggestion, they began ballroom lessons.

Soon this pleasant new hobby became a kind of life force for them.

White admits that on week-ends they drove around to supermarkets looking for announcements of local ballroom dances.

Fate played a part in his career change 10 years ago when he, along with many others, was laid off at Western Electric.

New jobs were open to him, but then, with several years of ballroom lessons tucked away, he decided to become, full-time, a dance instructor.

He now has his own business and views it, he says, "almost like a ministry." Even the worst weather won't keep him from his classes.

"I know how important the lessons become for people," he say.

Many people, says White, take lessons to meet people.

Dance Spots?

This spacious ballroom, built in 1910, hosted up to 1800 dancers nightly in its heyday.

Located in Dedham, at exit 57 of Route 128, Mosley's presents live swing bands every Wednesday and Saturday. Call 326-3075.

Here, too, the age group varies, depending on the time of evening, says manager Bob Gray.

Younger professionals appear for the cocktail hour followed by an older set of ballroom fans.

The Last Hurrah is the only area restaurant featuring the live swing music, the Winiker Swing Orchestra.

Weekly contests are followed by a more intense competition for winners of each 10-week session.

These winners receive a weekend in New York.

Four times a year, session winners compete in the grand event, promising a two-week trip to Europe.

Falk And Flutist On Entertainment

Peter Falk Stars In Award Winning Play In Boston

Falk is no stranger to the stage.

He won acclaim on Broadway as Josef D. Stalin in Paddy Chayefsky's The Passion of Josef D. and scored again as the tragic-comic hero in Neil Simon's The Prisoner of Second Avenue.

Off-Broadway he played the role of the Bartender in the memorable 1956 revival of The Iceman Cometh.

Mantegna, who achieved instant recognition with his performance in the New York production of Glengarry Glen Ross, made an impressive film debut recently in Compromising Positions.

One of the most praised and prolific of modern American playwrights, Mamet's body of work includes A Life in the Theatre, Sexual Perversity in Chicago, The Water Engine, Edmund and The Woods.

Glengarry Glen Ross plays a Tuesday through Sunday schedule with performances and times as follows: Tuesday through Saturday evenings at 8:00 p.m., Saturday and Sunday matinees at 2:00 p.m. and Sunday evenings at 7:30 p.m. Call 423-4008.

Famed Flutist Gives Recital

Jean-Pierre Rampal, the magnetic, magical flutist, gives a recital in Symphony Hall on Friday, Feb. 21 at 8 p.m. in the Wang Celebrity Series.

Pianist John Steele Ritter is the assisting artist.

Acknowledged internationally as one of the great virtuosos of all time, Rampal has single-handedly wrought a world-wide renaissance of flute playing.

His golden flute, warm fluid tone and exuberant personality have mesmerized audiences wherever he has performed.

Although he is considered a champion of the Baroque, Mr. Rampal's repertoire ranges from 17th-century to contemporary.

He has performed familiar favorites, revivals of long-forgotten works and adaptations of works written originally for other instruments with virtually every major orchestra in the United States, including the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the Chicago Symphony, the New York Philharmonic and the Philadelphia Orchestra.

He is perhaps the most recorded classical instrumentalist in history; many of his recordings have received the Grand Prix du Disque.

In 1978, Mr. Rampal was awarded the Leonie Sonning Prize, previously given to such musical luminaries as Igor Stravinsky, Benjamin Britten, Arthur Rubinstein and Andres Segovia. Mr. Rampal, who was born in Marseilles, has been named a Chevalier de la Legion d'Honneur and also an Officier des Arts et Lettres.

Rozann Kraus Returns To Boston

One of the original dancers with the Dance Collective, former faculty member of the Yale School of Drama and winner of an Artists Foundation Fellowship in Choreography in 1983, Rozann Kraus has returned to Boston with long-time collaborating musician, Daniel Epstein and expanded the company to form Kraus And . . .

The company performs Feb. 14 and 15 at 8 p.m. at the Boston Shakespeare Company Theater.

Long recognized for her outstanding choreography and tremendously moving stage presence, Kraus calls upon her diverse background in the arts to create innovative and provocative works that combine dance, music, theater and improvisation.

Commissioned by such wide ranging sponsors as the Cleveland Museum of Art and Boston's First Night, Kraus' works are powerful and sensitive, engaging and entertaining.

Its title refers to the internal thematic structure; every phrase that is danced forward is also danced retrograde — a challenge for the performers and a visual joy for the audience.

Echoes Of Men was commissioned by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom for their world conference.

Set to Kraus' score based on a speech by Elizabeth Cady Stanton, it is a tour de force trio for dancers Ramelle Adams, Karen Bray, Marguerite Anne Furfey and Christine Prokop.

Collins Center Hosts Muir String Quartet

zo Opus 81, Beethoven's Quartet in B flat Major Opus 18, and Shubert's Quartet in G-Major Opus 161 at Andover's J Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts on Sunday, Feb. 16 at 7 p.m.

A relatively young group of chamber players, the Muir String Quartet has risen to international prominence over the last few years.

They won the 1980 First Prize in the Evian International String Quartet Competition, and the 1981 Naumburg Chamber Music Award, and since then have performed all over the country and in Europe.

Perhaps its best-known appearance was in 1983 with the Juilliard Quartet on the PBS series, In Performance at the White House, a nationally televised special which drew critical acclaim.

The foursome, all graduates of the Curtis Institute of Music, met seven years ago, with the exception of violinist Lucy Stoltzman. She, the wife of clarinetist Richard Stoltzman, joined her colleagues from Curtis in the spring of 1985 to become the newest member of the quartet.

When they were Curtis students, the Quartet studied chamber music with Felix Galimir, Mischa Scheider of the Budapest Quartet, and Arnold Steinhardt and Michael Tree of the Guarneri Quartet.

The members, currently in residence at Boston University are Lucy Chapman Stoltzman and Bayla Keyes, violinists, Steven Ansell, violist, and Michael Reynolds, cellist.

The ensemble is making their sixth tour of Europe this year and will record its second EMI album, containing the Chausson Quintet with pianist Jean-Philippe Collard.

Tickets are available at the Collins Center box office, Shawsheen rd., off Rts. 133 and 93 in Andover. Call 470-1905.

Family Favorite Is Back

I Remember Mama, a heartwarming drama which inspired a popular television series of the same name in the 1950s, is now at the Wheelock Family Theatre.

The play centers around the inter-relationships of a Norwegian-American family in the 1930s and deals with many of the issues new immigrant families faced when they moved to the United States.

The focus of the play is Mama, a dauntless woman who finds wonderfully wise solutions to life's problems.

Jane Staab, an Equity actress who was last featured in the Family Theatre's production of The Wizard of Oz, plays the title role.

The Wheelock Family Theatre offers the only professional production company in the Boston area performing plays designed especially for family audiences. This performance is particularly appropriate for children over eight years old.

All tickets are $5. Limited free parking is available. Reservations are accepted for all performances by calling 734-5200.

Neil Simon Comedy Plays At Boston College

This Neil Simon play gives us a comic, contemporary slant on the Biblical story of Job.

At midnight the burglar alarm pierces the calm of a luxurious Long Island mansion.

The head of the household, Joe Benjamin, bravely approaches the door to investigate. But far from a criminal, the intruder turns out to be a zany movie buff from Queens.

This talkative fellow reveals that he is a messenger from God. He treats us to some celestial gossip, then relates his mission.

Joe, a deeply religious man, has been chosen by God to be tested to see whether he can retain his faith.

Tickets for the production are $3, general admission. Call the theater box office at 552-4800.

Life And Limb At Trinity Rep

Trinity Repertory Company's production of Keith Reddin's Life and Limb opened recently in the Downstairs Theatre and continues through March 23 in downtown Providence, R.I.

Directed by Neal Baron, former Trinity Rep production assistant in his first directing assignment for the Company, Life and Limb is a strong, funny, and strikingly original play by one of America's most exciting youth playwrights.

Life and Limb is Reddin's first full-length play, and is a fitting addition to Adrian Hall's All-American Season at Trinity Rep.

Life and Limb is a play of stunning imagination about a Korean War veteran who returns to his home in New Jersey to find that life is not quite the same for him.

While the play is comic in spirit, it slips back and forth between outright comedy and a darker, more subtle kind of humor.

Franklin Roosevelt Clagg's adventures back home are set in scenes of high suggestive power, as we move from the Boardwalk in Atlantic City to a sewing-room in, of all places, Hell.

Performances are Tuesday through Saturday at 8 p.m., Sunday at 2 and 7 p.m., and selected Wednesday and Saturday matinees at 2 p.m. Call the Box Office at (401) 351-4242.

What About Art? By Meredith Fife Day

Shanghai Artist At Tufts

Chinese artist Qiu Deshu has been commisssioned to create a work of art for the Elizabeth Van Huysen Mayer Campus Center of Tufts University's Medford campus.

Qiu (pronounced "Chew") is working on the piece, a triptych six feet wide and nine feet high, in his Somerville studio during his stay in this country as artist-in-residence at Tufts and lecturer at the Museum School. He will be here through August.

A native of Shanghai, Qiu is associated with a group of contemporary Chinese artists who place themselves within Chinese painting tradition while embracing aspects of modern painting's complex and varied influences.

These painters want to keep the ancient tradition alive while bringing something new to it. Qiu, who organized the society of painters called "Grass-Grass," was a moving force behind its important first post-Mao-freedom exhibit in Shanghai in 1980.

Painting is for Qiu a very personal means of expression, quite separate from his state job as an art worker at Lu Wan District Cultural Palace.

There, socialist realism is the style and content of posters, announcements for cultural events including films and drama, and decorative paintings for the workers' palaces.

While Qiu acknowledges the contribution of his work, he makes it clear that his own spiritual and intellectual quest demanded a form and outlet separate from the political art of the state.

"My art is my private life," said Qiu through an interpretor. "It is for myself. I like art as a child. I learned from a traditional Chinese painter and tutor.

"I learned traditional calligraphy using pen and ink, and I learned seal carving," he said.

"Revolutionary painting took away the wonder and awe of painting I felt as a child. It became a matter of technique only — nothing of the mind, of personal, spiritual feeling was involved for me.

"I wanted to go back to traditional Chinese painting, but the early Chinese paintings didn't have the message and spirituality of modern times. They didn't create any new image. I needed to paint my own paintings that were not revolutionary, that were not traditional."

Qiu's paintings would be images of "my mind and Chinese calligraphy."

He would attempt to create a new calligraphic language in which his relationship to nature, to space, to self, and to other human beings found expression.

His works are indeed notable in their calligraphic references.

Energetic arcs and curves swoop across surfaces. No angles or corners are to be found. Nor do recognizable images appear.

Qiu's works are abstract. And viewing them brings to mind not only ancient Chinese calligraphers, but western abstract expressionist painters as well.

Juan Miro's huge inky dabs and lively shapes, and Jackson Pollock's rich, linear surfaces haunt Qiu's works.

Prior to 1981 the artist had seen only slides of western paintings. But in that year Qiu saw the Boston Museum of Fine Arts exhibit in Shanghai.

Pollock especially had an impact on him.

The heavy drips of oil paint that create overall surface pattern and intricate spatial layers in Pollock's paintings are not, however, present in Qiu's.

Instead, he uses combinations of materials and collage processes to arrive at a similar, but lighter and more delicate layering.

Depth in Qiu's paintings is physical as well as illusionistic, and is the result of a contemplative and spiritual approach to technique that is uniquely his own.

He combines, in some of his most recent paintings, thin washes of Chinese ink, watercolor, acrylic and oil.

Qiu also uses rubbings in his works. It is ironic that he was trained as a seal carver, but frequently uses the smooth surface of a stone as his own seal.

In one painting rubbings have been made from an imitation Chinese brick. Qiu equates the ancient brick with vestiges of old civilization and the rubbings as passage of time.

The metaphorical significance of materials and techniques is important to Qiu. He refers to tearing of paper as "irresistible power of destruction."

He talks of feeling free with the ink as it moves around the paper either at the end of a loaded brush or poured with water onto the surface.

On the process of painting, Qiu says, "It seems that every stroke I make, even a slender bend, would decide life or death, success or failure for me. What I have instilled into the . . . works is no more brush, ink, and shapes, but my very spirit, temperament, detached inanity, or strength arising from grief and indignation as well as my comprehension of the essense of the universe and life through the movement of brush, ink, pigment, and paper."

For Qiu Deshu, all paintings are self portraits.

He is in them literally, figuratively, spiritually, metaphorically.

The energy and freedom of his calligraphic marks are the energy and freedom of his spirit that find expression and release through painting.

For Qiu it is all one — painting and life, nature and man — and he is compelled to its expression through his work.

An exhibition of work by Qiu Deshu is at Gallery Eleven, Cohen Arts Center on Tufts' Medford campus through Feb. 27. Hours are 10 a.m. to 4 a.m. Monday through Saturday, and Wednesday from 6 to 8 p.m.

Call 628-5000. A simultaneous showing of his work at Tufts' Wessell Library is on view Monday through Sunday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Leave the crowded, snow and ice-covered highways behind and relax in comfort as this diesel-powered, specially-chartered excursion train whisks through some of New England's most spectacular mountain scenery.

Roll along the Boston & Maine's Fitchburg Division, New England's only conveniently scheduled one-day Snow Train and traverse rugged backwoods areas inaccessible by road, cross the mighty Connecticut River, thread through the valley of the Deerfield River, then pierce through the mass of Hoosac Mountain.

The route is rich in history: the Hoosac Tunnel required 24 years to build, cost over $17 milion, and caused the loss of 195 lives in its construction.

Yet during this time, the state of the art in tunnel building advanced farther than in the preceding two hundred years, with the combination of new inventions and the Yankee knack for making bright ideas practical, with the first use in America of nitroglycerine, compressed air drills, and electric exploders.

At 4¾ miles, the Hoosac Tunnel was for many years, the longest tunnel in the world.

The newly-opened Western Gateway Heritage State Park (free admission) is immediately adjacent to our arrival location. There restored nineteenth century buildings house a variety of exciting historic and contemporary attractions.

Adult fares are $44 per person, round trip from Boston to North Adams. Children's fare, for 12 and under, is $28 round trip.

An additional $7 for adult and $5, child, pays for a sleigh ride package.

Payment may be made by check or money order payabale to the Mass Bay RRE Inc., Box 208, East Walpole, 02032.

Tickets will be held for pick up upon departure.

The Massachusetts Bay Railroad Enthusiasts, Inc. traces its beginnings to 1934, when its founders sponsored the world's first railroad "fan trip."

This specially-chartered excursion train operated over the Hoosac Tunnel & Wilmington Railroad, with connecting service from and returning to Boston.

The HT & W operated from the East Portal of the Hoosac Tunnel, northward to Wilmington, Vermont, over a line which has, unfortunately, long since been abandoned.

In the ensuing years, the group has sponsored hundreds of railroad excursions, most of them over "freight-only" trackage.

Mass Bay RRE meets on the third Thursday of each month at the Newton Highlands Congregational Church, 54 Lincoln Street, Newton Highlands, Mass., at 8 p.m.

Monthly meetings feature programs with speakers knowledgeable about railway operations and domestic and international rail travel.

Membership is available at $10 per year.

Additional information on Mass Bay RRE activities is available by writing to Mass Bay RRE, P. O. Box 136 , Ward Hill, 01830 or call Chester Thomas at 277-2843.

Dance The Night Away: Couples Tell All About It

Both are serious swing fiends and were initialy attracted by each other's style and level of dance.

Their first dance? "It was divine intervention," says Wyman.

"I could have danced all night. I felt something very special then and there. We were almost inseparable. We moved well on the floor and loved dancing together."

Wyman adds that the environment and romance of the ballroom setting and sounds made this meeting easier and more pleasant than any potential exchange in a singles' bar.

They are now engaged with a May wedding planned for — where else — the Wonderland Ballroom.

The bride-to-be dreamed of becoming a professional dancer. At age 21, she taught at Arthur Murray's Dance Studio and was mostly interested in disco and newer dance forms.

She expected ballroom to be boring. Now, at age 30, she is hooked.

The couple spins and swings several evenings each week and participates in competitions on an amateur level.

Joseph Castignetti, co-owner of Mosley's in Dedham, believes their renovation of this 1910 ballroom, considered by many to have been the "country club of ballrooms," helped to fuel the current ballroom mania.

"Dancers had nowhere to go," he says.

Most of his clients fall into the "middle-age" category of 30 to 45 years of age, says Castignetti.

Yet, Saturday nights continue to bring in a younger crowd — "college kids."

"It makes me feel good to see they love it so much," says Castignetti, a ballroom swinger himself for 20-odd years now.

Ballroom clubs are sprouting regularly on college campuses. M.I.T., says Mason, has had such a club for years.

Arnold Jacobs of Chelsea is an experienced and devoted tripper of the light fantastic who, more than a year ago, suffered major injuries in an automobile accident which almost ended his dance career as well as his life.

White, his current instructor, explains that Jacobs was told by doctors that he'd never walk again.

Jacobs went through several operations, months of physical therapy, and is now out on the dance floor doing a mean fox-trot with cross-overs, dips and dives.

For him, the magic of ballroom offered physical, mental and emotional therapy. He's now ready to move into a more advanced level.

"A nice woman, a good dancer," he says, "aged anywhere from 18 to 80!"

Ruth Dube and Bill Forget are yet another story.

By no means are they casual ballroomers. They are committed, international-style ballroom dancers who have been in competitions through this country.

Most people learn "social" ballroom — the dance forms most used at weddings or in nightclubs.

This style replaced real "ballroom" as the great big bands became too expensive and the availability of large dance halls lessened.

"True ballroom dancers," says Mason, "really have to know more about dances and patterns. It might be learned through lessons, by watching others at a ballroom, or dancing with better partners."

Mason explains that a single dance, such as the fox trot, might include ten basic steps. Yet, each single step offers dozens of variations.

Dube and Forget met at Wonderland Ballroom five years ago and have been partners ever since.

"Partners never let go as they move," says Forget.

"Don't ballet stars take lessons from masters? You have to have someone better to direct you," says Forget.

The couple invests hours of hard work, constant practice and dedication to their craft. For them, it could not be any other way.

"Here's what it's all about. International ballroom dancers belong to an elite group from all over the world," says Forget.

Its fans — those advocates of fox-trot, cha-cha and jitterbug — collect new steps as easily as reasons for this passion.

This single activity seems to present a package of adventure, mission, challenge, fellowship and accomplishment.

"What a bargain," says White. "For $4 a lesson, you've learned the basics of the fox-trot. Wherever you go, you're not alone, you're socially accepted."

"The fun of ballroom dancing," says Mason, "is the chance it gives you to be someone else. Be Fred Astaire, Ceaser Romero.

"You don't just learn a bunch of steps. You put on a new and exciting character."

What's Healthy?

Answers For Acne

By Dr. ROBERT NORMAN

What causes acne and what can be done to treat it?

Like most common medical problems, acne is surrounded by its share of myths.

Today, we know that acne is not caused by poor personal hygiene or by eating too many sweets.

Rather, acne is a hormonal problem.

It developes when the sebaceous follicles -- which are concentrated mostly in the skin of the face, neck and shoulders -- begin producing too much oil. This excessive oil production is brought on when the levels of certain hormones in the blood increase.

Oil is not the only culprit.

At the same time, there is overproduction of the skin cells that line the follicle. These excess skin cells, along with the excess oil, form sort of a paste which clots the follicle and forms a pimple.

Whiteheads are formed when the follicle opening is tight; blackheads form when the opening is large enough for oil and cells to push up to the surface.

Blackheads are dark in color not because of dirt but rather because they are made up of pigment producing cells.

Doctors classify acne as either non-inflammatory or inflammatory.

Non-inflammatory acne, characterized by blackheads, whiteheads, and perhaps an occasional red lesion -- can usually be cleared up with over the counter remedies. As pointed out by a recent article in Being Well magazine, sulfur, salicylic acid and benzoyl proxide are good for drying the skin.

An exfoliant can also be helpful. These drugs work by opening the follicles so that the excess oil can flow out.

For severe acne cases, such as inflammatory acne, a doctor's care should be sought.

There are severe prescription medications that are highly effective in clearing up sever cases of acne, and your physician can give you information about them.

I want to stress that teenagers should not be blamed for having acne.

Acne is a biological condition that is not caused by bad hygiene or improper diet. If you mislead your child to believe these myths, you may create an unhealthy situation of self-blame, while wasting time that you could spend treating the problem.

What Do You Say?

What Movie Do You Want To Sweep The Academy Awards?

Beth Wiemann, 26
Clerk
Belmont

Probably The Color Purple because it had the best story, the best editing, and the best pacing of events in the movie.

It wasn't as good as the book, but the movie was good within itself.

John Dickhaut, 26
Hewlett Packard Expeditor
Arlington

I like Back to the Future because it was a great movie for all ages.

It was funny, it was moving at times, and it showed a great look at the fifties.

I thought that all ages could understand it.

Lynda Larrabee, 27
Florist
Belmont

Prizzi's Honor. Jack Nicholson was excellent, but I think everyone held their own in the film. I don't think you could pick an outstanding character.

The plot was also excellent. It wasn't the type of movie that goes on forever or, like Rambo, that has a lot of violence.

Barbara Olson, 35
Travel Agent
Arlington

Back to the Future and Emerald Forest.

Back to the Future because it was clever and it was put together really well.

Emerald Forest will get it because there were ideas never thought of before in the film. It makes people think. The scenery was also beautiful.

John Solin, 52
Professor, Bunker Hill Community College
Winchester

I saw Prizzi's Honor which I thought was enjoyable.

I thought The Jagged Edge was a good movie. I found it credible and exciting with the murder trial.

Is the man an innocent victim or a sadistic psycho path?

I think something like that could happen. I've heard of stories of people doing away with their mate and picking up the money.

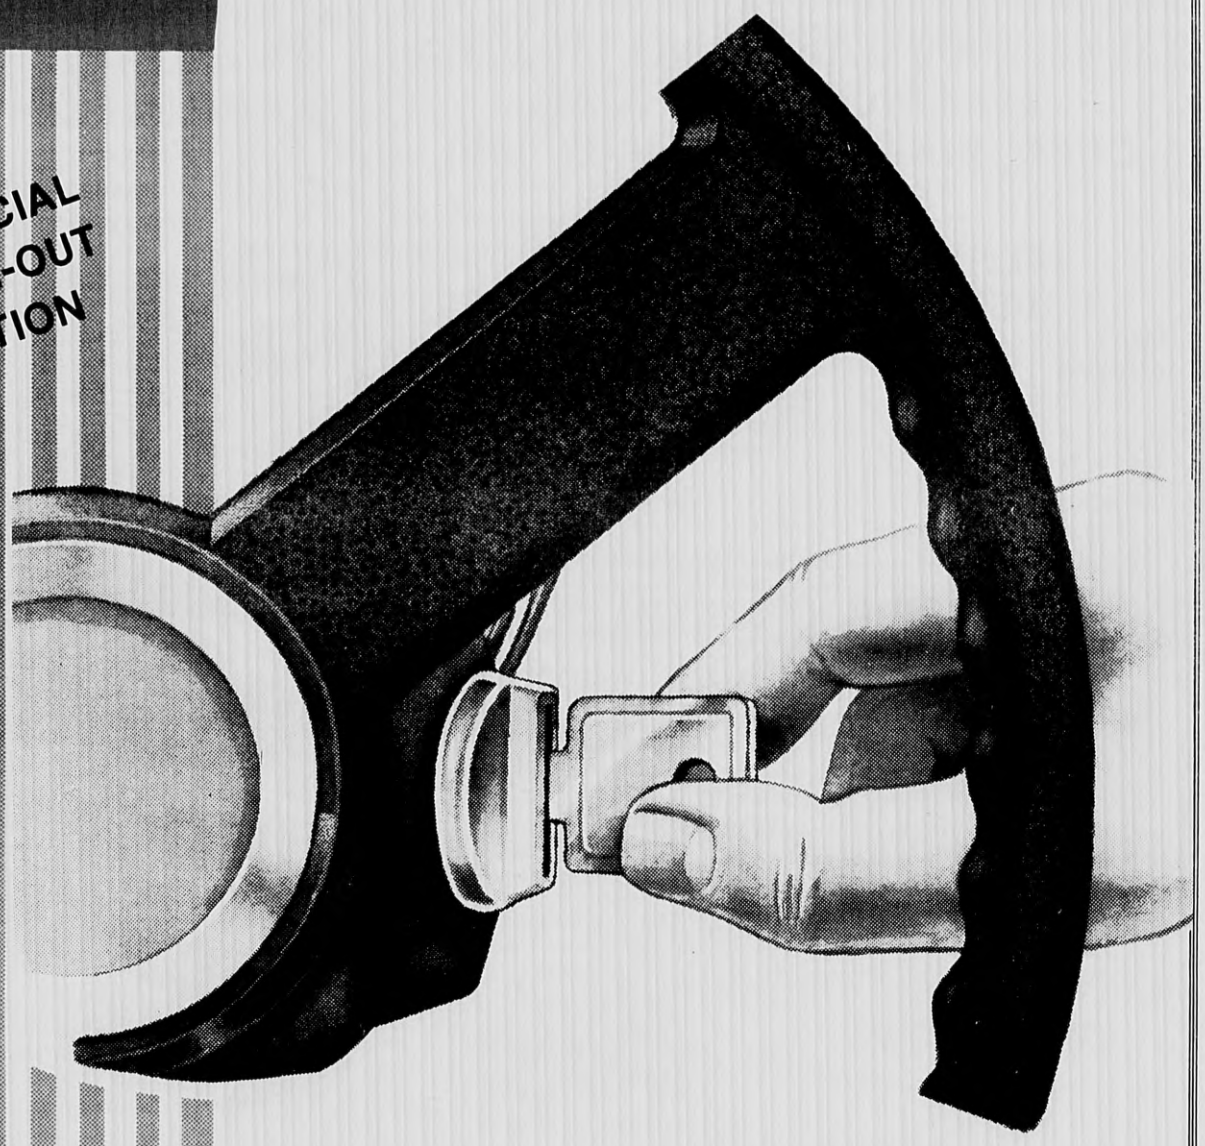

Tom Leonard, 16
Student
Winchester

The Color Purple because Whoopi Goldberg is a new actress who really made her character real.

The subject matter was also very interesting. It wasn't anti-black. It just depicted the time period very well.

Audi Remanufactured Parts. Built Like New. Priced For Less.

Remanufactured parts are better than "rebuilt" or "reconditioned" parts. They may even be better than original parts since technical advances are often incorporated into the remanufacturing process.

Each unit – alternator, water pump or one of over 300 other parts – is disassembled, cleaned and tested to exacting standards. During reassembly, parts that do not meet these standards are replaced. Then the assembly is tested again to make sure it works as well as the original in every way.

Our remanufactured parts carry the same 6-month/6,000-mile limited warranty as new Audi Parts.* The only thing that isn't like new is the price.

PRICE IT RIGHT

Human nature is predictable and there is a better than even chance that you'll put the wrong selling price on your home if you set the price on the property yourself.

You may price it far above its fair market value because of sentimental attachment, expenditures you have made, or heeding a well-meaning friend's advice. A home remaining on the market for months due to overpricing frequently becomes a White Elephant. It eventually sells for a much lower figure than it would have brought originally, had it been priced realistically.

On the other hand, you might under-price it because of your unfamiliarity with the local market. That would be financial folly. Your safest bet is to list your home with a realtor who will help you price it correctly from the start and sell it for the highest and best price with the least amount of inconvenience to you and your family.

Louise Ruma-Ivers is the immediate past President of the Greater Boston Women's Council of Realtors, and a past Director of the Marketing Institute for the Greater Boston Real Estate Board. She is a member of the Arlington Historic Districts Committee.

Dot Stein is a Vice President of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board and a Director of its Multiple Listing Service. She was a long-time Arlington Town Meeting member, and a member of the Arlington School Committee.

Wanted

Blackpowder Shooters

IF YOU' think putting holes in paper is about as exciting as watching the traffic lights change, consider team shooting at breakable targets against a stopwatch. The 10th Massachusetts Battery is looking for more people. We are part of the North-South Skirmish Association, a 4,000 member competitive shooting organization where the shortest elapsed time wins. Units take their names in honor of actual Civil War regiments and members shoot original or reproduction weapons of the 1861-65 period. The 10th Battery competes with .58 cal rifled muskets, caplock breechloading carbines, and an 1,800 lb. full size 3-inch rifled muzzleloading cannon. Yes, there's some paper punching too for those interested, but the real excitement is in the rapid fire team events where you shoot at flower pots, hanging water filled coffee cups, ceramic tiles and 32 clay pigeons on a 4x8 cardboard backer at 50 yds. We welcome all shooters regardless of experience. Our team members live all over - from Maine to Rhode Island to New York -- but more are from eastern Massachusetts. Call Ron Horjesus at 1-835-3102 for further information. 11.3/TF

Doctors Back On Job After Protest

By ERIC BLOM

Winchester orthopedic surgeons are back in the operating room this week after a two-week protest against increased malpractice insurance rates.

On Feb. 1, seven of Winchester Hospital's eight orthopedic surgeons laid down their scalpels, saying they could no longer afford the high insurance rates associated with surgical procedures.

During the doctors' protest, as many as five patients looking for treatment of hip and ankle injuries were transferred to Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston, according to Dr. Wendell Pierce, chief of orthopedic surgery at Winchester Hospital.

No patient was in danger, and most were understanding, he says.

"Very few orthopedic injuries are life-threatening," Pierce says. "Ambulances are as good at handling patients with trauma that there was really no danger of worsening their condition."

Winchester orthopedic surgeons, who say they are pleased with legislative efforts on their behalf, returned to surgery last Friday.

But they also say they may move out of state if pending insurance legislation is not signed into law before April 30.

On April 30, orthopedic surgeons and obstetricians begin paying court ordered, retroactive insurance hikes that will push the average orthopedic surgeon's insurance bill up to $50,000.

"We're not happy with the situation still, but we've been given some assurances that the situation will be given closer scrutiny," Pierce says.

"I think the situation could be far worse if the April 30 deadline comes and nothing is done about it," he says. "A lot of physicians will be leaving the state.

"I'm collecting a lot of information about jobs that are available in other states."

Pierce says three or four doctors at the hospital are considering leaving the state if the the situation remains unchanged.

It is a threat being echoed across Massachusetts, even as most of the estimated 250 doctors participating in the slow-down return to work.

Physicians say they want the state to cap damage awards for pain and suffering, limit attorney fees and give medical groups more power to police bad doctors.

They also want the right to bill patients the difference between what insurance companies pay and the amount they want to charge for an operation.

Right now, state doctors cannot charge patients more than Blue Cross and Medicaid offer to pay. Massachusetts is the only state that outlaws the practice known as balanced billing.

Whither Winchester:

Town Manager Chad Maurer Looks At Town's Future

By GEORGE DERRINGER

Town Manager Chad Maurer is positive about Winchester's future, despite its slow growth rate and an aging population.

Winchester will remain an attractive place to live and work, Maurer said, thanks to beautification of Winchester Center, renovation of town-owned buildings, and planned new open space and park improvements.

"Rapid growth presents one set of problems. Winchester has a different set," said Maurer.

In a wide-ranging interview, Maurer said Winchester's status as primarily a residential community means it does not have an expanding base of office buildings, convenience stores and shopping malls to increase its tax base.

"Most of the development we do have is residential," the Town Manager said.

Winchester must maintain its governmental services without getting more revenue, Maurer said.

"That means it's more difficult to manage a town like Winchester, in at least that sense," the Town Manager said.

But Winchester is still making civic improvements and a long agenda of projects is planned. Many projects or portions of them will be presented to Town Meetings this year.

The Town Hall Improvement Proposal will be brought to the April 28 Town Meeting, Maurer said. Overall, the project is expected to cost around $3.5 million.

"One of the things we have to include, when we do any remodeling to a public building, is make the building entirely accessible to handicapped people," Maurer said. That means installing an elevator.

"But you can't just cut a hole in the building and put in an elevator," Maurer said. "You also have to redesign the building, the doors, the offices and so forth to make them accessible."

No addition is planned for the Town Hall but the project includes many interior changes.

"The original library was located where the Town Clerk's office is now," Maurer said. "It has a vaulted ceiling, which has been covered with a drop ceiling. The architect says it would cost about as much to restore the original ceiling and either create a function room or to leave it as an office."

Maurer and the Town Hall Improvement Committee appointed by the Selectmen favor restoration.

"The committee says it can become the town's living room," Maurer says.

A major goal of the interior renovation will be providing several meeting and function rooms.

"On certain night and times, there are three or four meetings of public bodies going on here. If any number of citizens want to attend, there just isn't enough space in any of the rooms," Maurer said.

A couple of larger meeting rooms would encourage citizen participation, Maurer said. The Selectmen's meeting room is the largest in the Town Hall now but half of the room is filled with an official-looking table.

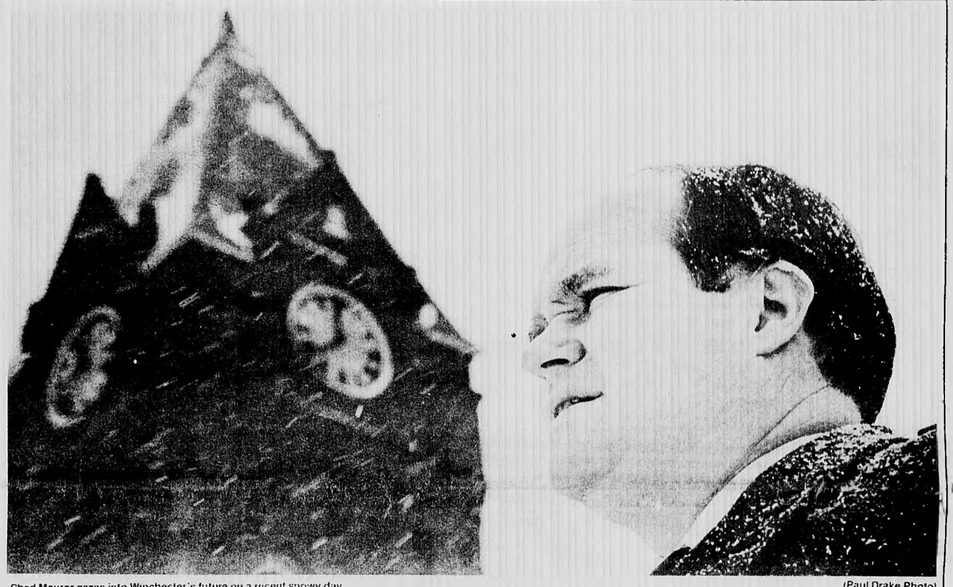

"Town Hall improvements must also fit in with the building's status on the National Register of Historic Places, Maurer said. "The exterior appearance will be essentially the same, although repainting, painting and cleaning will be necessary.

In round numbers, interior improvements will cost about $2.5 million with the remainder for the outside.

Maurer Doubts Kraus On Local Aid Issue

Sen. Richard Kraus recently tried to make Winchester officials believe the state legislature was awfully nice to the town.

Town Manager Chad Maurer isn't convinced.

"The fact is that Winchester is getting less state money for fiscal 1987 than it got this year," Maurer says firmly.

Kraus said it would get 77 percent more.

"It's also true that the percentage of town expense that is borne by the property tax has gotten bigger since Proposition 2½," Maurer says.

Kraus also told the town Feb. 10 that it would get more money than it expected from the state.

"Sure, but that's true only because I was very conservative in my estimates of what we might get," Maurer says. "We apparently will get $85,000 more than I projected. But what would have happened if I hadn't been so conservative?"

'Town Wastes Money:' Clarence Borggaard

Clarence Borggaard, who calls himself The Star's "most consistent correspondent," thinks Winchester wastes some money and spends more money in the wrong places.

"We spend millions on kids and $28,000 on senior citizens," Borggaard says.

Though he quickly admits he doesn't need the mini-bus because he and his wife both drive, Borggaard argues that it should be provided by the town.

"What does it cost to bus the school children around twice a day? Nobody ever says the school buses should be filled or make a profit. So why do they think a mini-bus, available to young people and seniors alike, should show a profit?" Borggaard asks.

"I'm not against kids or schools," he says but seniors are citizens too.

Local Brie Worry-Free

Brie cheese lovers who shop in Winchester have little to worry about.

No retail store in town has any of the brands of bacteria-contaminated cheese.

The federal Food and Drug Administration recalled brands of brie cheese that contain a "natural contaminant" that could cause stillbirth or be fatal to AIDS victims and cancer patients. Some of the brands also can cause flu-like symptoms.

The Continental Cow on Church st. never got any of the affected cheese and a spokesman for the Purity Supreme supermarket on Main st. said the four FDA recalled brands "aren't sent up this way. We lucked out."

The brands are Rue Lepic, Prestige, J. Lincet and Louis the XIV. All the affected cheese has the lot code number 351.

Massachusetts, not the federal agency, also recalled Joan of Arc brand with the lot number 323 and Esprit Nouveau with the lot code number 351.

Purity Supreme had some of the Joan of Arc cheese but had already removed it by the time the Winchester Board of Health called.

Happy 100th, Reagan Tells Margaret Wyer

By GEORGE DERRINGER

Women didn't play hockey 90 years ago but that message never reached Margaret Ellen Smith Wyer of Winchester, who celebrated her 100th birthday Monday.

Other messages, including a special 100th birthday card from President and Mrs. Reagan, arrived Monday and were placed in a room filled with flowers.

Mrs. Wyer was born Feb. 17, 1886, in Truro, Nova Scotia, a fishing town.

"But I never saw so many fish until we moved to Massachusetts," she said. "They sold all their fish in Truro to the United States."

As a girl in the Maritime Provinces, however, she played hockey with the boys. The experience led to a life-long passion.

"I watch all the Bruins games on TV," she said. Until she was 96 and crippled by arthritis of the spine, Mrs. Wyer saw some games at Boston Garden.

Bucky Middleton is her favorite Bruin, she said. After a recent injury, Middleton has promised his mother he will wear a helmet and Mrs. Wyer hopes he'll keep the promise.

Mrs. Wyer lives with her daughter, Margaret Rita Wyer Fee Judd, at 11 Mt. Pleasant st., where both have lived since 1945. Another daughter, Dorothy Wyer Marduher, passed away in 1980.

Mrs. Wyer married an American, Earl Wyer, and immediately gained American citizenship, according to the rules of those days. They moved to Medford and later to the Medford home of her daughter and son-in-law. She came to Winchester with them.

What has changed most since 1886? "Everything has changed," the centenarian said.

"My mother's three great grandsons are ice hockey, baseball. Dwight Evans is her favorite and the buds," Mrs. Fernald said. "She breaks bread to feed the birds three times a day. Every bird in Winchester is in our back yard."

Two pictures hang in Mrs. Wyer's bedroom, in approximately equal places of honor. They are of President Reagan and Bobby Orr.

"The card from the president was very exciting," Mrs. Wyer said.

Of course, like everyone else with good sense, we're Republicans, Mrs. Fernald added.

Mrs. Wyer's mind remains sharp and she sometimes entertains the household with old songs and poems. Yes, she still remembers the words.

Treasurer, Clerk Stay Downstairs

Offices of the Town Clerk and the Town Treasurer will remain on the first floor of the improved Winchester Town Hall.

Members of the Town Hall Improvement Committee decided Feb. 13 to leave the two most visited town offices in the most accessible place.

The committee, with the help of architect Bill Rouse, is completing its recommendations for renovation and remodeling of the Town Hall. Interior renovations would cost up to $2.5 million and exterior repairs around $1 million.

As a result, the historic structure will also be totally accessible to handicapped persons, as required by law.

With some dissent, the committee voted to restore the town's original library, which was located where the Town Clerk's office is now. The room had a vaulted ceiling, which will be restored.

The new room will serve as a meeting room for fairly large gatherings and could become "the town's living room," in the words of Select-

Police cited the man for driving to endanger and failure to stop for a police officer.

Who Wears Size 9 Boots?

Police are looking for the person who broke into five Winchester homes last weekend.

According to the reports, police believe one person is responsible for all the breaks. At all locations, police found size nine cowboy boot footprints in the snow.

Also on Feb. 16 at 2:31 p.m., a Canterberry rd. resident told police someone tried to break into her home by cutting a screen on the first floor. Police said the intruder failed to get in the house.

Solitary footsteps in the snow at McCall Junior High are a sign of the times this week as Winchester's schools are empty for spring break. Some town businesses also closed, and many residents are on vacation in warmer climes. (Paul Drake Photo) better than the rest of us," Mrs. Fernald said. "Once in while, she'll even decide to sing in the middle of the night."

Mrs. Fernald is a teacher at Weston so several nurses keep Mrs. Wyer company during the day. All of them, and some former nurses, brought big bouquets of flowers for Mrs. Wyer's birthday.

Mrs. Wyer has four grandchildren: Prof. Janice Fernald Huang, a college math teacher from Johnson City, Tenn.; Shari Fernald Bergstein of Colchester, Vt.; Gregory Fernald of Houston, Texas; and James Mardulier Jr. of Brewster.

She also has six great-grandchildren.

The chances Mrs. Wyer will celebrate her 101st birthday are good. Her father lived to be 96 and her sister, a nun, died about four years ago at 95.

"My grandmother's life has been a blessing to all of her family and to the other people around her," Mrs. Huang testified in a 100th birthday note.

But you still can't take the hockey player and fan out of this 100-year-old. "The Bruins gave me a present Sunday when they beat Minnesota 5-3 to end a five-game losing streak," she said proudly.

What's ahead for the Bruins this year? Can they catch Montreal and Quebec in the standings? "Oh, yes," Mrs. Wyer smiled.

She'll be watching.

man and committee member Judie Muggia.

Committee members spent most of their two-hour meeting last week discussing the Town Hall's boilers. One boiler runs all the time and is 30 years old. Another boiler, about four times bigger than the building needs, is never used but is only 16 years old.

Should the boilers be replaced? The architect said about 25 percent could be saved on fuel. But as Selectman and committee member Mark Lombardi suggested, "If it's not broke, don't fix it."

Harry Chefalo, arguing the other side, said the heating system is "horrible" and inefficient. Part of the structure is heated by hot water, which is made by first making steam. That part of the system is very inefficient, Chefalo said.

"If we're going to remodel the interior, we ought to have a new heating system and one that we can zone," he said.

Should the basement be remodeled and more space created for offices? Replacing the boilers and remodeling are not related questions, however, the architect said.

Committee members voted to leave the boilers where they are but did not decide whether to replace them.

"Remodeling the basement creates more space than I can find a use for," the architect said. "On the other hand, remodeling now is always cheaper than doing it later."

The auditorium stage also was the subject of much discussion. Most committee members rejected the portion of the latest plan that called for putting in a new stairway that would encroach on backstage space.

Although the stage area would not be affected below a point 18 feet above the stage, committee chairman Dan Chane and others said the stairway would intertere with flying scenery.

The architect was asked to design a plan that would not interfere with the stage, most recently used for the Winton Club production "Celebrate."

A prime concern throughout the committee's deliberation is preservation of the building's character and appearance, both in line with the Town Hall's status on the National Register of Historic Places.

Final recommendations of the Town Hall improvement committee will be brought to the April 28 Town Meeting. Once renovations begin, all town offices will be moved to the auditorium until renovations are completed in 1988.

Conservation Land Locations Will Air In Tuesday Meeting

Winchester residents will learn the locations of land that may be acquired by the town during a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the public library.

The Winchester Conservation Commission will conduct the public hearing and reveal full details of its five-year action plan. The goal of the plan is to increase and protect Winchester's open space and recreational land.

They also point to the private development of several areas proposed for town acquisition in 1977 to demonstrate the need for action.

Proposals include acquisition of private lands and easements across private land, designation of town-owned land as "permanently open," improvement and beautification of some town-owned sites, and placement of farm land in a "watched" category.

The public is invited.

Adolescent Youths Need Foster Homes

Winchester residents willing to provide temporary foster homes for adolescents are "very much needed," said Barbara Jopling, director of the Alternative Homes Program for the Mystic Valley Mental Health Center.

"We often get referrals from families in Winchester and, when possible, we like to place young people in temporary foster homes in their own homes," Jopling said.

Through the program, adolescents and other children from families involved in family counseling are sometimes placed with foster parents for short periods, no longer than six months.

"Usually, the basic problem is a lot of conflict at home, a lot of stress," Jopling said. "The goal of a temporary placement is to relieve conflict until the young person can go back home."

There are currently no Winchester homes on the list to accept adolescents, Jopling said. Mystic Valley serves Winchester, Arlington, Woburn, Lexington, Burlington and Wilmington.

Foster parents provide the alternative home only until the family, through counseling, is reunited, Jopling said.

New parents or single persons who might be willing to accept an adolescent will receive information, training, supervision and support from Mystic Valley, Jopling said. Training for new people is usually on an individual basis, she said.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT
by
John W. O'Grady, M.D.
175 Washington Street, Winchester, MA

It is with sincere regret that after many years of enjoyable practice in this area, I must now stop taking any more new Obstetrical patients. This has become necessary because of the intolerable malpractice atmosphere. I find it economically impossible to continue to pay such exorbitantly high premiums and accept fees that are among the lowest in the nation.

This decision will take effect on March 6th. Any and all patients already registered on or prior to that date will be cared for throughout the remainder of the current pregnancy. Emergencies, of course, will be treated as they occur. My practice in Gynecology will continue unchanged.

This decision will continue in effect until Gov. Dukakis and the Legislature show evidence of good faith in a sincere effort to accomplish tort reform not just for the medical profession but for all the professions, industries, and private citizens who are affected by rapidly escalating premiums and irresponsible suits.

AVOID SURPRISE LIENS

Whenever a contractor makes building improvements or constructs a new building — such as a house — for you, you should always require him to furnish proof that he has paid the businesses furnishing supplies and labor for the job. Otherwise the unpaid suppliers or sub-contractors could file a statement of lien against your property for the money owed to them.

Even if your general contractor gives you a waiver of lien for the work he has done, you are not protected from sub-contractors and suppliers if they have not been paid. They could still get a valid lien against your property if they follow the proper procedures.

More than one property owner has found himself having to pay suppliers and sub-contractors even after he has paid the general contractor. Of course the general contractor is liable to the owner because of this extra payment but recovery from him can be expensive, difficult and sometimes impossible.

Your best protection from this unpleasant and expensive situation is consultation with your attorney during the contract process.

No. 1 in Winchester because we care. It's more than just a business with us . . . it's you and the professional service we provide for you that is the cornerstone of our continued success . . . that's why more buyers and sellers elect ANN BLACKHAM & CO. to be their Real Estate broker.

Donna Landry Announces For School Committee

By DONNA BRANDT LANDRY
Special To The Star

Donna Brandt Landry, 16 Chestnut st., would like to announce her candidacy for the 2-year seat on the Winchester School Committee.

"I firmly support the goal of building a sense of community around our schools. By keeping communication lines open between teachers, parents and students, we are better able to unify our commitment and to maintain our high standards. By problem-solving together, we build mutual respect, strength and understanding.

"The system is stronger when each of its parts is recognized as valuable. We more willingly support and respect a system that listens to our voices. I am committed to listening to each voice and recognizing children's needs, teachers' needs and parents' needs. Being responsible means being responsive.

"As current president of Community School Association (CSA), I have been hearing about these needs. The CSA brings town-wide attention and assistance to problems faced by individual schools, as well as issues that face the entire school system. CSA provides the forum for administrators, teachers and parents to exchange concerns, create dialogues and problem-solve.

"I am knowledgeable of areas of concern, and I view our community as dynamic, not static. We can be responsive to positive changes and improvements in the art of learning. As we discover more about child development, we must continue to experiment and pilot in order to bring new knowledge into productive use.

Donna Brandt Landry, Candidate for School Committee.

"It is because of this sense of partnership of responsibility, I have been active in my neighborhood school, as well as been a leader in town-wide school efforts, such as:

- Committee to Study the Social Studies Curriculum (82)
- Life Education Task Force for Grades 7-12 (83-84)
- Superintendent's Screening Committee for two Principalships (85)
- regularly attending School Committee meetings for four years
- Winchester Interagency Council (85-86)
- Lincoln School Parents' Executive Board President (83-84), Advisor (84-85), Vice President (82-83), Treasurer (81-82).

In addition, my professional background is:

- B.S. Frostburg College, 1967, Elementary Education
- M.Ed. University of Maryland, 1972, Curriculm, Administration, and Supervision.
- Teacher, Prince George's County, Md., 5 years, grades 3-6.

"My children are the basis for my commitment to quality education in Winchester. Next year I will have a child at each level. My involvement with my four children make it possible for me to make thoughtful decisions that will benefit all students.

"School Committee is the place for me to express my dedication to the home-school relationship and to the success of Winchester schools. I eagerly seek the challenge.

Eva Arnott Announces For School Committee Seat

By EVA ARNOTT
Special To The Star

Eva Arnott, of 6 Herrick st. has announced her candidacy for one of the vacancies on the Winchester School Committee. She released the following statement.

"We live in a world of constant change and need to prepare the school children of Winchester to meet the challenges of a future which we ourselves sometimes cannot even imagine. It is important to develop their minds up to the limit of each child's capacity but it is equally important to prepare them to meet the future with self-confidence and joy in living. We must be careful to give each child what he or she needs. What is an enjoyable challenge for one student is a soul-destroying defeat for another. What is necessary repetition for one child is frustrating boredom for another. I have been an interested observer and participant in Winchester Schools and Town Government since my family and I moved here permanently in 1969. As a nine-year Town Meeting member I gained an understanding of what the elected citizens of the town are willing to spend on our schools.

I appreciate the fact that the 80 per cent of the residents who do not have children in the public schools have a right to see that their hard-earned money is not spent heedlessly.

During my term as a member and two-year chairman of the Winchester Historical Commission I gained an understanding of the ways in which different parts of town developed as they did and the extent to which the past affects necessary decisions for the future.

As a 15-year member and current president of Winchester Trails I have worked closely and amicably with members of the administration as a past board member of the Mystic, Lincoln, McCall, High School and Community Schools Association boards and as a current member of the Muraco Parents Association executive board I have learned respect for these groups and would expect to listen closely to their advice if I were elected. As a member of my church vestry and of its Finance Committee I saw how important it is to be able to disagree with a fellow member on one issue and yet do it in such a way that it is possible to work cooperatively with that person on the next item on the agenda.

As a parent of two Winchester high school graduates I have a sense of what really matters in the long run, and as the parent of a fifth grader I care a great deal about the system to which my husband and I entrust our most important possession.

We need to understand the needs and rights of all of the very different children in the system and do whatever we can to encourage them to work together as they surely will have to do when they grow up. We need to encourage excellence in academics, but, even more, we need to encourage excellenced in being a human being.

Eva C. Arnott, Candidate for School Committee

Robert Deering States Commitment To Town

By ROBERT F. DEERING
Special To The Star

Any candidate for Selectman in Winchester should be prepared to make a commitment to maintain the level of professionalism that has provided this town with its fine reputation. I am prepared to make this commitment.

I believe that for a Selectman to be effective he must have an understanding of the needs and desires of the townspeople. As a Town Meeting Member and involved in town activities such as the Jenks Senior Center Expansion Committee, Town Day and the Winchester Soccer Club, I feel I am well prepared to fully understand the wishes and concerns of the residents of Winchester.

The Board will be addressing issues such as parking, Fair Housing, and the Woburn Loop. It is not so much the issues that are important, but the methodology that is employed in resolving them. A Selectman must always be willing to listen, compromise and conduct himself in a manner that preserves the values of the office.

My professional background, managerial experience and involvment in various community services provides me with strong qualifications for a seat on the Board of Selectmen.

In asking for your vote on March 25 I make no promises except that I will devote whatever time is required to provide the proper and progressive leadership that Winchester deserves. I'm willing to make the commitment ... Are you?

11 Local Republicans To Go To Convention

Winchester Republicans elected their 11 delegates to the state convention during a meeting of the town committee Feb. 11.

Town ex-officio delegates will be Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh, Women's Republican Club President June Cannon, State Committeewoman Margaret Perenick and Ann Blackham.

A caucus of the Fourth Middlesex District is scheduled from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, March 1, at the Jenks Senior Center in Winchester to elect 14 delegates-at-large. The district includes Arlington, Lexington, Winchester and Woburn. Republicans are urged to attend.

Robert Beattie was accepted as a new associate member while four other associate members, including Mark Smith, Charles Preus, John Twomey and Rodney Rehfeld were elected to fill four vacancies on the elected membership roster.

During the Feb. 11 meeting, nomination petitions were circulated for Nicholas Nikitas of Boston, a candidate for lieutenant governor, and Edward F. Harrington of Needham, a candidate for state attorney general.

Rep. Saltmarsh spoke about several state issues and criticized the proposal of the governor that would reimburse some cities as much as 90 percent of their lost federal revenue sharing.

Winchester and many so-called wealthy towns would receive state replacement of only 10 percent of lost federal funds, he said.

Jane Robbins To Address Chamber Business Dinner

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

To run a successful business, Winchester's entrepreneur Jane Robbins says local businesses need to look at themselves as more than simply a convenience to residents.

"Convenience is not a base for a business," Robbins explains. She says local merchants need to realize "there is competition in the area. It's a mistake for a retailer not to perceive surrounding towns as competition, they are."

Robbins will address professional women who work in and outside of Winchester at a dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m., Feb. 27 at Jeanne Tahnk's Gourmet Kitchen, 910 Main st. Her topic she says will be, "Growth Marketing for Local Businesses." The meetings are once a month and are sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Their company, she says, is very focused. "We know our market," she says.

The company analyzes the world oil market internationally in terms of the supply and demand of petroleum.

The secret to their success — "showing that you're different from what everybody else does," says Robbins.

"Winchester is becoming more attractive," says Robbins adding that businesses need to upgrade their establishments in order to keep up the town's image in light of all the recent renovations in the downtown area.

"It's not enough any more for businesses to pay the rent and make a little pocket money — that's not a successful business," says Robbins.

Robbins also says prices for retail prices have soared in the last five years. Five years ago the going rate space per square foot was $7 to $10, today she estimates its in the neighborhood of $15 or more.

Robbins says some local businesses are failing to identify a particular market of people. She says this is the first step towards running a successful business. The group of people, in marketing terms is defined as a target market.

Robbins says local businesses tend to ignore the need to advertise and promote their products. "Instead they sit passively by. Most people who go into retail don't have a lot of experience. Local businesses need to reach outside the local market," says Robbins.

On Feb. 26, Robbins says she will make suggestions to Winchester women in business on how to identify a market, how to get closer to the market, how to make a local business grow and how to differentiate a business from its competitor.

The Arnott family: the famly that plays together stays together could be the family motto. Peter, Jenny, and Eva.

Playing At Plays:

Winchester Family Roles Merrily Along

The Arnott family of Winchester will be prominent in the Tufts University production of Henrik Ibsen's earlyfeminist play, "A Doll's House."

Peter Arnott will direct the production and Jenny Arnott, 10, a student at the Muraco School, will make her big-time drama debut.

"A Doll's House" will be performed at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 25, through Saturday, March 1, at the Tufts Arena Theater in Medford. Tickets range from $1 to $4 with prices rising during the week.

Natives of England, the Arnotts came to the United States in 1958 and to Tufts and Winchester in 1969.

Eva Arnott, who describes herself as "the last of the unreconstructed housewives," also has extensive experience in the theater.

She was a costumer and, for several years, ran a summer stock theater in Michigan with her husband. Now she is more involved in volunteer work, particularly at Winchester schools, than theatrical pursuits.

"We ran and owned part of a summer theater in Grand Ledge, Mich., about 20 miles west of Lansing," Peter says.

"I'd say it ran profitably, in every sense of the word."

The Grand Ledge theater was a far cry for the classical theater for which Peter trained in London.

"We performed everything from Neil Simon to King Lear but no musicals," Peter says. Audiences were large and the theater drew patrons from the Lansing and Detroit areas.

"I wrote fake reviews for the little newspaper there," she says. "The newspaper was a one-woman operation and if she was planning to go away, she'd have me write a review of our upcoming play."

A week before opening night, of course.

Eva said she often used the reviewer's role to praise an actor or actress who needed encouragement but "sometimes it backfired and the actor would feel so good he'd demand a raise."

The upcoming challenge, however, is "A Doll's House," which the director calls "the proto-women's liberation play."

Jenny will portray the daughter of the couple who are the subject of the play. In the storyline, the wife feels oppressed and decides to break away from her husband and family.

"In 1879, when 'A Doll's House' was written, this was a scandalous play," Peter says.

"It's hard work but fun," says Jenny, who has previously appeared in a radio production of the "Turn of the Screw" on WGBH and in a Girl Scout production.

"Directors ought to act," says Peter. "If you don't act, you start forgetting how tough acting really is. And you forget that the actor's job is really profoundly boring. Actors spend most of their time waiting for something to happen."

Peter also lectures about drama and the theater at other colleges and universities. "We keep the Winchester Travel Agency busy," Eva, who has to organize the trips, says.

How did Peter become an actor and director?

"It's always been in me," he says. "When I was a child, I didn't play with my toys the same way other children do; I made them part of a play."

Drama remains "the most powerful way to make a statement, to force a group to ask questions," Peter says.

> Eva Arnott, who describes herself as "the last of the unreconstructed housewives," also has extensive experience in the theater.

"In the theater, you can create a world in which things happen the way you want them to," he adds. "And you don't have to deal with the everyday minutiae of life, the ordinary happenings. You can deal only with what's important."

Acting, however, is a gift, the director says. "You really can't teach people to act. You either have it or you don't."

Timing is the crucial element of acting. "I've known some people who were very good actors in every respect — and that has nothing to do with intelligence — but whose timing was terrible. It's hopeless."

Intelligence has nothing to do with acting."

"No, some very brilliant actors are very stupid offstage," Peter says. "One actress I have worked with could perform with great conviction and move the audience with her delivery. But she was unable to discuss the play; she had no idea what the words meant."

Peter says that actress is now well known and in a TV series but he refused to name her.

Peter and Eva came to the U.S. partly to escape the European system of training actors.

"In the United States, the theaters and the drama department have a much more active relationship with the rest of the university," Peter says.

Only in America is theater considered to be a part of a college education, as it is at Tufts, although Europeans are slowly adopting the American outlook.

"Still, only about six universities in Great Britain even have a drama department," Peter says. "When some of our students go abroad, they are amazed to discover that."

He says Tufts' emphasis that drama is an essential part of a liberal arts education because it is an important method of communication is even unusual in America.

In Britain, actors and actresses are trained at professional schools.

"The problem is that people who finish the school but don't make it as professional actors have no real education," Eva observes.

Another result of the British system is that even more actors chase fewer jobs than in America.

The Arnotts also have two older children. Christopher, 24, has directed several one act plays, including some in Winchester, and is an English major at Tufts.

Catherine, who holds a Ph.D. in American history from the University of Michigan, did some acting as a youngster.

"Now she and I enjoy exploring historic sites while the rest of the family does more dramatic things," Eva says.

Peter Arnott spends a pensive moment.

> The Grand Ledge theater was a far cry for the classical theater for which Peter Arnott trained in London. 'We performed everything from Neil Simon to King Lear but no musicals,' Peter says.

A Slice Of The Past: Evident Animation

By TERRY MARROTTA

I ran across a photo last week taken in 1903 on Boston's Commonwealth Avenue.

To the extent that it was a picture of anything, it seemed to be a picture of a gentlemen's club and the buildings which flank it, the club itself a fine and imposing edifice, with its double chin of columns and its wide tall windows.

They were all fine buildings in this photograph, buildings which if they were people would have borne the triple names of the old Boston—like James Russell and Oliver Wendell Holmes.

It seemed to be summer when the picture was taken, to judge by the filigreed fans of the elms' young branches.

But what struck me most about this small frozen slice of the past was not the elms, or the proud tall march of those confident buildings, but the evident animation of the random pedestrians who passed before them.

You saw there a strolling couple, she in long-flaring skirts and he in a top hat and cane.

They leaned toward one another, smiling, in what seemed a moment of warm conspirator's mirth.

The baby was the one subject who moved too fast for the camera's slow blink: its face was a blur of white, with nine or ten eyes instead of two filling the space beneath its bonnet.

Its mother leaned forward as if to brush a fly away from this busy little face.

Her small waist and the neatly sculpted curve of her hip announced her as a young woman, a bride perhaps, and this her first baby.

She needn't have been its mother at all, of course, but only a servant taking it for some air.

Something in her posture, though, as she leaned in toward that small smudge of liveliness--some component of pride, or possession, or delight captured there, suggested otherwise.

And I'm not sure yet what secrets I hoped to see disclosed there.

1903, I found myself thinking: how impossibly long ago. Here was that street looking nearly as it does today, and the buildings themselves looking the same too—yet how changed is so much else in the life of Boston and the larger world.

The Back Bay was new then.

They shaved the top off Beacon Hill, the story goes, and used that land to fill in the old salt flats on the flood plain of the Charles.

These were new houses in this picture, and fresh cobblestones, and very young trees.

These were new and vibrant people too, and not the insubstantial shadows we think of when we picture our forebears.

This was the same sun that shines today, shining then on a brand-new century, on a time, for Americans, of soaring optimism.

My grandparents married in 1903. They lived in Boston too.

They could be the young couple pictured here, my grandfather just out of law school and his wife fresh from her years in the classroom.

Where does today go, then, when the sun sets on it? My youngest daughter asked this last night, and I had no reply for her.

"It's behind us—back there," said her older sister, pointing. And we all turned as if expecting to see it.

Where does the past dwell besides in these pictures, I wonder?

The horse with its shining coat and its proud flicking tail?

Not in the earth, only; not merely dead, I don't think.

A picture like this one, depicting the brimming exuberance of a day, its ordinary and miraculous sunshine, suggests that the past is still alive somewhere after all, and just beyond our reach.

1903 is alive there too. Buildings now old are new there today. Babies grown to blossom and gone to seed bloom there as well. Around some corner we can't quite imagine; beyond the grasp of our too-tiny minds.

BEACON HILL ROLL CALL

The House And Senate. "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local senators' votes on five roll calls from the week of February 10-14. There were no roll calls in the House.

Local Aid Resolutions—Senate 19-5, adopted resolutions stating the intent of the Senate that at least $241.1 million in new local aid be given to Massachusetts cities and towns in fiscal 1987.

The total includes $49.8 million in increased aid as a reserve for cities and towns to replace a portion of the actual loss of federal revenues.

Supporters said the package was a sound one which was developed after extensive input from state and local officials and noted it allows communities to know in advance the minimum amount of local aid.

Opponents said the package was unfair and noted some communities would receive 90 percent of anticipated federal losses while other would receive only 10 percent.

Many said they have never seen the formula on which the $49.8 million distribution is based.

A "Yea" vote is for the resolutions. A "Nay" vote is against them.

Senator Richard Kraus voted yes.

75 Perecent—Senate 18-9, rejected an amendment increasing the amount of new local aid from $241.1 million to $251.1 million and increasing the money designed to offset federal cuts from $49.8 million to $59.8 million.

The amendment also provides that each community receive at least 75 percent of the amount necessary to replace the actual loss of federal revenues.

Amendment supporters said this would improve the package and for $10 million would remove inequities and insure 75 percent reimbursement.

Opponents said the package is already fair and noted it helps all communities but gives additional assistance to poorer ones.

Kraus voted no.

40 Percent Growth—Senate 19-7, rejected an amendment creating a local aid stabilization fund into which the state would transfer an amount equal to the difference between 40 percent of estimated growth taxes and 40 percent of actual growth taxes in any one year.

The amendment also gives the legislature the power to approve a distribution formula for the money.

Amendment supporters said communities have been shortchanged for many years because they have not received the promised 40 percent of actual growth.

Opponents said when indirect aid is included, communities receive 40 percent of actual growth.

Some said they support a stabilization fund but questioned whether the amendment is the proper mechanism.

Kraus voted no.

50/90—Senate 17-9, rejected an amendment eliminating the section of the resolutions providing for $49.8 million to offset federal revenue sharing cuts and replacing it with a section providing a reserve to reimburse communities at least 50 percent of their loss of federal funds.

The Senate 20-10, also defeated an amendment providing reimbursement of 90 percent of lost funds. Amendment supporters again said the package's only 10 percent.

Opponents said the package is fair and gives additional help to poor and needy communities.

Two roll calls are listed below. The first is on 50 percent reimbursement. The second is on 90 percent.

On both roll calls, a "Yea" vote is for the amendment. A "Nay" vote is against it.

Kraus voted no on both roll calls.

Brick Walks Not Needed, Says Terzaghi

TO THE EDITOR:

It was shocking to learn from the Feb. 13 Star that Winchester may again become the victim of "beautification" in the form of brick sidewalks.

The brick walks already in place exceed the acceptable limit, both from the standpoint of expense as well as from that of the convenience of the user.

The initial distress was provoked by the destruction of good sidewalks, a thoughtless extravagance in view of the unmet needs for housing and other necessities in our town, our state, and our nation.

Still more distress was experienced when we had to walk on the bricks, which are a safety hazard even to those pedestrians who wear the flattist of flat heels.

One word of approval for the new walks is, however, in order: one must applaud the presence of wheelchair ramps.

We shall need them when we start breaking bones after a few winters of frost-heave and snowplowing produce still more projecting bricks to trip the unwary.

Sincerely,
Ruth D. Terzaghi

Trails Members Seek Support On Open Space

TO THE EDITOR:

As members of the board of Winchester Trails, we are all extremely interested in the work of the Conservation Commission.

In order for Winchester to be eligible for state aid to protect our open space, the Commission is required to update its Open Space and Recreation plan at regular intervals.

It has been working on this during the past year and now intends to present its proposals to interested citizens at a public meeting.

This will take place on Tuesday, Feb. 25 at 7:30 p.m. at the Public Library meeting room. Many Winchester Trails members plan to attend, so that we can learn about the Commission's plans for land acquisition and its suggested motions for Town Meeting.

Please join us.

Nicholas Haber Complains Town Has Vendetta

TO THE EDITOR:

I have come to the conclusion that the town of Winchester has a personal vendetta against the youth of today.

We are considered to be ignorant, arrogant, and brash. Just the other day, a friend of mine and I entered a bank in order for him to make a withdrawal.

He stood at the end of a long line of adults all performing the same act.

The line went fairly fast, each adult receiving his or her money with little or no question to their credibility; however, when my friend's turn came around, not only did he have to produce his license, but the clerk checked his records once with the manager and twice with the computer.

More than once my friends and I have been kicked out of Brighams for little or no reason.

Once we were eating ice cream when my friend accidentally broke his plastic spoon.

When he asked for another, the man behind the counter flew into a frenzy and kicked us all out. Almost a week later, when we returned, he kicked us out before we even got in the door.

Just last week I read an article in the Star that prompted me to write this letter. It regarded the Mini-Bus and the debate on whether to bring it back.

Now I do not wish to take a stand in this issue, but it does bring up my point of the town's prejudice against youth.

It also reassured me that some adults can be just as ignorant as they interpret children to be.

Case in point, Mr. Lombardi, who with his silver tongue attempted to make a point about the Mini-Bus.

He said that the old Mini-Bus was only a "baby-sitting service for young people."

Even if this statement was true, he goes on to prove his bigotry by exclaiming that the only people who would use it "have two or three Mercedes."

I ask is this an example of the open mindedness we expect from our politicians or an example of the bigotry we attempt to scour from our society?

Does Mr. Lombardi forget that he too was once a youth?

Perhaps if the adults of today put more trust in their children then the ignorance of bigotry would soon diminish when the youth of today become the leaders of tomorrow.

Conservation Group Wants People For Feb. 25 Hearing

TO THE EDITOR:

On Tuesday, Feb. 25, at 7:30 p.m. the Winchester Conservation Commission will be holding an Open Space Public hearing at the public library.

As residents of this town concerned with the issue, we strongly urge other town residents to attend and participate in this hearing.

The Conservation Commission recently produced an updated Open Space and Recreation Plan for the town, which includes proposed goals and objectives resulting in a five year action plan.

The purpose of the hearing on February 25 is to provide the town's people with the opportunity to give their input and feedback on the proposed plan so that it will be truly reflective of the needs and interests of town residents.

If Winchester's Open Space and Recreation Plan is designed well and truly meets the needs of this community, then it can prove to be a useful tool in helping to maintain and improve the quality of life in this town.

It seems that there are many groups and individuals that should be deeply concerned with the content of the Open Space and Recreation Plan.

A few of these are:

1) parents - who are concerned with the amount and quality of the recreational facilities available to their families and children;

2) environmentalists - who are concerned with issues of ecology and environmental quality;

3) property owners - who are concerned with maintaining and enhancing the value of their property; those located close to currently vacant land have a particularly vested interest;

4) sports enthusiasts - who would like to see more soccer fields, tennis courts, jogging paths, cross country ski trails, hiking paths, skating ponds, etc.; and

5) "Winchester enthusiasts" - those who are concerned with maintaining the beauty and quality of life in this town.

Less than 10 percent of Winchester's land is still available. Now is the time to ensure that some of it will remain for the public good! Please attend the hearing on February 25th!

Robinson Congratulates Saltmarsh

TO THE EDITOR:

I would like to take this opportunity to publicly congratulate Rep. Sherman "Whip" Saltmarsh on his perseverance and diligence in attaining a 98.3 percent roll call attendance record during the 1985 legislative year.

This is an amazing record that becomes even more impressive when one discovers that there was a record total of 1,096 roll calls during the year.

Since 1975, and including 1985, there has been a total of 6,617 recorded roll calls in the Massachusetts House of Representatives. Rep. Saltmarsh was recorded as voting on 6,540 of them, a 98.8 percent 11 year record!

Rep. Saltmarsh also serves on the Rules, Transportation, and Special Redistricting Committees. This exceptional roll call record was obtained while performing all the time-consuming tasks required by committee membership.

Not only do I extend my compliments to Rep. Saltmarsh for such diligence, but I would also like to congratulate the citizens of Winchester and Stoneham for having the good sense to send this individual to the Massachusetts Legislature as their representative.

Sincerely,
William G. Robinson

Granddaughter Writes Praise Of 100-Year-Old

TO THE EDITOR:

Feb. 17, 1886, seems a long time ago today, in the modern age of space travel and telecommunications.

It seems like ancient history to our children, who speak laughingly of dinosaurs and ice ages.

It was an era when life was slower, people traveled by horse and carriage, and they had time to sit and talk with friends.

And it was on that day — 100 years ago next week — that my grandmother was born in Truro, Nova Scotia.

Since then, she has seen many things come and go — the changes the last century has seen are countless.

She married and had two children, four grandchildren, and now six great grandchildren.

Her life has been a blessing to all of them, as well as to the other people around her.

She regales us with songs and poems memorized long ago before we were born, and she keeps us on our toes — often amazing us by knowing more about what's going on in the world than we do!

She has lived life to its fullest and continues to do so. Perhaps that is the secret of long life! In any case, on this, her 100th birthday, her many descendants rejoice and celebrate with her — Margaret Ellen Smith Wyer — a special lady on a very special day!

Mrs. Wyer lives at 11 Mt. Pleasant st. in Winchester.

GUEST COLUMN

From Thee To 'Me!' Democrats Stand A Chance

By RICHARD MANUGIAN

I've come up with a secret strategy to win the Democrats the presidential election in 1988.

Even though it's secret, I'll share it with you.

I doubt if the Democrats would have the sense to use it, anyway.

After all, any party that squandered the last two elections the way they did certainly can't be serious about capturing the presidency.

But here's how it goes.

It's based, in part, on Ronald Reagan's successful approach — which proved practically anybody can become president, provided they press the right buttons.

In Ron's case, in 1980, that meant telling American voters they should ignore any ills and feel great about themselves and their country.

When you think about it, there couldn't have been a more perfect candidate for the Me Generation.

Ron knew that, after a couple of decades of national guilt and moral conscience, Americans longed to hear "My country right or wrong."

It was shrewd thinking, supported by strong historical precedent.

After all, look how well it worked for Hitler and a German populace tired of being blamed for World War I.

Of course, the I've Got Mine, The Hell With Everybody Else message won't work this time out, because Ron's already milked it.

But I figure the Democrats can still catch the American public — they just need the right pitch.

And I think I've got it.

By 1987, when the presidential campaign is in full swing, Ron's staggering federal deficit should be hitting consumers where they hurt the most — in their bank accounts.

After all, no matter what anyone tells you, that's all they really care about.

Americans like to talk tough, sure, and push around little banana republics with armies the size of Boy Scout troops.

But give them a chance to pocket the billions that pay for our worldwide military efforts and I guarantee they'll bite.

More importantly, they'll vote.

In fact, the American voters will vote their paychecks every time.

So all the Dems have to do is promise to give the voters money.

And, thanks to Ron's monstrous military buildup, I know just there they can get it.

Instead of spending billions to point guns at other countries from outer space, they can offer to give the billions back to the American voters in tax cuts.

I'd go for that in a minute. Wouldn't you?

At the same time, they could take money devoted to gooty programs like the Sergeant York gun and MX missiles and use it to slash the deficit.

Of course, some people might argue that the average American is too selfish and shortsighted to spend money on reducing the deficit, but I don't think that will be a problem.

I figure they'll be so happy with their tax cut money, Americans won't care — or even notice — if their elected officials commit funds to something sensible.

In fact, I bet the Democrats could go so far as to tackle something really crazy, like spending money to ease world hunger or develop cures for disease.

But the potential is definitely there. And we're just talking about the tip of the iceberg.

Democrats could save even more money by cutting off funds for Contra terrorists and other programs that destabilize Third World countries.

And, if you're like me, the thought of bucks like those makes your mouth drool.

With tax cuts that size, pretty soon America could boast a BMW in every garage and a microwave oven in every kitchen.

I've even thought up some catchy campaign slogans.

Like, "Hell No, We Want Our Dough." And, "A Quiche In Every Pot."

Or, how about, "Make Money, Not Terrorists."

Okay, so that last one needs work.

But at least it's a start.

Senior Benefit Counselors Help Others Understand Health Care Intricacies

By MATTHEW GARY

Eight Winchester seniors are helping others understand the intricacies of today's health care.

The Jenks Senior Center, in response to the increasing need by seniors, created the volunteer "Health Benefits Counselors."

The six-woman two-man group meets monthly to compare notes and update its information.

The group includes Richard Brownell, Helen F. Cotter, Agnes Blyth, William Burns, Helen Dame, Audrey Kuhn, Mary McLaughlin, and Kay Morris.

They help other seniors process supplemental insurance forms and help answer questions about changing laws.

But the counselors also offer other services.

Barbara Ciampa, director of the Jenks Senior Center, says, "They help individuals sort through the sheaf of papers they receive upon being discharged from a hospital.

"They will sit down quietly with a senior citizen and explain what each form means."

In addition, she says, the counselors help seniors understand which supplemental insurance programs are best suited to their needs. Ciampa says that no matter what the problem, "If someone calls into the center we can put them in touch with the appropriate agency."

Winchester volunteers hold regular hours at the Jenks Center and will also make home visits to elderly person unable to make the trip.

Faced with the need for a group of trained volunteers to clarify details of health benefits, Ciampa and the Council on Aging sent out a call a year ago for volunteer seniors to fill the role.

When the Council on Aging's call was answered, the group attended spring and autumn sessions of the Executive Office of Elder Affairs' Advocates Program.

The counselors will also attend the sping session of the program, the third offered.

The program was started in 1984 by the secretary of the executive office Richard Rowland to help elders speak more directly on issues they felt strongly about, such as changes in Medicare and patients' rights.

It was expected that better understanding of these issues by seniors would allow them to more effectively back the legislation they favored.

The program is given twice a year in eight districts.

Each session is two days long.

Despite the variety of topics offered by the Elder Advocates Program, the eight Winchester volunteers concentrated on Medicare and health care issues only, said Ciampa. Agnes Blyth and Richard Brownell, who attended the sessions, said they regarded it as a learning experience.

"I was interested in Medicare and had a total lack of knowledge. A lot of thought went into it. I would recommend the program to those who want to help seniors and are mystified by the various changes in medicare," Blyth said.

Of the eight counselors, Brownell Dame and Cotter will attend the first Massachusetts Elder Advocate Legislative Assembly, The Feb. 20 assembly at the State House in Boston will draw elder advocate graduates from around the state.

The elder advocate program, run by Sheila Clemon-Karp with the help of interns, has 700 graduates to date.

Clemon-Karp said she hadn't heard any negative criticism of the program. She stressed its usefulness in improving the ability of participants to do whatever they were already doing.

She said it is often very good for the reorientation of recently retired individuals.

Margaret Hodgson and concert pianist Alice Wilkinson recently performed at the Carl A. Mawdsley Memorial Concert at the Jenks Center. Members of the First Congregational Church also participated.

Aging Eyes May Need Special Care

Tears are a lot more than an out pouring of emotion. For example, as the temperature falls and the weather turns bitterly cold, winter winds brings tears to your eyes.

Tears serve a useful purpose says the Massachusetts Affiliate of the National Society to Prevent Blindness.

Produced continuously by tiny lacrimal glands, they keep the eye moist, germ free and optically clear.

Every time you blink your eyelids carry a film of tears across the cornea (the clear membrane which covers the front of the eye) which keeps it from drying out.

CLUB NOTES

EnKa Society Ladies Celebrate Birthday

By NANCY CLARKE
Special To The Star

The EnKa Society of Winchester gathered for the January meeting at the Church of the Epiphany amidst a festive air surrounding the celebration of the 100th birthday of long-time member Marjorie Mason.

Lucille Grassi created a festive atmosphere with balloons, colorful tablecloths, and delicate floral arrangements.

Kay Connor gave a touching overview of Marjorie's busy years as an active resident of Winchester. A champagne toast and birthday cake added the finishing touches to this happy occasion.

A brief business meeting chaired by MaryAnn Crockett included a moment of silence for Roberta Balch who passed away recently.

Gifts committee chairman Jean Donahue announced the following organizations would be the recipients of EnKa awards: the Jenks Senior Center for their development fund, Meals on Wheels, Winchester A.B.C., Winchester Jr. High Jazz Band, Visiting Nurses Assn., Winchester Music Program, and the Winchester Public Library.

Anne Everett, social service chairman thanked the members for helping with the Thanksgiving and Christmas food baskets.

A special note will be sent to the W.H.S. Freshman Class for their sponsorship of a canned food drive. Over 900 different items were collected and donated to EnKa who in turn distributed them along with the food baskets.

Guest speakers for the afternoon included Marie Johnson, coordinator for the Meals on Wheels program. Her presentation included slides showing a typical day in the program beginning at Winchester Hospital where the food is prepared and packaged for delivery and then taken by a volunteer driver to a client's home. According to Johnson, the program will expand its services as the need arises.

The second guest was Dr. Gustave Kaufmann speaking in behalf of Hospice Care Inc. He described Hospice as a comprehensive support group created to meet the needs of terminally ill patients and their families.

Winchester had four other representatives in Saturday's Class C competition.

Sachemettes Win Squeaker

BY DAVE DEMARCO
Special to the Star

Winchester High's girls basketball team won a nail-biter 46-45 against Lexington High Tuesday, then fell 55-29 to second-place Woburn on Saturday.

Playing perhaps their finest basketball of the season, the Sachmettes won the game through tenacious team defense combined with the shining offensive play of Meghan Guarnotta who got 24 points.

Trailing by three during the first two periods, Winchester played Lexington evenly in the third period, then took over in the final period.

"My switch was flicked," said Guarnotta following the Sachmettes third win of the season. "The ball was going our way and we got their best girl [Robin Grossman] out in the last quarter."

A tight Winchester defense forced Lexington to take bad shots.

"We concentrated on Grossman," said Jeannie Cullen. "At first she beat us inside, but, together, we fouled her out."

On Saturday, second-place Woburn soundly beat Winchester 55-29.

Having built a 30-13 halftime lead, Woburn held the Sachmettes to nine points in the third period and seven in fourth.

Kathy Furey and Julie Kenerson led Winchester scorers with eight points each, as Guarnotta was held to five points for the evening.

Woburn was led by Cheryl Macinanti and Laura Murray, each with 12 points.

With one game left in the season, the Sachmettes are in 9th place at 3-15. They tip off against Chelsea today in non-league competition at Winchester High.

Tipoff is at 3 p.m.

Sachems Skaters Lose Two Contests

BY DAVE DEMARCO
Special to the Star

The Sachems closed a disappointing hockey season last week, losing to Lexington 6-5 and to Woburn 5-2.

The losses left Winchester 0-18 in their first winless season since 1978 and in last place in the Middlesex League.

In a season rife with missed opportunities, the Sachems once again saw the fruits of their early labor spoil in the later stages of the match.

On Wednesday, Winchester lost 6-5 in a hard-fought match with the Minutemen of Lexington.

Down 6-4 in the third period, the Sachems came out fighting behind new goalie Jim McInerney.

The Sachems held the Minutemen scoreless for the last 15 minutes, but could manage only one goal against a stubborn Lexington defense.

Winchester's last period desperation led to several crucial penalties in the closing minutes. Winchester was called twice for misconduct and once for having too many players on the ice.

On Saturday the Sachems were overpowered 5-2 by the Tanners of Woburn.

Winchester came out fast against Woburn with first period goals by Chris Giso at 11:30 and Brian Griffin at 14:04.

Woburn's Chris McCann answered at the start of the second period, but Winchester managed to hold onto a 2-1 lead for the rest of the period.

At 4:29 in the third period, Woburn's Joe Mantone tied the score and, two minutes later, Dave Dionne drove in the match winner for Woburn.

Winchester managed to get only 18 shots-on-net, while Woburn had 29.

The play of sophomore Gregg Winn, who led Winchester in total points this season, was a bright spot for the Sachems.

Boys Hoop Team Splits Two Games

BY DAVE DEMARCO
Special to the Star

Winchester's varsity boys' basketball team split a pair last week, losing to Lexington 69-50, then beating Woburn 69-50.

Two more drastically different games have never been played.

Fueled by the inside-outside play of Matt Shaw and Trevor Middleton, Lexington rode over Winchester in the second period.

By halftime, Middleton had slam-dunked Lexington to a 33-24 lead.

By the end of the third period, Lexington had stretched the lead by 15 points and the Minutemen never looked back.

On Thursday, Winchester overcame a sluggish first period to establish a 25-22 halftime lead over an equally sluggish Woburn team.

The Sachems' success owed largely to their ability to stop Woburn star Monte Boykin, who managed to get just four points all evening.

"We did a great job under the boards," said Mark Shaw. "We contained Boykin pretty well, too."

Winchester is in second place in the Middlesex League at 13-6.

Winchester Wrestler Is Part Of Worcester Tech Team

"I'd hate to be in our opponents' shoes," WPI co-captain Nick Triantafell said.

"Twenty people can sound like 200 in that place. It really gets you going."

The small, old facility swells to overflowing for big meets and the noise level is unequalled for small-college wrestling in the Northeast. Winchester's Dom DeVincenzo is part of this winning team.

"Our fans put a lot of pressure on our opponents," Triantafell says. "They really work to distract them. They know every move and understand the sport. They know when to cheer and I don't think you'll find that at any other school, at least not at any I've been to.

"It kind of reminds me of a night at the fights," the 158-pounder from Norwood, MA, continued. "The fans sit right around the mat. You can hear your buddies encouraging you, urging you on. It really helps out so much. I know our fans have helped me win at least two or three times. I wouldn't want to wrestle anyplace else."

It doesn't matter to 14-year WPI head coach Phil Grebinar or his team that the scoreboard doesn't always work, the public address system is barely audible or the lighting isn't the brightest. Alumni Gym has take on the "pit" atmosphere that schools work to develop, a place opponents hate to compete in.

Through the last six years, WPI has lost only five meets in Alumni Gym. With the recent victory against Coast Guard in front of more than 600 fans (the most to see any WPI home athletic contest outside of football this year), the Engineers completed an unbeaten home season.

It's not like the Engineers have no other place to wrestle than the cramped quarters in Alumni Gym, just down the hall sits a bright, spacious, shiny 2,800-seat auditorium. But Grebinar said he continues to wrestle in Alumni because of the intimidation factor as well as tradition.

Tacked up all around the inside of the red-painted gym are reminders of past seasons — team records, national placewinners, outstanding individual performances. The names of New England champions like Kilkenny and Testa, and all-Americans like Crispo adorn the walls and urge the Engineers to excellence.

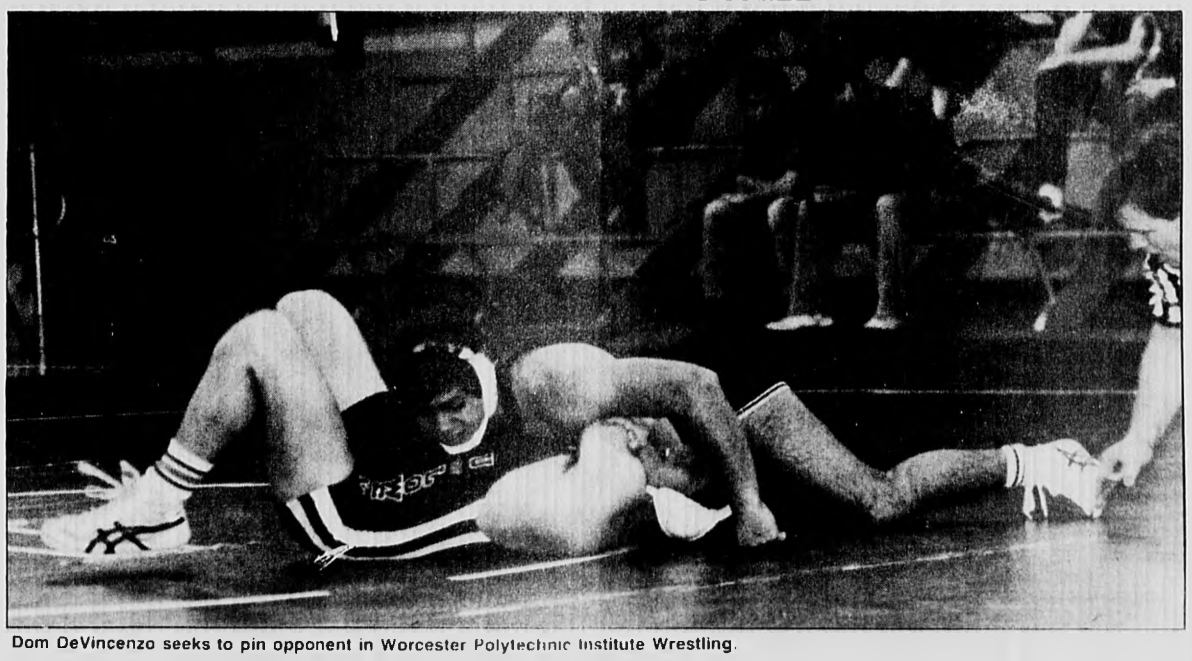

"Umpires have mentioned to me how interesting it is to referee in there, with the crowd and the atmosphere," Grebinar said. One wrestler's father says he tells others they haven't seen a wrestling meet until they've seen one in our place. The former BC (Boston College) coach said our team was afraid to lose at home in front of our fans.

"We like the intimidation factor we gain from our place," Grebinar continued. You lose that feeling in other gyms. In fact, we talk about not liking the empty atmosphere of the spacious and open gymnasiums.

"One of the classics in our place," Grebinar pointed out, "was the fishing pole dangling a rubber fish over the mat from the balcony, which has appeared at certain meets. A wrestler, not sure of himself and his abilities, can come into our gym and get beat physically as well as mentally. Our fans have been a major factor in helping us stay sharp. They're very vocal and very emotional.

"The Coast Guard meet usually takes place during the height of fraternity pledge week here and the pledges come in in mass to brow beat the oponents. They run in waving Coast Guard flags and chanting. The Coast Guard meet is always packed and so are the Wesleyan, Western New England and Harvard meets. We never have a bad crowd and our fans often show up at away meets."

The Engineers are continuing to build on their 13-1 dual meet record this season and are pointing toward the New England College Conference Wrestling Association Championships later this month and the NCAA Division III Nationals in late February and early March.

Dom DeVincenzo seeks to pin opponent in Worcester Polytechnic Institute Wrestling.

All individuals and groups currently listed are requested to update their listing.

Ellen Knight, Coordinator of Cultural Events, Winchester Recreation Department, will keep the information current.

Painters Carolyn Latanision, top, Ruth Lieberherr and photographer Jeffrey Trubisz will be featured at the Winchester Art Association's opening exhibit through March 13, from 12 to 4 p.m., Tuesdays to Saturdays, 585a Main st.

Local Artists Exhibit Work

On Sunday, Feb. 23, from 4 to 6 p.m. the Winchester Art Association Gallery will celebrate the opening of its new exhibit of works by painters Carolyn Latanision and Ruth Lieberherr, and photographer Jeffrey Trubisz.

The work of these three Winchester residents has been acclaimed regionally and nationally. The public and invited guests will be welcomed to meet and speak with the artists during the Feb. 23 opening.

Jeffrey Trubisz is an educator by profession, an English teacher in the Melrose Public School system. He has resided in Winchester since 1976 and can remember first using a camera as a teenager exploring the beaches and marshlands of Long Island's north shore.

A summer trip in the West about ten years ago provided the catalyst for some interesting spiritual and photographic explorations. The stony canyons of the Rockies, enormous glaciers of the Cascades, the rainforests and beaches along the Pacific coast all provided an exciting training ground.

Trubisz enrolled in several outdoor education schools as climbing and photographing mountains became a full time avocation in the West and New England.

A picture of a climber on Mt. Baker's Coleman glacier won an honorable mention in Outside magazine's 1980 photo contest. Later excursions in the Cascades and Rockies provided the material for several slide shows he has conducted.

Born in Switzerland, Ruth Lieberherr moved to the United States in 1977 and to the Boston area in 1983. She received her doctorate from the University of Zurich. She also studied art there, later in Princeton, New Jersey, and more recently at the DeCordova Museum School in Lincoln. Her work has been shown in many group and solo shows in New Jersey and the Boston area, and is represented in private and corporate collections.

Lieberherr says most of her paintings are in some way inspired by nature. A shell, a flower, a pumpkin, or the mood of a winter afternoon attracts her attention and evokes a feeling she then tries to express by dramatizing specific characteristics of these "objects."

Lieberherr holds artist memberships in the Boston Visual Artists Union, Cambridge Art Association, The Copley Society of Boston, and the Winchester Art Association.

Carolyn Latanision's lifelong preoccupation with painting and drawing was stimulated by her mother, an art teacher, who believed that creativity is not found in coloring books, and with no television in her house either, her artwork became Latanision's natural ally.

She won recognition for her art throughout high school and college. With a degree in art education and additional fine arts studies at Ohio State University, Art Institute of Boston and Radcliffe Institute among others, she has taught art in public schools and privately, currently conducting watercolor classes at her studio in Woburn. An award-winning artist, her students have also begun collecting awards.

Struggling to paint at home after moving to Winchester in 1975, she found being in the house more and more distracting and in 1980 finally found an outside studio a necessity in order to concentrate on her work.

She has exhibited widely in the Boston area. Her work is found in private and corporate collections locally, nationally, and as far away as Japan. Concurrent with this Winchester exhibit, one of her casein paintings will be exhibited in a national juried show in New York City in the National Arts Club Gallery.

The exhibit will run until March 13 and the Gallery at 585A Main st. is open Tuesdays through Saturdays from 12 to 4 p.m.

Eileen Moremen will be one of many musicians featured at the Winchester Music Society's sight reading of Brahms' German Requiem at 1:45 p.m., Sunday, March 2 in the sanctuary of the First Congregational Church on Church st. Moreman, a resident of Medford teaches voice for the Winchester Music Program.

Chad Maurer Talks Of Town's Future

While renovation is under way, all town offices will be moved to the auditorium. Awaiting Town Meeting approval of the project, completion is planned in the spring of 1988.

"The building has served Winchester for almost 100 years," Maurer said. "With improvements, it should be ready for another 100."

Water And Sewer

High on the priority list as well, Maurer believes, is the town's water and sewer system.

"Work has to be done to keep the systems up to an adequate standard," the Town Manager says.

Winchester's systems suffer from surface water getting into the system (infiltration) and studies have been done in the past. No plan of implementing improvements was ever carried through, however, Maurer says.

The Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA), however, is keeping a close eye on older systems. "It's probably cheaper to make the corrections than to pay MWRA bills," Maurer says.

"Just on the basis of economics, if no other factors were present, it would be a priority to repair the sewer and water systems," Maurer says.

The April Town Meeting will consider a recommendation to spend money on repairs.

Playing Fields

Winchester should also do something to improve and develop its 24 playfields, Maurer said, but a study showed the cost to be nearly $10 million.

"Just because of its cost, this is something Winchester can't do overnight," Maurer said.

However, the warrant for the Annual Town Meeting will probably contain an article to appropriate money for renovation and improvements to the Skillings Field, near the high school.

"That's a key field because it's centrally located and is well-used," Maurer said. "There is a lot of interest in the playfields but because of economies, we can't afford to do them all at once.

Maurer said he would recommend a "gradual" approach.

"The master plan for development of playfields has a great deal of value but it also shows the magnitude of the project," Maurer said. "Some of the work — planting trees and so forth — can be done by the Department of Public Works but a lot of it has to be done by outside contractors."

Beautification

The beautification project in Winchester Center awaits word about its application for $2.42 million to bring it through to the final phase.

"The quality of the business area reflects directly on the balance of the town," Maurer said. "When I first came to town, the center was one of the first things to impress me."

The project would include the same basic changes as those already made in the center but over a wider area. Also included would be new brick sidewalks in the park areas.

"Obviously the improvements have worked and the beautification project is a good example of what can happen when the private and public sectors work together," Maurer said.

Parking

"The occupancy rate of downtown commercial buildings is good, even though parking is still a problem."

Parking needs to be addressed but Maurer isn't quite sure how Winchester residents would like to proceed. "We're encouraging businesses to come to the center. But we haven't really decided whose responsibility parking is, the businesses' or the community's."

Maurer observed that a lot of public money, albeit much of it from state sources, has been spent in Winchester Center. "The public investment made the area very attractive but there was also private input from an economic development coordinator, who spoke for the business community," he said.

The Town Manager said many business owners "realized a significant return for their investment in the coordinator when the value of their businesses and buildings rose rapidly."

Maurer says private and public sectors share responsibilities.

"The public sector's main responsibility is one of coordination," he says. "I think working together has been successful and the two sectors have a good relationship here."

Woburn Loop

The Woburn Loop, the abandoned railroad right-of-way acquired by the town a few years ago, is an unsolved problem for Winchester.

"We intend to submit the Loop to the fall 1986 Town Meeting for disposition," Maurer says.

In some cases, he says, the land may go directly to the abutters, especially in cases where the Loop property would reunite parcels under common ownership.

"Other parts may have a greater value for something else," Maurer says. "But the right-of-way is only 70 feet wide and that's a factor." The Winchester Housing Authority is considering the Loop as a place for housing.

'Affordable Housing'

So-called affordable housing remains a problem that town officials, including the town manager, attribute to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

"The state says we have to have affordable housing and we have made an effort," Maurer says. "Now we're making another effort."

Fulfilling the state's wishes is important, however, because Winchester can only build more elderly housing if it first provides seven "affordable housing" units.

"Actually, the seven units are a relatively small commitment when you think of the good they're going to do for the elderly," Maurer says. Winchester has close to 5,000 senior citizens.

The trick is to pay for affordable housing. The commonwealth thinks units ought to cost $70,000 each. "That's the statewide average and when we proposed units that cost $105,000 each, the state wouldn't allow that. But the state is going to have to recognize local variations in property values," Maurer says.

The Town Manager says $70,000 might have been a reasonable price in Mansfield, where he lived before coming to Winchester. "But it's not here."

Overall, Maurer is positive about Winchester today and tomorrow.

"The people of Winchester have built the town they wanted and our responsibility, as a town that is not going to have tremendous development, is to maintain the facilities and quality of life we have now."

Town 'Wastes $$,' Charges Borggaard

tends Winchester does not have a swimming pool or garbage collection partly because the town overbuilt the new high school for an allegedly growing school population that never materialized.

"There's no money for a pool because we wasted it," Borgaard says. He also complains that too many school committee members are ex-teachers, relatives of teachers or teachers in another school system.

"They have a vested interest," Borggaard says. "Now I'm not saying it's flagrant and I grant you that those school committee members are democratically elected. But somehow it seems to 'just happen' too much."

Finally, Borggaard wants the town to invest $50,000 to try a plan to solve part of the town's parking problem.

"The Wadleigh School lot had a building on it for many years," he says. "I just want to make two curb cuts, hot top the lot and make town hall employees and other all-day parkers go there. I would not alter the topography."

In a couple of years, Borggaard would be willing to rip up the hot top "if the plan doesn't succeed, which means nobody parks in the lot."

Maurer Doubts Kraus On Funds

Maurer insists that the bottom line — the total number of dollars coming back to Winchester this year — is indeed smaller than last year. As proof, he points to a document from the commonwealth, listing local aid in dozens of categories.

"Legislators like to talk about local aid being more, but if you talk about real dollars coming to the town, you're looking at fewer dollars," Maurer says, pointing at the sheet's literal bottom line.

Maurer also took exception to Kraus' reference to determining local aid dollars by "regression analysis."

"That means doing it backwards, figuring out how much money you want to give to certain towns, and then writing a formula to give you the right answer.

"No matter what anyone says, that's what the legislature did," Maurer says.

Winchester's Town Manager isn't even sure the state's role in the grand scheme is necessary or wise.

"What the state does is take money from each community, in one way or another through individuals, sales taxes, whatever," Maurer explains. "Then the state has so much money it has to give a certain percentage back to the towns. Does Winchester ever receive its share back? No."

What does that mean? "It means money collected from Winchester people balances the budget in some other community," Maurer answers.

Maurer admits he's "almost alone" in asking why the state is involved at all.

"Why should cities and towns be beholden to the state in order to get part of their own people's money back? The return isn't that great," Maurer says. "After all, Winchester has a $28 million budget and we get only $3 million from the state."

Maurer thinks a better approach would be for the state to cut its income tax and eliminate the need to send some money back to towns.

The commonwealth does other strange things to help other communities, Maurer thinks. "Last year the legislature allowed towns to impose a local tax on hotels, motels and jet fuel. It was designed to help out Boston and it did," Maurer said.

Why should cities and towns be beholden to the state to get their own money back, Maurer asks

"So Boston got an extra $250,000 revenue Winchester didn't have any of the right resources," Maurer says.

"And Boston still got 90 percent of its lost federal revenue sharing back this year. That's not fair."

As a final insult, state revenue to towns is partially dependent on how much "free cash" the town has. If you have "free cash" in town coffers, you must not need state aid, the argument goes.

"If you or I ran our lives on that basis, our bosses would say to us that we couldn't get a raise unless we went out and spent all our savings first," Maurer says.

"But of course if your town is broke, you're entirely dependent on state money. Maybe that's how they want it."

WHAT WINCHESTER IS SAYING

Dawn Mcone
High school senior
Winchester

"I think they just needed more room, it was an old building but that's no reason to tear it down. I think they're fixing up the whole town, I guess I'm in favor of it."

Maryann Crockett, 48
Salesclerk
Winchester

"It took a little longer than expected I understand, but we needed it. The previous building was small and crowded for the police and fire department. It's in a good location and fits in well with the other buildings."

Betty Newell, 62
Disabled
Winchester

"I like the fire station very much. The old building was run down. It needed to be done over. It's a good thing they did the fire station; when they started working, they found cracks in it. They completely gutted the inside but left the outside untouched."

Noreen Arcari, over 29
Physical fitness specialist
Winchester

"It's nice to see the trucks back in the station. It was a long time coming but it looks great. The old place was falling apart. It took longer than expected. The police department has new cells, but they kept the original building."

Mark Lombardi
Selectman
Winchester

"The permanent building committee goofed. The police building needed to updated, it wasn't usable, it was antiquated. Everyone agreed it had to be changed."

Dick Malcolm, 38
Jeweler
Winchester

"It was essentially the same outside, I understand the interior was much in need of repair. I remember there was a lot of discussion on whether to rebuild or refurnish the building, but there was no doubt, a change was needed."

Franklin Stevenson

Winchester

"We needed it, the way they went at it was wrong though. I've heard they didn't do a good job; even the chief is dissatisfied."

HEALTH BEAT

Delicate Surgery Saves Baby

Petite Nicole Lorraine Landers, one month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs Larry Landers of Woburn, is home again following delicate surgery at Winchester Hospital to correct pyloric stenosis, a life-threatening condition.

The condition is caused by constricting fibrous tissue at the outlet of the stomach. Symptoms appear within three to six weeks of birth and more commonly, for reasons unclear, in first born sons.

A pediatrician must determine whether an infant is demonstrating one of several types of feeding problems or, as in the instance of baby Nicole, a fixed mechanical obstruction.

A series of upper gastro-intestinal x-rays generally will portray an enlarged stomach and a lower "string sign," seen in an x-ray as a trickle of barium out of the stomach and confirming the presence of an obstruction. Often the condition is accompanied by an olive-sized mass on the stomach which a physician can feel on examination, although this could not be felt in Nicole's case.

An infant with the condition takes milk or formula into the stomach and, because of obstruction, little is passed along in the form of nourishment. The infant begins a pattern of vomiting while still seeking to be fed again, because the child's hunger is unsatisfied. Since nourishment cannot be retained and the hunger is not abated, a baby with pyloric stenosis begins to lose weight rapidly and fast becomes dehydrated.

To correct the life-threatening cycle, surgical intervention is required. Initially this was done prinicipally at in-town hospitals but for many years has been accomplished successfully at suburban health centers such as Winchester Hospital.

A surgeon, Dr. Richard Kingsbury in Nicole's instance, surgically expands the constricting ring at the stomach's base. After a few days of hospitalization and recovery, the baby can take and accommodate food in a normal manner and return home once more.

Surgery for the condition prior to 1912 involved by-passing the obstruction by linking a section of intestine to the stomach. Unhappily, mortality from the procedure averaged approximately 50 percent.

With constant improvement in surgical technique and knowledge, as well as continued progress in patient support and care, surgeons now can treat the area of obstruction directly and gently widen the constricting tissue.

In Nicole's instance, a hi-tech team assisted during her surgery. They included an anesthesiologist, who is trained in the management of infants, the child's team of pedatricians and a surgical nursing and recovery team which assisted during the operation and the critical post-surgical hours.

WINCHESTER PUBLIC SCHOOLS
Winchester, Massachusetts 01890

Pre-Kindergarten Screening Notice

The Winchester Public Schools will hold pre kindergarten screening for all children entering kindergarten in September, 1986 during the last weeks in March.

As mandated by Massachusetts state law, the screening is a non-intensive scan conducted by school specialists to check a child's vision, hearing, speech, and coordination. The state of Massachusetts also requires the following immunizations (unless exempted for health or religious reasons): DPT (diphtheria, pertussis, tetanus) - four doses are required; Polio - three doses are required (an additional dose is needed if three years have lapsed since the last dose was given); MMR (measles, mumps, rubella) - one dose is required (after 15 months of age is suggested - after twelve months of age is accepted). Children are not considered exempt to immunization requirements unless they have a note from their physician.

BEFORE ENTERING KINDERGARTEN every child must have a physical examination performed by the family physician with a HEALTH FORM completed and returned to school. These rules apply to ALL children entering kindergarten and also to any children NEW to the Winchester school system.

The list for children eligible for kindergarten entrance has been compiled from the December 1985 census. Parents of children on this list should receive registration materials from their local school. If you do not receive this information by February 28th or you have moved to Winchester since January 1986, please call your child's school for an appointment.

Screening will be held at the following times:

Wednesday, March 19th - Lynch
Thursday, March 20th - Ambrose
Friday, March 21st - Muraco
Monday, March 24th - Lincoln
Tuesday, March 25th - Lincoln
Wednesday, March 26th - Vinson-Owen

On Tuesday and Wednesday, April 15th and 16th, re-testing and make-up screening will be held at the Lynch School. For additional information, please call Cynthia Papoulias, Coordinator, at the Lynch School.

Season Of Ice
Once again, the season of sleet and ice is upon us. The season when the driver of the family car must be doubly alert. To be blunt, we, as Funeral Directors, do not have to use imagination to visualize the results of careless driving. The grisly tangibles are forced upon us—especially during the Winter months. You owe it to yourself and your family not to let familiarity with the automobile breed contempt for the highway or byway. Your children need you—Protect their future.

What's On The Boards: Award-Winning Hits

What's On The Boards

Clockwise, from top: Peter Falk and Joe Mantegna star in the 1984 Pulitzer Prize and New York Drama Critics' award-winning play, Glengarry Glen Ross, at the Wilbur Theater; Philippe Entremont conducts the renowned Vienna Chamber Orchestra in a Symphony Hall concert at 8 p.m. Friday, March 7; Janet Brown and Jayne West appear in The Juniper Tree, an opera by Philip Glass and Robert Moran, now at The American Repertory Theatre.

Prize Visits

Glengarry Glen Ross Is A Winner

Review

It is little wonder that David Mamet's "Glengarry Glen Ross," at the Hub's Wilbur Theatre through March 2, won the Pulitzer Prize for Drama.

It's a brilliant sparse script that pounds away like a pneumatic drill as it explores the cutthroat world of hard-sell, high pressure real estate salesmen.

Savage, brutal and starkly realistic, and spiked with rough, tough, flagrantly crude yet comic dialogue, it spotlights deftly-drawn characters invested with amazing energy, vitality and pathos

In ninety scant minutes, including intermission, Mamet knives through their microcosm of bravado, illusions and self-deception as the audience is introduced to a group of nervous, aggressive sharks who sell Florida swampland of questionable value under a name suggesting the idyllic Scottish Highlands.

Hotshot salesmen get the top leads on prospective buyers, making it fairly simple for them "to close on a deal" and "get on the boards."

The others get "the stiffs."

Pressure on those at the bottom is devastating — don't sell and you don't eat!

Success is the keyword — selling others and selling yourself, getting a job, keeping it, and making money, at any cost.

During three staccato scenes in the first act, set in a Chinese restaurant, Shelly (Peter Falk) appears, a crackerjack salesman of yesteryear, who's hit a bad streak and is now fighting for his very existence.

His companion is youthful, soft-spoken John (original Broadway cast member J.T. Walsh), who manages the real estate office and doles out the leads.

He also receives garbage leads. Insecure and frantic, he plots the break-in and theft of Glengarry's leads and takes George (Alan Manson), a weak and vulnerable misfit in this dog-eat-dog world, into his confidence.

Dave can sell them to a competitor for a fat price and artfully cons George into the role of an accessory before the fact.

He strikes up a casual conversation with a stranger, James (Chuck Stransky, also from New York cast), and before James knows what's happened, he's locked in on a purchase agreement.

The locale shifts to the stark and dingy real estate office, in shambles after the robbery.

Tension rules as a detective questions the salesmen one by one.

As he reviews the strategy of his flim-flam, he boasts, "All thoughts (seemingly) were on them (the welfare of the buyers) ... It takes skill ... talent!"

When James shows up to back out of his deal with Richard, Richard and Shelly, with the cunning of hunters, team up in a strikingly creative, seemingly impromptu strategy of bullying and dishonesty to outwit their prey.

New Works Debut By Mark Morris

The Mark Morris Dance Group premieres a dance performance titled Mythologies at Northeastern University's Alumni Auditorium on Feb. 27, 28 and March 1, at 8:00 p.m.

Sponsored by The Institute of Contemporary Art and the Dance Umbrella, in association with the National Performance Network and Northeastern University, the Mark Morris Dance Group debuts the highly anticipated works in Boston.

Based on essays by French literary critic Roland Barthes, Morris's new dance triptych, titled Mythologies is a work comprised of Championship Wrestling, first performed at BAM's Next Wave Festival, Soap Powders and Detergents and Striptease.

Called "the most promising of his generation" (Dance Magazine), the twenty-nine year old Morris brings to his works a refreshing blend of humanism, theatricality,

Musical By Fosse Previews In Hub

The Shubert Organization and Roger Berlind present Big Deal, a new musical written, directed and choreographed by Bob Fosse, at the Shubert Theatre, 265 Tremont st., through March 15.

Fosse's first stage musical since 1978, Big Deal features a company of 23 headed by Cleavant Derricks, Loretta Devine, and Alan Weeks.

Following the pre-Broadway Boston engagement, Big Deal begins performances on March 27, at The Broadway Theatre, New York City, and opens there officially on April 10.

Big Deal, based on the film, Big Deal on Madonna Street, follows the exploits of a band of bumbling thieves as they prepare for the heist of the century.

Big Deal is set in Chicago in the late '30s, with a score featuring popular songs of the period, including Life Is Just a Bowl of Cherries, I'm Sittin on Top of the World and Happy Days are Here Again.

Fosse became, in 1973, the first director in history to win the Oscar, Tony and Emmy awards in a single year for his spectacular triumphs in the film version of Cabaret, the Broadway musical Pippin and the television special Liza with a Z.

He received the 1978 Tony Award for choreography for Dancin and won the first of his eight Tony Awards as choreographer for The Pajama Game.

Prices for evening performances run $25 to $40; matinees, Saturday and Wednesday, are $21 to $37.50. Call 426-4520.

Festival On Ice Comes To Town

A lavish skating spectacular comes to Boston when Festival On Ice, starring gold medalist Dorothy Hamill plays at the Wang Center for the Performing Arts March 18 through 23.

Heading the cast with Dorothy Hamill will be champion skaters Tai Babilonia and Randy Gardner.

The opening of Festival On Ice is set for Tuesday, March 18 at 7:30 p.m.; additional performances are scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday evenings at 7:30 p.m., at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday evenings, at 7:00 p.m. Sunday evening, and matinees Saturday and Sunday afternoons at 2:00 p.m.

In a breath-taking montage of choreography created by Sarah Kawahara, champion figure skater and gold medalist Hamill and two-time World Pair champions Babilonia and Gardner bring an almost magical sense of Broadway-on ice to the Festival of music, comedy and spectacle.

Neither an ice show nor a Broadway show in the strictest sense, the flashing blades, inspired special effects and a kaleidoscope of sights and sounds make this stage-show-on-ice a brilliant entertainment.

Tickets for the engagement will go on sale at the Wang Center for the Performing Arts in mid-February.

Windsor String Quartet Performs At Merrimack

One of the country's most acclaimed string quartets performs in the third concert of this year's Merrimack College Concert Series.

The Windsor String Quartet — Alan Grishman, Michaël Rosenbloom, Mimi Bravar and Charles Forbes — present a program of works by Haydn, Mendelssohn and Dvorak Saturday, March 1 at 8 p.m. in the Collegiate Church of Christ the Teacher on the Merrimack College campus in North Andover.

Robert J. Lurtsema, host of WGBH Radio's Morning Pro Musica, has said of the four musicians: "Musical integrity spiced with a zesty approach to each piece is the recipe for the success of the Windsor String Quartet, whose performances infallibly merit the enthusiastic response they receive."

The members of the Windsor String Quartet bring varied backgrounds of training and experience to the group.

In addition to their concerts and lecture performances of the great string works, they have taught on all levels, from private lessons to master classes.

As college professors, they have taught courses in such areas as music theory and music history, conducted orchestras and choirs, and led seminars and workshops in chamber music performance.

General admission for the Windsor String quartet concert is $10. Students and senior citizens may purchase individual tickets at $4 each.

The 1985-86 Merrimack College Concert Series concludes Friday, May 2 with a concert by the Indian Hill Chamber Orchestra with the violinist Malcolm Lowe, concertmaster of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, as soloist.

For more information and to purchase tickets, write: Merrimack College, Concert Series, North Andover, 01845, or call 683-7111, ext. 168.

What To Visit

Like A Wheatfield:

Amber Waves Of Grain Exhibit Shows Illusion And Reality

Story by Linda Rauch

The eye is next captured by the array of browns dominating the site.

This stunning show of 35,000 clay replicas represents the entire United States nuclear arsenal including ground-based ICBMs, submarines, and bomber planes.

According to Doug Smith, a planner at the exhibits department, neither Donachy or her husband Andy Bardwell intend to make observers of the exhibit take a side in the nuclear arsenal issue, but they did want to present and communicate the facts in the best possible way.

"They don't want to tell people what to think," says Smith, "but to give them the access to have an informed opinion and a notion of scale."

What inspired Donachy and her husband to inform people about the nuclear arsenal in the U.S. was a trip they had taken to Asia and West Germany where the Pershing II missile was being deployed, according to Smith.

"Being the token Americans there," says Smith, "they were constantly called upon to explain or defend the deployment of the missile, but they didn't have the knowledge to do so."

So, when they returned, Smith explains, they did extensive reading on the subject and were amazed.

They then had the desire to communicate their knowledge to other people.

It is estimated, Smith says, that the entire nuclear firepower in the world is in the range of 160,000 to 250,000 times higher than the bombs dropped on Nagasaki and Hiroshima. Half of that power belongs to the United States, less than half to the Soviet Union, and the rest to other countries in the world.

This stunning show of 35,000 clay replicas represents the entired United States nuclear arsenal.

First, when viewing the sculpture, a feeling of tranquility arises, but what it really represents is total destruction and chaos.

"It's ironic in a sense that it's beautiful with its earthy colors and the tranquility it produces, but at the same time, it represents such a devastating arsenal," says Smith.

Another irony, Smith feels, is that missile silos are in the breadbasket of America and wheat is mainly grown in that section of the country.

The observers' reaction to the exhibit, says Smith, is mixed.

"Some people feel that the amount of weapons is excessive and others feel that it is impressive and it is reassuring to know that America has this enormous, military strength," says Smith.

Kindergarten children are mystified by the work, but Smith believes children should not be exposed to this type of reality at such an early age.

"They shouldn't be encouraged to know what grown-ups have made," he says.

Along with the sculpture is illustrations of the missiles in the display along with detailed facts concerning their production, firepower, and cost to build and maintain them.

Another set of illustrations showing the nuclear arms race in terms of triads — submarines, ground to air missiles, and bombers.

A video presentation of how the sculpture was constructed is also available.

The display, which required 400 man hours to set up, was built with the help of volunteers recruited through the museum's Volunteer Office.

From high school students, to people in their 50s and 60s, and MIT students who were pledging for a fraternity, the response to the project was tremendous, according to Smith.

"There was a great feeling and spirit to the project," says Smith.

The exhibit cost over $10,000 of Donachy's own money plus over $15,000 in cash and in-kind donations, and $10,600 was received from the CS Fund which support people or groups that produce projects for science in the public interest in order to sponsor the Washington, D.C. exhibition.

An accompanying exhibit, Atom: Peril And Promise, documents the development of nuclear power since 1943 when scientists successfully achieved the first nuclear reaction.

It displays the effects of the bomb on the people of Nagasaki and Hiroshima through photos of the victims as well as illustrations from the victims themselves of how they perceived their surroundings during the actual bombing.

It illustrates how radiation and nuclear energy have contributed to improved healthcare programs, cheap, competent energy usage, and greater efficiency in transportation and communications.

The Museum of Science is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily and until 9 p.m. Friday. Call 723-2500, ext.250.

Skates Alive! Frolic And Fitness

By SHARON SPECHT

Think about ice skating.

Images of cold, crisp air, the sound of laughter, frothy mugs of hot chocolate and waltz music spring to mind.

Pass an ice skating rink or frozen pond scattered with brightly clothed people and all kinds of excuses come up.

"I haven't skated since I was a kid. I don't think I could even stand up now!"

" I never learned to skate when I was young. I'm too old to learn now."

"I'm a klutz, with no coordination!"

These fears and excuses can be left behind, no matter how convincing they sound.

The magical world of skating awaits!

"After the first hour lesson, nine out of 10 students are skating on their own without the help of the wall!" she says.

"Look for skates that have a silver plate on the bottom, not just a blade coming out of the boot."

The plate creates a surface to stand on. It keeps weight off ankles and helps to maintain balance.

The plate also aids in controlling direction — when novice icers begin controlling direction,that is!

McHugh doesn't require students to do warm up exercises, but she says if a good stretch or two makes the beginner feel more comfortable and secure, that's fine.

She doesn't suggest protective equipment, such as a helmet or knee and elbow pads, but again, the rule is comfort and security.

The beginner may feel better wearing a helmet and padding. They are required by most organized hockey clubs.

Beginning skaters need to be realistic about their goals.

"My students all want to be Dorothy Hammel," laments McHugh.

"They don't realize the unbelievable discipline that professional skaters possess and the hours they put in.

"Unless you're willing to practice between lessons, any time and money invested in lessons and equipment will be wasted," she says.

The students walk around the ice using the wall for balance and support.

Once everyone is able to balance without the wall, lessons proceed with the four S's: stroking, sculling, spinning and stopping.

Naturally a new skater's biggest fears are falls and injuries.

"We teach new skaters how to fall properly and also how to stand up again," says McHugh.

Conquering the fear of falling is half the battle.

As far as an aerobic workout, skating really can't compare to running or swimming.

People really don't skate for exercise, unless they're aspiring professional skaters or hockey players. Rather, it's a mentally stimulating sport.

Brian Sanderson, who skates at the Burlington Ice Palace, says, "I love the feel of being out on the ice. The speed and the solitude is a headrush."

What could be more romantic than holding hands, listening to soft music, and dancing across the ice?

Who knows?

Skating means a chance to be outdoors, under a blue sky or bright stars.

And it is an activity for all members of a family.

Skating is a versatile sport that friends of all skill levels can join in an afternoon of fun.

"I love getting together with my high school buddies for an evening of hockey," says Bill Traverse, a frequent user of the Arlington Sports Center rink.

"Breathing the cold, clean air and gliding along the ice is invigorating as well as relaxing."

Adult skating lessons are offered at Belmont Recreation in two eight-week sessions. One-hour classes are at 7:15 p.m. Sundays.

Call Belmont Recreation for more information at 484-2310.

Winter won't last forever.

Now is the time to dust off those skates before it's too late to experience the magic.

Call some friends, fill up the thermos and get ready for an afternoon of fun and memories.

Winter Games Promise Fun And Sport

Local ski and skate buffs are gearing up for the second annual Bay State Winter Games, Feb. 28, March 1 and 2 in the Berkshires of western Massachusetts.

Patterned after the highly successful Bay State Summer Games, the Winter Games are expected to attract hundreds of the state's very best alpine skiers, cross-country skiers, speedskaters and figure skaters to the area.

But there is much more to the 1986 Bay State Winter Games than just the competitions.

Long before the first skaters come onto the ice or the first skier breaks out of the gate, the color and pageantry of the state's own Olympic-style sports festival promises to captivate athletes and spectators alike.

Mark Fusco and Doug Flutie help kick off the elaborate Winter Games Opening Ceremonies on Friday, Feb. 28 at the Williams College rink in Williamstown.

Sharing the spotlight that evening, Fusco and Flutie address the athletes on their individual experiences as student athletes in the state and later as professionals in their particular sports.

"I'm very happy to be part of the Bay State Games this year," said Flutie.

"I think the Games are a great chance for young athletes to meet with and compete against the best of the area athletes.

"The different levels of skill challenge the individual athlete, and in the long run, are instrumental in his or her improvement."

From the Athletes Procession featuring all of the skiers and skaters of the Bay State Games to the traditional Torch Lighting, the evening of Opening Ceremonies brings a bit of Olympic spirit right here to Massachusetts.

Lisa Olsen, a figure skater from Orleans, calls the Bay State Winter Games "unique because they are not just another skating competition.

"There are so many other winter sports involved that it's more like the Olympics than any national figure skating competition could ever be," she said.

Nearly 150 skaters representing the United States Figure Skating Association and the Ice Skating Institute of America are competing throughout the weekend.

This exciting skating pair is currently ranked number one in the dance pair category and is this country's favorite in the upcoming Winter Olympics in 1988.

Hundreds of cross-country skiers are also planning to participate in the events at Hickory Hill Touring Center in Worthington, March 1 and 2.

Cross-country skiing and figure skating occur simultaneously while over at Jiminy Peak and Brodie Mountain; the alpine skiers will be flying down the courses.

Alpine skiing is held for two full days and feature scholastic, open and masters athletes.

One of the more obscure winter sports featured in the Games is speedskating, providing something for everyone, from novice to expert.

Though the sport has not been one to gain prominent attention in the local sports pages, its popularity is growing rapidly, spurred on by the outstanding Olympic performances of Beth and Eric Heiden.

The Bay State Winter Games speedskating competition offers the opportunity for anyone to put on a pair of skates and try a bit of speedskating.

Beginner ice time has been set aside by the Games organizers in order to familiarize new athletes with the sport.

Any interested individuals need only to go to the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Rink in North Adams, on Saturday, March 1 for an introduction to speedskating.

Admission to all Bay State Winter Games events is free and open to the public, though tickets must be obtained for Opening Ceremonies and figure skating events.

Seating is limited for these events, so tickets should be obtained early.

To reserve tickets, outside Berkshire County, call the Bay State Games at 727-3227.

At Belmont Manor Nursing Home our nurses aides are not just nurse's aides —

Someone asked me what I do for a living. I said, "I'm a nurse's aide. I work in a nursing home." The person made a face and quickly changed the subject.

A lot of people don't understand my job. Many people wouldn't do my job. "Not for all the money in the world," they say. Neither would I. There is something special about this job. My patients need me. They really depend on me. I not only care for them: I care about them as well.

Being a nurse's aide is not a glamorous job! It's a very important one though. I take pride in my job and in my work. There is much to learn. I try to improve my skills and myself. Things do get hectic. Sometimes the call-bells seem to go off all at once. Family members ask me to do this or that. They all want priority. I do the best I can.

My work is the kind of work many sons or daughters can't do or won't do! Yet somebody has to take care of the sick and the old. So I bathe and shower my patients. I want them to be fresh and clean. I comb and brush their hair. I want them to look nice. Their hands shake and tremble so I have to cut their food and help them to eat. I want them to get the proper nourishment. Now do you understand why my job is so important? These people really need me. They depend on me. That's why I feel I am a very special person. Even though I am "just a nurse's aide."

We teach your nursing assistants to feel important because they are! This is a comprehensive 10-week in-service training program to help your employees feel good about themselves, their job and their facility.

What's Healthy?
Sugar Guilt

By Dr. ROBERT NORMAN

How concerned should one be about sugar intake?

Sugar does have at least one detrimental effect. It is a major cause of tooth decay. The principal factors in decay are how often you eat or drink sugary foods and beverages, and whether you eat them alone or with meals. When is significant because you're most likely to get cavities if you eat sweets between meals and don't brush for a long period of time.

So how much sugar is too much? The U.S. Dietary Goals -- developed by a Senate committee in 1977 -- suggest that refined sugars should constitute no more than ten percent of total calories. But sugar is so common in processed foods that it's almost impossible for anybody but a nutritionist to keep track of sugar intake.

My advice, therefore, is to not feel guilty about the use of sugar. Keep in mind that there is no evidence that harm will come to healthy people who eat reasonable amounts of sweets. Don't be afraid to satisfy a sweet tooth every now and then. But, don't go overboard with sweets either. As in many areas of life -- moderation is the key.

This is a difficult question to answer. Sugar is surrounded by myths linking it to everything from heart disease to psychological problems. A recent issue of The Tufts University Diet and Nutrition Letter had some common sense suggestions on sugar intake.

First, let's dispel some of the myths about sugar's effect on health. Sugar in itself is not the cause of obesity as some people believe. Evidence shows that most overweight people eat no more sweets than most thin people do.

The role of sugar in diabetes is also commonly misunderstood. While diabetics do not metabolize blood sugar properly, there is no evidence that by itself eating too much sugar can cause this disease. However, a diet too high in total calories -- perhaps including too many sugars -- can lead to weight problems, and obesity is a major cause of diabetes. It also does not seem to be the case that sugar causes heart disease. Instead, the incidence of heart disease appears to be linked strongly with fat intake and total calories consumed.

What About Art? By Meredith Fife Day

At 82, Hitting Her Stride

A retrospective of Maud Morgan's work, spanning a 58-year career, will be on display at Massachusetts College of Art's North Hall Gallery through March 1, her 83rd birthday.

Calling the exhibit "An Autobiography," Morgan, who lives and works in Cambridge, says, ". . . . I think it will be especially interesting for students. The current belief is that you must be famous by your late 20s. This show will demonstrate what you go through with a lifetime of painting."

A walk into North Hall Gallery makes abundantly clear the rich fabric and texture of such a lifetime.

From early charcoal portraits to the very recently completed handmade paper works, a commitment to risk-taking and to experiencing and living life to its fullest declares itself over and again.

The exhibit is arranged in the large gallery in three sections.

The portraits are flanked on one side by oil paintings — both figurative and abstract, both early and recent — and on the other side by handmade paper works of the 1980s.

The paper works include the piece reproduced for the exhibit's poster, a collage of torn, Japanese mulberry papers in cool grey, black, blue and pink. Simple and diverse shapes are unified by a sure sense of composition and scale, and an openness to the impact of visual surprise.

Almost all the paper pieces have a celebratory sense about them, a sense of spontaneity that seems to have evolved in time. Earlier works show a mastery of color, form, and composition, but seem studied and consciously controlled compared with the later paper collages.

Morgan's sensitivity to surfaces and her ability to give personality and roles to individual shapes within the pictorial field are especially suited to the abstract paper works.

The 1982 collage, American, lent to this exhibit by the Massachusetts Port Authority, could be a national flag or poster. Its red, white and blue shapes are both forceful and joyful in their taut dynamic.

Equally jubilant and even more powerful are three large collages of 1986 arranged on one wall.

Here, large black and white shapes with electrifying blue accents can take on levels of meaning that range from tribal and ritualistic to happy snowflakes of children's art.

The portraits of Maud Morgan encompass a range of style and attitude from somber and dense charcoals to the airy, colorful, narrative Mt. Aetna of 1985.

In all, Morgan's sculpturally lidded eyes and expressive mouth seem to contain as much as the express. Her face is like a pitcher — experience, like liquid in a vessel, is both held in and poured out.

A special treat in the exhibit is the center back wall display of a number of personal photographs, postcards and reproductions.

Indian sculpture, an Egyptian head, Matisse's The Piano Lesson, a photograph of Georgia O'Keefe are included among Morgan's collection of what art writer John Berger calls "talismans for good painting."

In front of this display is a beautiful, curved, paint-spatterd wicker chaise. In another part of the gallery is a handsome photograph of Morgan in this chaise, a poster in a series of elderly people of distinction.

Maud Morgan has indeed distinguished herself as both an artist and as an involved human being in the world.

She spent time with Ghandi in India, campaigned for Alfred E. Smith, studied with Hans Hofmann, chilled to Hitler's words in Munich, spent her honeymoon with the Hemingways in Key West, exhibited with Pollack and Rothko. She is in major museum and public collections.

And she continues in her work to explore and expand the limits of her imagination, her creativity, and her response to the world.

The exhibit at Mass. College of Art, 621 Huntington ave., Boston, may be viewed Monday through Friday, 10-6 and Saturday, 10-4. Call 491-5525 or 232-1555, ext. 233.

PLANNER & GUIDE

No fuss mini wedding cakes bring old English tradition to at-home weddings

For wedding receptions at home, only two ingredients are needed to make it official — the cake and something bubbly to toast the bridal couple.

One new way to simplify the cake is borrowed from an old wedding custom. In England, small, individual wedding cakes were the vogue. This custom meshes with today's lifestyle since many guests prefer light desserts.

Make them in cupcake pans with bits of chocolate, nuts and cranberry-orange relish. When served, instead of the bride and groom cutting the cake, they kiss over the little cakes, just like the Elizabethans of centuries ago.

For the toast, try elegant Ivory Wedding Punch, made with cranberry-apple juice drink and champagne or, if you prefer, lemon-lime soda.

INDIVIDUAL TIERED WEDDING CAKES
(Makes 24)

Cakes:

1 cup vegetable shortening
1 cup sugar
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
4 eggs
1 cup Ocean Spray cranberry-orange relish
4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup water
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 package (6 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1 cup chopped nuts

Frosting:

6 egg whites
4 cups confectioner's sugar

Preheat oven to 350°F.

In bowl, beat shortening until fluffy. Stir in sugar and brown sugar. Add eggs one at a time, beating until smooth after each addition. Stir in cranberry-orange relish.

Sift flour with baking powder, salt and baking soda. Alternate adding flour mixture and water to shortening/sugar mixture, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Fold in vanilla, chocolate pieces and nuts.

Spoon batter into 24 greased and floured cupcake muffin pans filling cups half full. Spoon remaining batter into 24 greased and floured tea-size muffin pans filling cups one-half full.

Bake for 20 to 25 minutes for regular size and 15 to 18 minutes for tea-size. Unmold and cool.

Combine frosting ingredients and beat until smooth. Spread side and top of both cupcake and tea-size muffins. Place small ones on bigger ones.

Using a pastry bag fitted with a star tip, decorate tops of both cakes with remaining frosting.

Professional photographers capture the true wedding spirit

A wedding is an act of love, a joining of families, a celebration. But once the cake is eaten and the bouquet thrown, what's left of this special day? Your photographs.

Since the photographs are the one thing from your wedding day to have lasting emotional value, all the more reason to contract a professional photographer who has the experience, technical expertise, versatility and imagination to tell your wedding story in photographs.

Here are some suggestions to help you select the right photographer:

- Begin your search early, particularly if you are getting married in the popular months of June, July, August or September — the busiest seasons.
- Interview a variety of photographers before making your final decision. Select a photographer whose style suits the images you'd like to capture.
- Carefully review your photography needs and budget after selecting a photographer. Remember that wedding portraits of the bride and groom can be taken in advance for the newspaper, and some studios offer bridal packages that include candid shots for a set fee.

Other professionals charge an hourly rate for photography and an additional fee for prints. Cost ranges from about $200 upward, with the median price hovering somewhere between $350 and $750.

- Your photographer also should be willing to discuss various components of the bridal portrait such as hairstyle and makeup, which reflect your true image. It's a good idea not to change your hair style or color for your portrait sitting.
- The location is also an important component of your portraits. Professional photographers can suggest an attractive park location as an alternative to the more traditional church or synagogue setting.
- Once the poses are selected, consider the number and size of the prints you need.

Most professional photographers use Kodak film and paper for quality portraits. Remember that your wedding photographs are also suitable for gift-giving as an album for your parents, personal thank-you notes, gifts and holiday cards. And, wedding portraits can also be enlarged and framed, adding personal elegance to your home.

Contemporary marriage: A blending of the traditional with personal tastes

Today's couples have many wedding and lifestyle options

Marriage today has no one formula. Gone are the days when those who married settled into one particular lifestyle. Today, married couples are more aware than ever before of the different lifestyle options available to them.

On the average, partners are older, more sophisticated and better educated than ever before. All these factors contribute to making today's bride and groom more equipped to decide what lifestyle is best for them.

And, there are many lifestyle options open to young couples today. Whether you opt for getting married when you are older or younger, or decide to have a dual-career marriage or a more traditional marriage, one thing most brides and grooms agree on is that you can make your marriage what you want it to be.

This type of freedom has had a positive effect on the institution of marriage. Young couples now share more of the responsibility for planning a wedding and deciding what type of life is right for them.

When both parties take an interest in the planning, the results are a very personalized, joyous occasion. Planning a wedding the way you want, like planning the type of life you want together, is an expression of what you, as a couple, are "about."

Today's weddings are a combination of yesterday's tradition and your own creative touch. It is not unusual today to see a wedding where the bride wears a traditional wedding gown complete with long train and veil, but refuses to go along with the traditional wedding vows in which she promises to "love, honor and obey."

Most couples take what they feel comfortable with, in terms of tradition, and then add their own personal style.

People are more relaxed today when it comes to wedding etiquette. Many brides and grooms share in the cost of the wedding celebration, and what is even more popular is the sharing of wedding expenses between both the bride and groom's parents.

Rules of proper dress have also eased up considerably. At one time, it was thought appropriate for the groom and his ushers to wear tuxes only for an evening wedding.

Today, it is not unusual to spy a groom and his ushers dressed in tuxes or tails for a noonday wedding. They might even be wearing a plaid, pastel or bright red tie and cummerbund.

The traditional bridal shower has also been updated. Once thought to be a time for girlfriends, aunts and mothers to get together and shower the bride with gifts and words of wisdom, today's bridal shower is more likely to be a cocktail party for both the friends and family of both bride and groom.

Planning a wedding is wonderful and exciting, but it's costly as well. Proper planning and setting your priorities straight early on can help you to cut down on costs.

Concentrate on those things that you feel make your wedding special and unique. That way you can cut corners on those things that aren't as important to you. Determining early on what mood you would like to create will make things easier when it comes to determining costs.

The '80s is a decade of numerous options, but the only way to feel happy about the type of lifestyle you choose or the type of wedding you plan is to follow your own instincts, because you don't have to follow one formula!

What's behind the tradition?

Unexpected origins of wedding customs

It happens in every wedding. The bride and groom exchange rings. They share cake. The bride throws her bouquet. But do you know how these customs began? THE BRIDE: A Celebration (Harry N. Abrams, Inc.), a book by Barbara Tober, Editor-in-Chief of Bride's magazine, reveals their sometimes surprising origins.

The bride throws her bouquet so an unmarried friend can "catch" some luck in romance, goes the modern explanation. But the custom actually started as a form of self-defense.

What's behind it

In times past, belief in the mystical value of a bride's adornments prompted friends and strangers alike to try to grab a piece of her outfit. Eventually, some clever bride found that by flinging her flowers away from herself, the crowd would have something to fight over — and she would escape intact!

The wedding party originally served the serious purpose of protecting the bride and groom from the curses of evil-wishers. They dressed in clothes exactly like those of the bride and groom, so the identity of the happy couple was kept secret on the way to the church and until they were safely married.

Food of love

The first piece of wedding cake is cut and eaten by the bride and groom as a carryover from the time when the sharing of food or wine often was the marriage. Teutons, for example, were considered wed after drinking mead together for thirty days. (The word bridal comes from bride-ale.)

The aisle runner protected the bride from evil spirits who, it was thought, lived below the ground. These demons were also feared to lurk around doorways, hence the bride is carried over the threshold of her new home.

The why of rice

Rice symbolizes the age-old hope that the couple will be as fruitful as the earth. In France, guests shower the bride and groom with wheat; in Morocco, with raisins, figs and dates.

We clink glasses when we toast the bride and groom in order to produce a bell-like sound (bells were believed to be repellant to the devil).

"The kiss," as a significant moment in the wedding, dates from the Roman Empire. At that time, the betrothal ceremony consisted of a kiss and the exchange of rings, with the kiss being the actual legal bond.

The trousseau, or dowry, was actually an early form of life insurance since it was meant to ensure that the bride could survive without her husband if the need arose.

Ring lore

We wear the wedding ring on the third finger of the left hand because the pharaohs of Egypt believed a vein, the "vena amoris," ran from that finger directly to the heart.

The honeymoon began, when, in ancient marriages by capture, the groom kept his bride in hiding to prevent searching relatives from finding her. The word itself comes from the early Teutonic customs of couples drinking an aphrodisiacal honey drink for thirty days, or one cycle of the moon.

CARE FOR YOUR SKIN as you do for each other.

Products now provide for his and hers skin care

When you say "I do" on your wedding day, you've embarked on a lifetime of sharing almost everything. But with skin care and grooming, a woman's and man's needs are different, and this is one area where "What's his is his, and what's hers is hers!"

"A wide variety of skin care products makes it easy to select what's right for you," says Dr. Gary Dugan, director of skin care research and development at Avon.

There are real differences in the skin of men and women. Both lifestyle and body chemistry are important considerations.

"Progesterone levels tend to be higher in women, which can cause acne to flare up. Since most women use makeup, skin care treatment products that provide gentle cleaning, toning, energizing and moisturizing are essential in maintaining healthy looking skin," says Dr. Dugan.

Men have a different set of needs. Daily shaving can irritate, leaving the skin sensitive and vulnerable. Moisturizing will help to relieve soreness, protect and prevent dryness.

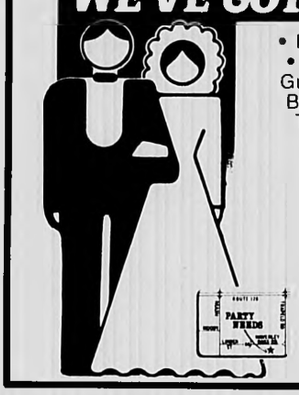

Problem solving is key to selecting the right skin care and grooming products for women. If your skin is oily or acne troubled, Avon's ClearSkin 2 Skin Care regimen is especially formulated to fight bacteria and oiliness that can promote blackheads and blemishes.

A line of Avon products called Active Fitness System is lightly scented and formulated to meet a man's daily personal needs. Each product is fine tuned to a man's busy lifestyle and skin chemistry. The line includes a Body Cleanser Gel, Protective Skin Lotion, Conditioning Shampoo, Anti-Perspirant and Deodorant Talc.

So, don't forget — for vibrant, healthy looking skin, be good to yourself (and him) by using a skin care regimen and personal grooming products that stand beside your "his and her towels." You'll be glad you did for years to come! Happy Wedding!

Champagne adds sparkle

Every step in orchestrating your wedding, from the style of the invitations to the bridal toast, can enhance the ceremony. Depending on the mood you've decided to create, serving Champagne from France in delicate flutes adds elegant grace notes during the reception, lunch or dinner, even at a tete-a-tete breakfast on the morning after.

Is your heart set on a soft, rosy glow? Color your wedding romantic with Rose Champagne, the traditional bubbly for nuptials. Complement the sparkling blush of pink Champagne with salmon fillets as the main course, and decorate guest tables with centerpieces of miniature pink roses and soft raspberry tablecloths.

For sparkles of another dimension, have the toast to the bride poured from a gigantic Salmanazar bottle (contains 12 standard bottles) or Balthazar (16 standard bottles in one). Later you can convert the bottle into a lamp base for a cherished memento of your milestone event.

Whatever your preferences, you'll find a style of Champagne to match your taste. You may select a light, crisp blanc de blancs (white Champagne made only from white grapes) as a wedding breakfast wine. Or a fuller-bodied non-vintage Champagne to lend zest and gaiety to luncheon or dinner. For classic perfection and elegance, serve vintage or prestige cuvee connoisseur Champagne.

Champagne is appropriate at any hour of the day or night, and can properly be served with any menu. Here are some tips from the Champagne News & Information Bureau to help make your wedding memorable:

- Serve Champagne in tall, slender, long-stemmed glasses, not saucer shaped glasses which quickly dissipate the bubbles and aroma.
- It is the best man's responsibility to make sure all glasses are filled before giving the first toast, which he makes while holding his own glass in his right hand.
- The bride stays seated when receiving a toast. She stands to toast the groom, the two families or perhaps her friends.
- Avoid being caught short. A Champagne bottle contains six 4-ounce portions. Allow one bottle for every three guests at the reception, or one glass per guest for each toast.
- Offer Champagne to bridesmaids and ushers at rehearsals. It will add to the joyous atmosphere.
- Chill the wine well. Bottles will be at the right temperature if they are cooled in a mixture of ice and water for at least 30 minutes.

Authentic Champagne, from the region of the same name 90 miles east of Paris, is easily recognized. Just look for the word "Champagne" standing alone and "produce of France" on the label. If the label says "methode champenoise" it is definitely not Champagne, but rather a sparkling wine from another place.

A weekly manicure routine will result in fashionable fingertips for your wedding

Bridesmaid dresses, floral arrangements and honeymoon hideouts have all been carefully chosen. So, now is the time to look in the mirror and make a beauty assessment.

If your hands appear unattractive because you can't seem to break your nail biting habit, the experts at Hazel Bishop Cosmetics offer these suggestions so you can wear pretty shades of nail polish that flatter your hands on your wedding day.

Biting your nails or the skin around them is a definite no! It results in short, ragged nails and ripped cuticles and hangnails.

A weekly manicure routine is a must for bitten nails. Not only will a manicure minimize the risk of infection caused by your nibbling but, if done on a regular basis, it will lead to attractive fingertips. And, if you have pretty, well-cared-for nails, you may think twice before you nibble again.

To get nails back in shape, trim your hangnails so they won't rip or tear further and they will slowly begin to heal.

Never cut your cuticles — they are more likely to split if you begin to cut them. To keep cuticles neat, always push them back with a soft towel every time you wash your hands. Then, apply a coat of Hazel Bishop Clear Nail Hardener. This protective coat will strengthen your nails as they begin to grow and give them a shiny, well-cared-for look.

Also, take time to consider how long you want your nails to grow. If the edge of your nails doesn't extend beyond the fingertips, they are too short. If your nails are more than ¼" longer than your fingertips, they are becoming too long.

The best length for you is when your nails match your lifestyle. You shouldn't let your nails grow too long if you use your fingertips for your job, or have hobbies and interests that are better performed with short nails.

Once a week, you'll need to file your nails to keep them looking neat. Place the file at a slant under the free edge of the nail. (If you hold the file straight up against the nail, your tips may split and peel.)

Then, file the nail in one direction only. From the left to the center and from the right to the center. Never file back and forth because it will cause your nails to crack and split.

Be sure to remember never to file into the corners of your nails or make extreme points at the tips of your fingers. Both will weaken the nails and cause them to break. The best way to file your nails is to follow the natural shape of your fingertips.

New styles lend sophistication, elegance to bridesmaid dressing

Bridesmaids' dresses are taking on a newness in styling this season. Gone are the romantic and traditional looks that have been so popular the last couple of years. Today's silhouettes are more sophisticated and elegant.

An "older" look is coming onto the scene, with the straight skirt making an impact.

Merchandise manager Janice Gibney of the Susie's chain of stores, which specialize in bridesmaids' dresses, attributes the change in style to a more mature customer. "Women are waiting longer to get married which means that bridesmaids are a little older and want a more sophisticated look," she says.

To-the-floor and "tea" lengths are very popular and there's a great deal of interest in satin, either in solid or muted prints. Soft, as in pretty pastels, is the word in color.

Feminine accessories, such as gloves, hats and jewelry, add lovely accents. Says Ms. Gibney, "Gloves are extremely important, whether wrist length or to-the-elbow, with fingers or without."

Gibney also advises shoppers to inquire about catalogues. "In our stores, we have a Gunne Sax booklet which customers can order from. This way, they have choices other than what's on the sales floor."

People who have their wedding reception at Lenora can hardly wait to get married again.

A diamond engagement ring: A commitment to long-lasting quality

Diamonds, like love, are individual and very precious. Since the 15th century, the diamond has been the gemstone symbolizing a commitment of lasting love between two people.

Once a couple makes this commitment, they are faced with selecting a diamond engagement ring that reflects their individual personality and taste.

When searching for a diamond engagement ring, many feel reassured when they recognize a name they know. A brand name provides this assurance of quality, styling and craftsmanship.

The more knowledgeably you make this decision, the happier you'll be with your choice. Questions about diamond clarity and styling, as well as guarantees against the loss of the center diamond, future trade-in and resetting privileges, should be answered.

Styling choice remains intensely personal and is complicated by the wide range of styles available.

For a couple interested in exclusivity, the Designer Collection from Keepsake offers Royal, a unique engagement ring featuring a marquise center diamond with channel-set side diamonds and matching wedding ring.

Reliability and trust are important factors that form the basis of a lasting relationship. In addition, they are essential qualities to consider when choosing a diamond engagement ring.

Fascinating traditions and folklore of jewelry, the universal symbol of love

From the earliest of times through today, people have been fascinated by gems and jewelry. In earlier days, wars were fought over gemstones, and legends were invented about them.

Today, we still search for them, study them and collect them. And, according to Jewelers of America, the national association of 12,000 retail jewelers across the United States, although lifestyles, goals and values have changed, the symbol of love attached to a gemstone has never changed.

Say it with jewelry:

When did it all begin? Before written history. Yet, some of the traditions and folklore that existed before man could read or write have endured through the centuries. In fact, even today, gemstones are often selected on the basis of long-ago conceived folklore.

Symbolic gemstones

In which month were you born? When is your wedding anniversary? How long have you been married? There are legendary colors and gemstones for every month and for every year of marriage. There's added enjoyment by knowing some of the folklore behind your precious choice.

A few examples:

- The green emerald signifies growing love. In addition, it was said to strengthen the memory and to help its owner become an eloquent speaker. It was also thought to give the power to predict the future and to make people more intelligent and honest.
- The amethyst symbolized protection, peace, tranquility, piety, spiritual wisdom, humility, sincerity and contentment. It was also said to protect a person against intoxication, to improve the complexion and to prevent baldness. A dream of amethyst meant the dreamer was safe from harm.
- The aquamarine, in its shades of blue, comes from the Greek word for sea water and is therefore the gemstone of sailors, possessing the calming effects of the sea, and aids those who travel by water. It was also thought to establish happy marriages. Should harmony flee, it would help reconcile the partners' differences.
- The red ruby signified peace and health. Never make faces at a ruby or ignore one, because it will grow dull if slighted or not worn or seen.
- Marriage partners used to put great faith in a sapphire, which signified fidelity, because, if its luster dimmed, one knew that his or her spouse had been unfaithful.
- The topaz was said to improve dimness of vision, and the peridot was used as a remedy for sinus problems.
- The ever-popular diamond has a long history of folklore and tradition. It was considered a bearer of victory and an emblem of fearlessness and invincibility. It was said to drive away ghosts if worn on the left arm.

A time to remember — always

It seems there's never enough time before the wedding to get everything done — the flower arrangements, the caterer, the guest lists, and so on and so forth. Yet, somehow it all comes together at the very last minute.

For many a bride and groom, the first chance they have to catch their breath is when the wedding is over. And that's a perfect time to present each other with a token of their love.

Timex has made it easy for the hustling, bustling pair to select a suitable gift. Their aptly named Watercolors watch collection offers a range of bright and sassy colors and styles, all with water-resistant cases and no-wind quartz movements.

Stark white dials are set off by red, yellow or black resin cases and straps; a dark blue face, circled in pink, is teamed with a light blue attachment; pinstriped and pindotted dials are joined with matching or contrasting bands; and a duo of his-and-her watches are fashioned in gray and white.

These trendy timepieces make great accessories for all types of sportswear, from chinos and blazers ... to tennis whites ... to Hawaiian prints. And they're also attractive mementos for the newlyweds to keep on hand for many a year to come.

Pointers on how to develop a good relationship with your mother-in-law

Hear the phrase "mother-in-law" and the word "joke" often springs to mind. Throughout history, the mother by marriage has been a figure of fun in folklore, literature, even botany: The alternate name for the snake plant is "mother-in-law's tongue!"

But, joking aside, is it really impossible to get along with your mother-in-law? A recent book, Between Mothers-in-Law & Daughters-in-Law, by Helen S. Arnstein (Dodd Mead & Company) which was excerpted in a past issue of Bride's magazine, has this advice for young people getting married today:

• Realize that times have changed. Says Arnstein, "The days are long past when a mother-in-law dropped by at her daughter-in-law's home, lifted the lid of the simmering pot to inspect her son's dinner, or commented on the dishes stacked in the sink."

Your mother-in-law, if she's like many women today, holds a job and leads an active life — with little time or energy left over to inspect your home. Her own home may be far from perfect!

• Let go of preconceived notions. "First impressions can set the tone of a relationship," claims Arnstein. Think of your mother-in-law as your spouse's mother, instead of associating her with the stereotype. She is the mother of the person you love, and part of the things you love were fostered by her. Give her every chance to be known as an individual: Isn't that what you want?

• Borrow from her wisdom now and then. Put yourself in your mother-in-law's place and think how an older person would feel if there was nothing she could contribute to the younger generation. So, if she suggests something in good faith, give it a try. After all, under her tutelage, your spouse turned out pretty well!

• Should she nag and complain, realize that this behavior may stem from unhappy experiences in her life and may not necessarily be a reflection on you. The "interfering mother-in-law" often doesn't have any outlets for her abilities. You and your spouse might be able to work on that.

How good a guest are you? Take this quick quiz to find out

If the first sign of spring is the crocus, the second is just as surely the wedding invitation. Now is the time of year when any day is likely to bring an elegant envelope tucked in with your electric bill, supermarket circular and favorite magazine subscription.

So it's a good time to ask: How's your Guest-Etiquette? Take this quiz from Bride's magazine and see if you're up to the season ahead.

True or false:

1. Verbal acceptance of a wedding invitation is okay.

2. You don't have to send a gift if you don't go to the wedding.

3. You should bring the wedding present to the reception.

4. If you're dating someone, it's fine to bring him or her to the wedding.

5. A female guest shouldn't wear all-black or all-white.

6. The last person to be seated in church is the mother of the bride.

7. On the receiving line, you "congratulate" the groom, offer "best wishes" to the bride.

8. You shouldn't leave the reception before the newlyweds do.

1. F — Unless it's a very informal invitation. A formal, engraved invitation should be answered with a brief handwritten note on a double sheet of fine white note paper. If a response card is provided, use that.

2. T — If you're close to the couple, you'll probably want to send a gift, but it's not required.

3. F — Except if the gift is a check. Then you can bring it to the wedding and give it to the couple personally. Otherwise, send the gift to the bride at her home as soon as possible after you receive the invitation. A check sent before the wedding is made out to the bride.

4. F — An invitation is only for those specifically mentioned. Unless it reads "and guest" or "and family," they only want you.

5. T — Although the rules are bending somewhat on this, especially since black is so fashionable right now. In general, judge what you should wear by the formality of the invitation. You can rarely go wrong in a suit and tie, for a man, and a street-length dressy party or cocktail dress, for a woman.

6. T — This is the signal that the ceremony is about to begin, so if you arrive later, stand unobtrusively at the back unless the ushers direct otherwise. It's best to try to arrive at least 10-15 minutes early.

7. T — You could cause offense if you reverse them. Other tips for negotiating the receiving line: Introduce yourself to anyone who isn't certain to know you. (Remember, the whole wedding party is in a bit of a daze by now.) Say something brief and pleasant to parents and other family members.

8. T — Although this was truer in the days when the bride and groom always left the reception early, in a shower of rice, to go directly on their honeymoon. These days, some newlyweds stay right until the end of the party so an alternate rule might be: Don't leave until the cake has been cut and served. Remember to thank the wedding's hostess — usually the bride's mother — when you do go.

BRIG. GEN. CHARLES E. "CHUCK" YEAGER: USAF Retired Test Pilot, Author, Grandfather, Hunter, Member of The National Rifle Association.

"I love to hunt. All four of my kids shoot very well. Now I have nine grandkids and most of them hunt. My wife has been shooting all of her life, too. Back where I was raised in West Virginia, hunting was a way of life. Wild game always ended up on the dinner table.

"My good aim came in handy later as a fighter pilot. Even in the X-1 I'd look down on some mountain from 30,000 feet and think, 'I bet there's some great hunting down there.'

"I taught my sons about hunting safety and the unwritten laws of sportsmanship. On some of our best days in the field we never fired a shot, but had a great time just being together.

"I got my first NRA membership in 1948. I renewed it a few years ago because I saw the anti-gun movement as a serious threat to hunting. An old military man like me can spot an enemy pretty fast. And I think the NRA is the hunter's strongest, toughest and most effective friend in America."

I'm the NRA.

The NRA's Hunter Services Division offers programs and publications for hunter safety and education, including the comprehensive "Basic Hunter's Guide." If you would like more information about our publications, or would like to join the NRA, write to G. Ray Arnett, Executive Vice President, PO Box 37484, Dept. CY-47, Washington, D.C. 20013.

SPECIFY WHAT STAYS OR GOES WITH A HOUSE

The Purchase & Sale contract may be the most important document in the sale of a home. In order to save a lot of aggravation, post-sale bickering, and possible law suits the gray area of which items will stay with the house and which the Seller will take away should be spelled out specifically in the contract.

Know the difference between chattels which can be picked up and moved without leaving nail holes, and fixtures which have been attached with the intention of their becoming part of the real estate, furnace, fence, garbage disposal etc. The Buyer expects fixtures to remain with the property.

Items like wall-to-wall carpeting, smoke alarms, and fireplace equipment should be specified as remaining as fixtures or being taken as chattels in the contract to avoid confusion.

Two commonly troublesome items are the TV antenna and fancy lighting fixtures, people form strong emotional attachments to chandeliers. Rather than get bogged down over such matters, simply make sure your offer stipulates that all fixtures remain except specific ones you're willing to give up to the Seller.

Louise Ruma-Ivers is the immediate past President of the Greater Boston Women's Council of Realtors, and a past Director of the Marketing Institute for the Greater Boston Real Estate Board. She is a member of the Arlington Historic Districts Committee.

Dot Stein is a Vice President of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board and a Director of its Multiple Listing Service. She was a long-time Arlington Town Meeting member, and a member of the Arlington School Committee.

Blackpowder Shooters

IF YOU think putting holes in paper is about as exciting as watching the traffic lights change, consider team shooting at breakable targets against a stopwatch The 10th Massachusetts Battery is looking for more people. We are part of the North South Skirmish Association, a 4,000 member competitive shooting organization where the shortest elapsed time wins. Units take their names in honor of actual Civil War regiments and members shoot original or reproduction weapons of the 1861-65 period. The 10th Battery competes with .58 cal. rifled muskets, caplock breechloading carbines, and an 1,000 lb. full size 3-inch rifled muzzleloading cannon Yes, there's some paper punching too for those interested, but the real excitement is in the rapid fire team events where you shoot at flower pots hanging water-filled coffee cups ceramic tiles and 32 clay pigeons on a 4x8 cardboard backer at 50 yds We welcome all shooters regardless of experience Our team members live all over — from Maine to Rhode Island to New York — but more are from eastern Massachusetts. Ex-Volunteers Recall Days In Peace Corps

Peace Corps' 25th Birthday March 1

BY ERIC BLOM

Patients Samura remembers when she suffered malaria several times and found a seven foot long spitting cobra in her toilet.

A former Peace Corps volunteer, Samura's memories come from her days as a volunteer in Sierra Leone, Africa.

The Washington st. resident says she wants to move back there to live out her life.

Maxwell st. residents Lee and Michael Behnke also served as Peace Corps volunteers in Sierra Leone. They too want to re-volunteer for Peace Corps work in Africa.

As the Peace Corps prepares to celebrate its 25th anniversary March 1, the three Winchester residents testify to the success of President John Kennedy's program.

Both the Samuras and Behnkes' homes are decorated with African carvings and artifacts.

All three say they have more understanding of foreign cultures than when they graduated from college.

"I had the Tarzan image of Africa animals everywhere," recalls 34-year-old Samura. "I had no idea of what I was getting into. I didn't know anything. I didn't know one country from another."

"There's an awful lot more to Africa than the animals," she says.

Yet, the wildlife was a little wilder in Sierra Leone than her native Winchester.

Although much of the Peace Corps experience was foreign to Samura and the Behnkes, they adapted. Samura hatched a python. Longfellow — and kept him as a pet for eight years.

The culture proved more difficult to tame.

"It's real hard to go to another culture," Samura says. "You tend to hang around with people from your own culture. There's so much Africans really can't understand about you."

"It was a very jolting cultural experience," says Michael Behnke.

A boy they knew highlighted this fact.

"After a year we knew him very well when he informed us he thought we were devils and turned into airplanes," Michael Behnke says.

He said everyone in town thought we were devils but were too polite to mention it.

"We had a very different understanding of reality than people we thought we were very close to," he says.

For the tribal people of Sierra Leone, devils are not necessarily evil. The spirits tap magical powers for either good or ill.

During the Islamic holiday of Ramadan, even Samura's Christian students became Moslem. They refused to eat, drink or even swallow their own saliva.

"They would constantly get up and spit out the window," she says. "You know how kids are. They take advantage of it."

Aberjona River Link, Expansion Plans Top Conservation Commission Goals

About 80 people turned out Tuesday to hear the Conservation Commission detail land acquisition plans.

The proposal uses a four point approach to protecting Winchester's open spaces.

The plan calls for acquiring land in densely populated areas, expanding existing conservation land, transferring town-owned land to the Conservation Commission, and purchasing farm land.

The first Conservation Commission goal is to acquire land along the Aberjona River, keeping the waterway accessible to residents. This is particularly important, the draft proposal says, in the most densely populated sections of town.

The green belt along the Aberjona would also link 11 existing parks and playing fields.

The second part of the plan calls for expanding existing conservation land and protecting waterways in other sections of the town.

The third proposal is to transfer some town-owned land to the Conservation Commission to make sure the land is not sold or used for other purposes. Most of the land in this category is controlled by the Board of Selectmen or School Committee.

The final category is farm land the Conservation Commission hopes to protect. The sites are Hamilton Farm, Forest Farm and the part of Winning Farm in Winchester.

But because the board does not feel the land is presently threatened, it has no plans to acquire the land.

Privately owned sites being considered are, in order of importance to the commission: the General Foods property between Sunset rd. and the Aberjona River, Pansy Patch and other properties between Cambridge st. and Winter Pond, Horne Pond Mountain access from Pond st. area, rights to the edge of Upper Smith Pond and High st. extension.

Also on the list are the Winn Co. lot on Washington st. south of the Aberjona, the Russo property on Wendell st. west of MacDonald Field, properties adjacent to the east and west of the Locke Farm Conservation land, land adjacent to the Town Forest on Sussex rd.

The final segment includes the Fallon property adjacent to Middlesex Fells, the Shannon lot on Bellevue ave., Socrates Way on the corner of Johnson rd., the Wedge Pond outlet on Main st., an extension of Ledgewood Park to Winthrop st., the Castignetti lot on Bellevue ave., the portion of the Rotondi property on Sunset rd. and Churchill rd. abutting a brook and the General Foods property on Forest st. which abuts a brook.

New Tax, State Aid May Pay

State aid and a new tax will fund massive land purchases proposed under the Open Space and Recreation Plan, according to Margaret W. Howard, chairman of the Conservation Commission.

She says the state will pay 70 or 80 percent of land purchase costs. A new one-half percent tax on Winchester real estate transactions will pay the rest.

No estimates of total costs were available.

Money raised by the new tax will be placed in a fund to purchase land. This fund, known as the Winchester Land Bank, must receive both Town Meeting and legislative approval before it goes into effect.

Once enough money accumulates, the town will purchase land "on a priority basis." If negotiations do not move along speedily at the primary site, that property will lose its priority. Negotiations will then begin for the next best land.

Once a purchase is made, the state will reimburse the fund for between 70 and 80 percent of expenditures.

An article designed to set up the land bank will appear on this April's Town Meeting warrant, Howard says. The board will also ask Winchester to fund a part-time administrator's position at the annual gathering.

This position will help implement the proposal.

"A program such as proposed here cannot be adequately carried out by volunteer commissioners alone," says the conservation commission's draft proposal.

The administrator would cost the town between $10,000 and $12,000 a year, says Howard.

A warrant article to fund the position will also appear before Town Meeting, she says.

Town Swimming Pool is Top Need, Says 5-Year Recreation Action Plan

Winchester's number one recreational need is for a town swimming pool, according to a Five Year Action Plan proposed by the Recreation Dept.

The Recreation Dept. lists 10 other priority needs for the town as well. The plan was presented at the Conservation Commission public hearing Tuesday night.

In order of importance, they include play areas for tots, more playfields for sports and athletics, better use of existing large sites and functional as well as aesthetic changes to town school areas.

Also on the list are creation of passive recreational areas, upgrading and rehabilitating town waterway areas, development of a pathway system linking the waterways with recreational facilities and formulating a plan to meet the recreational needs of elderly and handicapped residents.

The final portion of the list calls for lighted athletic fields, re-examination of the use of town-leased areas and better maintainance of existing facilities.

The Recreation Dept. report also suggests buying or renting land adjacent to Skillings Field at the High School known as the Woburn Loop to expand the site.

Buying a tract of land on the west bank of the Aberjona River formerly owned by Hudson Industries "would fully complete the recreation service area for the north side of town," according to the report.

Voters Can Sign Saturday

Saturday is the important day for Winchester residents who have not yet registered to vote.

Town Clerk Carolyn Ward will conduct special voter registration hours from noon to 8 p.m. Saturday, March 1, at the Town Hall.

"Saturday hours are usually popular," she said.

The final registration deadline for new voters who wish to cast ballots in the town election Tuesday, March 25, is Wednesday, March 5. The Town Clerk will also conduct registration that day from 8:30 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Flying High: Balcony Debated

By GEORGE DERRINGER

To balcony, or not to balcony. That is the question.

Members of the Town Hall Improvement Advisory Committee spent most of last week's meeting trying to decide how a balcony in "the town's living room" should be used.

No decision was reached. Instead, the committee asked architect Bill Rowe to bring three rough sketches of the planned room to a meeting at 4:45 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 27, at the Town Hall.

Committee members will present a plan for improving the Town Hall to an April 28 Town Meeting.

The plan will include a proposal to restore the vaulted ceiling in the present Town Clerk's office. The room was once the town library but currently has a lowered ceiling of acoustic tile.

A balcony about seven feet wide once encircled the room and committee members generally agreed a balcony should be included. They did not actually vote on the question, however.

"The building demands of me that the balcony be there," Rowe told the committee.

There was little agreement, however, about other questions pertaining to the balcony.

Questions arose when Susan Keats asked if town archives could be returned to the Town Hall. She estimated they would occupy 500

Lillian P. Stacey

Oldest Resident Dies At Age 103

Lillian P. Stacey, Winchester's oldest resident and holder of the Boston Post Cane, died Monday at the Winchester Nursing Home. She was 103.

Born Jan. 23, 1883, in Lynn, she lived for 100 years at 5 Chestnut st., Winchester, in a home her father built.

Selectmen presented her with the Boston Post cane on Dec. 17, 1984, saying "you have demonstrated that a productive life may indeed long endure. Your longevity inspires all of us who come after you."

Miss Stacey was never married. She was a sister to the late Elinor M. Foresman of Winchester.

In later years, she babysat for several neighbors in Winchester.

Private graveside services were conducted at Pine Grove Cemetery in Lynn under the direction of the Rockwell Funeral Home.

The Boston Post cane was originally given to the oldest male citizen of 431 New England towns in 1909 and was passed along among men until 1930. Women objected to their exclusion and in 1930 the publisher of the Boston newspaper agreed to include them in the tradition.

Many New England towns have lost track of the cane, which is made of ebony and bears a gold tip, but others have continued the tradition without interruption.

Winchester selectmen found the cane in a safe in 1957 and other holders since then were the late Elsie C. Smith and the late Angelina Ciurso.

Gas War? Not Yet, But Watch

By MATTHEW GARY

Remember the days when 50 cents would pay for a night's worth of gasoline?

Those gas war days may not be back, but Winchester service stations are showing signs of skirmish.

Steady drops in local gas prices over the past few weeks agree with a national trend toward lower prices.

Recent price drops range from five to 12 cents and further drops are anticipated.

Bossi's Exxon Inc. of 386 Main st. reported drops of five cents in regular gas and six cents in regular and extra unleaded over the last week.

Crash Injures Two

A Stoneham man lies in intensive care at Massachusetts General Hospital and a Winchester man has a broken leg after a one-car accident Sunday morning on Cross st. that police believe was drinking related.

Harry J. Moran Jr., 24, of 202 Cross st., was issued a citation for speeding, operating to endanger the public and operating under the influence of alcohol.

His passenger, John Mayatabaya, 21, was in serious condition in intensive care on Tuesday, according to a public relations employee at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston.

According to the police report, the car was traveling east on Cross st. about 5 a.m. when the driver lost control and skidded 200 feet into a tree. The car was a total loss.

The "jaws of life" was used to rip off the roof of the car in order to use a backboard to extricate the passenger, Matabayas, police said.

Moran and Matabayas were transported to Winchester Hospital. Because Matayabas suffered serious injuries, a collapsed lung, fractured ribs and head injuries, he was stabilized and taken to Massachusetts General Hospital, according to the report.

7 Arrested On OUI Charges

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

In the past two months Winchester has witnessed four serious apparently drinking-related car accidents, and since Jan. 1 police have cited seven people for driving under the influence of alcohol.

That figure compares with 1985 when 21 people were cited during the entire year. But last year's arrests were down from 1984's figure of 47.

Winchester Police Chief John P. McHugh said the drinking-related deaths, injuries and arrests in the past two months will not necessarily reflect what the next 10 months have in store for the town.

Since Dec. 22, three Winchester teenagers are dead and two men were seriously injured this week in apparently drinking-related accidents.

"Drinking and driving is an ongoing problem in Winchester and nationally," McHugh said Tuesday. He describes the rash of drinking-related accidents early in the year as "cyclical." He said some years are worse than others but that they "average out in the end."

McHugh said the police department cannot be watchdogs of the town, especially in early morning hours when youths may drive after drinking.

"We can't put a guard in front of every house in Winchester. We can only enforce the law and make O.U.I. arrests when there is probable cause."

He said in order for evidence to be admissable in court, the arresting officer must have a valid reason for pulling a car off the road.

Winchester Police Sgt. James Pierce, active in the high school programs, said there are always youngsters trying to beat the system. But, he said, the counseling course has been largely successful in alerting youths to the serious consequences of drinking and driving.

"At a young age programs are very beneficial to highlight the evils of the problem," McHugh said.

He said the statistics from 1984 to 1985 indicate "an increased awareness among people." He said people are less likely to drive drunk today than a year ago.

McHugh cited elimination of happy hours, road blocks and the common use of a designated driver.

"Publicly it (new enforcements) has had an impact," McHugh said.

If adults in town are concerned about teenage drinking in general, McHugh said, Winchester has in a sense fueled the young people's fire.

"It's a hypocrisy. If we're concerned about drinking and driving, then why did we just open three restaurants and one package store in town?" he asked.

McHugh said it's a grave mistake for parents to neglect youths in their pre-school years. This is a crucial time for youngsters when they learn discipline and love, he said.

"If you have no respect for your family, you'll defy society," he said emphatically.

McHugh cited medical, educational and societal changes as causing children to miss out on their youth.

"They are forced to live in an adult society," he said.

Pierce and Detective Daniel McGee, also of the Winchester Police Department are active statewide in a program initiated by Governor Michael Dukakis in an effort to educate young people about the evils and consequences of drinking and driving.

Ronayne Seeks Reelection To School Committee

By MICHAEL RONAYNE
Special To The Star

Michael R. Ronayne, currently a member of the Winchester School Committee, has recently announced his candidacy for re-election to the Committee in the March 25 town election. Ronayne offers as qualifications a varied and experienced career in higher education and in scientific research and development along with three years experience as a member of the Winchester School Committee (1983-1986).

In addition, he served with distinction as Chairman of the School Committee in 1984-1985, and was a member of the Town Capital Planning Committee in 1983-1984.

Ronayne continues to believe that many serious problems will need to be addressed by the Committee in the next few years.

New and different approaches will be required to maintain quality and provide the best education for the students of Winchester in the face of smaller enrollments at the secondary level and limited dollars.

The new requirements of Chapter 188 of the Acts of 1985 together with reduced Federal Revenue Sharing and dwindling State support demand knowledgeable and experienced leadership from municipal school committees.

More than ever, detailed awareness of the nuances of critical school committe management techniques both at the town level and at the state level are required.

Ronayne invites a review of his public record by the voters of Winchester for evidence of quality preparation, experience and contributions in these areas.

In the last three years Ronayne has given leadership to and worked with the School Committee and school system to achieve in many areas. Some notable examples are:

- A significant reduction in the pupil-teacher ratios at the elementary level with concomitant reductions in split grades.
- A three year capital acquisitions program of computer hardware and software.
- An external peer review of the Reading Program.
- Advances in enrollment management by attempting to include district specific econometric factors with census data.
- Arranging for area Universities to accomodate students when speciality courses are underenrolled or exhausted.
- Monitoring the state omnibus education legislation activities and commenting publicly (Boston Globe 2/4/85).
- Significant curriculum, graduation requirements, administrative reorganization and other policy revisions.
- Effective negotiations of the School budgets with the Finance Committee leading to acceptance by Town Meeting.

Michael Ronayne, candidate for re-election to Winchester School Committee.

In addition Ronayne remains strongly committed to: academic excellence and faculty development, neighborhood elementary schools, the conservation of separate Junior and Senior High School facilities, comprehensive long range planning and strong extra-curricular programs.

Ronayne's professional vita includes:

- Dean, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, Suffolk University, Beacon Hill, Boston.
- Project Director, 2 million dollar federal grant (1981-1986), U.S. Department of Education.
- B.S. Boston College, 1958, Chemistry.
- Ph.D., University of Notre Dame, 1962, Radiation Chemistry.
- Research chemist, Author, Professor, Department Chairman.
- Accreditation Team Member, New England Association of Schools and Colleges.
- Responsible for a 12 million dollar annual College Budget.

Ronayne has commented, "I believe an effective education system requires input from many sectors: parents, children, school administrators, faculty, the public and School Committee members. I have been pleased to spend many hours on the phone with constituents over the last three years listening carefully to the ideas of the public to bring them to the School Committee table. If re-elected I pledge to continue to facilitate communication among all the interested parties. I will always be open to suggestions. I would appreciate your vote on March 25."

Health Board Grant Helps Fight Injuries

Winchester's Board of Health has received a grant of $4,000 for a local injury prevention project.

Health Director Joe Tabbi said his department has an ongoing child accident prevention program but the grant will assure 100 percent reimbursement for expansion of the program.

"We have an ongoing program in place," he said. "We will go, on request, to any home with children under 2 years of age or so and do a thorough inspection of safety."

The program is a free service, Tabbi said, and some safety equipment such as wall plugs for unused outlets is given away free.

Winchester's application was one of only nine in the state to be approved. 39 applications were submitted.

Tabbi said the grant proposal, which was written by health inspector Diane Manganaro, will allow the health department to request funds from the fall town meeting with assurance of full reimbursement.

In addition to home inspections, the new program will include inspections by the Visiting Nurses Association to the homes of newborns and a bicycle safety program at day-care centers.

The Winchester Police Department already has a bicycle safety program, Tabbi said, but additional funds will allow its expansion. That program will remain under the direction of the police department.

Sopper Wants To Aid Town, Seeks Selectman's Position

By Francis P. Sopper
Special To The Star

In these days of widespread cynicism, people are inclined to be suspicious of anyone who offers them help.

Despite this attitude, I sincerely want to help my community of Winchester. I am a candidate for the Board of Selectmen not only because of my desire to help but because I genuinely believe I can help in very specific ways.

Winchester has been well-served by those it has chosen to represent it on the Board of Selectmen. I do not intend to mount a negative campaign.

Rather, I intend to stress positive values and to identify the contributions I will make to our consensus form of government. My talents and experience will, I believe, complement the abilities and backgrounds of the members of the current Board who continue their service.

I bring a new dimension to Town Government, one that has been lacking in recent years. For the past quarter of a century I have been a successful businessman in Winchester in a highly competitive technical field.

One does not survive this long in such a business without learning some sound fiscal lessons that are applicable to the business of running Town Government.

As a Water Systems Consultant, I am involved in one of the most critical issues confronting municipalities today, the conservation and protection of their water resources.

I have served as Chairman of the Water Conservation and Quality Committee of the New England Water Works Association. This assignment has enabled me to see the importance of effective inter-relationships between governmental initiatives at local and State levels.

It is mind boggling to consider the many issues which will confront the Town of Winchester over the next decade. Upgrading our sewer system, protection of our reservoirs, disposition of the property along the Woburn loop, siting of low incoming housing, renovations to Town Hall, and completion of improvements to the center business district are not theoretical exercises.

They are genuine problems requiring realistic analysis and technically feasible solutions. I believe I have the skills necessary to cope successfully with these and other issues. I seek your help in giving me the opportunity to do so.

I am no stranger to local government, the study of which has long been of keen interest to me.

I was an appointed member of the Search Committee constituted to review candidates for the position of Town Manager when the present incumbent of that office was selected.

This learning experience helped me more fully appreciate and support the effective relationship between the Town Manager and the Selectmen foreseen by our Town Charter. For the past two years I have been Winchester's appointed representative to the Massachusetts Water Resource Authority, another valuable intergovernmental experience.

So this is where I stand and what I offer. Frank Sopper represents a new dimension in local politics.

If you believe that sound business practices can be translated into effective governmental operations, then you believe in Frank Sopper.

If you believe that technical skills are needed to help solve technical problems, then you believe in Frank Sopper. If you agree with me on these points, then I hope you will help me add a new dimension to local government.

I should be honored if you would vest me with this responsibility by supporting my candidacy for Selectman.

Title Examinations

A title search or title examination for land involves looking at public records to determine if the person claiming to own the land actually does own it, and to further see if there are any defects in the title to the land such as unpaid mortgages and other liens, easements or unpaid taxes.

In order to perform a title examination, the attorney first traces the "chain of title" from the current owner back a number of years, carefully examining each deed, will or other title transfer document. He then "comes forward" with this chain of title, checking the indexes for the name of each owner to insure the property had not been sold to more than one person, that there are no unpaid mortgages or other liens against the land, that taxes have been paid, and there are no other situations which would affect the title.

If you buy land without having a title examination performed, you are taking a tremendous risk that the property has some sort of problem with the title.

Police, Fire Station Opens For Business

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

It's business as usual at the newly renovated police department on Mount Vernon st.

After a week and a half of operations, minor adjustment problems are still popping up. But for the most part things are running smoothly, according to Police Chief John P. McHugh.

McHugh says, "We're just beginning to settle in to the newness, it's just a matter of time."

As of Feb. 17, Winchester Police officially moved in to the renovated building. The Fire Department moved in more than two weeks ago but police were forced to wait because the intricate communication system was not completed.

The $2.7 million renovation project, which began in the summer of 1984, was scheduled for completion by the end of June of 1985.

But because of ongoing problems with the contractor, there were several delays.

The renovated station is equipped with computerized phone systems and locks on all individual offices.

McHugh says there have been problems adjusting to the new systems, but nothing they cannot overcome.

For the most part McHugh says, "I smile all the time." However he indicates things they need but probably won't get. For instance, a refrigerator and a microwave oven.

The Permanent Building Commmittee, says McHugh, "is tight with the money." He said he does not know whether his request will be granted.

For the first time in a year and a half, Winchester Police will be able to lock up prisoners at the station.

While the department operated out of the Lynch School, all prisoners were transported to the Woburn Police Department headquarters for lock-up.

McHugh says the only thing that is keeping them from beginnning lock-ups at the new building is the certificate for occupancy for the cells. McHugh said he expects to receive it in the next few weeks.

McHugh says he plans to meet with sergeants and lieutenants to discuss how everyone is settling in at the new headquarters. He wants to hear the problems and the praises.

"Overall, we've come a long way," says McHugh.

Winchester's Local Aid Up, Reverses Trend: Sen. Kraus

Sen. Richard Kraus says Winchester isn't getting a bad deal in local aid funds from the Commonwealth, as Town Manager Chad Maurer claimed in last week's issue of The Star.

"Winchester received an increase of $103,505 last year," Kraus said this week. "This year the town's increase will be $183,472. That's a 77 percent increase above last year's increase."

The number, however, includes only local aid money that can be used by municipalities on a "discretionary" basis.

Kraus insisted the 77 percent increase for Winchester, compared to a statewide average of 59 percent, is a reversal of a trend.

"A whole new trend to pay attention to the needs of the towns, as well as the cities, has been started," Kraus said.

What about the non-discretionary funds given to municipalities by the state? "Those are mostly reimbursement accounts," Kraus said. "If the towns spend less money, they receive less money from the state."

Some area towns, including Winchester, have objected mostly to one of four parts of the discretionary local aid funds scheduled to be sent to them in fiscal 1987.

Federal revenue sharing will be discontinued in the new fiscal year but the Massachusetts Legislature will replace part of the lost federal funds.

Kraus said his commission agreed to a revenue sharing replacement formula "which is more heavily weighted for the cities" in order to "obtain significant improvements in the overall formula."

He said, "A town leader who sees that he or she will only have replaced 10 percent of the anticipated federal cut tends to get angry when the city next door has 90 percent replaced.

"But that anger obscures the central fact of the major changes that were made in the overall forumla. Even including the city-oriented response to the federal cuts, the towns are the big winners this year," Kraus said.

As chairman of the Local Aid Commission, Kraus has been a major factor in the decision which will given municipalities differing percentages of their lost federal revenue sharing. Woburn will get 90 percent of its lost federal funds; Winchester will get 10 percent.

To demonstrate that focusing only on the federal revenue replacement portion of the local aid formula is misleading, Kraus noted that the City of Lynn, which will get 90 percent replacement of lost federal revenue sharing, will still get only a 62 percent in discretionary local aid over last year's figure.

"Lynn's 62 percent is marginally above the state average of 59 percent but on the bottom line, Winchester is doing better with a 77 percent increase," Kraus said.

The numbers vary from place to place, Kraus said. Communities which will receive local aid increases "substantially below" the state average include Somerville, Medford, Boston and Cambridge, Kraus said.

"I know Chad Maurer would like a better deal for Winchester and I would too," Kraus said. "But the truth is that in the discretionary local aid funds, Winchester will be getting a 77 percent larger increase than it got last year. That's the real bottom line. The trend has been reversed."

Kraus said the Local Aid Commission conducted hearings to give local officials "a sounding board" and almost all the testimony was from small towns and rural communities, not the cities.

Kraus insisted the 77 percent increase for Winchester, compared to a statewide average of 59 percent, is a reversal of a trend.

He praised the leadership of both houses in the Legislature for resisting proposals "which meant more money for their cities and deep trouble for communities like mine." Kraus represents the Fourth Middlesex Senate District, which includes Arlington, Lexington, Winchester and Woburn.

Kraus criticized the closed-door negotiating that was used this year to settle on a final local aid formula and said he was "taken by surprise" by it.

In a proposal for the following year, fiscal 1988, Kraus has suggested a three-part simplified formula.

"In a nutshell, I'm going to do my best to break down the process into understandable components. Everyone at some level could participate, scrutinize and judge the justness of the work. No mystery. No intrigue. A process that is open, honest, simple and fair.

"That may be too idealistic but that is my goal," he said.

High Schoolers May Attend Extra Period

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

A detailed presentation of the music program given by Director of Music for Winchester Schools Lynn Rahmeier triggered talk about extending the high school day from seven to eight periods.

Although no formal action was taken Tuesday's School Committee meeting, members spoke favorably of extending the school day.

Director of Music Lynne Rahmeier said a number of students opt to take a second language or another "academic" course before choosing a course in music or art, because of the pressures of college applications.

In other action, members accepted a proposal from the Muraco School Improvement Council to start a science resource center with $2520.

After questioning Ambrose School's proposal at a meeting two weeks ago, members voted unanimously to accept the educational improvement program, "Personal Problem Solving in a High Achievement School."

Ambrose will buy a $1,100 program offered by School and Family Associates of Cambridge to educate the community with what goes on in school.

The program consists of four six hour consulting days which would take place between January and June.

Murphys Donate Darkroom, Photo Equipment To McCall

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

A colorful "Murphy's darkroom" sign now hangs on the door of McCall Junior High School's newest addition.

Life-long Winchester resident Mary Murphy and her husband John recently donated $12,000 to McCall for a darkroom and photography equipment.

"My husband has always been interested in photography and in the youth of the town," Murphy said.

Last November the Murphys decided they wanted to donate money because of their special interest in children and because of their "fondness for Vandy (French, McCall principal)" she said.

"We talked it over with Vandy and decided photography would be a great thing for the school," recalled Murphy.

"The enthusiasm is just terrific. The teacher was just like a child with a new toy when we visited the darkroom," she said.

In the past McCall students had to wait until high school to learn photography. By providing the darkroom to the junior high students, Mary says she hopes the children will have a little head start. Unlike the high school, McCall does not offer a photography class during regular school time. It is strictly an after school club activity.

Her husband's interest in photography has been life-long. As a real estate appraiser and consultant, part of her husband's job is to take pictures of houses for court hearings.

John has a soft spot for youths while Mary says she has a vested interest in the elderly in Winchester.

She was operative in bringing the Housing Authority to Winchester in 1968. As a result of her work, the apartments on Palmer st. were named after her, "Mary Murphy apartments."

"We are never half-hearted in our efforts, we always try to give it our all," she said.

Mary was born and raised in Winchester and has lived in the house she grew up in all her life.

The Murphys were Town Meeting members in Winchester for 20 years.

Police, Fire Station Opens For Business

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

It's business as usual at the newly renovated police department on Mount Vernon st.

After a week and a half of operations, minor adjustment problems are still popping up. But for the most part things are running smoothly, according to Police Chief John P. McHugh.

McHugh says, "We're just beginning to settle in to the newness, it's just a matter of time."

As of Feb. 17, Winchester Police officially moved in to the renovated building. The Fire Department moved in more than two weeks ago but police were forced to wait because the intricate communication system was not completed.

The $2.7 million renovation project, which began in the summer of 1984, was scheduled for completion by the end of June of 1985.

But because of ongoing problems with the contractor, there were several delays.

The renovated station is equipped with computerized phone systems and locks on all individual offices.

McHugh says there have been problems adjusting to the new systems, but nothing they cannot overcome.

For the most part McHugh says, "I smile all the time." However he indicates things they need but probably won't get. For instance, a refrigerator and a microwave oven.

The Permanent Building Committee, says McHugh, "is tight with the money." He said he does not know whether his request will be granted.

For the first time in a year and a half, Winchester Police will be able to lock up prisoners at the station.

While the department operated out of the Lynch School, all prisoners were transported to the Woburn Police Department headquarters for lock-up.

McHugh says the only thing that is keeping them from beginning lock-ups at the new building is the certificate for occupancy for the cells. McHugh said he expects to receive it in the next few weeks.

McHugh says he plans to meet with sergeants and lieutenants to discuss how everyone is settling in at the new headquarters. He wants to hear the problems and the praises.

"Overall, we've come a long way," says McHugh.

Winchester's Local Aid Up, Reverses Trend: Sen. Kraus

Sen. Richard Kraus says Winchester isn't getting a bad deal in local aid funds from the Commonwealth, as Town Manager Chad Maurer claimed in last week's issue of The Star.

"Winchester received an increase of $103,505 last year," Kraus said this week. "This year the town's increase will be $183,472. That's a 77 percent increase above last year's increase."

The number, however, includes only local aid money that can be used by municipalities on a "discretionary" basis.

Kraus insisted the 77 percent increase for Winchester, compared to a statewide average of 59 percent, is a reversal of a trend.

"A whole new trend to pay attention to the needs of the towns, as well as the cities, has been started," Kraus said.

What about the non-discretionary funds given to municipalities by the state? "Those are mostly reimbursement accounts," Kraus said. "If the towns spend less money, they receive less money from the state."

Some area towns, including Winchester, have objected mostly to one of four parts of the discretionary local aid funds scheduled to be sent to them in fiscal 1987.

Federal revenue sharing will be discontinued in the new fiscal year but the Massachusetts Legislature will replace part of the lost federal funds.

Kraus said his commission agreed to a revenue sharing replacement formula "which is more heavily weighted for the cities" in order to "obtain significant improvements in the overall formula."

He said, "A town leader who sees that he or she will only have replaced 10 percent of the anticipated federal cut tends to get angry when the city next door has 90 percent replaced.

"But that anger obscures the central fact of the major changes that were made in the overall forumla. Even including the city-oriented response to the federal cuts, the towns are the big winners this year," Kraus said.

As chairman of the Local Aid Commission, Kraus has been a major factor in the decision which will given municipalities differing percentages of their lost federal revenue sharing. Woburn will get 90 percent of its lost federal funds; Winchester will get 10 percent.

To demonstrate that focusing only on the federal revenue replacement portion of the local aid formula is misleading, Kraus noted that the City of Lynn, which will get 90 percent replacement of lost federal revenue sharing, will still get only a 62 percent in discretionary local aid over last year's figure.

"Lynn's 62 percent is marginally above the state average of 59 percent but on the bottom line, Winchester is doing better with a 77 percent increase," Kraus said.

The numbers vary from place to place, Kraus said. Communities which will receive local aid increases "substantially below" the state average include Somerville, Medford, Boston and Cambridge, Kraus said.

"I know Chad Maurer would like a better deal for Winchester and I would too," Kraus said. "But the truth is that in the discretionary local aid funds, Winchester will be getting a 77 percent larger increase than it got last year. That's the real bottom line. The trend has been reversed."

Kraus said the Local Aid Commission conducted hearings to give local officials "a sounding board" and almost all the testimony was from small towns and rural communities, not the cities.

Kraus insisted the 77 percent increase for Winchester, compared to a statewide average of 59 percent, is a reversal of a trend.

He praised the leadership of both houses in the Legislature for resisting proposals "which meant more money for their cities and deep trouble for communities like mine." Kraus represents the Fourth Middlesex Senate District, which includes Arlington, Lexington, Winchester and Woburn.

Kraus criticized the closed-door negotiating that was used this year to settle on a final local aid formula and said he was "taken by surprise" by it.

In a proposal for the following year, fiscal 1988, Kraus has suggested a three-part simplified formula.

"In a nutshell, I'm going to do my best to break down the process into understandable components. Everyone at some level could participate, scrutinize and judge the justness of the work. No mystery. No intrigue. A process that is open, honest, simple and fair.

"That may be too idealistic but that is my goal," he said.

Local Couples Remember Days As Volunteers

modations given Peace Corps volunteers lacked electricity, a refrigerator or other modern conveniences.

However, the volunteers' indoor toilet could be flushed by pouring a bucket of water in the tank. Few poverty-stricken Sierra Leonians can afford this luxury.

"When you live in another country — particularly a third world culture — you gain such an appreciation of America," Samura says. "You get an appreciation of how easy life is over here."

"It was unclear what we were educating people for because there weren't any jobs," Michael Behnke, 42, says.

All three say they hope their teaching — and in Samura's case animal science work as well — helped the natives. But they also say the experience probably had a greater impact on themselves than on the tribesmen they visited.

"We changed radically forever in Africa," says 41-year-old Lee Behnke. "It's as if we changed colors."

They had been married for a year when they volunteered for the Peace Corps.

"It telescopes what would take 15 or 20 years here," Michael Behnke says. "A good marriage gets stronger and a bad one falls apart because all the cultural props are gone."

"Some of the Americans went bonkers," says Lee Behnke. "They went native. They dressed African. They ate African. And totally lost touch with their Americanism."

Even the Behnkes, who stress their American roots, say the Sierra Leonian culture has strenghths not found in the United States.

The slow pace of life and sociability of the people are two differences between Africa's west coast and America's eastern shore.

"When we got back to the United States, it seemed a cold and hostile place," says Lee Behnke. "It seemed a very divisive culture. It seemed crazy."

Their call American cities "ugly" and recall Africa's beauty.

"There's a smokey smell to the air I've never experienced before," says Lee Behnke. "The sunset looked different."

'When we got back to the United States, it seemed a cold and hostile place,' says Lee Behnke.

Samura agrees with the Behnkes' assessment of Sierra Leone. She remains in touch with many people in the country and married a native Sierra Leonian.

"Life is much, much slower," she says. "People take it easy and they enjoy life."

Lee Behnke enjoyed fresh bread prepared by the natives during her Peace Corps stay.

Ex-Volunteer To Talk At Winchester High

Local returned Peace Corps volunteer Deborah G. Redding will visit Winchester High School at 9:30 a.m., March 5, to talk to students about her experience in Micronesia.

Redding, who lives in Haverhill, joins more than 100 returned Peace Corps volunteers from New England in a public outreach program geared towards local high schools.

Returned volunteers share their insights of life in the developing world with stories, artifacts and slides.

"The volunteers' work in the villages of Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Pacific has changed their lives and has made an impact on millions of people around the world," says Bill Strack, area manager of the New England Peace Corps Office.

"Now the returned volunteers want to give something back to the people of their communities, as part of the third goal of Peace Corps to teach Americans about the developing world."

For more information, call the New England Peace Corps Office at 223-7366.

Myopia Residents Want One Name

By MAUREEN QUINLAN

Residents of Myopia Hill rd. are tired of "living under a dual name."

Monday night five residents of Myopia Hill-McCall rd. urged the Planning Board to legally change the name of the street from McCall rd. to Myopia Hill rd.

Because the road is a private way, the board has jurisdiction over whether to change the name.

For the past two and a half years the street has been identified by two signs, Myopia Hill rd. and underneath it, McCall rd.

Last summer, controversy arose when a Myopia rd. resident petitioned neighbors to change the name to McCall because of mail delivery mixups.

Sandy Rodgers, a 20-year Myopia Hill rd. resident, told the committee all 12 residents on the street "feel unanimous, we want to keep using Myopia Hill rd."

She said most people working in town and living in town, "don't recognize the name McCall rd. and have no idea where it is."

Frank Odi, another resident said, it would be a monumental task if we had to make a change.

Over the past 100 years the street has been called both Myopia Hill rd. and its legal name, McCall rd.

The land where the road lies was once owned by the Myopia Hunt Club in the late 1880s. The club sold the land because the land was too close to Boston and not good hunting land.

In 1902 Gov. Sam McCall came to Winchester and built his house on the crest of the hill. Subsequently, according to towns, the street legally became McCall rd.

In other action the board:

- DISCUSSED the need for a parking study to be done in town because of the lack of parking spaces in the downtown area.
- TABLED discussion on providing money to send an application for a state public works grant. Several members said the money for the application should be provided by another town board. Town Engineer John Ciarcia estimated renovations would cost close to $2.5 million, citing additional brick work on Church st., Waterfield st. and Main st.
- DEFERRED action on giving waiver for curbing on Sussex rd. All streets in the vicinity have curbing.
- ACCEPTED the town manager's proposed budget for fiscal year 1987.
- FAVORED the acceptance of a large wood-carved free standing sign at Albiani's Building at 600 Main st.

Wedgemere Mural Sparks Controversy

By ERIC BLOM

A proposed mural at the Wedgemere Train Station sparked controversy at this week's Selectmen's meeting.

Ultimately, the board decided 3-2 to let the Arts Lottery Council move forward on the project.

Carole Davidson, chairman of the council, said the group has not decided to fund the project, but would not have considered the application at all if Selectmen opposed the plan.

Selectmen Michael Saraco and Mark Lombardi voted against the proposal, saying the mural will be difficult to maintain and will attract vandals to the area.

"It's going to invite trouble," Saraco said.

"Wedgemere Station, you can almost say it's an abandoned station for the number of people who use it in the morning and evening," he said. "Isn't there a better location than that for this type of art? I'm not against it. I'm saying the location invites problems."

Lombardi said the five life-size figures would attract vandals and make it more difficult to cover graffiti. It could not just be covered over with a coat of paint as the walls are now, he said.

"To me it is a kind of unclaimed public space," said artist Jo Lynch. "I know you keep it clean. I know you hose it down. But unclaimed public space is more prone to graffiti than something that is integrated with the rest of town."

Lombardi cited vandalism of a mural at the Vinson-Owen School as proof Lynch's idea was incorrect.

Lynch said she would prefer to use latex as a material, but said would be willing to use hardier industrial latex if the town prefers it.

"That's a compromise I'd be willing to make if the concerns about graffiti were very, very strong," Lynch said. "I could see eight to 10 years without needing any upkeep at all. This is the stuff you put on trucks. Anything you use to wash a truck you could use."

"I'm not remotely interested in voting against art work and being driven to that vote by vandalism," Selectman Judith Muggia said.

"They say they want $10,000, well if it means more graffiti, I'm against it," Lombardi said. "I think the Arts Council should better use our money."

Earlier at the meeting, Arts Lottery Council Chairman Davidson asked the board to support a state bill which will increase the council's funding from about $5000 to nearly $10,000 next year.

Lombardi suggested high school students could do the same work for free and receive a learning experience at the same time.

Baseball Clinic

The board also disagreed about whether they should allow a Winchester High School teacher, Joseph DiSarcina, to run a batting clinic at Ginn and McDonald Fields this summer.

Lombardi said there is a shortage of playing fields in town. The Playfield Study Committee suggested town fields are overused and need a rest, he added.

He said he would like to find out if DiSarcina will pay a fee for the fields, how much he will charge children and if the Playfield Study Committee would support the proposal.

He said he was uncomfortable that out-of-town children would be invited and that it was, presumably, a profit-making venture.

"If it is a good idea why doesn't our Recreation Department . . . go out and hire some people to do it?" Lombardi said.

Selectmen Chairman Alan Macdonald likened the request to one for the use of Town Hall which had previously been approved.

"We are trying to improve the use of the auditorium," said Selectman Wade Welch. "That is an entirely different thing."

Muggia said the board should develop a "clear policy" on how playing fields could be used.

The board agreed to table the decision until more information is received about the request.

Licenses

Selectmen extended a long list of food licenses for two weeks Monday, refusing to give out new certificates. Several of the applicants apparently did not understand new license classification rules.

The board said the applicants did not seem to know whether they needed a common victualler's license or a food vendor permit. Several establishments applied for both.

"I wouldn't want anyone to pay for two licenses, if he doesn't have to," Saraco said.

Saraco explained only those establishments which separately run a take-out operation and restaurant need both licenses. Pizza, ice cream and sandwich shops do not need both.

"All the work this board has done over the past year was to maintain control," Saraco said. "You're not going to maintain control if you do not stick to the rules you set down."

Perpetual Care

Selectmen debated for a half hour about whether interest from a woman's $300 gift to the town would be sufficient to provide perpetual care for her husband's grave.

The board decided to postpone a decision about whether or not to accept the gift, pending contact with the widow to see if she would consider increasing the size of her gift if the interest provided less money than is needed to care for the plot.

Appointments

The board appointed three people to the Cable Advisory Committee after interviewing two of them.

Karen Champoux, interviewed at a previous meeting, was awarded a two-year term on the board while David McClintock and Robert McWade were both given one-year terms.

Pension News

In other news, the Board of Selectmen joined the Board of Retirement in asking that $314,150 in excess pension funds be applied to next year's allotment.

The town estimates it will have $471,000 excess this year, but the state allows only two-thirds of that to be applied to next year's budget.

Town Meeting must also approve the transfer of fiscal 1986 money to the fiscal 1987 budget.

Town Budget

Town Manager Chad Maurer officially presented his version of the 1987 town budget to the Board of Selectmen. Total expenditures amount to $28,460,501, including state and county assessments.

Gas War? Not Yet, But Maybe

Main st. reports a seven to 10 cent drop over the last three weeks. Theater, supplied by Mobil Oil, predicts an additional three-to-five cent price drop by today when the next oil delivery is due.

Winchester Gulf of 585 Main st. reports prices dropping steadily for the last two weeks, for a total drop of about 12 cents. Regular gasoline prices had dropped faster than unleaded or extra unleaded.

Main Street Texaco, Old Colony Gas, O'Connell's Shell Service, Ken's Service Station, and Winchester Exxon Service Station all reported similar drops.

The service station spokesmen cite a decrease in the price of crude oil as the main reason behind the price drops witnessed here.

Scott Harrington, owner of Winchester Sunoco, has witnessed a price decrease of nine cents over the last two weeks. He explains the decrease as the result of an excess in the U.S. supply of oil.

"Oil has become more abundant in the U.S., there is less demand and we can't use as much as we're importing," he said.

"I would say the refineries are not passing on all the savings to the stations, at least not the company-owned stations. I've seen independent stations charging 20 cents less than mine," Harrington said.

No one has made any estimates as to how long the price drops might continue, but if they do Winchester may see a gas war instead of just a skirmish.

Republicans Slate March 1 Caucuses

Massachusetts Republicans will hold caucuses in each of the forty Senatorial Districts across the Commonwealth on Saturday, March 1, to elect delegates to the Massachusetts Republican Convention to be held April 12 in Worcester.

The Fourth Middlesex Senatorial District, which includes Winchester, Arlington, Lexington and Woburn will caucus this Saturday at the Jenks Center, 109 Skillings Road from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m.

Any person who is registered as a Republican in their community as of Dec. 31, 1985 may participate in the Senatorial District Caucus where they reside.

The caucuses will elect 20 percent of the delegates to the convention. The remaining 80 percent of the delegates will be elected by town and ward committees.

Delegates to the convention will endorse Republican candidates for statewide offices, including Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, Attorney General, and State Auditor.

A statewide candidate needs the votes of at least 10 percent of the convention delegates to be listed at the Sept. 16 Republican primary ballot.

Delegate candidates to the convention must attend the caucus and sign a statement of candidacy certifying that they are a legally registered Republican as of Dec. 31, 1985.

They will be allowed to give a three minute statement of their qualifications and distribute any literature to support their candidacy.

Any questions please contact Peg Perenick, State Committee woman, 53 Wildwood st., Winchester.

COMMENT

Having Second Thoughts About 'Going Natural'

By TERRY MAROTTA

Carol Burnett once said that to give birth is to know a sensation very much like the one your might feel if a person took hold of your bottom lip and tried pulling it over your head

She got that one right

I was thinking this the other day while leafing through an article on the soothing delights of modern-day childbirth. It called to mind my own most recent episode in the labor room.

I'd had two babies by that point in my life, so I knew, at least, what was in store for me. I'd been impressed, that first time out, by what we'll call the vividness of the whole experience.

I tried to check out of the hospital, at one point, I seem to recall. "OK, that's it," I told my labor-coach husband.

I stood up in the bed and began tugging like Frankenstein at my wires and monitors. He blanched and called for nurses with the mute squeaks of nightmare.

Finally, though, they did come through with Something To Take the Edge Off.

You have to get to a certain point in a labor before they'll give you any of this, of course.

But when I'd reached that point at last, blissfully aware, and blissfully pain-free, I delivered my first child.

"Let's have another, Coach," I whispered to my pale partner. He nodded wanly.

Have another we did, and that time it was a little easier getting to Drugspoint.

But for this third baby, I'd decided, I wanted to go Natural all the way. This was to be our last child, after all, my own final chance to really experience the drama of childbirth.

We got to the hospital at midnight. I was in mild labor. I climbed into my johnny telling jokes.

The hours passed. The jokes came with diminishing frequency. Still, I was pretty sure I could go the distance.

Labor intensified. That's how they put it, of course, the ones who aren't living inside the same skin with it. It's like when the dentist says, "You'll feel some pressure now," as he lurches toward you with his crowbar.

Well, these contractions came early and they stayed late. They put their feet up and made themselves comfortable. They yawned and stretched out for a nap on the floor of my insides.

I had second thoughts about Going Natural. I had thirds and even fourths. These I communicated to my labor nurse, through a series of grimaces. "But you're so close," she purred. "You don't really need drugs now."

I'd like some drugs, please," I repeated, my toes curling and snapping like windowshades with each fresh wave of pain.

"But so close! The baby's nearly here!"

"DRUGS!" I hissed through gritted teeth.

And so it was that the Drug Boys were sent for at last. They entered, a pimpled team of skinny young cynics. They took out a needle twelve inches long.

"How tall are we?" asked the skiniest of the bunch.

"I can't remember," I told him.

"What is our age?"

"Please just give me the needle."

"And how much do we weigh, Mrs. Marotta?"

I grasped him by the necktie, began lifting him off the floor

And then I felt a sensation truly beyond my powers to describe. Just as the needle was going in, the baby decided to come out.

The Team began hopping about and waving IV bottles. "Get her doctor!", one yelled.

We tore down the hall then, all six of us in our great rolling bed.

The doctor was in the bathroom, it seemed, so hasty introductions were made to a passing stranger.

He could have been the janitor for all I cared. We landed in the nick of time at the delivery room, and two minutes later it was all over but the shouting.

"If I ever want to do this again," I murmered tenderly in his ear, "get a good grip on my lip and start pulling."

GUEST COLUMN

Senator Kraus, now that the Senate has supported the local aid proposal which your Local Aid Commission negotiated with the administration and legislative leaderships, how do you feel?

Overall, I have a great sense of accomplishment. A very large number of communities will be in better shape because the local aid commission was there to work for them.

A whole new trend to pay attention to the needs of the towns as well as the cities has been started.

But I am acutely aware that there is much to be done and that this coming year is going to be terribly busy and will be a tough challenge.

I'm happy that we were able to get more aid for each of my four communities than they anticipated. And I'm doubly happy that both Woburn and Winchester will receive the first major increases in state aid in the past four years. Both have increased their share of the aid this year more than the average comunity in the state.

Arlington and Lexington will be able to all right in the coming year but will need more help in the future

What was your motivation in becoming involved in the local aid issue?

More than a year ago I began to push for the re-energizing of the local aid commission because I had a strong sense that some of my communities and others across the commonwealth with similar characteristics were not sharing appropriately in local aid.

As I spoke to my colleagues, I discovered that some shared this concern.

I must say that my strong sense that the process was increasingly going against my communities was underscored when I saw the first numbers proposed. Despite a huge increase in the total local aid pot, the administration suggested smaller increases for three out of four of my communities than they had received last year. Right then I knew I was in the right place at the right time.

What did the commission's initial work entail and reveal?

The Commission decided to hold hearings very early in our process to provide a sounding board for municipal officials. Time and time again, we heard testimony from the small and rural communities. There was definitely hardship out there.

By contrast, we heard almost no testimony from the cities.

It was apparent that the trend to move an increasing percentage of resources to the cities was having a harmful effect. But not only on the small and rural towns.

Large and medium sized towns, especially those sandwiched in between Route 128 and Boston, increasingly were having difficulty meeting their budgets.

Given both the House and Senate leaders are mostly from the cities, how did you expect to gain their support of towns' needs?

Well, it took a lot of persuasion. The leadership of both houses should be given tremendous credit for adopting and pushing our balanced resolution.

This year these leaders were constantly tempted with proposals which meant more money for their cities and deep trouble for communities like mine.

They steadfastly refused those proposals. And they vigorously supported the balanced proposal put forward by our commission which increases the share of the towns and decreases the share of the major cities, spreading equitable amounts of aid across the entire state.

If the "formula" is so fair and equitable, why are so many communities criticizing it?

There has been almost no criticism of the basic formula that distributes ¾ of the new aid. What has upset many municipal officials is the distribution of ¼ of the new aid proposed response to anticipated federal aid cuts.

In order to obtain the significant improvements in the overall formula we had to compromise and to agree to a response to the federal cuts which is more heavily weighted for the cities than the towns.

So a town leader who sees that he or she will only have replaced 10 percent of the anticipated federal cut tends to get angry when the city next door has 90 percent replaced.

But that anger obscures the central fact of the major changes that were made in the overall formula. Even including the city-oriented response to the federal cuts, the towns are the big winners this year.

This year new local aid to cities and towns including the response to the federal cuts has increased from $145 million to $231 million. That's an increase of 59 percent.

This year the average increase for the cities is about 55 percent even though many of them get 90 percent of their federal losses covered. And the average increase for the towns is about 70 percent.

Are you saying you were not in favor of the response to the federal cuts?

It was not my proposal. But as a means to achieve the important changes in the overall aid formula, I am strongly supporting it.

The final negotiations between the chairmen of the local aid commission, the chairmen of the two ways and means committees and the administration lasted three intense weeks. Seven days a week, long days and long nights. This was hard-ball, not pitty-pat.

No one got everything he or she wanted.

But in the end we had moved from a proposal which would have been devastating for many towns to one in which most of them gained. That's the type of compromise that most of us can accept.

Clearly there is more important work to be accomplished and we are already at work on next year's formula. But for this year there was real, substantial progress.

Some of your colleagues and members of the Local Aid Commission have criticized the closed-door negotiating and their inability to understand the process and the formulas.

Yes, and rightly so. I must admit the closed-door atmosphere took me by surprise. At one point it was not clear that myself and my co-chair, Representative Fiero, would be allowed in on the negotiating. This year the process was opened up to include us. Next year we intend to open it wider.

Unfortunately, the method of disbursement we now have is enormously complicated. I don't think it has to be. And much of my effort next year will be aimed at simplifying formulas.

How would you simplify the formula?

Right now I'm leaning toward breaking the formula up into three parts.

First I would assure that together with available local resources each community in the commonwealth would get enough state aid to insure a maintenance budget. Put simply, this involves verifiable data with no mystery formula.

Then there are two types of equalization that we could pursue. First, some communities simply have never had enough resources to meet their necessary costs. Such communities need and deserve additional aid.

We now have the means to identify those communities by using just a portion of the complicated formula used this year.

Second, many communities pay far too much of their own costs. One community may pay 10 percent of its personal income from municipal services in property taxes and fees, while another community may pay only 2 percent for the same services and otherwise resemble the first community.

That's not fair and we could use state aid to relieve those taxpayers in communities that now pay too much.

In a nutshell, I'm going to do my best to break down the process into understandable components.

Everyone at some level could participate, scrutinize and judge the justness of the work. No mystery. No intrigue. A process that is open, honest, simple and fair. That may be too idealistic but that is my goal.

Barone Corrects Saltmarsh Story

TO THE EDITOR:

Please, may I make a correction in the article concerning the recent Republican Town Committee meeting at which delegates were elected to attend the Republican Convention on April 12 (Star, Feb. 20).

The closing paragraphs in the Star stated that "Rep. Saltmarsh spoke about several state issues and criticized the proposal of the governor that would reimburse some cities as much as 90 percent of their lost federal revenue sharing. Winchester and many so-called wealthy towns would receive state replacement of only 10 percent of lost federal funds, he said."

As I wrote the article, I would like to say that Whip did not "Criticize the proposal of the governor" and I did not write that Whip "criticized the proposal of the governor."

Saltmarsh did discuss with the committee the proposed distribution of Local Aid to supplement the loss of federal revenue sharing funds and how this would affect Winchester which would receive 10 percent while other towns would receive 90 percent There is a difference

There was no mention of "the governor" by Whip nor in my article

Woman Hopes To Find Film Of 40th Party

TO THE EDITOR:

Do you have a Letters to the Editor column in the Winchester Star? That may be where I could get some help if you could print a portion of this letter there.

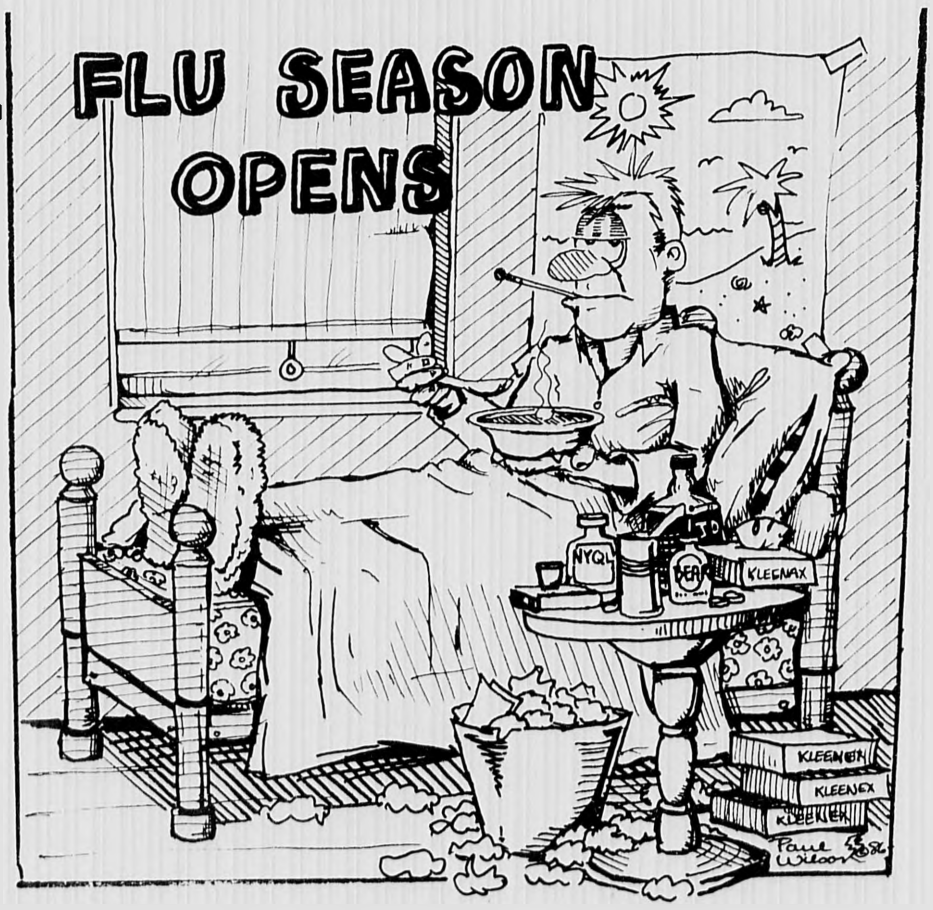

I'm searching for a needle in a haystack! Did anyone find a roll of 24-exposure Kodacolor film in the gutter on Thompson Street last October? I went to my 40th high school class reunion Oct. 5th and stopped in Winchester on Sunday to take pictures of my old hometown, which is so beautiful. The only place we parked and got out of the car was downtown, across from a fiber shop. I had just put in a new roll of film and have no idea what happened to the exposed roll with all the pictures of the reunion. It wasn't missed for weeks.

I've checked with the Avis car rental place to no avail and just thought of the stop in Winchester as a long-shot possibility. I know it's crazy, but .

Reilly, Maloney Perform Original Songs In Concert

Ginny Reilly and David Maloney perform at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, March 2, at First Congregational Church in Winchester.

The pair sing along with their acoustical guitars, including country, rock, Broadway and folk.

Maloney, a native of central New York state, has relatives in the Boston area and on the Cape.

Reilly grew up in Lake Forest, Ill.

The pair met while singing in San Francisco as solo acts in a show in 1970, and have been singing together ever since.

Ginny and David have five albums to their credit, in addition to solo albums by each of them.

They have recorded original songs about babies, about the thoughts of a circus elephant, and about the sadness in the destruction of an old dance hall.

And then there's Did Beethoven Do the Dishes?, a song which asks whether any of the famous composers could have written anything if they had a household to run.

These original songs are complemented by their performance of songs by other composers, songs such as Bewitched, Bothered, and Bewildered by Rodgers and Hart, and Tom Paxton's Bad Old Days.

Reilly and Maloney have often appeared in Cambridge at Passim on their East Coast tours.

This Sunday is an opportunity to hear them without the hassle of parking in Cambridge.

Tickets are available at Henderson Stationers on Main st. in Winchester, or by calling K.V. Lauterwasser at 729-9087.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU

FINDING A BUYER IS THE EASY PART!
Selling a home can be one of the most complex commercial transactions that most of us encounter. Once you find someone who wants your house and has the money to buy it, it's still a long way to the settlement table. First, you must negotiate a purchase contract that covers the price and all of the terms of the agreement. How much of an earnest money deposit will the buyer put down? How will the loan fees (usually about three percent of the mortgage amount) be split up? When and where will the settlement occur? Under what conditions can either the buyer or seller back out of the contract? Many sales agreements are contingent upon the house passing a major structural inspection. Then the buyer must obtain financing, and the lender's appraiser will have to agree that the sale price is not too high. Once the house passes inspection, and the lawyers agree that you have good title to the property to pass on to the buyer, you can arrange a time and place to sign all the necessary papers to finalize the sale. The agents at Bixby & Porter have the training and professional experience to guide your sale through the maze of bankers, lawyers, inspectors, appraisers, and paperwork. Call us at 729-7000 or stop by our offices at 33 Thompson Street, Winchester if we can serve any of your real estate needs.

SCHOOL NEWS

1,400 Elementary Students Perform In World Concert

Nearly 1,400 school children in the five Winchester Elementary Schools will sing along in a nationwide concert, March 18.

Winchester is one of more than 1,800 school districts across the country taking part in the event, billed as The World's Largest Concert.

The concert is sponsored by the Music Educators National Conference and the Massachusetts Music Educators Association to highlight Music In Our Schools Month this March.

The idea behind the concert is to have everyone in each school sing and/or play the same program on the same day at the same time, following the central concert in Washington, D.C., featuring the United States Air Force Band and Singing Sergeants.

The half-hour program, which comes to Winchester via Public Broadcasting System (PBS) satellite from Constitution Hall, includes "The Star-spangled Banner," "Music and Kids," "This Land Is Your Land," "The Washington Post March," "It's a Small World," and "Americana" - a collection of three popular American folk songs.

Approximately 550,000 participants are expected.

According to Lynne Rahmeier, Music Director for the town of Winchester and organizer of local participation in the concert, the entire student body of the five elementary schools is "excited to be taking part in something so unique and large-scale that focuses attention on the value of music in the school curriculum."

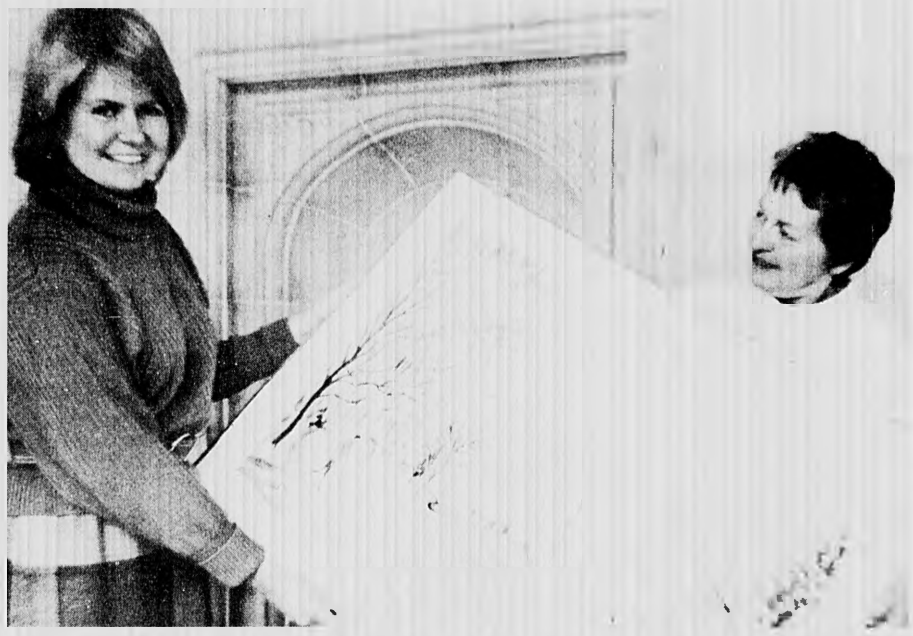

Students will follow the concert on the local PBS station, which has agreed to air the program.

Parents, education leaders, and other friends of the schools are invited to the concerts which begin at 12:30 p.m.

Local Girl On Tour To Europe

Debbie Nowell from Winchester High School, an outstanding midfielder, will join a team of select girl soccer players from Massachusetts in a soccer tour of Europe this summer.

The team, along with head coach Frank Amato and assistant coach Maxine Dwinell will train, tour and play soccer in Holland, the Federal Republic of Germany and Norway.

Debbie played Varsity soccer for the Sachems and their team completed a successful season finishing 16-02. Debbie was selected for the Greater Massachusetts Girls Soccer Club Tour based on her outstanding performance and ability in soccer.

A sophomore, Deb plays as a starting midfielder for Winchester High School.

Deb has been involved in the Youth Soccer programs from an early age, and has been chosen to play on the Under 16 All Select team for the Greater Boston League.
In 1985, Deb was chosen as the Middlesex League's Most Valable Player.

In addition to track, Deb also hold the National Speed Skating Championship for the Under 16 Division.

A training schedule for Debbie and the team will begin in May and will include a mini-camp, weekly training sessions and a four day residential camp, enabling the athletes to get acquainted and become accustomed to playing together.

The training sessions will conclude in July as the team prepares for its' departure on July 17.

The 21-day tour will include competition against Top Level teams in the countries the Massachusetts team will be visiting.

The trip begins in The Netherlands, at the National Sports Center, Papendal.

The team will then travel to Northern Germany, and will conclude its eight game tour in Norway, where the climax of the entire trip will be vying for a top-ranked spot against other teams of excellence in the Norway Cup Football Tournament.

The players will return from the trip on August 7, having experienced European travel and competition with the best these countries have to offer.

The players will also be culturally enriched as they experience Scandinavian customs first hand while living with host families in the countries they visit.

Each player is responsible for funding her trip to Europe, therefore making fund raising activities necessary. Th Greater Massachusetts Soccer Team will hold a five-mile Run-a Thon May 11 to raise money for the trip to Europe.

Anyone wishing to sponsor Debbie on her run can pledge a donation of any amount by contacting Debbie at 68 Nelson st., Winchester, 729-8098.

For more information and/or further details, contact Amato at 245-7988.

Winchester Player Is Honored

A Winchester soccer player, Julie Guarnotta, is one of 40 Massachusetts high school athletes to be honored for exceptional athletic achievements by the Massachusetts Sons of Italy.

The awards will be presented March 8 during the 25th annual Sons of Italy Sports Awards Dinner at 168 Lexington st., Woburn.

In addition to recognizing the athletes of Italian-American heritage, Marie L. Butera of Newton, Weston High School Coach, will be feted as "Coach of the Year."

Coach Butera, who has a record of 14 undefeated seasons during her 29 years as head field hockey coach at Weston High School, has led her teams to 320 victories, 47 losses and 30 ties.

In addition, for the past 24 years she has served as head lacrosse coach of the girls team. She was head basketball coach for 19 years, girls tennis coach and softball coach for 5 years.

In lacrosse, her teams scored 162 wins, 37 losses and 17 ties.

Sons of Italy State President Charles H. Perenick of Winchester will present each athlete with a Grand Lodge Sons of Italy Awards Certificate and a plaque.

In making the announcement of the top athletes, President Perenick said, "No doubt these bright young men and women will be the leaders of tomorrow both in athletic endeavors and in their chosen professions."

9 Sachems Advance To Finals

BY DAVID MOORE

Winchester High's 400-yard freestyle relay team captured second place and Omar Ali finished eighth in the State Swimming Championships Saturday.

The performances of the relay team and Ali put the finishing touches on an extremely successful season that saw the Sachems undeafeated 7-0 in dual-meet competition. Nine swimmers advanced to the State finals.

The freestyle relay (T.J. Foley, Greg O'Connor, Ali, Mike Bowers) was the same team that clinched victory for Winchester in their Feb. 4 showdown with Lexington High in the final duel-meet of the season.

In the Lexington meet, the Sachems led the second-place Minutemen 72-70 going into the day's last event, the 400-yard freestyle relay.

"That had to be the highlight of our regular season," said Sachem coach Roy Coats.

"There we were, the two best teams, each putting our four best swimmers head-to-head in the last event to decide who is going to win the meet."

Winchester won that race in 3:29.7, out-touching Lexington by mere fractions of a second.

The freestyle relay was also the Sachems' highlight in tournament competition.

Out-touched in the finals by Brookline High, the Sachems still performed remarkably well. Winchester's time of 3:21.33 bettered their season best of 3:29.7 by eight seconds.

The freestyle relay anchored a very strong and very young Sachem team whose state qualifiers were composed entirely of juniors and underclassmen.

Swimming for Winchester Saturday were:

Greg O'Connor, junior: 200-yard freestyle, 100-yard freestyle.

Jim Bowers, junior: 100 yard freestyle.

Jim Blasi, junior: 50-yard freestyle.

Guy Pollino, junior: Diving.

T.J. Foley, sophomore: 200-yard individual medley.

Alexi Carayannopoulous, sophomore: 100-yard freestyle.

Omar Ali, sophomore: 50-yard freestyle, 100-yard freestyle.

Omar Ali

The versatile Ali, who, in addition to the freestyle relay, swam in two individual events, finished eighth in the 50-yard freestyle at 23.0.

Coats cited versatility as a key ingredient in the Sachems' success this year, particularly in duel meets, where coaches base their strategies on what they know of their opponents lineup.

"Our team is very flexible," says Coats.

"Because I have kids who can swim four, five, six different events, other teams don't know who I'll have swimming, even if they do have our times from earlier meets."

Off-season training is another reason for Winchester's success.

Coats, who also coaches a local club, the New England Barracudas, believes that swimming all year makes a "big difference" in performance during the season.

"All the kids in the State meet swim at the North Suburban Y, or the Barracudas. I definitely encourage it."

Clubs like the Barracudas permit the swimmers the extended four and five hour workouts they need and enjoy.

Once the season starts, however, pool-time at the Woburn Boys' Club, where the team practices, is limited to an hour after school.

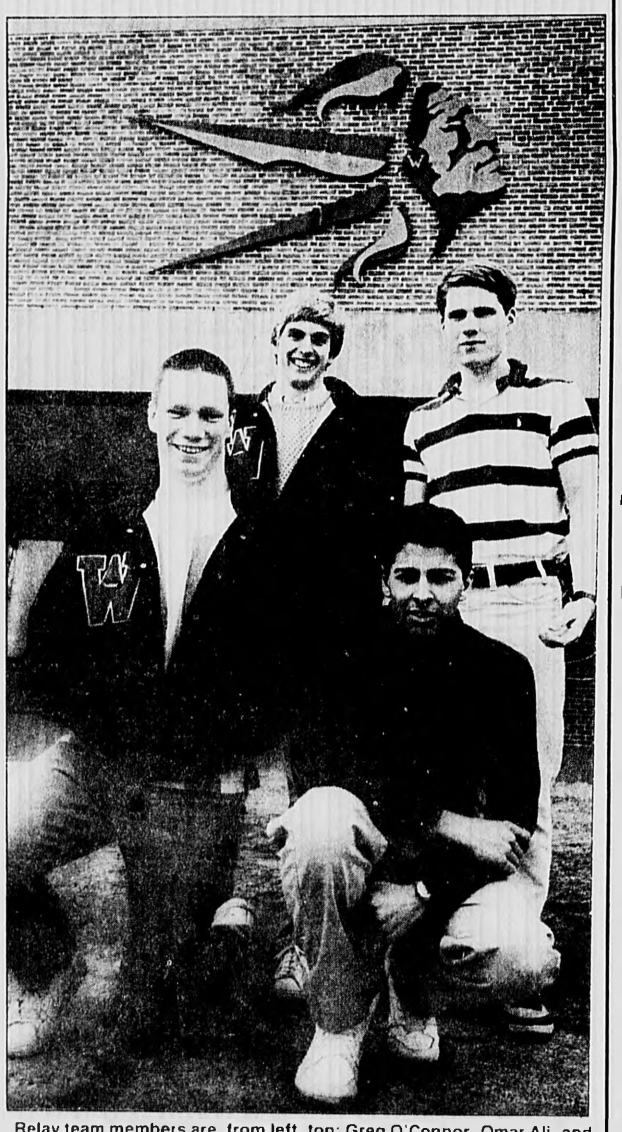

With such a young team, Coats is optimistic about next year's prospects.

"It should be interesting," Coats says, "because we're in a position where we're getting all but one of our kids back."

One of those not returning will be senior co-captain Sinan Kobu, who Coats describes as the team's "inspirational leader."

Coats says that many of the Middlesex League's best swimmers will be returning next year.

Given the dedication to their sport shown by these young swimmers, the Sachems can look forward to some exciting duel meets next year and even greater opportunity in postseason competition.

Wrestling Team Moves To States

By WHITNEY GAY
Special to the Star

Winchester High's varsity wrestling team moves into the state finals Saturday after boasting five individual champions and placed second as a team at the Division I Central Sectionals last Saturday at Lexington High School.

Woburn High amassed 242½ points en route to beating rival and Middlesex League co-champion Winchester by 28½ points.

Competing without starters Scott Racek and Tim MacDougall, Winchester advanced six wrestlers to the finals, dispelling its reputation as a sectional dark horse.

Lion-hearted Sachem Bill Murphy gave Winchester their first champion by beating Melrose's Kevin Breen 5-0. Breen had beaten Murphy earlier in the year.

In the 129-pound class, co-captain Alex Puchulu beat Lexington's David Kim in a close 3-2 decision. Puchulu beat Kim in the Middlesex League Championships last week.

Sachem Steve Rodriguez muscled and finessed his way through the competition before falling to Framingham North's Mike Bilotti in the 147-pound class.

The heavyweight class involved another Winchester/Woburn rematch, this time between Sachem Dave Carter and Tanner Martin Popolowski. Carter had beaten Popolowski last week at the Middlesex League Championships.

After a cautious and scoreless first period, Popolowski took advantage of a Carter mistake to go up 3-1 into the last period.

Then Carter found the opening he had been waiting for and flashed his favorite pinning combination, finishing off Popolowski with 5:07 remaining in the period.

Other place-winners for Winchester were Mike Hall, third; Paul Murray, fourth; Ed Pigott, fifth, and James Seluitelli, sixth.

Winchester advances to the State Finals at Lowell High School on Saturday.

Sachems Second In Middlesex

BY DAVE DEMARCO
Special to the Star

In a case of speed beating size, Stoughton High pressed Winchester High's boys varsity basketball team into a 69-62 defeat last Monday in Winchester's final game of the season.

The Sachems finished the season at 13-7 and second place in the Middlesex League.

Monday's game was close throughout all four periods.

At halftime, Stoughton led 35-34, but Winchester took control in the third period and managed to hold onto a one-point lead going into the fourth period.

In the fourth period, however, Stoughton changed the tempo of the game through agressive defensive pressure.

Stoughton's full court press harassed the Sachem's into committing several turnovers and, though Winchester led by five points with just over two minutes left in the game, Stoughton looked strong.

With 1:27 left to play, Stoughton took a one-point lead over a Winchester team frustrated by Stoughton's run-and-gun offense and tough defensive play.

"We just weren't able to run with them," said Sachem Mike Furey after the game.

Stoughton stretched the lead to seven points by the final buzzer.

"We thought it was over when we got that five-point lead," said guard Arron West, "and then we couldn't break that press."

Sachem Chris Verhagen led all scorers with 22 points and Terry Buggs tossed in 20 points for Stoughton.

On Tuesday, seventh-seeded Winchester hosted 10th-seeded West Roxbury in the first round of the Division 2 North Sectionals.

West Roxbury, led by James Smith's 29 points per game, earned an 11-7 record in a tough schedule against Boston's inner-city basketball powerhouses.

The Sachems Spring Schedules Announced

Spring schedules for the baseball, track, tennis, lacrosse, and softball teams have been announced by the Winchester High School Athletic Association.

It promises to be a busy season.

The boys varsity and junior varsity lacrosse teams kick off the spring schedule when they host Burlington High April 4 at 3:30 p.m. at Skillings Rd.

The lacrosse team's schedule includes not only its Middlesex League opponents, but many non-league foes, such as Brookline, Lincoln/Sudbury, and Framingham North.

The lacrosse team will be coached by Gene Bouley.

On April 9 at 3:30 p.m. the girls varsity and junior varsity softball teams take to the mound against Somerville at Somerville High School.

Coaching the softball team will be Jim Maconochie.

April 11 is opening day for coach Bill Chase's boys varsity and junior varsity baseball teams when they host Lowell High at 3:30 p.m.

On April 15 at 3:30 p.m. the boys and girls track teams start their season against a very tough Belmont High.

The track teams end their season May 20 and will have a week to prepare for the League Championships at Reading High.

The boys and girls varsity and junior varsity tennis teams swing into action April 21 at 10:00 a.m. against Belmont at the Packer Courts on Palmer st.

Ninth grade boys baseball coach Ed McGrath brings his hitters to bat April 30 at 3:30 p.m. against Belmont at Skillings Rd.

On May 2 at 3:30 p.m., ninth-grade girls coach Mary Brown leads her Sachemette softball team in the season opener against Lexington at Ginn Field.

Sachemettes Win A Squeaker

BY DAVE DEMARCO
Special to the Star

Winchester High's girls' varsity basketball team closed its season last Thursday with an exciting 45-44 win over Chelsea High.

"It's the new us," summed up Meghan Guarnotta of the Sachmettes' strong season finish.

Winchester came out strong, in deed, opening up a 12-6 lead early.

In the second period, the Rockets took advantage of a Winchester cold spell to move within four points of Winchester at halftime.

The third quarter ended with Winchester leading 33-29.

Chelsea owed what success it had Thursday to senior Kristin Rosa, who led all scorers with an impressive 42 points.

With 2:22 remaining in the game, Rosa brought Chelsea to within two points and with :10 left, Winchester led 44-40.

With 11 seconds left, Guarnotta sunk the winning free throw giving Winchester a 45-44 victory.

"We didn't play to our max at the beginning," said Guarnotta.

"We started out slow, but we feel good about next year. We improved a lot and the more playing time we had the more confident we got," added Maureen Dokas.

Volleyball Marathon To Include Locals

Winchester residents are invited to sign up for the fifth annual Century 21 Easter Seal Volleyball Marathon.

The Marathon will be held March 16 and 22 at the Waltham High School and Tennis 128 Burlington.

All funds raised will benefit local Easter Seal programs and services for children and adults with physical disabilities.

LIBRARY NOTES

Hotten To Talk On Fixup

Attention home renovators and would be handypersons! Peter Hotton, the Boston Globe's Home Handyman will appear at the Winchester Public Library on Sunday, March 9, at 2 p.m.

The program, sponsored by the Friends of the Winchester Public Library is free, and the public is welcome.

Hotton has been home and garden editor at the Globe for 12 years and home handyman for almost eight.

He also runs a telephone hotline on Tuesday afternoons for people who need immediate answers to their repair questions.

A transplanted Michiganier, Hotton spent 12 years renovating a 1758 house on the South Shore.

A slide show documenting this process will be the centerpiece of Hotton's presentation, and he will answer questions from the audience.

Library Hosts Tax Session

It is tax time, and as a service to Winchester residents, the library is holding an informational session with a representative from the Massachusetts Department of Revenue on Sunday, March 2, in the Winchester Public Library Meeting Room. The session will be held from 2-4 p.m. and will be made up of two parts.

The representative will first go through a Massachusetts individual tax return, line by line. Participants are urged to bring copies of their W-2s and Federal Returns, and can fill out their Massachusetts form during the course of the afternoon.

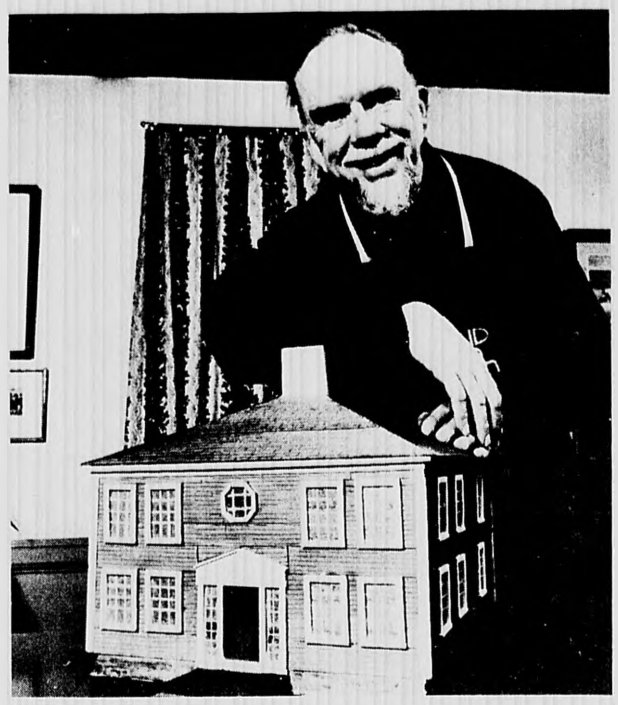

After the group presentation, the representative for DOR will be available to answer questions about individual returns. The program is free and open to the public.

A videocassette on "How to Prepare Your Income Taxes: 1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Returns, 1985" has joined the Winchester Public Library's growing collection of videocassettes available for three-day loan to Winchester residents.

In addition, four other titles have been added to the collection: "David Copperfield," "Diner," "Manhattan," and "The Year of Living Dangerously."

Residents wishing to borrow videocassettes must fill out an application and leave a check for $10 as a deposit.

SENIOR NEWS

Seniors Can Teach Classes

Despite reports that the economy in Massachusetts is booming, older professionals encounter employment policies and practices that work against them.

Minuteman Home Care Corporation, which serves Winchester, is once again conducting a Job Club, six weekly workshops for older workers.

One goal is to provide peer support and knowledge of today's job search process.

Starting March 5 in Lexington from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., the Job Club will meet to cover interest and skills assessment, interviewing strategies, resume writing and job search techniques.

William Fallon, together with his wife Paula, attended MHCC's last Job Club in Woburn.

Paula had been out of the job market for 30 years.

"My wife has lost touch with business, so every ad she answered required more experience than she had," according to her husband.

Through her attendance at the Job Club, she gained self confidence, learned how to assess the skills she developed through her life's experiences and how to market herself to an employer.

William had worked for 28 years in the post office before retiring but didn't know what else he could do.

The Job Club helped him to identify his transferable skills and focus on the things he enjoys and does well.

"Now we are both working and feeling better," says Fallon, "We're also getting much-needed income and building up our Social Security Quarters.

For Job Club information and registration, call the Older Workers Program at Minuteman Home Care Corporation at 862-6200.

Trained volunteers are available at the Center each Tuesday and Thursday from 9:15 to 11 a.m.

Seniors should bring their 1984 federal and state returns, 1985 forms, and related records before the dealine approaches.

Letter Writers Requested

An exchange of letters between seniors and Lynch Elementary School students is being planned this spring.

This one-time intergenerational letter writing will provide each participant an opportunity to learn from one another.

The students are ready for this program but a matching number of seniors are needed.

Seniors unable to leave their homes especially will find this program of writing to a student a rewarding experience.

Ward's Has A Gift For Any Occasion

"A satisifed customer comes back," explains Don Ward, owner and proprietor of Ward's Gift Shop in Medford since just after World War II.

And, for the past 43 years, Wards's reputation for good service, reasonable prices, and standing behind his merchandise has kept them coming back.

Many of Ward's longtime customers have moved away but they still call to have china, crystal, or figurines shipped to as far away as Florida or California. He will ship to any part of the U.S.

Located at 24 High st. in Medford Square, Ward's carries one of the largest selections of Waterford crystal in the Boston area, along with 300 patterns of china including such well-known names as Royal Doulton, Minton, Pickard, Wedgewood, and Noritake.

Ward's also features a wide selection of limited edition plates, figurines, and collector's dolls. Among the 15,000-20,000 items in the store is one of the New England area's largest selection of figurines including such names as Lladro, Hummel, Royal Doulton, Anri, Kaiser, Sebastian, Francis Hook, and Precious Moments.

Ward's has an appropriate gift for any occasion and ready to assist customers in finding that "something special" is Dorothy, the shop's manager for the past 27 years.

Dorothy, and all the staff at Ward's strive to maintain "a personal touch atmosphere" which has been one of the trademarks of Ward's since it opened its doors. Dorothy and the crew at Ward's are on a first-name basis with most of their customers.

Although he has seen Medford Square change "like all squares change over the years," Ward and his employees have earned and maintained a reputation for personal service, quality, and low prices. "In fact," says Ward, "Word of mouth is our best selling point."

Visit Ward's the next time you need that special gift. Like so many, you will keep coming back.

Ward's is open Monday through Saturday, 9 to 5:30, Thursdays, 9 to 8:30.

WINCHESTER PUBLIC SCHOOLS
Winchester, Massachusetts 01890

Pre-Kindergarten Screening Notice

The Winchester Public Schools will hold pre-kindergarten screening for all children entering kindergarten in September, 1986 during the last weeks in March.

As mandated by Massachusetts state law, the screening is a non-intensive scan conducted by school specialists to check a child's vision, hearing, speech, and coordination. The state of Massachusetts also requires the following immunizations (unless exempted for health or religious reasons): DPT (diphtheria, pertussis, tetanus) - four doses are required. Polio - three doses are required (an additional dose is needed if three years have lapsed since the last dose was given; MMR (measles, mumps, rubella) one dose is required (after 15 months of age is suggested - after twelve months of age is accepted). Children are not considered exempt to immunization requirements unless they have a note from their physician.

BEFORE ENTERING KINDERGARTEN every child must have a physical examination performed by the family physician with a HEALTH FORM completed and returned to school. These rules apply to ALL children entering kindergarten and also to any children NEW to the Winchester school system.

The list for children eligible for kindergarten entrance has been compiled from the December 1985 census. Parents of children on this list should receive registration materials from their local school. If you do not receive this information by February 28th or you have moved to Winchester since January 1986, please call your child's school for an appointment.

Screening will be held at the following times:

Wednesday, March 19th - Lynch
Thursday, March 20th - Ambrose
Friday, March 21st - Muraco
Monday, March 24th - Lincoln
Tuesday, March 25th - Lincoln
Wednesday, March 26th - Vinson-Owen.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, April 15th and 16th, re-testing and make-up screening will be held at the Lynch School. For additional information, please call Cynthia Papoulias, Coordinator, at the Lynch School.

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Music Society Plans Program

On Sunday, March 2, the Winchester Music Society will sponsor a sight reading of Brahms' German Requiem. The program, which is partially underwritten by funds from the Massachusetts Arts Lottery as administered by the Winchester Arts Lottery Council, will take place in the sanctuary of the First Congregational Church on Church st.

The program will be directed by Dr. Robert A. White. Instrumentalists will rehearse at 1:45 p.m. and be joined by singers at 3 p.m.

White, a long-time resident of Winchester, has been Choir Master at the First Congregational Church for more than 25 years. He holds a doctorate from Boston University in Music Education and is an associate professor of music at the University of Lowell where he specializes in working with performing groups interested in early choral music. White and his wife Marilyn live at 54 Johnson rd. The Whites have two children, Robert Jr., and Cynthia.

Carole Davidson, 14 Thornberry rd., who will provide keyboard accompaniment, is a pianist, singer, accompanist and organist. She is organist at Old North Church where her husband, Douglass, is director of music. Davidson teaches recorder and the Orff Kodaly method of musical development to students ages four to nine. She also produces and directs musicals for children and adults.

The solos for the Requiem will be sung by Eileen S. Moremen, soprano, of Medford and Paul Rahmeier, bass, of Thornberry rd., Winchester.

Rahmeier is associate vice president for matters of curriculum at the University of Lowell. Rahmeier sings with the choir of the First Congregational Church, Winchester, and with the Cantata Singers on a regular basis. His wife, Lynn, is the director of music for the Winchester school system. The Rahmeiers have three children; Karen, a junior at Dartmouth; Laurie, a senior at Winchester High School, and Timothy, a freshman at Winchester High School.

Eileen Moremen, a resident of Medford, teaches voice for the Winchester Music Program. She holds a bachelor of music from the Eastman School of Music and a master of music from the University of Michigan. Moremen, who attended the Aspen Music Festival in 1974, '75, and '77, won a fellowship to the Vocal Chamber Program at Aspen in 1983.

She has studied with Jan DeGaetani, Leslie Guinn, Adele Addison and Max von Egmond. She is also a member of the New England Baroque Ensemble, a local professional performing group which specializes in music and dance of the Baroque era.

Moremen is married to Richard Brown and has a four-month old son. This is a return engagement for Moremen who sang the soprano solos in the sight reading of the Mozart Requiem sponsored by the Winchester Music Society in April of '84.

The Winchester Music Society encourages all musicians, vocal and instrumental, to join Bob White and other Society members in performing the Brahms Requiem.

Season Of Ice

Once again, the season of sleet and ice is upon us. The season when the driver of the family car must be doubly alert. To be blunt, we, as Funeral Directors, do not have to use imagination to visualize the results of careless driving. The grisly tangibles are forced upon us—especially during the Winter months. You owe it to yourself and your family not to let familiarity with the automobile breed contempt for the highway or byway. Your children need you—Protect their future.

HEALTH BEAT

Choate Offers CPR Classes

Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation Basic Life Support courses will be offered at the Choate Hospital in Woburn on Mondays, March 3, 10 and 17 and on Wednesdays April 2, 9 and 16 from 7 to 10 p.m.

Techniques used in CPR include artificial breathing, mouth to mouth breathing and artificial respirations (chest compressions) for use in treating victims of heart attack, drowning, choking and other life threatening emergencies.

Participants earn the American Heart Association's one year certification.

CPR recertification programs will be offered at Choate on Saturday March 15 from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The program will be repeated on Tuesdays, March 4 and 11 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Recertification classes are for those people whose current CPR certification will expire within the month.

All classes require pre-registration, class size is limited. Please call the Community Health Education Department at 933-6700, extension 377.

Current Research To Be Aired

Current research on the diagnosis and treatment of schizophrenia, psychotic depression, and other forms of severe mental illness, will be discussed at a 7:30 p.m. meeting of the Alliance for the Mentally Ill Monday, March 3, in St. John's Church, 74 Pleasant Street, Arlington Center.

The speaker will be Ross J. Baldessarini, M.D., head of the Mailman Research Center at McLean Hospital, and professor of psychiatry at Harvard Medical School.

Baldessarini is internationally known for his research on mental illness.

He is a consultant to many hospitals in the U.S. and abroad, and is on the editorial boards of several medical journals.

The Alliance for the Mentally Ill is an educational and support group for families residing in Winchester and other communities.

Admission to the meeting is free.

Assertiveness Class To Be Offered

Choate-Symmes Health Services is offering an Assertiveness Training Workshop at Symmes Hospital on Wednesdays, March 5, 12, 19, 26 from 7:00-9:30 p.m.

The workshop is limited to 15 participants to allow all the opportunity to practice techniques learned during the course.

Pre-registration is required. Call 646-1500, extension 2291, Community Health Education Department between 8:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. for information.

Assertiveness is the ability to express one's feelings, both negative and positive, in an open, honest, straightforward manner, when appropriate.

Lack of assertiveness skills are a cause of social stress, because the person who holds in his/her feelings will eventually "explode", alienating those around him.

This "passive/aggressive" person goes through life without getting his needs met because they are not expressed.

On the other side of the spectrum is the aggressive person who tends to say too much, is tactless and a poor listener, thus alienating others.

This is a program which will actually help improve communication skills in order to improve relationships, increase confidence, reduce stress and help to get needs met.

Water Safety Class Slated

The American Red Cross Educational Course on Instructor Water Safety will be offered Tuesdays starting March 4, at Woburn Boys Club.

Courses require pre-registration. For further information phone 665-1351.

Two seatings are provided and reservations can be made for either 11:30 a.m. or 1:15 p.m.

The menu will consist of fresh fruit cup, cheese strata, sliced ham, homemade pastries, coffee, tea and, of course, champagne.

This event is becoming more popular each year, and another sellout crowd is expected.

Anyone wishing to make reservations may contact Mrs. George Hunter, 7 Aunsworth rd., Winchester.

Anyone wishing to be a patron for this hospital fundraiser may send a check to Mrs. John Bernard, 441 Summer ave., Reading, 01867 along with the name printed as it should appear on the patron list.

New Phones For Deaf Use Typing

The company is distributing a special, comprehensive directory which lists the names and phone numbers of those who use Telecommunications Devices for the Deaf (TDD) in its five-state operating area.

These devices enable hearing-impaired persons to communicate via a typewriter-like keyboard which sends printed—instead of spoken—words between users' telephones.

According to Al Kountze, district manager for consumer affairs, the company compiled the directory to meet the communications needs of the hearing-impaired.

Kountze said that free copies of the new directory are being distributed throughout New England Telephone's operating area to those individuals, businesses, and organizations listed in the book.

Additional copies of the directory can be obtained by calling or writing: Massachusetts Office of Deafness, Statler Office Building, 20 Providence Street, Boston, 02116. Call 727-5236.

Town Hall Balcony Gets Thorough Probe In Meet

Rowe suggested they be placed in the east side of the former library room, which will be a meeting room or "the town's living room."

The architect said the archives would then occupy the space that was originally the librarian's office. A stairway to the balcony would be built directly in front of the archives, Rowe suggested.

Committee members quickly found flaws in Rowe's plan. Who would guard the archives during the day? How could the archives be open for public access at the same time a public meeting was in progress? And wouldn't the archives block the view through the east windows?

Keats said the archives might better go in one of the planned meeting rooms in the basement of the renovated Town Hall. They could be locked up when not in use and display space for other materials could be provided upstairs.

Marcia Saltmarsh, who had voted in favor of using the restored room for the Town Clerk's office instead of a meeting room, spoke against keeping the archives in the room.

"If it's a meeting room, make it a meeting room," she said.

Stairs were the next topic of discussion.

"As a meeting space, the room works great," Rowe said. "But it's not really a 'people' balcony; it's really storage."

He said a balcony used by the public would present some architectural difficulties since building codes require two exits in the design.

Selectman Judie Muggia suggested building the balcony but providing access to it only from the second floor, probably through a door from the present selectmen's meeting room.

A quick investigation by Town Manager Chad Maurer found a problem: the floor of the balcony would be seven feet lower than the floor of the second story.

On the other hand, Rowe said elimination of a stairway from the "living room" would save between $10,000 and $15,000.

Committee chairman Dan Chane and Selectman Mark Lombardi said they favored a staircase, arguing that it would lend character to the new room. Saltmarsh agreed.

"But if we don't use the balcony for public space, isn't Town Meeting going to ask why we want to build a staircase to nowhere?" Keats said.

Muggia guessed that committee members "are having trouble visualizing the options" and asked Rowe to bring sketches showing the restored room: (1) without stairs; (2) with a stairway; and (3) with stairs and a teller's cage to provide supervision.

"Now we're back where we started. We've still got to police the stairway," Keats said.

Muggia agreed, saying Town Meeting might not be impressed with the argument for a staircase because "it looks pretty."

Rowe summarized. "You've got to decide the use of the balcony," he said. "If you want it to be for public use, I'll solve the problem and provide two means of egress (exit). And if you want it for storage of records, I'll hide the stairway from the meeting room."

"But I'm not comfortable with building a stairway to storage," Rowe said.

"If this is a living room, it should have public access to the balcony," Saltmarsh said.

Committee members decided not to decide but to wait a week and bring back arguments for their design and use of the balcony. Rowe will bring sketches.

In other business, Rowe said the latest estimates for the Town Hall Project were still holding, but were accurate only if the work is done tomorrow.

"With bids opened a year from now, add about 25 percent," Rowe said.

Estimates are between $750,000 and $1 million for thje exterior, $150,000 to $200,000 for the bell tower and anywhere from just under a million to $2.5 million for the interior.

"The total is still between $3 million and $4 million right in the middle there," Rowe said.

The low estimate for interior work is just to make the building legal in terms of access for handicapped persons. "It's so bare it's legal but not workable," Rowe said.

The estimates do not, however, furnish the renovated Town Hall. Rowe estimated another $600,000 for that purpose.

"Filing cabinets alone are $250,000," he said.

"But we may not have to buy all new filing cabinets," the town manager said.

April Town Meeting Eyes Improvement

Renovation of the Winchester Town Hall auditorium is included in plans for consideration by the April Town Meeting but details are sketchy.

Acoustics, or the lack of good acoustics, were the first item mentioned by members of the Town Hall Improvement Advisory Committee last week.

Committee chairman Dan Chane said the auditorium hadn't been the subject of much discussion yet. He also said he was preparing for the subject.

"I've been looking at the old town reports. At the town meeting I'll have a report on all the attempts to improve the acoustics of the auditorium," Chane said.

Apparently the auditorium has been underutilized since the 1887 construction of the Town Hall. Chane said the 1909 Town Meeting appropriated money and bought curtains for one end of the auditorium to improve acoustics.

The same town meeting also promised to buy curtains for the other end in a year or two. It never happened, Chane said.

Marcia Saltmarsh said the committee needs to have a strong presentation of auditorium plans this spring. "Overall, it can sell this (improvement) project," she said.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT
by
John W. O'Grady, M.D.
175 Washington Street, Winchester, MA
It is with sincere regret that after many years of enjoyable practice in this area, I must now stop taking any more new Obstetrical patients. This has become necessary because of the intolerable malpractice atmosphere. I find it economically impossible to continue to pay such exorbitantly high premiums and accept fees that are among the lowest in the nation.
This decision will take effect on March 6th. Any and all patients already registered on or prior to that date will be cared for throughout the remainder of the current pregnancy. Emergencies, of course, will be treated as they occur. My practice in Gynecology will continue unchanged.
This decision will continue in effect until Gov. Dukakis and the Legislature show evidence of good faith in a sincere effort to accomplish tort reform not just for the medical profession but for all the professions, industries, and private citizens who are affected by rapidly escalating premiums and irresponsible suits.

What To Do: Coping With Winter's End
What's On The Boards: Dynamic New Show By Bob Fosse Previews Here

What's On The Boards

Clockwise, from top left: Bob Fosse wrote, directed and choreographed Big Deal, the lively new musical now at Boston's Shubert Theatre; musical director Kurt Masur leads the Gewendhaus Orchestra of Leipzig in a performance of Brahms' first two symphonies at Symphony Hall at 8 p.m. Sunday, March 2; The Central Ballet of China, direct from Beijing, gives four performances at the Wang Center for the Performing Arts, Feb. 27 through March 2; The Canadian Brass presents a Symphony Hall concert at 8 p.m. Friday, Feb. 28.

Big Deal Is Big

Fosse's Big Deal Is Top Theatre

REVIEW

You're going to love Big Deal!

You'll be humming the tunes going into the theatre and signing its praises on the way out.

Written and directed by Fosse, the extravaganza features his trademark abstract jazz choreography and a score of two dozen familiar pop tunes of the '30's and '40's integrated into the storyline but with a new exciting sound—the pulsating beat of soft rock, funk, reggae, and gospel.

And the lavish talents of Loretta Devine, Cleavant Derricks, Alan Weeks and Desiree Coleman, a terrific dance corps, great up-tempo orchestrations by Ralph Burns masterfully executed by conductor Gordon Lowry Harrell — heavy on percussion and brass.

Vibrant lighting is provided by Jules Fisher, glittering costumes by Patricia Zipprodt, a functional two-tier set by Peter Larkin, and perfect sound by Abe Jacob—not a word is missed from any seat in the house.

The result? An evening of sheer entertainment, and, with reshaping, refining and reworking through March 15, Big Deal is bound to get even better!

True, the show has a thin plot and character development is surface, but it's hardly noticeable during the non-stop, furious up-tempo pace of the first act.

It's only mid-way in the second act,, when the action bogs down, that the show's weaknesses start to show.

During the heist scene, there's too much narrative for too long a stretch; the "dream" sequence should be cut back or cut out, and the two narrators, an intrusion, eliminated.

And, somewhere along the line, it would be nice to hear more of Devine and Coleman vocally.

Big Deal concerns a quintet of smalltime losers (the setting is Chicago in the '30's), a band of bungling petty thieves who plan to rob a pawn shop.

There's Charley (Derricks), a bad con artist and would-be boxer (38th in line for contention) and Willie (Weeks), a baby-toting father who can't take part in the heist if it's on a Thursday because he can't get a babysitter.

Then, there's Otis (Alde Lewis, Jr.), who's more concerned with feeding his stomach than stealing; Slick (Larry Marshall), whose prime concern is protecting his young sister Phoebe's (Coleman) virginity and Sunnyboy (Mel Johnson Jr.), who falls in love with Phoebe and would rather sell popcorn than take part in the robbery.

The pawn shop abuts an apartment where Lilly (Devine) works as a maid, and since wooing is Charley's "special talent," he sets out to meet and win over Lilly and get the apartment keys in the process.

But true love enters the picture and lifting the keys from Lilly would implicate her.

So, this troupe of comedians decide to do it the hard way, and it is riotous.

Devine sings up a storm with Life Is Just a Bowl of Cherries and I'm Just Wild About Harry.

Derricks excels with Charley My Boy; there's great fun with I Got a Feelin' You're Foolin', Happy Days Are Here Again and Ain't We Got Fun.

A show-stopping dance number near the close of Act One is marvelous. Weeks is terrific in the song and dance Everybody Loves My Baby; Dancin' Dan (Gary Chapman) and Shadows score with Me And My Shadow.

Coleman simply mesmerizes! She's a little girl with a big voice and astounding range; in her upper register, she sings like a nightingale.

Big Deal is all that and more!

Leipzig Orchestra Visits Boston

Musical Director Kurt Masur leads the Gewandhaus Orchestra of Leipzig in a performance of Brahms' first two symphonies at Symphony Hall at 8 p.m. Sunday, March 2 in the Wang Celebrity Series.

Founded in 1743, with J.S. Bach as Musical Director, the Gewandhaus Orchestra of Leipzig has long been revered as one of the world's finest musical ensembles.

Throughout its extraordinary history, the Gewandhaus has been an orchestra of unmatched innovation and brilliance, shaped by some of the most legendary musicians the world has known.

Past Music Directors include Felix Mendelssohn, Gustav Mahler, Bruno Walker and Wilheim Furtwangler, with Brahms, Berlioz, Wagner, Strauss and Tchaikovsky as guest conductors.

Today, it is Kurt Masur who has inherited this magnificent ensemble, and since 1970 has further enhanced and strengthened the Orchestra's international reputation.

Each year, Maestro Masur spends six to seven months leading the Gewandhaus, while the remainder is spent conducting prestigious European ensembles as the Berlin, Vienna, Czech, Leningrad, Stockholm and Royal Philharmonic Orchestras.

In America he has led the Boston and Chicago Symphonies, the Philadelphia and Cleveland Orchestras, and the New York Philharmonic.

Advanced Acting For Adults Begins

Starting in March, Theatre by the Sea offers a ten-week advanced acting class in scene study for adults.

The class, starting March 4, incorporates various scene study techniques designed to help the actor discover and develop his/her character.

Students work with scenes from Tennessee Williams's The Glass Menagerie and Anton Chekhov's The Sea Gull.

Along with basics such as characterization, focus, and objective, students are exposed to various improvizational exercises.

Scenes are studied from the perspective of the entire play.

Those interested in taking the course should have taken a basic acting class at another time or had suitable stage experience.

Classes meet Tuesday nights from 7 to 10:30 p.m. and run from March 4 to May 6.

The total cost for the course is $180; this price includes scripts for both plays.

The course is taught by TBS Associate Director Paul Mroczka, director of the theatre's new play reading program, The Foundry.

Boston Ballet Presents All New Midsummer Night

A Midsummer Night's Dream, a new ballet choreographed for the Boston Ballet by Bruce Wells, Associate Artistic Director, presents its world premiere at The Wang Center for the Performing Arts, March 5 through 9.

Completing the program will be Balanchine's Capriccio For Piano And Orchestra.

A ballet in two acts, A Midsummer Night's Dream is set to all of the Incidental Music by Mendelssohn written for Shakespeare's classic tale of mismatched lovers, magic spells, mischevious fairies and happy endings.

The best known numbers from the Mendelssohn score are the Overture, Nocturne, Scherzo, and Wedding March.

The action of the ballet takes place in a forest.

It is the tale of four star-crossed lovers whose affairs are further confused by the magic of Oberon and Titania, King and Queen of the fairies, and a group of amateur actors rehearsing a play in the woods.

The Winsor School chorus, soprano and alto soloists, and 30 children from the Boston School of Ballet perform in the production.

One of the set pieces — Titania's leafy bower — is being built in Las Vegas by craftsmen experienced in creating sets for extravagant casino spectacles and the Disney movie studios.

A Midsummer Night's Dream is a popular ballet theme that has been choreographed to many times before by such well known choreographers as Ashton, Balanchine, Spoerle and Neumeier.

Capriccio For Piano And Orchestra is the second section of Balanchine's Jewels, first premiered by the New York City Ballet in 1967 with dancers dressed as jewels — emeralds, rubies and diamonds, respectively — for each section.

It is a free-spirited, jazzy interpretation of its Stravinsky score and was premiered by the Boston Ballet in 1984.

The inspiration for the full length ballet came from Balanchine's meeting with Claude Arpels, the jeweler.

The couple and the soloist alternate in leading the ensemble.

Ticket prices are $28.50, 23.50, 19.50, 15.50 and 38.50.

To order tickets, call Chargit, 542-3600.

Highlights of the Juilliard's 1985/86 season include performances of the complete Beethoven String Quartets in Kansas City and New York's Carnegie Hall as well as in Boston, a visit to Japan, and two European tours.

The program for the March 7 concert features such Beethoven works as Quartet in C minor, Op. 18, No. 4; Quartet in E Flat Major, Op. 74, The Harp; Quartet in A minor, Op. 132.

What To Do

Story by Susan Curtis
Drawings by Carl Di Rocco

Bye, Bye Blahs!

Those dreadful winter blahs are here.

They now easily seep into the minds and souls of even the most ardent of winter fans.

Grey days threaten to stretch on forever and the white sparkle of snow, once a boon to behold, is today only dirty, cold, wet and wretched.

The holidays are long gone, the novelty of crispy, crunchy snow is over, the extra pounds — gained from holiday feasting and fireside sitting — have piled up and out.

Winter days can create a sense of isolation, says Ellen Widen, District Supervisor of the Farnily Service Association of Greater Boston, in Lexington.

Potentially poor weather impacts on the ability to make advance plans and travel safely.

Home, therefore, can become a harbor of solitude and decreased activity.

For some, it means a fuzzy dwindling of energy and interest.

For those experiencing any degree of psychological stress, this seemingly endless season is "the final straw," says Widen.

"Their coping ability becomes more taxed," she says.

"Whatever has been bothering them now becomes harder to deal with."

Widen, along with other experts in a variety of fields, advocates positive action as a major antidote to these muddy, freezy winter blahs.

Weapons

Social contact is an essential weapon.

Push away from the television, and consider doing more, she says.

Take a class, go to a museum, visit more with friends and neighbors.

Increased well-being — psychologically and physically — can be the best battleground for fighting these sneak attacks of listlessness.

"Many people gain 10 or more pounds over the winter, without even realizing it," says Sharon Chaplin of the Physician's Weight Loss Center in Arlington.

"It's easy to gain the weight. Winter clothes hide alot. You're not as conscious of your body. You're not as active," she says.

As spring clothes sprout in stores and ads through the Boston area, winter weight is noticed — alas — all too easily.

That unchecked blah feeling can then become even more deadly. New-found flab can justify even more snacking, more snoozing and more. . . weight.

Bulging Battle

Or, the blahs can be confronted as the historical, hysterical battle of the bulge again begins.

Chaplin estimates a 30 percent jump in new business during the next month, representing those people who now claim an extra 20 to 30 pounds.

A quick starvation solution, cautions Chaplin, may shed weight, but not for long. Bulging baggage can quickly return, bringing with it even more saddlebags.

Moderation, common sense and a change in thinking is the more productive approach to permanent weight loss, say Chaplin and her colleague, Nancy Peterson.

Sensible dieting generates a loss of approximatey one pound per week.

Weight warriors need to be aware of their own needs, behaviour, health and habits.

Keeping a journal on daily food intake can help as it reinforces proper eating and identifies negative nibbling — when, where and why it happens.

Looking better, of course, leads to feeling better for most folks.

Marie Lopinto of Winchester, a certified instructor for the Jackie Sorenson's Aerobic Dancing Programs, considers enjoyable exercise as a major ally toward increased wellbeing.

"It's very important to involve yourself in a program that allows you to go at your own pace," she says.

A program of strenuous maneuvers, performed by perfectly-sculpted, athletically able bodies can create defeat for the way-out-shape and more leisurely exerciser.

"You feel out of it," she says. "You feel forced to do things that are not good for your body now.

Being in a heterogeneous group, with each member working at his own pace, creates a positive, enjoyable environment.

"Classmates give each other the 'umph' and spirit to keep going," says Lopinto of the Sorenson aerobic dancing exercise classes.

One-two-three

Potential excersisers have other options.

Whatever activity is pursued — dancing, raquetball, jogging, biking, stretches on the living room rug — consistency is the key to any aerobic benefit.

Lopinto advocates 20-minute sessions three or more times each week. An additional 10 minutes invested in warm-up and cool-down exercises contributes further to exercise success.

'But I Can't Even Draw A Straight Line?' So What!

By Meredith Fife Day

Anyone who has watched with fascination, perhaps even a little envy, a painter totally immersed in concentration wield a brush until its marks gel into a portrait, still life, a landscape, or even abstraction, wonders.

How is it that some people have such talent, such a remarkable gift?

A sigh triggers a bit of yearning.

Somewhere in the recesses of the mind and emotions tugs the question, "How would it feel to create with a brush, a pencil, a piece of charcoal a picture of something loved, thought beautiful, or at the root of strong feelings?"

It is at this point that many people begin to talk themselves out of pursuing such artistic endeavor on their own.

"I can't draw a straight line."

"I was always a bit artistic, but never pursued painting or drawing because it didn't seem practical or 'cost effective.' "

It's time to drop all those preconceived notions and sign up for an art course.

Right now — winter blahs and long nights provide the time and space for it.

Jean Thomas, director of The Emerson Umbrella Center for the Arts in Concord, says, "Most people experience a winter slump.

" On the one hand, they don't want to get out, and on the other they know 'cabin fever' is setting in, and this is the very time they should.

"Enjoyment," says Thomas, "is the number one motive for adults who sign up for courses at The Emerson Umbrella."

Thomas points out that self improvement and fulfillment are also high on the list as course enrollees' motivation.

"The willingness to do something good for oneself, to believe in oneself and one's ability to learn at any point in life," she says, "is inevitably rewarding."

There are other rewards as well.

An art course will set up structured time for tuning in to each individual's own visual sensitivity and learning fundamentals that will aid in personal expression.

Learning To See: An Introduction To Drawing is the most popular of the visual arts courses at the Emerson Umbrella.

In this, and in any sound art course, students learn that there is no "right" or "wrong" way to paint clouds or geranium leaves, or to draw folds in cloth.

Each person has his or her own way of seeing and interpreting the world, and a good teacher knows that.

The lessons to be learned are basic: what makes a composition hold together and keeps the eye from jumping all over the picture's surface; or, what keeps color sparkling and out of murky, muddy waters.

Learn how value and tonal changes can help emphasize what is most important in the picture; how line can lead the eye across the page or canvas and provide visual rhythm; how to carve out space on a flat picture plane, or create volumes which push right out of that plane.

Now, about that straight line.

No good or great art was ever created by a mere hand.

Art comes from the mind and soul and spirit, from dreams and imagination.

Art is a response to the world — both the world outside and one's own interior world, and has been created by people whose facility and motor control cover a wide range of abilities.

Lots of them could not even draw a straight line.

Besides The Emerson Umbrella, The Cambridge Art Assn., Newton Arts Center, Kendall Center for the Arts in Belmont and the DeCordova Museum in Lincoln are among area arts groups and museums offering courses to adults.

Private lessons are also available. Check classified listings and local bulletin boards.

What To Do

A Wheel Deal For New Biker

By Sarah Fine Bronstein

Sarah Fine Bronstein conquers those wheels.

"The all laughed at Christopher Columbus when he said the world was 'round; they all laughed when Edison discovered sound..."

So go lyrics written by George and Ira Gershwin.

They all laughed when I said "I've just learned to ride a bicycle!"

Chris Columbus discovered the New World; this grey-haired, mid-life woman discovered the new world of cycling.

I am challenging the time-worn cliche "you can't teach an old dog new tricks."

Although I'd much prefer being compared to a Joan Collins as an example of mid-life success, than the "old dog!"

Why should anyone laugh at me for wanting to ride a bicycle successfully?

After falling from my tricycle at the age of four, and having my lip stitched, my parents were so traumatized by this experience, they gave away my tricycle.

Growing up as a severe asthmatic, my athletic options were limited to swimming, walking and dancing.

Gym in grammer school was a nightmare the black gym bloomers didn't help my lack of self-confidence.

In 1968, when I was a young Watertown mother, I purchased a two-wheel, 3-speed bike, certain that with ownership would come riding ability.

It did not happen.

So, since 1968, the bicycle has been stored in the cellar, along with the off-season clothing and memorabilia.

One Saturday afternoon in Harvard Square during late August, I accepted a local newspaer from a street hawker.

As I was leafing through the paper, I spotted an advertisement: "bicycle school."

Aha, I thought: perhaps a bicycle teacher at long last!

A person who encouraged me

Maple Sugar Search

Old Sturbridge Village is one place where they tap maple trees for maple sugaring.

Many country folk sense the right time to herald in the maple sugar tradition.

It's a funny time of year — not quite spring and yet the worst of winter is, hopefully, tucked away.

"The way the sap moves in a tree this time of year is a mystery. There are a number of theories," he says.

Sap runs for about a month, usually with the starting in late Feb. The ideal weather is above freezing during the day yet below freezing at night.

According to Tortis, people in this area can try to capture sap from any sugar maple, the most commonly used maple tree.

To "tap" the tree, a hole - about ½" in diameter, is drilled in the tree. The hole should extend into the tree for 2 to 3 inches.

Then a tin spout or other instrument able to conduct sap is inserted. Most hardware stores carry such spouts, says Tortis.

The sap then drips down into a bucket or milk jug.

"The closer you can get the containers to the spout, the better," he says. Otherwise, sap can be lost through spills.

And sap is precious.

To produce one gallon of syrup, one needs approximately 40 gallons of sap, Tortis says.

Sap is a light colored liquid which, when boiled down, becomes maple syrup. Further boiling causes the syrup to become granulated sugar.

Green Grows The Garden

"You can grow anything you want," says Keith Hutchins, Manager of the greenhouses and farm stand at Wilson's Farms, "providing you have good light and time it properly.

"Look at seed packets. They tell you how long seeds need to germinate."

Impatiens, geraniums and coleus are good sill starters, he says, adding that very sunny spots can also produce petunias.

Hutchins advises season jumpers to use egg cartons as the first homes for seedlings.

Potting soil, not garden dirt, is recommended as it offers a safer, sterilized environment.

Holes can be poked in the bottom of each egg cup to ensure adequate drainange.

As plants sprout, they can be easily moved to larger pots, and then, with spring sunshine waiting, sometime in late May or early June, the seedlings can be planted in the outside garden.

In early April, tomato plants can be started indoors.

"For a really fast headstart, use a large bag of potting soil — about a 25-pound bag," says Hutchins.

"Lay it on its side and cut a three to four inch hole in it. Start the tomato plants there."

When the weather warms up, the plants can be easily transplanted in the garden.

For those without gardens, the soil bags, home to blooming tomato plants, can be placed in containers on a patio or terrace.

What About Art? By Meredith Fife Day

The painting, Arrival Home, a oil and collage on canvas is one of Bill Barrell's large cast of happy smiling characters now on display at the Newton Arts Center. Barrell is one of five New York expressionist painters whose work is featured here through March 7.

Feast Of Paint In Newton

The painters are all prominent artists whose work is held in high critical regard and is included among important collections.

Four have ties with the Boston area through Provincetown where they have studied, taught, worked and exhibited over the past 20 years.

It is evident the five painters have arrived at their vision through intense personal searching over a period of time, as opposed to hopping on the neo-expressionist bandwagon of the '80s.

Embracing the emotional and visceral impact of paint and its application, as well as a full color and textural range, these paintings are always alive and never glib or crass.

Edvins Strautmanis is the only one exhibiting in this area for the first time. His five works hang together in one area of the gallery.

Vigorous paint handling is a common denominator. Strautmanis's paint actually looks as if it has been whipped, and his broad sweeps are filled with a vitality and tension that keep the entire surface activated.

Color, always rich and knowingly handled, moves in Who Knows, from the palest, delicate pink to the purple-blue of the sky at its most regal nocturnal hour.

Imaginary Skull of Goya VIII is the only work of Strautmanis's that contains recognizable imagery.

The enormous skull emerges from thick, heavy globs of black, white and pink paint with the eye and mouth cavities taking on expression that wavers somewhere between a gallows laugh and a scream.

Surfaces become their own world, so thick and dense that they look as if they have been kiln baked.

Raku pottery comes to mind as charred spots, sub-surface textures and dark, somber, elegant color draw the viewer into these paintings.

In Cell Dance, Milder sets up a kind of doleful rhythm with blue and green lines drawn at opposing angles into the at once murky and beautiful earth pink caked-on surface.

The only one of the five artists that uses thin paint and washes, Cruz achieves a sense of texture by fine line drawings, like graffitti, to pattern and cover the surfaces of his canvases.

In Fire Bird and Rain Dog a big red bird with spread wings and bared teeth hovers amidst the fine lined jagged borders and drawings — all like images on the inside of a cave where tribal people might depict their gods, their beasts, their dreams, fears, shrines, their religion.

Animals walk and run and fly about in Robert Beauchamp's paintings too.

A wobbly pink snake levitates over three clownish fellows whose hands are like colorfully-mittened whirring propellers. The snake's tongue becomes two comically stringy arrows.

Though the exact species is slightly difficult to pinpoint, all Beauchamp's creatures have life, color and more than a little humor.

Bill Barrell's paintings are full of light and activity and smiles.

Liza And Friends dance through a maroon ground. Liza accepts the limelight gracefully with her white-nude flesh and her aura making clear that she is the subject of this painting and the attention of her costumed and contortionist friends.

The light in Barrell's Dog Head is as soft and quiet and beautiful as that of a Piero.

His House Painter who wears a wide brimmed red hat atop his putty colored face and stands with his brush in the middle of what appears to be an entire lively and linear neighborhood is surely a self portrait.

The exhibit continues through March 7.

The Newton Arts Center is located at 61 Washington Park in Newtonville and is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. Call 964-3424.

Banning Those Winter Blahs

Another necessary ingredient, she adds, is fun.

If an exercise program is not enjoyable, it can be abandoned — leaving body and mind more prey to those insidious, self-defeating winter woes.

And then there's Yolanda's.

Here spring colors, lush tropical plants and many pampering pleasures caress winter-weary souls and improve weather-worn appearances.

Hourly exercise classes, an indoor pool, facials, manicures, pedicures, whirlpool, and pastel shades of spring linens firm up good intentions.

Wretched winter is safely locked outside, letting blah-busters indulge in warmth, fitness, rewarding behaviour, and a splash of self-improvement from the top of the head to the tip of the toes.

Splurging

Yolanda's smorgasbord of service is offered at affordable rates, ranging from a one-day splurge through annual membership in the spa.

Even the worst of weather is no excuse.

For an additional fee, women from this metropolitan area are whisked away from winter to this haven in, no less, a sparkling snow-white stretch limousine.

Fitness and improved physical appearance can be sweet spoils in the war against those lazy, lumpy feelings at winter's end.

Other accomplishments can also be had.

Focus away from these dreary, weary days and dig inside to define a long-lost dream.

Learn Something

Learn something new.

Sarah Fine Bronstein of Watertown discovered the magic of bicycling after years of avoidance and excuses.

Other people may harbor a secret interest in learning to paint.

Jean Thomas, Director of the Emerson Umbrella in Concord advocates lessons at any age, any level.

And those chores, so easy to ignore, are impervious to weather which places one inside anyway.

Isn't it time, before the purchase of those shiny, summery fashions, to clean out those closets?

Get rid of those things not worn. Many thrift shops welcome clothing and household articles and provide donors with valid tax-deduction statements.

And what a heady delight to toss away those strange items and bitter reminders of winter — the four single, ratty, wooly, left mittens or the single rubber boot felt unchewed by the dog.

Death And. . .

And then there is the realization of one negative factor associated with spring: income tax.

Dig out those records, receipts, calendars, mortgage statements and all those tiny pieces of paper tucked away for this task.

What about assembling a family photo album?

Then, there is another successful strategy for beating those blasted winter blahs.

Cheat

Cheat. Rush spring.

Visit greenhouses and indulge in the smell and visual massage of spring flowers.

The Habitat Institute in Belmont currently hosts a Flower Show, stretching through two greenhouses.

Here, color assaults the visitor. More than 80 percent of the plants on view are in bloom at a single time.

Orchids, Easter lilies, violets, cyclamen, gardenias and azaleas are among the show-offs at this exhibit which runs through Easter.

Sring seekers can plan on a show of color, beginning in late March, at the Arnold Arboretum in Jamaica Plain.

Melons, strawberries, grapes, nectarines, asparagus and broccoli lead the line-up.

People seek out these spring stars at this time of year for their novelty, but, adds Wilson, high sales also reflect the high quality of these imported items.

Facing the outside, now covered in its gray and cold mantle, is bearable when armed with garden plans for spring and summer.

Rejuvenating an old garden or designing a new one?

Home gardeners may attend an all-day symposium sponsored by the New England Wild Flower Society, which treats the topic, Landscaping with Wildflowers.

The program is slated from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, April 5, at Bentley College.

Home gardeners may also purchase wildflowers from the Society. More than 150 species of native plants are propagated and sold here.

The Society maintains the Garden in the Woods, another outdoor garden soon to display spring buds and beauties.

Learn how to properly prune ornamental bushes in a workshop, Pruning Made Easy, to be held at the Concord Antiquarian Museum from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, March 8.

Using the museum grounds for practice, participants can learn the basic techniques of pruning.

These stubborn and stark days, slated to linger here for three or more weeks, need not win the war of winter woes.

Social, physical, and mental activities, focused toward spring's renewal of color and spirit, can push the blahs into a dark, dusty corner where they belong.

Maple Sugaring

347-3362.

At the Massachusetts Audubon Society's Ispwich River Wildlife Sanctuary, in Topsfield, tours of the sugaring-off operation are conducted Saturday and Sunday, March 1 and 2, 8 and 9, and 15 and 16.

Tours begin Saturdays at 10 a.m., 12:30 p.m., and 2:30 p.m.; and the two tours Sundays start at 12:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m.

Participants tour the sanctuary trails to observe and identify maple trees, learn the techniques of tapping, and the lore and legends of maple sugaring.

The final stop on the tour is the sugar house where the sap is boiled into syrup in the new evaporator.

Call for reservations at 887-9264, Tuesday through Friday, between 9 a.m. and noon.

Biking, Finally!

with her positive words and reassuring hands.

Susan began by removing the bicycle pedals and telling me "Act as though you were using a skooter."

I replied: "Susan, I've never been on a skooter! You forget, I am one of the most non-athletic people around."

Yet, after approximately eight private lessons, I was riding without her physical support.

It was so miraculous to me that I brought out my small camera and had Susan take my picture while I rode!

There I was, peddling around the Hosmer School playground—an ecstatic grin on my face while yelling "Yahoo!"

I felt just like Peter Pan—as though I were flying!

As Ira Gershwin wrote in concluding the song composed with brother George: "Ho, ho, ho—who's got the last laugh now?"

I've got the last laugh, for learning to ride a bike, as in learning anything new at any age, helps one maintain the ability and interest to welcome new challenges and expand one's horizons.

UPDATING THE MARKET

You may have heard of the nearly unbelievable increase in property values recently. Prices of most homes west of Boston actually increased about 2% per MONTH during the last year!

Professional appraisers all agree, however (and Realtors substantiate this) that this record-breaking inflation of house prices has slowed down since the start of this past June.

Presently, property values are staying relatively even. What does this mean to you? If a house like yours sold for $180,000 yours is not likely to sell for more — at this time.

Keep in mind, however, that real estate trends change rapidly! We make it our business to keep abreast of all changes that affect your property value, from inflation factor to mortgage rate, to the number of homes presently for sale that might compete with yours. Even if you've had a market analysis recently, ask us for an update.

Louise Ruma-Ivers is the immediate past President of the Greater Boston Women's Council of Realtors, and a past Director of the Marketing Institute for the Greater Boston Real Estate Board. She is a member of the Arlington Historic Districts Committee.

Dot Stein is a Vice President of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board and a Director of its Multiple Listing Service. She was a long-time Arlington Town Meeting member, and a member of the Arlington School Committee.

Wanted

Blackpowder Shooters

IF YOU think putting holes in paper is about as exciting as watching the traffic lights change, consider team shooting at breakable targets against a stopwatch. The 10th Massachusetts Battery is looking for more people. We are part of the North-South Skirmish Association, a 4,000 member competitive shooting organization where the shortest elapsed time wins. Units take their names in honor of actual Civil War regiments and members shoot original or reproduction weapons of the 1861-65 period. The 10th Battery competes with .58 cal rifled muskets, caplock breechloading carbines, and an 1,866 lb. full size 3 inch rifled muzzleloading cannon. Yes, there's some paper punching too for those interested, but the real excitement is in the rapid fire team events where you shoot at flower pots, hanging water filled coffee cups, cyranne tiles and 32 clay pigeons on a left cardboard backer at 50 yds. We welcome all shooters regardless of experience. Our team members live all over from Maine to Rhode Island to New York but more are from eastern Massachusetts. Audi Remanufactured Parts. Built Like New. Priced For Less.

Remanufactured parts are better than "rebuilt" or "reconditioned" parts. They may even be better than original parts since technical advances are often incorporated into the remanufacturing process.

Each unit — alternator, water pump or one of over 300 other parts — is disassembled, cleaned and tested to exacting standards. During reassembly, parts that do not meet these standards are replaced. Then the assembly is tested again to make sure it works as well as the original in every way.

Our remanufactured parts carry the same 6-month/6,000-mile limited warranty as new Audi Parts.* The only thing that isn't like new is the price.

*Ask for Autobahn or Audi Limited Warranty at our Parts Department.
